Palmer's branch store had an attractive St. Patrick's day window. The display included a huge wreath of Killarney roses, arranged in water in glass tubes. To the left of the center of the window a mammoth shamrock leaf made up of tiny thumb pots of growing shamrocks was a special feature. The groundwork of the window was formed

MONEY IN SENSATION SWEET PEAS

MR. GROWER:—

If you have a house to plant this coming season and haven't quite decided what to put in it, perhaps it would pay you to consider the SENSATION SWEET PEA, Orchid Flowering.

Number of Carnation plants to fill this house, if it should be 50 x 150 ft., would be at least 7,000, their value $350. If they cut 12 flowers to a plant and average 3 cents per flower, the house would bring you $2,520.

Now, if this same house was planted in ORCHID FLOWERING SENSATION SWEET PEAS it would take $150 worth of seed for eight rows. They would give you $25 a day from November 1st to March 1st at the very lowest average, thus making a total for those four months of $3,000 against a cost of $150 for a pound of seed.

After March 1st, by letting the Peas stay, you would get at least $1,000 more if you did not want the house for a Spring crop.

With the Carnations, in order to get $2,500 out of the same house, you would have to keep them until June 15th or the entire season. Also, you can safely say that 1914 Carnations did not average 3 cents.

Now, Mr. Grower, which is the most expensive, Sweet Peas at $150 a house or Carnations at $350 a house?

We are introducing two colors: First is color of Orchid-Flowering Xmas Pink. Second is a good, bright scarlet, same shade as King Edward (Spencer), both producing flowers up to 16-in. stem. The scarlet is not absolutely true, as it throws about 20 per cent various shades of red, but all are good marketing colors.

SUPPLY IS LIMITED. Let us have your order now to avoid disappointment.

Orders will be filled in rotation. Seed sent out about the 1st of July.

PRICE: $12.00 per Ounce, $150.00 per Pound.

New York, Jan. 20th, 1915.

Newman & Legg, Manasquan, N. J.

Dear Sirs: In regard to your variety of "Orchid-flowering Grandiflora Sweet Peas" which you have been shipping us since early November, we repeat this stock is great. You will find that it brought nearly double the money of any other such early variety, and our best customers jumped at it; we never had enough to go around. You will notice that for some time the Peas were bringing more per flower than the Carnations you were shipping. If you care to have us do so, we will send you the opinions of some of our customers who, as we have mentioned before, greatly appreciate such stock.

Very truly yours,
HENSHAW & FENRICH.

Philadelphia, Feb. 24, 1915.

Messrs. Newman & Legg, Manasquan, N. J.

Gentlemen: I have just returned from a trip and find your communication regarding your new Sweet Pea, Sensation. I therefore take pleasure in making the following remarks regarding the same. Having watched the growth and development of this beautiful new variety, known as Sensation, I would say that it is well worthy of the name.

It has the following good points:

Stem—up to 16 inches. Size of Bloom—1½ to 2 inches. Earliness of Bloom—Over any other large-flowering variety, having small foliage, which allows freedom of light during dark, Winter days and which accounts for the extreme abundance of bloom during November, December, January and February. Color—Is the very best for commercial or private use.

(Signed) CHAS. AL. GOUDY,
With Henry F. Michell Co., of Philadelphia.

"Woodside," Oakhurst, N. J.

Newman & Legg, Manasquan, N. J.

Gentlemen: I wish to say in regard to your new Orchid-flowering Sweet Pea Sensation, that it is the finest Winter-flowering variety that it has ever been my pleasure to have seen. I have examined it growing, from time to time, and have no hesitation in saying that it has a great future in store for it.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE MASSON,
Superintendent to Fred'k Frelinghuysen.

PLEASE NOTE—Secretary Elberon Horticultural Society.

Newman & Legg, Shadow Lawn, West End, N. J.

Dear Sirs: Your Sensation Sweet Pea is a marvel. I have never seen anything to equal it. Certainly nothing can compare with its earliness, beauty of color, length of stem and size of flowers. I predict a great future for this variety commercially, and private estates will find it a necessity as it becomes known. I congratulate the originators and wish them success in discovering more new varieties like Sensation.

Respectfully, D. C. KELLEY,
Superintendent to J. B. Greenhut Estate.

Georgiancourt Greenhouses, Lakewood, N. J., Feb. 23, 1915.

Newman & Legg, Manasquan, N. J.

Dear Sirs: In regard to your new Winter-flowering Sweet Pea, "Sensation," I would say it is rightly named. It was a pleasure to me to see it growing with its remarkable freedom of bloom, long stems and pleasing colors. Also one of the greatest points in its favor over other varieties is its extreme earliness. I am sincere in saying that I wish "Sensation" and your firm all success in introducing this great pea.

(Signed) JOS. MILLS,
Supt. to Geo. J. Gould, Esq.

of shamrocks and green carnations and in the background was an immense Irish flag.

The firm of Smith & Pritchard, of Niagara Falls, has dissolved partnership and Mr. Smith is now conducting the business, with the able assistance of Wm. MacKearnin, of Buffalo.

White Bros., of Medina, N. Y., are cutting excellent carnations, which are disposed of in this city.

Miss Ruby Marks, of the W. J. Palmer force, has been ill from a severe cold, but is on the way to recovery.

J. H. Rebstock was busy with funeral work last week and his trade for St. Patrick's day was large. He sold a great many green carnations.

S. A. Anderson's "4 o'clock box sale" is winning favor with the flower-buying public. Every day at 4 o'clock quantities of these boxes of spring flowers are put on sale in the window, and a large sign in the shape of a clock, with the hands pointing to the hour of 4, calls attention to the special sale. Directly underneath the face of the clock a sample box of the 4 o'clock variety is hung. It certainly has an effect on the passers-by, for the boxes are selling well.

K. M. Cantlin is showing a new line of baskets and finds business good. She offered some novel St. Patrick's favors, which sold well.

Patience, perseverance and pluck do a great deal toward bringing success, and the fruits of these virtues have been realized in the establishment of Mrs. K. Raeker, on Elmwood avenue, for, since the opening of this attractive flower shop nearly a year ago, business has been increasing and the circle of friends and patrons has grown to gratifying proportions. The windows are always inviting, and when joined with the winsome smile of the owner they become irresistible. Funeral work, artistically done, has formed the bulk of the business for the last fortnight.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Seldom have the retail stores presented so bright and elegant an appearance as now. Bulbous stock shows up finely and there is also a fine cut of roses, both indoors and out. St. Patrick's day brought the usual—or, rather, unusual—demand for white carnations for dyeing, as well as a call for large quantities of shamrock. The Hibernian bank gave away plants to all comers, distributing many thousands in this way, while large numbers were shipped out of town by the wholesalers. The wholesale stores have all been exceedingly busy. Funeral work continues brisk and there have been a considerable number of social affairs that called for cut flowers and plants.

Various Notes.

Luis F. Carrillo, the well known orchid grower, collector and expert of Mamaroneck, N. Y., has been visiting Los Angeles and San Diego. He left March 16 for San Francisco. This California trip of Mr. Carrillo is getting to be a regular habit and it looks as though some of these days he will turn in the return part of his ticket.

A fine new Studebaker 1915 truck is the latest addition to the equipment of Staiger & Mundwiler's nursery. This will greatly facilitate the handling of stock from the Lomita nursery to the city, as well as expediting city delivery.

George Watson, of Boyle Heights, had a big cut of white carnations for St. Patrick's day—fine stock, with perfect stems. He has about 40,000 of the new variegated Benora, which, he says, meets with a fine demand. Mr. Watson also says he will probably cut out roses entirely after this season.

Probably never in the history of the place has H. W. Turner's stock looked so well as now. He has a magnificent Easter crop coming on and there is not a mildewed leaf, apparently, in the whole range. Just to show the boys that he has not lost his capacity for hustle, Mr. Turner and his crew wrecked the old Haerle place and shipped the whole outfit, including about 1,000 boxes of glass and the big steam boiler, to Montebello, a distance of sixteen miles by road, in about seven days. Surprising how these old, grizzly veterans keep their end up.

The writer has visited the Redondo Floral Co. on two separate occasions and seen Mr. Borden without a cigar working, which leads him to believe that the genial A. F. has really given up smoking—for a time.

F. R. Hills grew large quantities of shamrock in small pots for St. Patrick's day and reports a good clean-up on it.

C. W. McKellar, the well known wholesaler of Chicago, has been visiting this city, San Diego and San Francisco. Mrs. McKellar accompanies him, and when last heard of they were headed toward Ocean Park, to renew acquaintance with Leonard Kill.

The new propagating houses at Howard & Smith's are in splendid shape now and are constantly kept full of young stock and cuttings. Hundreds of thousands of the most popular kinds and novelties for their catalogue trade are turned out here annually, the aim of the firm being to keep right in the front rank for novelty and quality.

Wright's Flower Shop is showing some extra fine rhododendrons.

The Roserie reports business as fairly good, especially in the line of funeral work.

C. Gutting, of the Superior Nursery Co., says business is fine in small plants of all kinds, both vegetable and flower. He annually grows large quantities of these, to keep his houses working after the Christmas stock is cleared.

Elgert & Martin, of Covina, are doubling the quantity of their new pink carnation, Mrs. Welsh, this season, owing to the excellent demand. It is a splendid shipper and holds its color well. The L. A. Floral Co. handles the entire cut. H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

San Francisco wholesalers note that the shipping business is rather on the decline, especially to distant points, and the violet shipping season is expected practically to close with Easter. Locally, a great many flowers are being sold, but there is more stock coming in than the market can well take care of. Conditions in the retail trade are rather mixed, as the principal feature is decorative work for exposition affairs, which calls for a great deal of stock but is not widely distributed. Most of the large florists have had some of this work, but small sales are limited and the street venders, whose number has been greatly augmented this year, get more than their normal share.

Good, long-stemmed Beauties are scarce, but short stock is in ample supply, and all other roses are offered in excess of demand. The trade seems to be turning rather to the novelties, while short roses suffer greatly in competition with bulbous stock. Orchids, especially cattleyas, which have been in excessive supply for the last month or more, have suddenly become quite scarce. Much attention has been attracted of late by the appearance of exceptionally fine gardenias, but the supply of ordinary stock is rather heavy. Valley is good, but does not clean up readily. Daffodils bring a little better prices this week, but are still too plentiful, and a rather large late crop is expected of both daffodils and freesias. Darwin tulips are appearing and promise to be popular. Really good carnations are scarce, but there is plenty of inferior stock. Anemones find some popularity, and many native wild flowers are effectively used in basket work. Scotch heather also finds more demand than ever this season. Yellow primulas are still scarce, but there is a fine cut of obconica. Offerings of sweet peas are increasing rapidly, but are still rather light.

Spring Flower Show.

The attention of local florists has been centered on the spring flower show, given under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society in conjunction with the department of horticulture of the exposition. The show opened at the Palace of Horticulture in the exposition grounds March 19. With the aid of the exposition management it was possible to offer an attractive list of prizes and exhibits came from most of the more important factors in the trade around San Francisco bay, as well as from several amateurs, the competition being open to all. A large space was secured in the center of the Palace of Horticulture, enclosed in a handsome arched lattice wall, well designed to set off the exhibits. The space available for visitors was crowded beyond the limit of comfort. Among the more notable exhibits may be mentioned several by Ferrari Bros., who took first prize, a gold medal, for a collection of flowering bulbs in flats and pots, arranged for effect, and also took first prize in some of the tulip displays. Fine collections of bulbs in flats also were shown by San Mateo county, and by Pelicano, Rossi & Co., who took second and third prizes, respectively, in this class. E. James, of Oakland, brought a fine collection of Primula obconica, taking first prize, while H. Plath took second. Schwerin Bros. brought a beautiful exhibit of rhododendrons, which took first prize for the best six, and were awarded second for the best twelve azaleas, Ferrari Bros. being first in this class. Schwerin Bros. also took the first prizes for collections of cut hyacinths and tulips. Some of the exhibits not entered for prizes were also striking, especially a collection of cut roses by the E. W. McLellan Co., flowering shrubs by the MacRorie-McLaren Co., and a miscellaneous collection of bulbs by C. C. Morse & Co.

The manager of the show was H. Plath, with J. R. Fotheringham as his assistant.

Various Notes.

Bulbous stock planted by various exhibitors in the horticultural gardens of the exposition, near the Palace of Horticulture, is beginning to blossom nicely, while the courts and spaces around other buildings have been a mass of color for the last week with bulbous and a few annual flowers, and the pink flowers are beginning to appear on the famous "living wall" around the grounds. Among the exhibit plots, in the Netherlands plot on the west side of the Palace of Horticulture the hyacinths are all in bloom and the tulips are just beginning. Just south of the palace is a handsome plot of Gesneriana major tulips from the Pacific Coast Bulb Co., of Santa Cruz, but elsewhere in the horticultural gardens there is as yet little bloom, except in the corner east of the lumbermen's buildings, occupied by C. C. Morse & Co., who are showing some rather notable things in the way of bulbous stock. As a backing for the plot, which occupies one-third of an acre, the newer varieties of Spencer sweet peas are being planted on the English cordon system.

Schwerin Bros., at Visitation Valley, in the southeast corner of San Francisco, have been bringing in a large crop of fine hyacinths.

Fred Burki, of Pittsburgh, is making a visit to San Francisco, accompanied by his family.

Hogan, Kooyman & Co. have been making numerous shipments of sweet peas to florists at outside points around

The Market.

There was little increase in the demand for flowers due to St. Patrick's day; in fact, this saint's day is not extensively observed here. Only a few stores displayed potted shamrocks. The usual number of green tinted blooms were sold.

The demand for funeral offerings continues good. The request "Please omit flowers" is seldom seen in obituary notices and when it does appear often is disregarded. As the season advances the call for roses is getting lighter. Potted tulips are plentiful and good. A fair supply of excellent carnations is coming in and is cleaned up without loss. There is a full supply of cut callas and Easter lilies. The azaleas shown are quite fully bloomed and there may be a shortage of prime plants at Easter. Orchids are in full supply, Cattleya Trianæ leading. There is an oversupply of cinerarias. Outdoor daffodils are abundant and cheap. Spring work on lawns and parkings is being rushed and the nurserymen are busy. The days are warm, with showers now and then, and no firing is needed except for tender plants or for forcing.

cial report of the secretary showed that the condition of the treasury was quite satisfactory. It was decided to omit the floral contest for amateurs this year and the committee, of which J. G. Bacher was chairman, was relieved from further duty.

Henry Clemens, the sweet pea specialist, of Newberg, gave an interesting talk on the origin and production of the nine varieties of sweet peas which he exhibited. He showed some excellent specimens of eight varieties of orchid-flowering and one of the grandiflora type. He has a range of greenhouses set on a slope, with good ventilation and exceptionally free from disease and pests. He is hybridizing and selecting many plants and expects to produce some new colors and improved varieties. He has about twenty acres devoted to the production of sweet pea seed. A. J. Clarke called attention to the fact that Mr. Clemens is the pioneer grower to attempt the production of sweet pea seed on a commercial scale in Oregon.

Julius Dossche, chairman of the committee on rose festival matters, presented plans of a festival center located on the two park blocks between Salmon and Madison streets. President Van Kirk explained that these plans were prepared by Mr. Dossche and had been accepted by the rose festival managers, who had appointed Mr. Dossche their representative in charge of the festival center, and that it was now up to the Portland growers and retailers to act. The plan comprises eight large beds, which will be filled with stock bought by the rose festival managers. Sixteen spaces of varying sizes are to be allotted to exhibitors of growing plants, who will be paid at the rate of 7½ cents per square foot for supplying the exhibits. Sixteen sheltered booths are to be allotted to communities that wish to make displays of roses and plants, for which substantial prizes are offered. The judging is to be done by representatives of the Portland Floral Society and a central area allotted to a display to be made under the name of the society. A space adjoining the floral center will be used as a musical center. The members of the society were greatly pleased with the report of Mr. Dossche and nearly all the exhibit spaces were subscribed for at once. From the enthusiasm shown at the meeting it is evident that every member of the society will do his best to make the floral center a conspicuous success.

While refreshments were being served, President Van Kirk announced that the prospects are growing brighter

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

R. C. Meneray, the old-time nurseryman of Council Bluffs, Ia., has gone into business for himself. He is doing business at his residence, 208 Stutsman street, Council Bluffs.

On the entertainment committee which is to give a good time to the members of the Florida Horticultural Society at its annual meeting, in Tampa, April 14 to 16, is Collins Gillett, of the Buckeye Nurseries, Tampa.

The tract recently reported in this column as being sold by W. A. Peterson, proprietor of Peterson's Nursery, is now being put on the market by the subdividers as Peterson Woods addition to Chicago. The tract of seventy-eight acres, which adjoined Peterson Nursery, is reported to have brought the nurseryman $160,000.

PHOENIX ACCOUNTS CLOSED.

The court has ordered a distribution of the assets of the Phoenix Nursery Co., and Receiver John Y. Chisholm has sent checks to the creditors for about one-fifth of their claims. The real estate sold for $28,000, and the mortgage on the land amounted to over $15,000. After paying all expenses and costs, there remained $11,095.68, and unpaid claims of $56,852.26, making possible a distribution of 19.51 per cent.

ELIZABETH NURSERY HAS FIRE.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the packing sheds and two storage warehouses of the Elizabeth Nursery Co., Elizabeth, N. J., during the night of March 20. The loss is estimated at from $25,000 to $30,000. The reflection of the fire could be seen for many miles around and attracted a large crowd. Marzella Gerada, the night watchman, discovered the fire in one of the warehouses and sent in an alarm. When it was seen that the Saybrook fire department was unable to stay the progress of the fire, assistance was asked from Elizabeth. A quantity of materials and stock stored in the warehouses was lost. It was thought for a time that the greenhouses might be destroyed and when it was seen that the other buildings were doomed attention was directed to these. The wind favored the firemen or these, too, might have been burned. Some valuable trees that were planted near the warehouses were so badly scorched that they will probably die. The general manager of the nursery, E. Runyon, was asked to return home at once in a cablegram sent to him in Cuba, where he is at present. An investigation into the cause of the fire will be made by the police.

STOCKHOLDERS MUST PAY.

A contest, begun in 1909, over the double liability of stockholders under the old Ohio law was ended when the Ohio Supreme court March 9 upheld the decision of Judge O. S. Brown, formerly on the bench of the Montgomery County Court of Common Pleas, in the case of J. H. Billman and other stockholders of the Albaugh Nursery Co., of Dayton, vs. the Fourth National Bank of Dayton. Six years ago the bank obtained a judgment on notes amounting to over $23,000, and there were about $15,000 in claims of other creditors at the time the nursery company failed. Ten lawyers presented the case of their respective sides when the case came up for trial in 1909, the bank holding that the stockholders were liable, under the old double liability law, for an amount equal to their investment, and the stockholders maintaining that the law was no longer in effect. The trial court decided that, inasmuch as the judgment was given prior to 1903, when the double liability amendment went into effect, the stockholders were liable. All but about six out of sixty paid their share of the obligation, but these half dozen carried the case to the Supreme court, where they have again met defeat and must now pay, between them, about $8,000.

Enclosed you will find some advertising matter. We have a surplus, and we believe IF ANYONE CAN HELP US MOVE IT, YOU CAN.—Atlantic Nursery Co., Berlin, Md., D. W. Babcock, Mgr., January 30, 1915.

Secretary John Hall has sent out his folder telling what a fine time members will have there and urging all nurserymen, old members and prospective ones, to send in their membership fees of $5 each.

The Hotel Cadillac has been selected as convention headquarters. When the association met in Detroit eight years ago, it was at this hotel. This is what the manager has to say in regard to accommodations and prices:

"Our rates for single rooms, without bath, are $2 and $2.50 per day; double rooms, without bath, $3.50 to $4; single rooms, with bath, $2.50 to $4; double rooms, with bath, $4 to $6 per day. These prices are under European plan.

"We will furnish our American plan dining-room for your meetings; the banquet hall for exhibits; Flemish room for committee meetings, and parlors for the secretary and treasurer, all free of charge.

"Harry L. Zeese, Manager."

T. I. Ilgenfritz is working hard as chairman of the committee on arrangements, and C. R. Burr is busy getting together a program that will be as interesting as instructive. Mornings will be occupied by business and addresses, afternoons by recreation. Wednesday afternoon, June 23, will be devoted to an automobile ride through Detroit's thirty public parks, Thursday afternoon to a visit to the works of the Ford Motor Co., and Friday afternoon to a steamer trip on the Detroit river and Lake St. Clair.

Plenty of space is provided for trade exhibits, which are in the charge of Albert F. Meehan, of Dresher, Pa. As the passenger associations now require for reduced railroad rates a larger number of certificates than the association can furnish, members can only get low fares by taking advantage of the tourist rates from the larger cities, which take effect June 1. The badge book, containing full particulars of the meeting, will be mailed early in June.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

The Market.

Business was quiet in the first part of the week, but has improved greatly in the last few days. Flowers of all kinds are plentiful and the prices are normal. Violets are especially abundant and can be had for $3.50 per thousand.

Various Notes.

It has been decided by the committee in charge to hold the annual banquet of the New Bedford Horticultural Society at the Parker House on the evening of April 8.

William M. Post, of Post & Gray, attended the international flower show, in New York.

Julius the Florist reports business exceptionally good. He has his Ford delivery car on the job again, newly repainted after being damaged in the garage fire.

Peter Den Hartog, who travels for P. Verdegaal, of Noordwykerhout, Holland, was a recent visitor here.

We Offer for Immediate Delivery

Good, strong, well established plants in 2¼-inch pots of the exceedingly VALUABLE NEW ROSES

Ophelia, Francis Scott Key and Prince E. C. d'Arenberg

Growers will find all of these valuable additions to the list of standard varieties. They have been tested thoroughly and have been found to have exceptional value.

OPHELIA

No fancy rose ever introduced possesses so many excellent qualities. It is a splendid grower, a very free bloomer and has fine stems. It sells on sight. The demand undoubtedly will exceed the supply. Anticipating the large demand, we have propagated it extensively.

Strong plants on own roots. 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY

This variety, raised by Mr. John Cook, is very distinct, being entirely different from any of the indoor roses grown today. Flowers are rosy red and are unusually large and double, resembling very much a very full, double, hardy garden rose. Coupled with its large size and double form, it is an exceedingly free bloomer. It promises to be exceedingly valuable, especially for spring, summer and fall flowering, when other less double roses are difficult to handle. Its keeping qualities are remarkable.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

PRINCE E. C. D'ARENBERG

This variety might well have been termed a Red Killarney, as it possesses so many of the good qualities of the Killarneys. In color the flowers are similar to Richmond, but they are much more double, and it should prove a very much more profitable rose. Flowers have fine, straight stems on all the grades—from the shortest to the longest. It has fine foliage, comes away quickly and is even a freer bloomer than the Killarneys. We believe it is the best all-round red rose that we have today.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $12.00 per 100, $90.00 per 1000.

WE WILL BE GLAD TO QUOTE ON APPLICATION PRICES ON ALL THE NEWER AND STANDARD VARIETIES—STRONG, GRAFTED PLANTS READY IN MARCH

OPHELIA

A New Rose of True Worth

We have grown this magnificent rose the past season with most gratifying results. As a free and vigorous grower and great producer it has no equal. It sets bud freely in the short days of winter, and is now coming in with a heavy crop, doing equally well on grafts or own roots.

MRS. GEORGE SHAWYER is at present more favorably thought of than ever, and we intend to again plant it heavily this season. As a money getter, our experience has proven its superiority over all sorts, and having grown extensively on own roots and grafts, we have no hesitancy in stating that, like Sunburst, it does better on own roots.

We have a splendid lot of both varieties (grafts and own roots) ready for shipment., together with a choice lot of Sunburst, Ward, Prince d'Arenberg, White and Pink Killarney, cuttings taken from sand the latter part of December. For prices and further particulars write

CINCINNATI, O.

The Market.

The market has eased since last week. The supply is much heavier, while the demand for stock, though steady, is not active or any too strong. Prices are fair. The supply of roses has increased. Carnations, too, are coming fast and seem to meet with a better call than roses. Easter lilies, callas and rubrum lilies are plentiful. The same is true of small bulbous stock, such as jonquils, daffodils and tulips. Sweet peas continue plentiful. Valley and orchids have only a fair market. Other offerings include violets, snapdragon, forget-me-nots, primroses and wallflowers. The supply of greens is adequate and the market for them active.

Various Notes.

J. A. Peterson has been cutting some fine daffodils.

C. E. Critchell reports that he has already booked many orders for Easter lilies and other Easter stock.

E. G. Gillett reports a strong demand for hanging baskets.

A. J. Horning has been sending some fine jonquils to L. H. Kyrk.

Burglars invaded the second floor of C. E. Critchell's place March 21.

Frank Ball, formerly of this city and now of Patriot, Ind., was in the city last week. C. H. H.

Paterson, N. J.—F. Milne, of Totowa, lectured before the members of the Paterson Floricultural Society March 2 on hardy chrysanthemums.

Charlotte, N. C.—March 18 was "Dollar day" in Charlotte. Every merchant in town gave special dollar bargains. Scholtz, the Florist, Inc., offered $1.50 worth of any merchandise in the store for $1. The result was an increase of nearly forty per cent over the regular average business.

VINCA MINOR VARIEGATA AUREA

A pretty yellow variegated form of the hardy Vinca Minor which is so extensively used as a ground cover, especially in shaded places where grass will not grow.

This new variegated form should prove a most desirable addition for this purpose, particularly so as the foliage is irregularly margined and marbled with yellow.

It also should prove valuable for use in window boxes, particularly for winter use, in connection with Boxwoods and other Evergreen plants. Mr. William Falconer, Pittsburgh, Pa., one of our best authorities on hardy plants, says: "It is very beautiful and I am satisfied the variety will find an appreciative place among hardy plants."

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

the state and expect to do a large business in late freesias, having a large cut of Purity to come next month.

While numerous efforts have been made to produce gardenias for the San Francisco market, the trade has until recently depended on the output of one house; but the honor of being second to succeed in this line of work has now been won by Domoto Bros., the Japanese growers and wholesale florists, who for the last few weeks have been bringing in nice gardenias in commercial quantities, and expect to have a good cut from now on. Those who were first in this field, however, have by no means lost prestige, as their gardenias for the last month or two have been the finest ever shown in this city. Domoto Bros. have a large lot of new French hydrangeas and rhododendrons coming on for Easter.

The flower stand in the Emporium department store, which was "temporarily discontinued" the first of the year, has not yet been reopened, though the location is generally admitted to be a good one.

A. O. Stein, on Sutter street near Polk, has been busy with decorative work at the exposition. March 19 he did the decorating for the Chamber of Commerce dinner for 850 people in the California building, all gold baskets and daffodils; March 22 he placed a decoration of spring flowers for a luncheon of the National Exposition Commission, for 157 guests; for March 24 he had the ballroom decorations for a ball of the foreign commissions to the exposition, and for March 26 a dinner for 247 and a reception for the Japanese commission, to be all red and white carnations. Mr. Stein has just given the front of his store a new coat of white.

D. A. Madeira, of Salinas, Cal., has been visiting San Francisco this week.

Daniel MacRorie is the only member of the local trade attending the show at New York this season.

The California Rose Co., of Pomona, has opened a store at 721 K street, Sacramento. A. P. B.

PORTLAND NOTES.

as reports come in for a large crowd of florists to visit Portland in August, as they are planning to assemble in trainloads at Chicago and eastern centers to come to the S. A. F. convention by some of the northern routes. This announcement was received with applause.

Various Notes.

Edward Nausa has opened a flower store at Twenty-third and Lovejoy streets. He has been with A. F. C. Burkhardt for several years.

S. Lubliner left March 17 for Walla Walla, Wash., where he will in a few days be married to Miss Rose Strauss, of that city.

At the plant of Wilson & Crout Co., East Sixty-first and Ankeny streets, the Easter lilies are being segregated, as most of the lot will be ready. J. A. Wilson, manager of the concern, says he has no complaint to make of business conditions. Collections are somewhat slow, but come in steadily.

E. J. Steele says he lost a large quantity of pansy plants in the severe winter.

John Holden, of the Holden Floral Co., reports that the Easter lilies are coming in about right.

A. F. Lalane had a good demand for dyed carnations March 17.

Clarke Bros. are showing a fine lot of callas of a variety which they have grown for several years and have improved until it is in a class by itself.

Martin & Forbes Co. is a strong rival of Clarke Bros. in the display of red amaryllises, both stores having some excellent specimens.

J. G. Bacher says his company is busy with landscape work and lawn making. S. W. W.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

COAL CONTRACTS.

The larger growers will delay the contracting for coal for 1915-16 season. Usually the big buyers are first in the market, and it probably will be so this year, but they will be later than usual. The coal market has been lifeless this season and the trade seems inclined to await developments. It seems quite likely the large growers near the principal coal markets may adopt a different policy with regard to fuel purchases. In recent years they have not contracted their full requirements, but have depended on the open market for a considerable part of their needs, picking up some cheap coal that was up to demurrage. The chances are this policy will be pursued so long as the coal market is kept firm only by curtailing production.

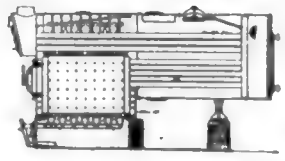
A NEW ZEALAND SHOW HOUSE.

Please give me your opinion on a small heating problem. I wish to find the best way of increasing the heat in my show house or conservatory, which is 14x40 feet, about six feet high to the eaves and twelve feet to the ridge. About half of the area of the sides is glass. We want a minimum temperature of about 60 degrees in winter, here on the east coast of South Island, New Zealand, where the outside temperature on a few nights drops to 17 degrees above zero.

At present, as indicated in the enclosed diagram, there are four 2-inch galvanized pipes all around the house, except at the doorway. Would you prefer to take out the 2-inch pipe and substitute a larger size, or increase the quantity of 2-inch pipe? The benches are about two and one-half feet high and the pipes are under them. We do not want to go below the present base of the boiler, which is one foot below the floor. I think the rise is not enough for good circulation, and I would favor putting a pipe all around each side, dropping it to the ends of the present pipe at the door and using the present flows as returns, besides retaining the present returns. Kindly state the amount of piping required and the best position for it.

J. H. R.—New Zealand.

The sketch shows the boiler to be located at one end of the house, with a 2-inch flow pipe under each side bench, running around to the door at the farther end of the house, and with a 2-inch return brought back under each of the flow pipes.



There is nothing to show whether the end of the house where the boiler is located contains glass or not, and that would make some difference in computing the amount of radiation required, but, unless the house is considerably exposed to cold winds, it will answer in either case if a 2½-inch flow pipe is run upon the plate on both sides of the house from the boiler around to the door at the opposite end. There they should be dropped down and each of them should be connected with three

2-inch return pipes, which should run on the walls back to the boiler. The flow pipes should be given a slight fall and the expansion tank should be connected to the highest point in each flow pipe.

The conservatory appears to contain from 1,070 to 1,150 square feet of glass and a considerable increase in the present amount of radiation will be needed if 60 degrees is to be maintained. As suggested by J. H. A., I would advise using the present flow pipes as returns, placing one more on each side to give the required amount of radiation, in addition to the two 2½-inch flow pipes. When the boiler is sunk only one foot below the level of the floor, I would advise putting in a mercury generator or some other means of carrying the water under pressure.

Clyde, O.—At Hall's Greenhouses, White Enchantress seems to be breaking all records this winter, followed closely by the rest of the family. Northport will be discontinued, as will some seedlings which have been on trial. There are three benches devoted to snapdragons, one of white, one of yellow and one of Ramsburg's Silver Pink, from which a cut is expected by Easter. Callas are doing well.

ST. PAUL, MINN.

The Market.

Conditions last week indicated the pre-Easter tightening up of business. Funeral work was plentiful, but general business slacked up considerably and no doubt the ending of the Lenten season is responsible. Cut flowers are plentiful. Roses are of good quality and have proved to be fair sellers. Carnations and bulbous stock lead in sales and both are plentiful and of good quality. Violets are exceptionally fine and sell moderately well. St. Patrick's day called for the usual green carnations, but the demand was not as heavy as it should have been. Easter stock, from all appearances, will be both good and plentiful. All growers who handle this class of stock report their crops fine.

Various Notes.

N. C. Hansen has a fine lot of carnations and will continue to have them through the Easter season.

J. W. Hoffman has moved across Wabasha street on Sixth street and now has a pretty shop. The location, also, is a great improvement over the old stand.

The O. R. Eckhardt Co. is handling a heavy lot of cut flowers. The supplies also are moving well.

Albert Clausen, of Albert Lea, Minn., who has been at St. Luke's hospital here, suffering from rheumatism, is feeling somewhat better. Mr. Clausen's father was a visitor last week.

Holm & Olson have a new runabout car in their city service.

J. Christenson, superintendent at Holm & Olson's greenhouses, has purchased a plot of ground with three greenhouses on Otto avenue. After Easter he will put the place in first-class condition and will grow stock for cut flowers.

Visitors last week: Samuel Seligman, of Wertheimer Bros., and Martin Reukauf, of Bayersdorfer & Co.

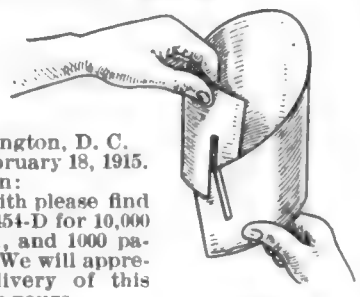
PITTSBURGH.

Wholesaler's New Home.

The trade has taken much interest in inspecting the new building of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., occupied only a few days ago. The building is 40x110 feet, three stories. The first floor is the salesroom with cut flower coolers; the second floor, office and show room for baskets and supplies of all kinds; the third floor, wire design shop and stock room. The basement contains a large cold room for wild smilax, galax and ferns, with machinery for automatic refrigeration.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. was organized in July, 1898, with Fred Burki, president; T. P. Langhans, secretary, and W. A. Clarke, treasurer, to do a wholesale and commission business. The company started out modestly, in a room 15x35 feet at 705 Penn avenue. Shortly, Mr. Burki, who was the largest grower in the Pittsburgh district, incorporated his greenhouse business, calling it the Pittsburgh Rose & Carnation Co. This company purchased a tract of 220 acres of land at Bakerstown and started the Crystal Farm establishment, building up one of the best equipped greenhouse ranges in this country. The same persons being interested in both companies, they decided to consolidate under the name of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. Their faith in the business, and in Pittsburgh, western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, was strong and they worked quietly to build up a permanent business, believing that good methods would assure holding the trade in the territory they were after.



The result shows they were fully justified. They were compelled to look for larger quarters from time to time, until now they have built and occupy what is probably the best equipped building for handling cut flowers and florists' supplies in America.

The greenhouse range at Crystal Farm continued to grow with the business until at present it consists of twelve acres under glass, devoted to the growing of cut flowers.

The Market.

Bulbous stock this week has been only slightly over the demand. Many of the Easter plants are appearing in the stores and an oversupply of Easter blooms is being shoved on the market, but demand is picking up.

Various Notes.

A flower and plant section was opened March 12 in Dayton's dry goods store, by William F. Holmes. Mr. Holmes will devote his entire time to managing this department and Mrs. Holmes will have charge of their store at 8 South Seventh street. The department at Dayton's, though not large, is a beauty spot in the store and is well situated, being just inside the main entrance on Nicollet avenue. This department was carefully designed, so as to use every inch of space. A shelf running around the refrigerator at the height of a man's head forms an excellent place to keep ferns and other plants, adding much to the appearance of the department. The refrigerator has specially designed drawers for flat ferns, smilax, plumosus, etc.

Arthur Rice, of Rice Bros., is on the job, though much thinner and a little pale, after his long illness with typhoid. He expects to take an active part in the Easter rush.

L. S. Donaldson Co. intends to dispose of 6,000 lilies and numerous spiræas, roses, hydrangeas and azaleas, besides large quantities of bulbous stock for Easter.

Max Kaiser has the finest collection of roses of the rambler type in Minneapolis. C. B. L.

HAMMOND'S THRIP JUICE No. 2

Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y.

Dear Sirs: After trying Thrip Juice No. 2 for two seasons, I can say it is the best article I ever used for thrip on roses or carnations, also for white fly. The latter was the worst pest we had to contend with, but after three applications, about four (4) days apart, we were practically free from it. I find it is advisable to apply in the evening, and with a good, strong force pump, proportion one to forty.

Club Meeting.

The club meeting March 18 was well attended. Ira H. Landis, chairman of the glad hand committee, reported the arrangements for ladies' night, to be held April 15, at the Stevens House, at 7 p. m. This promises to be one of the most pleasant social events in the history of the club. The best is none too good for the wives and friends of the Lancaster county florists.

Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia, was present and gave a helpful talk. During the last fifteen years Mr. Grakelow has established one of the principal retail stores of Philadelphia, using many original methods to attract new business, which he explained in detail. His ideas on advertising in the newspapers and on the system used in mailing lists, the calendars sent, with no business printing thereon, all have been factors in his success. He also referred to rather a new idea in the cut flower business, that of the department stores in large cities opening up-to-date rooms for the sale of flowers and plants.

Various Notes.

With the Lenten season again drawing to a close, business is reviving quite noticeably. Among the cut flower growers indications are for a heavy cut for Easter. In the plant houses at Barr's, Schroyer's, Fries', Bachler's and Goldbach's, every preparation is being made for the Easter rush.

Harry A. Schroyer will have an extremely fine lot of Easter lilies for cutting. The 12-inch pans of hyacinths grown by him are the finest I have seen.

George G. Goldbach has his usual supply of calla lilies for next week.

Rodney Eshleman, decorator for B. F. Barr & Co., has had an unusually fine display of dainty baskets filled with spring flowers. H. K. R.

McAlester, Okla.—William Weaver says he has had all the work he has been able to do, with excellent prospects for spring trade and a large supply of stock.

A Construction Departure

TO take one-third of the columns out of a house, and then one-third of the posts and with only slightly increasing the size of the remaining framing members, still have a construction that has abundant strength, and to spare, you will admit is a fine piece of greenhouse engineering.

That's exactly what we have so successfully accomplished with our Reconstructed Construction.

For full particulars and illustrations of every construction point, send for the Reconstructed Construction Circular.

What They Say:

Jan. 20, 1915
Willens Construction Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: The greenhouses you built for me last summer and with which I am so well pleased, received several severe tests within the last few days. During one cold spell of 30 degrees below, I easily maintained the desired temperature in the greenhouses.

I am well pleased with the material and also your pleasant business methods and am convinced that I have the finest greenhouses in Nebraska.

Yours very truly,

The Market.

Business continues good, with an adequate supply of plants and cut flowers to meet the demand. Roses and carnations are good. Potted plants and all bulbous stock are plentiful and the sale is brisk. As Easter approaches, preparations are being made for a big business, which is sure to come.

Various Notes.

Karl Zeidler has an immense stock of plants of all kinds, especially geraniums, of which he has about 15,000, all of which are fine. He has some fine spiræas, but says the sale of these is slow this year, while in other years they have sold fast. His bulbous stock is good.

J. C. Elspermann is busy with funeral work every day and the sale of potted plants is heavy. His stock of plants, including geraniums, is large and in good shape for the spring trade.

Julius Niednagel & Sons are enjoying their usual run of business. Their roses and carnations are in good crop.

The William Blackman Floral Co. is making large cuts of roses and carnations. Its stock of pot and bulbous plants is large and varied.

Miss Nellie Goodge is having a large amount of funeral work. Her stock of spring plants is good, and her snapdragon is fine. The carnations are producing some excellent flowers.

Royston & Fenton have dropped two benches of old Ivory and Bridesmaid roses and will grow in their place tomato plants for spring sale. They sell thousands of them. Their shipping trade in plants and cuttings of coleus is good.

Mrs. M. S. Doerr is expecting a big demand at Easter for plants and cut flowers. She keeps a good stock of carnations and potted plants on hand at all times.

Henry Seymour is getting his share of business.

Louis Fritsch looks for a rush at Easter. He is doing a good business each week. E. L. F.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

LACK OF LILACS LOSS TO LAWNS

Most valuable and popular of all deciduous flowering shrubs, the lilac offers bountiful returns to florists who will push it with their customers for lawn planting. Though everywhere a favorite, it is planted on but few of the many lawns where it might have a place. Now is the time to make the lilac one of your income producers.

THE florist who is on the lookout to add to his business, and, incidentally, to his income, will find the lawn planting of lilacs an effective means to that end. The popularity of the lilac might be demonstrated in many ways, but everyone who reads these words is fully aware of its popularity. Its good points might be the subject of many enthusiastic paragraphs, but the reader knows, too, of these. He knows, also, of the many lawns and dooryards, as well as large grounds and broad estates, where there is a place for some of the more than 150 varieties of lilac. How to effect a money producing combination of these various pieces of knowledge, is the object of this timely article.

Lilacs are, everything considered, the most valuable of all our deciduous flowering shrubs. Strong points to be said in their favor are that they are hardy, few pests attack them, they leaf out early and hold their foliage late, they embrace a wonderful range of colors, and, by planting early, midseason and late varieties, it is possible to have flowers for about two months. Even when lilacs are out of flower, the dark green foliage is handsome, and, as they are, as a rule, quite symmetrical, they are effective either as individual plants or in groups.

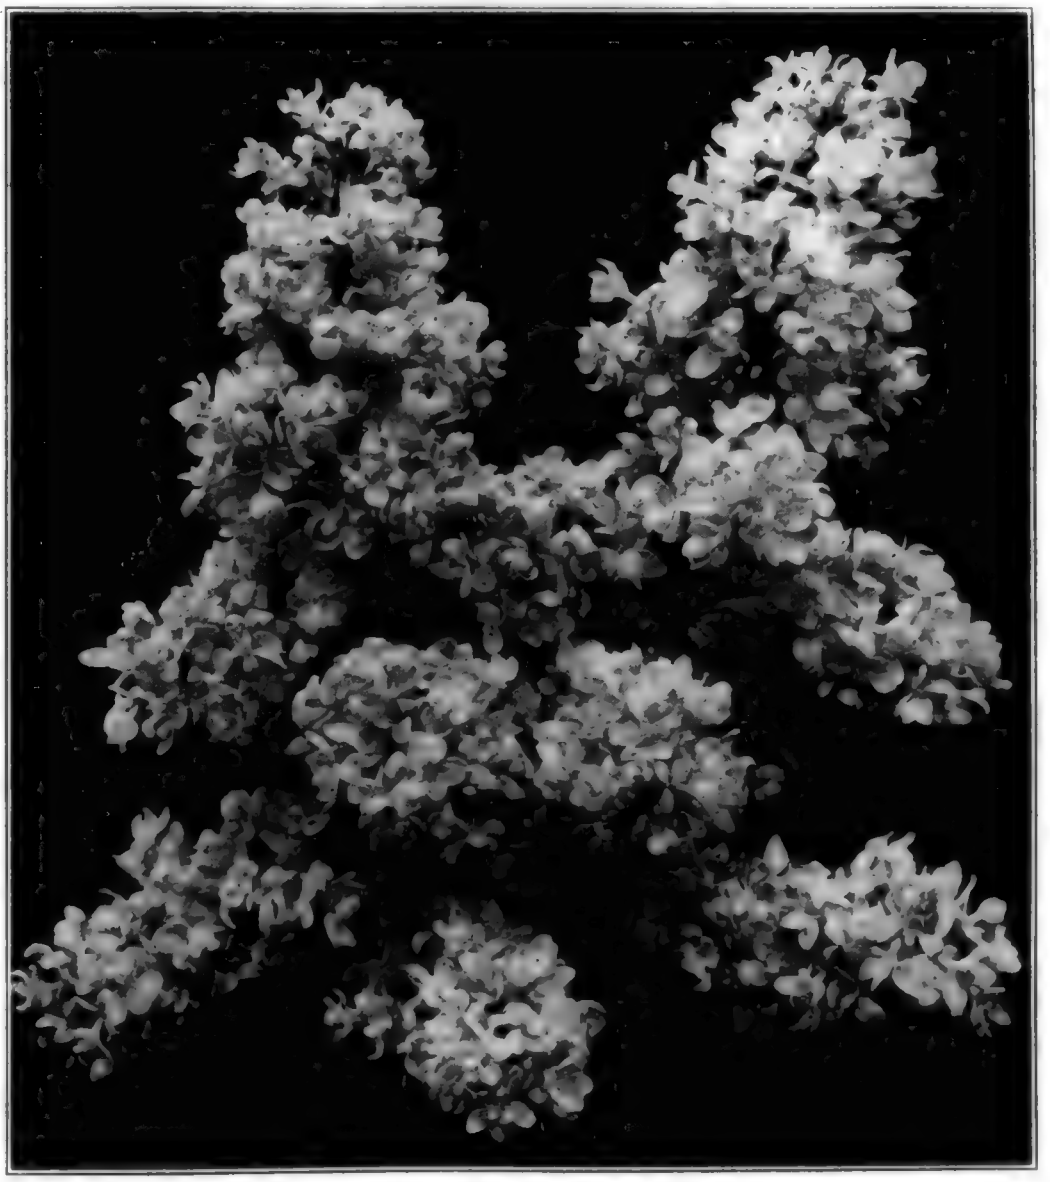
Neglected Outdoors.

So far commercial florists, while they have forced pot-grown lilacs in many cases, have, to a large extent, entirely neglected the much wider and more rapidly growing outdoor field, and here is a wonderful chance for development. While it is true that lilacs do not make quite as rapid growth as forsythias, lonicera, Philadelphus, spiræas and some other shrubs, they make splendid growth once they are established, and have the advantage of being much longer lived. Lilacs can be purchased and planted either in fall or spring. The former season has many advantages, as work is not then so strenuous, but somehow we have not yet waked up to the necessity of more fall planting to relieve, in some measure, the spring pressure. If planting is done in spring, it is, of course, a decided advantage to have prepared the ground the previous fall, but if this has not been done, take care not to use any fresh manure which will come in contact with their roots.

Lilacs are good to use either as individual specimens or in groups. When a number are planted together, it is better to restrict the varieties to one or two shades which will harmonize well rather than to have a miscellaneous mixture. For instance, a bed might be devoted to white and pink, white and blue or white and purple varieties, or might contain only one solid color.

There is no dooryard too humble or too shaded to grow one or two lilacs, provided they have good soil. They are occasionally attacked by San Jose or oyster shell scale. A winter spraying will easily keep them clean. Aphis, thrips, spider and other pests are not at all partial to lilacs, and will give little trouble.

Propagation.



Plants purchased at nurseries are usually grafted on either the common purple lilac, Syringa vulgaris, or on California privet. The last named stock is worthless in the colder states, and the plants never attain the vigor of those worked on lilac stock. Far the best plants are those propagated from cuttings before the wood becomes too firm. From the middle to the end of June is the best time for their propagation. Leave two eyes to a cutting, trim the foliage back well and place in flats in a frame. If there is a

Queenly lilacs, you do shame us,

We, with all our vaunted glory,
Have no recompense to give;
In your presence, lo! our story

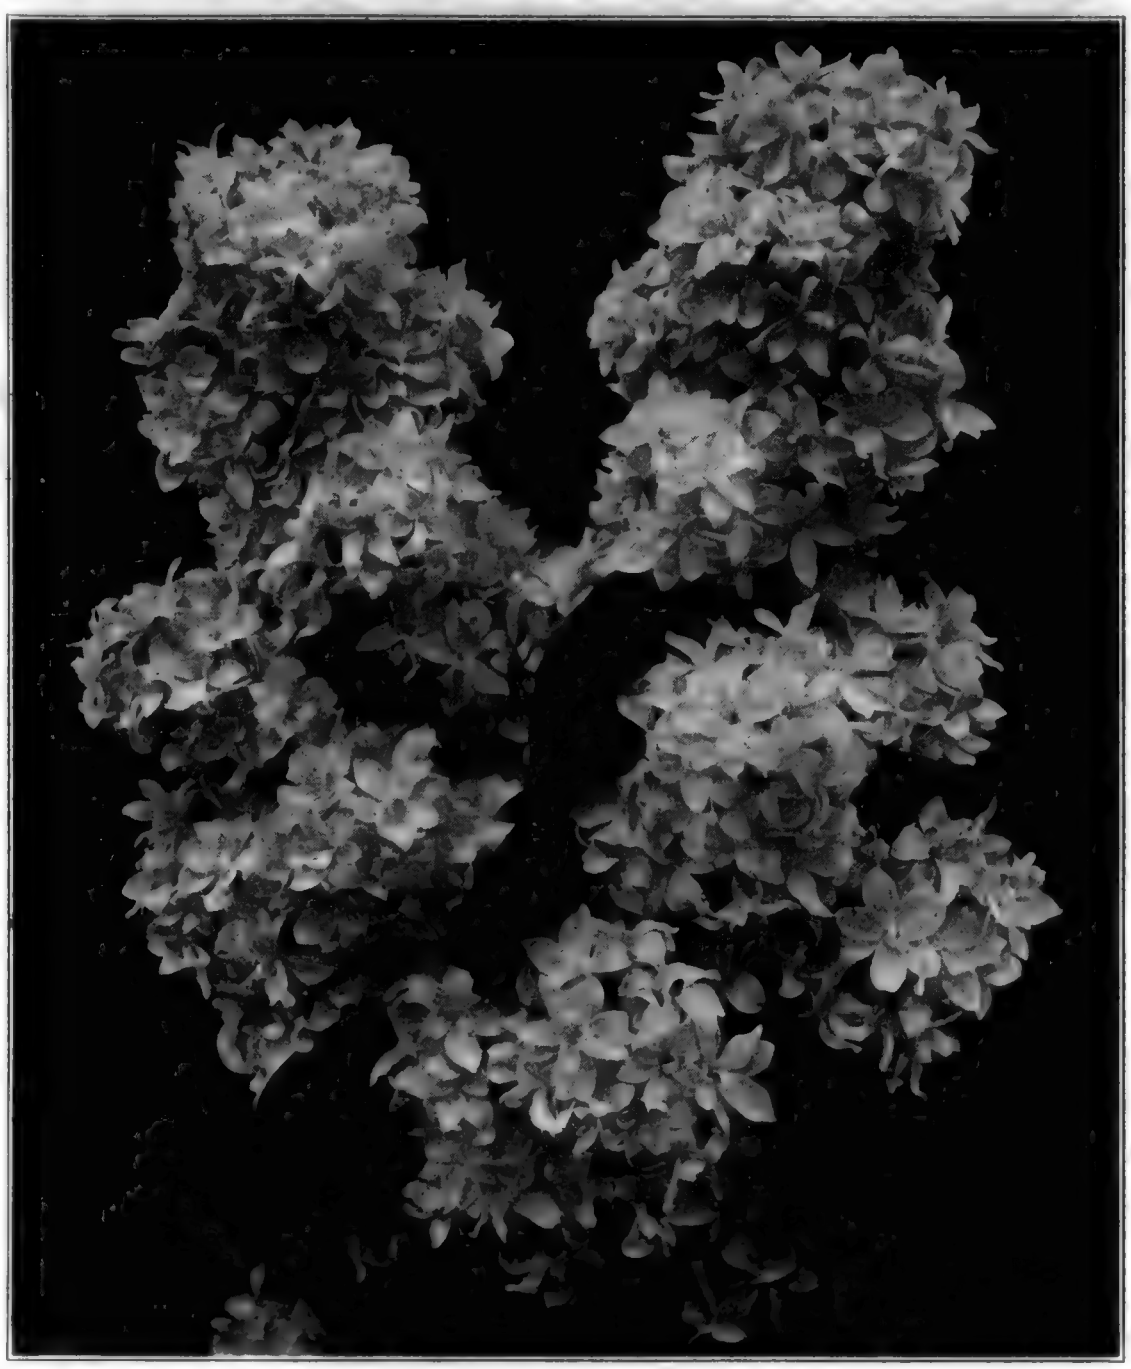
little bottom heat, all the better. Drain the flats well and put the cuttings in sandy loam. Keep them sprayed over several times a day. Give little air, close early in the afternoon and be sure that the glass is well shaded.

When the cuttings are nicely calloused, air more freely, and early in September remove the sashes entirely. By fall some varieties will have made a veritable network of roots; others are slower. Keep the flats in a coldframe, packed in dry leaves, over winter. Transplant carefully into nursery rows in spring. The second season the plants will be of sufficient size to sell. Advantages of own-root plants over grafted ones are that they are equally vigorous and every shoot made is sure to be true, while with grafted plants, if suckers are not removed, the stock may eventually displace the grafts. Any florist can root lilacs if he will take the wood before it gets too firm and follow the suggestions given above. Wood from forced plants can also be propagated in the same way.

Comparatively few people appreciate the wonderful wealth of lilacs we have, thanks, in large measure, to those great European hybridists, Lemoine & Son, Nancy, France, whose nurseries are right on the Franco-German firing line. The earliest varieties to bloom are oblata and hyacinthiflora plena. These are sometimes in flower the first week in April. Following these come the numerous fine forms of Syringa vulgaris, which are the most beautiful and popular of the lilacs.

Varieties of Value.



As there are 150 or more lilacs in cultivation, I append a boiled-down list of really good ones. Single white: Marie Legraye, Frau Bertha Dammann; double white: Mme. Lemoine, Mme. Casimir Perier; single pink: Macrostachya, Princess Alexandra; double pink: Belle de Nancy, white eye; Lemoinei; single blue or lilac: Geheimrath Heyder, Goliath; double blue or lilac: Doyen Keteleer, Michael Buchner; single red: Charles X, Marlyensis; single purple: Philemon; double purple: Charles Joly, Comte Horace de Choiseul. The foregoing are all splendid sorts, and there are many more almost equally good.

Apart from the varieties of the common lilac, S. vulgaris, the following are valuable, and their use will considerably prolong the season: S. villosa, late blooming; S. pubescens, graceful, small trusses, but free blooming; S. Chinensis, also called Rothomagensis, the Roman lilac; S. Persica, or Persian lilac, and S. Josikæa, a native of Hungary.

The latest flowering of the lilac family is S. Japonica, or Japanese tree lilac. This is a rapid grower, has handsome foliage and produces immense panicles of yellowish white, feathery flowers in late June or early July. This makes a handsome lawn specimen, attaining a height of twenty-five to thirty feet. S. Pekinensis grows fifteen to twenty feet high, is rather wide spreading and has large panicles in the way of S. Japonica.

Here are a dozen lilacs which will give two months of bloom if planted; they include both single and double varieties and contain a fine range of colors: Marie Legraye, oblata, Mme. Lemoine, macrostachya, Philemon, Michael Buchner, Charles X, Emile Lemoine, Persica, Chinensis, villosa and Japonica.

In planting lilacs give them good soil.

Lilac Abel Carriere, Large, Blue; Reverse of Petals Rose.

Tell your customers to cut the dead trusses away before seeds form, as these will much weaken the plants. Also tell them that cutting away mature wood means cutting away the flowers for the coming season. The time to prune is directly after flowering, and all that is necessary is to head back any runaway shoots and remove dead or weak wood. Young plants need practically no pruning for several years.

Many thousands of visitors annually admire the wonderful lilac displays in such noted places as the Arnold Arboretum, Boston, and Highland park, Rochester. Nearly all of these people have gardens at home and room for a few lilacs, as have hundreds of thousands more, and it is up to the florists, at least in some measure, to see that lilacs are planted at thousands more of American homes.

FEEBLE GROWTH OF HYACINTHS.

I am sending some hyacinths under separate cover and should like to know what is wrong with them.

F. S.—Ohio.

Either you have been keeping your bulbs far too dry at the roots, or, what is more probable, they were heated in transit from Holland. A combination of the two causes may be accountable for their wretched condition. When bulbs get overheated, the flowers in the embryo are killed. When plants are kept too dry at the roots before forcing, they make a sickly, feeble growth, such as yours have made.

CARRYING OVER CYCLAMENS.

Will you please give me advice in regard to the care of 1-year-old cyclamens, mostly in 4-inch pots, from now on? I wish to carry them over.

M. B.—N. Y.

Give the plants a good water supply and a position on a bench or shelf in a cool but sunny house after flowering. We often see them stored away in sheds or under dripping benches. It is useless to expect any results from plants thus treated. After the middle of May remove them to a coldframe. The foliage will be starting to die away by that time. Gradually reduce the water supply and keep them nearly dry until signs of new growths appear. Then shake out the corms and repot in as small pots as the corms can conveniently be got into. Use a compost of flaky leaf-mold, well decayed cow manure and loam, with a good dash of sharp sand added. After potting, keep the plants in a coldframe. The plants can be laid on their sides, if frame space is needed for other crops, and kept outdoors for a couple of months. Usually growth starts and repotting can be done about the middle of July.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Ransomville, N. Y.—Voluntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in the United States District court at Buffalo March 22 by John C. Rogers, William L. Rogers and Harry J. Rogers as individuals and copartners of the firm of J. C. Rogers & Sons. They conducted a greenhouse, cooperage shop and farm, and scheduled joint liabilities as $10,959.52 and assets as $4,971.

St. Matthews, Ky.—Nicholas Riehlman filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy March 20 in the Federal court at Louisville. His liabilities are listed at $14,581.45, and his assets at $13,268, less $1,200 personal property and homestead, which he claims exempt. The largest creditors are the Jefferson Savings & Building Association, to whom he owes $3,000, and the Louisville Title Co., to whom he owes $1,800, for money loaned on notes and other security.

New York, N. Y.—H. D. Sears, attorney, 27 Cedar street, has sent out the following notice: "The business of the firm of Oscar Hauschild & Co., cut flower dealers at 37 West Twenty-eighth street, is being liquidated and its business discontinued. The partnership consists of Oscar Hauschild and Alexander Golden, both young men, and while the assets of the firm are not sufficient to make a substantial payment to the creditors, it is intended that all creditors shall be treated similarly. The assets, after collections are made, will amount to only about twelve per cent of the liabilities and Mr. Hauschild volunteers to raise in some way enough to make up twenty-five per cent, which it is planned to pay in cash, the same to be in full settlement." The statement of liabilities accompanying the notice is as follows:

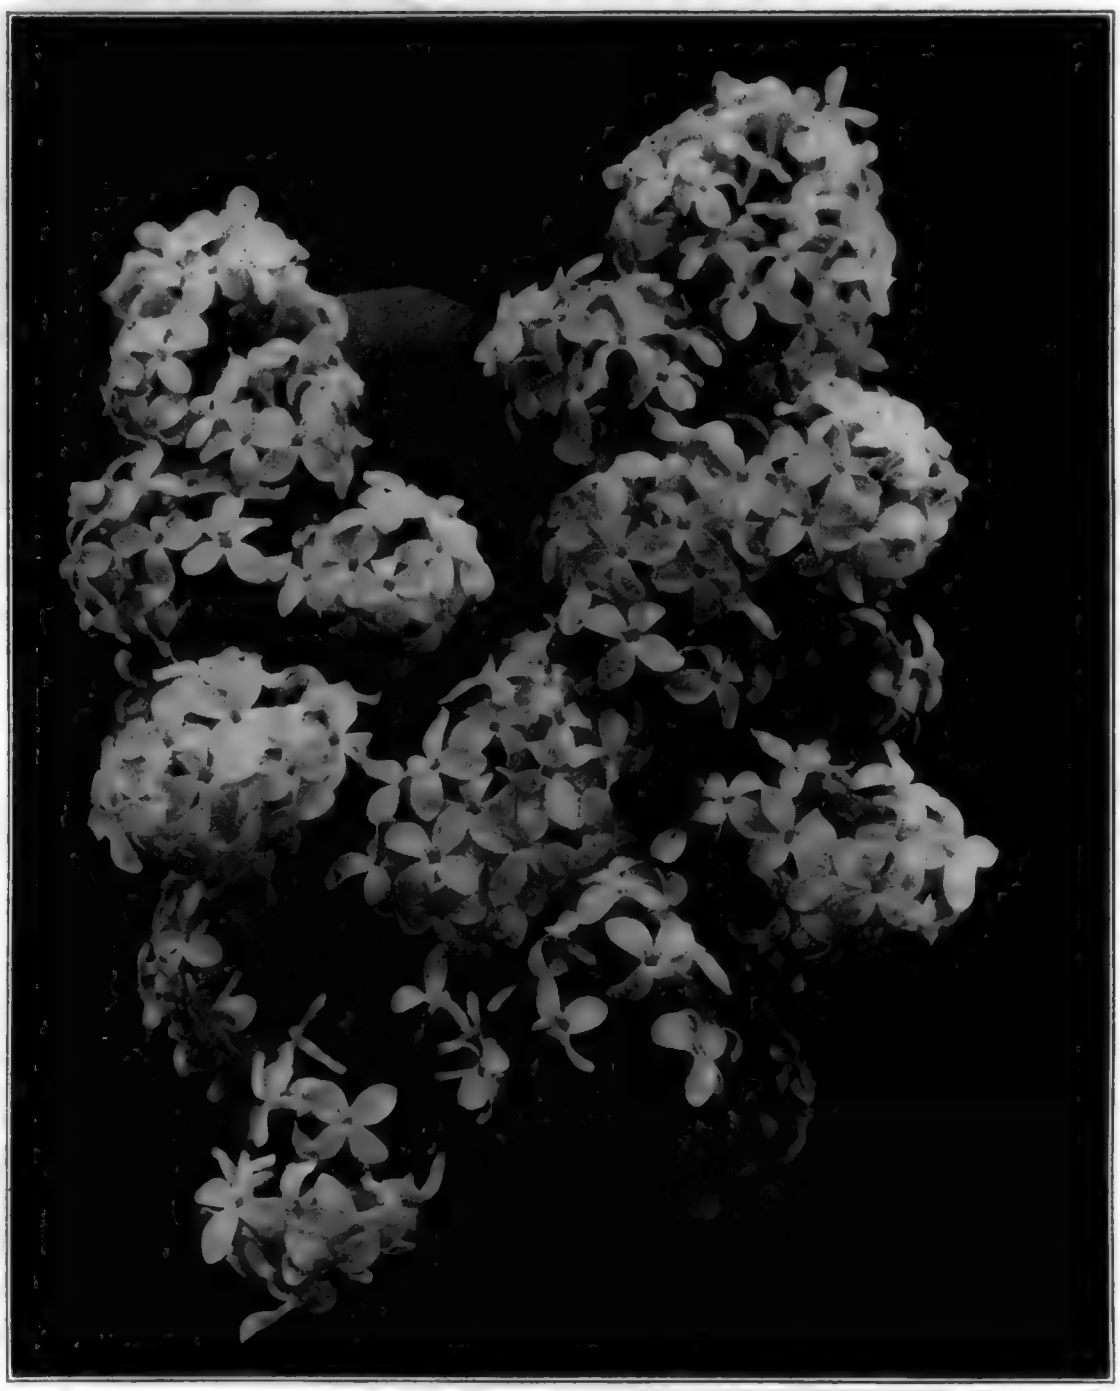
PLANTS TO GROW IN HOTBEDS.

I have a frame of four sashes and have just purchased twenty-seven sashes more. I have not had time to provide heat for them, and they will have to be used as coldframes. The frame of four sashes is heated with manure. What can I grow in these frames? As I have no greenhouse, I have to depend entirely on the frames. What time should the seed be sown?



F. H.—Mass.

You can grow a large variety of plants in hotbeds and coldframes. In your latitude, it will pay you to use warm manure, no matter if no more than nine to twelve inches thick, well tramped, in order to make a nice, genial heat for the plants you wish to grow.

The following annuals can be started in hotbeds; they can be sown directly in the beds in rows four to six inches apart if you have suitable soil, which should, of course, be light: Asters, zinnias, petunias, verbenas, Phlox Drummondi, dianthus, balsams, stocks, ageratums, salvias, vincas, antirrhinums, pentstemons, cosmos, dahlias, salpiglossis, marigolds, calendulas and everlastings of all sorts. The majority of these can be sown now. Some, like asters, can be sown at intervals until May 10 for successional crops.

The hotbeds, or coldframes, will also be found suitable for starting many perennials, such as delphiniums, lychnis, coreopsis, Shasta daisies, aquilegias and pyrethrums. Later in the season they can be utilized for hollyhocks, sweet williams, pansies, myosotis, double daisies, violas, rockets, etc.

Such vegetables as tomatoes, eggplants, peppers, lettuce, cauliflowers, cabbages, celery, cucumbers and melons can be started in these frames. Mats and board shutters will be necessary on cold nights. Be sure to use light soil and cover the seeds according to their size. C. W.

TO DESTROY MILLEPEDES.

We are troubled with worms or bugs, which, we think, are millepedes. They breed in decayed cow manure. We have tried a mixture of Paris green and sugar, which destroys the angleworms and sow bugs, but not the millepedes. Can you suggest a remedy?

R. C. S.—Wis.

Where the pests appear on the surface you can kill them by sprinkling tobacco dust over them. In the soil they can be killed by using either carbon bisulphide or Vermine. The latter is diluted in water and the infested soil watered. It will not harm any plants. Use the carbon bisulphide in holes bored with a pointed stick. Make the holes four inches deep and twelve to fifteen inches apart each way in the beds. Pour half a teaspoonful in each hole, then immediately fill up the hole. The carbon bisulphide forms a gas which destroys all insect life in the soil. Do not use any naked lights near it, as it is explosive. Carbon bisulphide costs 25 cents per pound can at retail.

C. W.

ROOTING EUPHORBIA SPLENDENS.

Please tell me how to propagate crown of thorns. I have had the cuttings in sand a month and no roots have yet started. W. W. H.—Kan.

The so-called crown of thorns, or Euphorbia splendens, is of easy propagation, provided you select the young shoots for cuttings; those rubbed off with a heel are particularly good. Probably your lack of success has been due to using the old wood for cuttings. Given a good cutting bench and a little bottom heat, the new shoots will root with the greatest of ease. C. W.

CARNATIONS

REPOTTING YOUNG PLANTS.

Early Stock May Need Moving.

Those young carnation plants you potted into small pots in January and early February will need shifting now. Do not put it off until you have more time, after you have shifted all your bedding stock. That time does not come until near planting-out time, and then your young carnation plants will be potbound and stunted beyond help. This is the one thing that makes early propagating of carnations undesirable for most small places, where a mixed variety of plants are grown for the retail trade. Too many other things seem more important and pressing for attention than the young carnation plants.

Those later cuttings you put into the sand, to provide more stock of varieties that did not yield enough cuttings in the first crop, or perhaps to replace those that were lost from the early batch on account of a poor strike, will need to be potted just as soon as they are ready. A sturdy cutting, potted from the propagating bench within a week or so, will make a good plant by housing time. A month in a 2-inch pot gives ample time to enable the young plant to become established and make enough growth to be topped before being set out in the field.

The Needs of the Blooming Stock.

The blooming stock will need extra attention, too, about this time. Warmer weather is approaching, which means that steps must be taken to forestall some of the things that are almost uncontrollable after really warm weather once sets in. While the plants are making their rank spring growth, the grower is apt to be misled by their apparent vigor and promise of big crops.

If you have waged successful warfare against thrips this winter and your plants are free from them, you need not have any grave fear of them, providing you keep on fighting them off. If, however, you see a lot of small white specks on the petals, you would better get busy, if you do not want your entire crop to be ruined as soon as warm weather sets in. If you have been spraying with nicotine once each week, then increase the proportion and give a few extra applications until the blooms are free from those specks.

A Salt Spray for Red Spider.

Look around sharply for any signs of red spider. Clean the pests out before warm weather comes, or you will have to take them out with the plants. We spray our plants once each week with salt water, right through the season. By the way, our good friend John Evans has made us the dandiest apparatus for using this salt spray. It is made of aluminum, which is extremely light. It is about eight inches long and six inches in diameter, large enough to hold a good-sized chunk of rock salt. We attach it to the faucet, using the hose to apply the spray. In this way we have a good force and a house can be gone over in jig time. Red spider has given us no trouble since we started using this salt mixer.

Shading and Disbudding.

Some of the pink varieties will want a slight shade pretty soon. The sun is beginning to take some of the color out of Rose-pink Enchantress and Gloriosa. Now is when we appreciate Enchantress Supreme more than ever before. The salmon tint prevents it from bleaching like the old variety from which it sported. In another year or so it will have displaced the old Enchantress altogether. When you put on this shade, do not overdo it. Bear in mind that it is not for the plant that you are doing it. The plant itself would be better off if it had the full sun for the next two months, but the bloom needs the shade to save the delicate color. All it needs, however, is just enough to break the fierce rays.

The buds will be coming fast and disbudding will have to be attended to right along, or the quality will suffer quickly. Pay attention, too, to keeping the young growth in the supports. Not only will the stems be straighter, but the space between the rows will be kept open, allowing a better circulation of air between the plants, and that is worth a great deal to them. The bottom leaves will be healthier and there will be less trouble from branch-rot and kindred diseases.

Mulching and Watering.

A heavy mulch of long stable manure will prove beneficial in preventing drying out from now on. Do not put it too close to the stems of the plants, but rick it up between the rows. In watering it will be scattered out after a time, but it will do no harm after it has been leached out somewhat. We use it tolerably fresh for this spring mulch and have had only good results.

Supply a liberal amount of water when the days are bright and warm, but be sure the plants have plenty to eat too. I am firmly convinced that a great deal of the trouble experienced with light discoloration of the leaves comes from a lack of proper nourishment. Of course you are opening the ventilators wide at every opportunity.

A. F. J. Baur.

Colchester, England.—When the German aircraft raided this place on a recent Sunday a bomb was dropped within a few rods of the world-famous rose nurseries of Frank Cant & Co., but no glass was lost.

Oostdunkirk, Belgium. — E. Draps-Boudry, who is well known as a grower of American carnations for European markets, reports: "French and Belgian troops have occupied all my greenhouses; all the carnations and benches have been thrown out. Horses are stabled in one house, there are blacksmiths in another, shoemakers and saddle-makers in another, and butchers cutting up and preparing food in another. Not finding room enough in my twenty-six greenhouses, they have trampled all over my perennials and made large barracks in the gardens."

Rotterdam, Holland.—Official statistics show that in spite of the war the exportation of flowering bulbs this last season has decreased only 77,000 kilos. This appears insignificant when it is seen that the exports for 1914 amounted to 24,883,900 kilos against 24,960,900 kilos in 1913. A kilo equals 2.2046 pounds. The decrease is not so insignificant to the Holland bulb growers, however, as it appears. The crop this last season was an abundant one, the bulbs were heavy, and the prices, on a large part of the crop, were low. As a result, the season was less successful than a comparison of the two years' exports would lead one to believe.

Carignan, France.—Jean Denaiffe, of the firm of Denaiffe & Son, is among those who have fallen on the field of battle.

Paris, France.—Vincenc Mensik, the secretary, reports that all the members of the Society of Slavic Gardeners of Paris have enlisted.

Paris, France.—Louis de Vilmorin, as captain of reserve, commands the eighth section of automobile machine guns. The members voluntarily presented themselves to put in action on the line of battle eighty mountain guns. By supporting the advance infantry, this section has done valuable work in disorganizing the defense of the enemy.

Copenhagen, Denmark. — Considering the large quantities of florists' supplies that have been going from Germany to the United States via this port and Rotterdam, it is of much importance to the trade to note that the attempt of the British government to shut off the trade of Germany has caused the Scandinavian-American line as well as the Holland-America line to refuse all shipments of merchandise made in Germany. This is done in fear of detention by British war ships encountered at sea and it applies even to merchandise already paid for and owned by citizens of the United States. Already there have accumulated here considerable quantities of florists' supplies which cannot at present be forwarded to the consignees in the United States.

General View of the Flower Show of the Scranton Florists' Club Held in the Town Hall Last Week.

THE SCRANTON FLOWER SHOW.

A Fourth Step Forward.

The Scranton Florists' Club gave its fourth show in the Town hall at Scranton, Pa., last week and scored another advance, due to experience, hard work and the opportunity of having seen the staging of the New York show only a few days before. B. E. Cokely was floor manager and T. B. McClintock secretary, and to them is due special credit, although all the club members contributed to the success of the affair. The public interest in the show was the best yet.

No prizes were awarded; it was a strictly trade show run by florists for the purpose of awakening interest in flowers at a favorable moment and it proved again that a premium list is not necessary.

The Local Exhibits.

Nearly all the local growers showed their stock, as follows:

John Beagle had a fine group of palms, Easter and spring plants.

George R. Clark, in addition to a large display of Easter plants and baskets of cut flowers all dressed up for show, staged an attractive ad for the telegraph delivery department. It was in the style of several window displays that have been illustrated in The Review, including a large map and telegraph poles, with keys and telephones attached to the cities on the map by means of ribbons. It was well executed and made the idea quite clear to the public.

C. W. Baldwin staged the only bride's bouquets in the show and of course attracted the ladies. He also had a specially fine vase of snapdragon, standing higher than one's head. His Easter plants were especially good, including large azaleas, rhododendrons and hydrangeas, as well as rambler roses and a large variety of bulbous stock in pots and pans.

T. B. McClintock had an elaborate summer garden effect, with vine-clad porch, porch boxes and bulb beds in bloom in the border below. He also showed beds of geraniums and groups of araucarias and cinerarias.

A. L. Besancon & Co. had a Japanese pergola decorated with artificial wistaria. Within, Miss Besancon had arranged tables of baskets of cut flowers and back of these a display case of corsage bouquets. Reed gates were surmounted by post urns of ferns, while within the visitor found two handsome dinner tables, with a mantel decoration of genista and green. Altogether it was one of the most pretentious efforts ever made by a Scranton florist.

Anton Schultheis' Easter pot plants were well flowered and he and his sisters displayed excellent taste in the arrangement. Their principal effort was with a rustic arbor on a green lawn on which were beds of bulbous and other flowers. Window boxes gave a summer effect. Azaleas, roses and lilies were shown in good shape.

Two private gardeners participated in the show, James Lucker, gardener to Mrs. C. S. Weston, and Amzi Smith, gardener to Mrs. J. R. Bennell, each being represented by some excellent specimen plants of different character than those shown by the florists.

B. E. & J. T. Cokely staged a large and interesting display of seeds, lawn and garden requisites and florists' supplies.

Out-of-town Exhibitors.

S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, staged a large display. Among the carnations there were several new ones, including Alice Coombs and Grace, grown by Albert Roper, Tewksbury, Mass.; Morning Glow, raised by Edward Winkler, Wakefield, Mass.; Aviator, grown by the Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill., and Mrs. Akehurst, grown by Akehurst & Son, White Marsh, Md. Mrs. Russell was notable among the roses for the fact that it was even better when the show closed than when it opened. Jonkheer J. L. Mock also held up specially well. Other varieties shown included American Beauty, Double White Killarney, Mrs. Shawyer, Killarney, Sunburst and Killarney Brilliant. Spencer sweet peas and bulbous stock edged the group. The company's supply department also was well represented by a display of ribbons, pins, baskets, etc.

Lake View Rose Gardens, Jamestown, N. Y., sent an excellent group of pot plants, principally azaleas, hydrangeas and lilies.

The Leo Niessen Co., Philadelphia, was represented by several novelties and specialties, principal of which was Acacia pubescens. The display included white and purple lilac, double centaurea, excellent snapdragon, Irish Fireflame roses and lilies.

In the exhibit of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., were some of the best roses in the show, the principal varieties being Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Sunburst and Richmond.

J. L. Dillon, Bloomsburg, Pa., was represented by an unusually fine vase of Radiance roses.

Florex Gardens, North Wales, Pa., showed two new carnations, Ruth and Pearl, which attracted considerable attention from trade visitors. Their roses were White Killarney and Radiance. A vase of pink snapdragon was among the finest exhibits in the hall.

From Danville, Pa., E. J. Le Duc sent a fine display of carnations.

Anton Schultheis, of College Point, L. I., who is uncle to three Scranton florists, sent excellent plants of two of the newer azaleas and a handsome lilac.

William MacDonald, of Moosic, Pa., a member of the Scranton club, showed a number of standard varieties of carnations, a group of Easter blooming plants and several varieties of ferns in specimen sizes.

There were a number of trade visitors, including Ira G. Marvin and several of his employees, Mr. Baumann, Mr. Powers, A. W. Moore, William George and W. B. Evans, all of Wilkes-Barre; E. J. Le Duc, with several of his friends, and Mr. Bowers, of Danville; Mr. Dillon, of Bloomsburg; Mr. Park, of Jermyn; Mr. Hampton, gardener to C. H. Welles, of Waverly, Pa., and William Ledshan, gardener to M. B. Fuller, of Dalton.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Preparing Land for Asters.

Fall is the time par excellence to manure and deeply plow the land on which asters are to be planted, leaving the ground rough over winter. If, perchance, the land was limed and plowed in the fall, the manuring can be done now. We do not use half enough lime in America. There would be fewer ground pests, such as cutworms, if we used more of it. Lime is a wonderful sweetener of the soil and florists should use more of it. We would then hear less of cutworms, stem-rot, aster yellows and other plant affections. Plow the aster land thoroughly now, where this work was not done in the fall, and harrow it thoroughly. The better pulverized it is, the finer growth the asters will make.

Hardy Herbaceous Plants.

If the hardy herbaceous plants were given a good mulch of well decayed manure in late fall, as suggested, this same manure should be broken up with a rake or fork and left for a summer mulch. Do not attempt to dig or hoe among the perennials at this early date, or you are liable to do considerable damage. All herbaceous perennials can be planted in spring. This does not mean that spring is the best planting season for all, as many do much better if fall-planted, but while a few sorts cannot safely be planted in fall, all can be set out with perfect safety now. In planting new borders or plantations it is well to remember that practically all herbaceous plants enjoy ground which has been liberally manured and deeply plowed or spaded.

Pruning Trees and Shrubs.

Spring is not the proper season for the pruning of deciduous shrubs. There are a few varieties, such as Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora and H. arborescens, which should be cut back quite hard before spring, but the proper time to prune nearly all flowering shrubs is after they have bloomed. At that season any dead, dying or weak wood should be cut out and the plants should be given any heading back that is necessary to make them more shapely. The trouble is that many of us are so busy at that season that pruning is never attended to; as a consequence, a certain amount of topiary shearing is done in winter, while work is less strenuous, but it is well to bear in mind that winter is not the proper time to prune such shrubs as deutzias, philadelphus, lilacs, weigelas, spiræas, loniceras, viburnums, prunus, forsythias and other beautiful flowering shrubs.

Hardy Roses.

Every florist has some demand in spring for hardy roses, and to be prepared for these customers it is an excellent plan to purchase some dormant plants of hybrid teas, hybrid perpetuals or polyanthas and put them in 5-inch or 6-inch pots, standing them in a cold-frame or pit and soaking well with water after potting. Purchase strong field-grown stock for this purpose, budded stock being generally considered more vigorous and winter-hardy than plants on their own roots. This stock from pots can be planted out with safety until the early part of June, which is not possible with heeled-in stock.

Do not try too many varieties. Half a dozen varieties each of hybrid teas, hybrid perpetuals and polyanthas is sufficient. The hybrid teas are less hardy than the other two types, but they are coming more rapidly to the front each year, the reason being that they are continuously in bloom from June to November, while the hybrid perpetuals, with few exceptions, last only two or three weeks. Do not overlook the ramblers. Everyone with a garden wants a plant of some such variety as Hiawatha, Tausendschon, Lady Gay, Dorothy Perkins, Excelsior or some other of this beautiful class of climbers.

Rambler Roses for 1916.

Now is the time to purchase strong field-grown stock of the best selling rambler roses to flower in pots next winter and spring. Those pot-grown through the summer flower the earliest, but such as are planted out and have their canes tied up to insure better matured wood can be potted in the fall and will give splendid results. No matter whether the plants are potted or planted out, the best plan is to cut them down close to the ground. This will cause the plants to send up a number of strong shoots from the base. In some cases it will be better to reduce the number of these, leaving three to five on each. Select only such varieties as are of pleasing colors and known to be good sellers in the market, the best trio undoubtedly being Tausendschon, Dorothy Perkins and Hiawatha.

Sowing Hardy Annuals.

In addition to sweet peas, there are a few annuals which do particularly well if sown as soon as possible after frost has left the ground and it has dried. Important among these to the florist are bachelor's buttons, the double blue being the best seller; mignonette, of which the improved Machet is a fine outdoor variety; candytuft, annual larkspur and lupines. All these are tolerably hardy and can be sown with perfect safety now.

SEASONABLE NOTES.

Phalænopsis.

Phalænopsis have not yet reached the great popularity in the east that they enjoy on the Pacific coast, notably near San Francisco, but more are appearing each year and the time is not far distant when only cattleyas will surpass them in popularity among eastern orchid growers. Coming, as they do, from some of the warmest parts of the world, they need more heat than almost any other orchids and are more readily susceptible to injury from drafts. I have seen good phalænopsis grown in a cattleya house, but far better in an old, stuffy plant house.

They succeed well on blocks and in pans, but better still in deep and somewhat narrow baskets in a compost of fern fiber and sphagnum. The plants, somehow, always seem happier when the sphagnum is growing on the surface of the baskets, but this will need an occasional clipping, for it is not wise to let it grow too strongly. All phalænopsis should be suspended near the roof. No direct sunshine must strike them, or their handsome leaves will soon become discolored. Occasional sponging of the leaves will keep red spider and thrips in check. The best commercial sorts are P. grandiflora, P. amabilis and P. Rimestadtiana, which is a fine form. All these are pure white; P. Schilleriana is a good pink.

Vanda Cœrulea.

Vanda cœrulea is really the only true blue orchid we have and it is one of the best sellers. The dark green plants will disappoint growers, as frequently they will not flower at all, while those of a more yellowish hue will bloom splendidly. To flower this fine vanda well, it must not be coddled. Give it the cool end of the cattleya house and just enough shade through the hot months to prevent the leaves from burning. Keep some fresh sphagnum on the surface of the pots and elevate the plants where the roots may be lying on the bench. It is not possible to keep all the roots of V. cœrulea confined in pots; they are too stout to be bent toward the pots and it is better to allow them to roam about ad libitum.

V. teres, another beautiful variety, is a shy bloomer unless the plants are exposed to the sun all through the summer. Plants kept in the shade will never flower at all. On the other hand, V. suavis, V. Amesiana, V. Sanderiana and V. tricolor all succeed quite well in fairly heavy shade.

Calanthes.

The bulbs of calanthes, which have been kept dry for some time, will now be showing signs of growth and should be started in flats of sharp sand. Some growers like to add a little old cow manure to the sand, but I fail to see any advantage in this, as the bulbs will be potted as soon as the growths are a few inches high. Water after placing in sand, then spray occasionally, but lightly, and let the sand become tolerably dry before watering again. Give the bulbs a position in a warm and well shaded house. If they can have a little bottom heat they will start more quickly, but this is not necessary.

A ROSE-PINK MALACOIDES.

Primula malacoides is proving almost as prolific of new varieties as has been the case with the Killarney rose. The white malacoides was a distinct acquisition, and now comes word from Fred H. Lemon & Co., Richmond, Ind., of a soft rose-pink malacoides. It has been much admired by visitors to Richmond this season, as it is a distinct break from the type, having, in addition to a charming color, much larger and more compact flowers. The specimen photographed was in a 5-inch pot. Mr. Lemon has stated that it is his intention to work up stock and disseminate the variety.

SPIRÆAS NOT STARTING.

I am sending you a Gladstone spiræa and should like to know what is the trouble with it. The plants were badly frozen at the time I received them. After two days I potted them, first soaking them in water for two hours. I then placed them under a bench in a cool house and watered them well for about three weeks. Later I moved them to a warmer house for starting. Some showed a few leaves and then stopped growing, and some have not started at all. I know spiræas need freezing, but I do not think they should be frozen without soil on the roots.

C. B.—Pa.

The clump forwarded was entirely dead. It was a mistake to allow the clumps to be frozen with the roots exposed. Had they been in earth, no harm would have come. This applies to all plants; the freezing of the roots is always harmful when they are exposed.

DISEASED VERBENA LEAVES.

I am enclosing the top of a verbena plant which seems to be diseased. I have used sulphur and To-bak-ine in an attempt to control the disease, but these have had little effect on it. It is spreading slowly, but surely.

E. D. B.—Tex.

The leaves forwarded were attacked by a fungoid growth, not unlike the rust on hollyhocks. To fight this, spray with Bordeaux mixture or Fungine. These are two excellent preparations for fighting fungoid diseases. Sulphur is a good antidote for mildew and To-bak-ine for insects, but neither is of any use in fighting the disease your plants have.

The New Soft Rose-pink Malacoides Primula.

SALVIAS AND FEVERFEW.

Will you please give me a few hints on how to bring feverfew and Bonfire salvias into bloom for Memorial day?

L. S.—Ind.

The feverfew should be planted in benches at once if it is not already there. Give the plants a temperature of 48 to 50 degrees at night. They will flower naturally toward the end of May in that temperature. Give full sunshine and, as the plants fill the benches with roots, give lots of water. As the weather is often quite warm near Memorial day, a little shade may be necessary to keep the flowers fresh. In the event of your crop being a trifle early, it is easy to keep the house cooler by abundant ventilation and shade. If your plants seem at all backward, give 5 degrees more heat a month before Memorial day and gradually cool them off.

Salvias, to flower for Memorial day, should now be ready to be potted off into 2½-inch pots. Later shift them into 3½-inch or 4-inch pots. Give them a temperature of 55 degrees at night for some time. Later, this can be reduced somewhat. They want all possible sunshine. Use a tolerably rich compost, as salvias are strong feeders.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOUTHERN FLORISTS

Carnations.

The last six weeks were so exceptionally bright and sunny, even for the south, that the plants in the houses grew rapidly and developed a great crop of blooms. This, of course, made an increased demand on the soil in the beds. A good, heavy top-dressing of cow manure, chopped fine, or equal parts of manure and good soil, will be of the greatest benefit. Here and there, especially along the edges, the soil may be worn and washed away, exposing some of the roots, and the beds may have lost much of their level shape, making an even distribution of water difficult. A mulch will remedy these defects and provide nourishment for the plants in the best form. More water may be given also, to the extent of a good soaking at least every other day in bright weather. Overhead watering or light syringing is a great help to the plants in retaining their vitality, and should be continued regularly to the end of the season.

A light shading on the glass is also in order now, especially in the more southern sections. In the more northern sections this is not done till after Easter, although the first week in March is none too early to apply it on the colored varieties. An extremely thin shading is all that is required at first; a little more may be added occasionally as the season advances. Old air-slaked lime is the best shade to use, as it is easily removed when no longer wanted.

Give an abundance of ventilation, and do not neglect the usual routine duties of disbudding, weeding and keeping the plants growing straight in their frames. A little extra care on these lines will keep the quality of the cut up to standard. In the south, carnations are staple and good sellers as long as they can be had and it more than pays to give the best of culture to the end of the season.

Roses.

This is the season of the year when mildew is likely to be troublesome if roses are not handled correctly. Unless in exceptional circumstances, mildew is the result of unwise, reckless or insufficient ventilation. It is also largely a constitutional matter, and the proper ventilation of the houses is probably the most important factor in the upbuilding and maintaining of a hardy plant constitution.

There is a wide variation of the night temperature outside in the different sections of the south, ranging from 28 to 60 degrees or even higher, so that no definite rule can be laid down. However, it is always safe in the colder sections not to close the ventilators entirely until one coil of steam pipes will not maintain the regular night temperature. In the warmer sections enough air must be left on all night to insure a free and quick circulation. Make the last reduction just before retiring and err rather on the side of leaving too much air on than too little.

The morning is a time, also, for extreme watchfulness. As soon as the thermometer begins to rise from 2 to 4 degrees, raise the ventilators a little more and keep on raising them with the rise of temperature inside. With ventilators on both sides of the ridge, begin opening the ventilators on the lee side of the house. When these, though opened wide, will not maintain a buoyant atmosphere, free from all sense of suffocation or stuffiness, open those on the weather side. A day temperature of 85 degrees in bright weather at this season is not excessive, provided there is enough ventilation to meet the conditions mentioned. Some growers are mightily afraid to ventilate on the windy side even at this season, but my experience has been that too much caution is worse than too little. There are limits, of course, which common sense will not permit one to overstep.

Where night firing has not been discontinued, one pipe in each house may be painted with a sulphur wash two or three times a week, as a preventive. On cold, cloudy days, a rise of 2 degrees is enough if you have to use steam, and 4 degrees without steam and a little air on. I have often heard the remark in the south that Killarney is a great rose but is too subject to mildew. The fault is with the grower or his houses and not with the rose. L.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

J. J. Soper, Rockford, Ill., had a big Easter stock worked up when the writer called, and there was every indication that everything would be sold.

C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, has taken advantage of a slight lull to look around for what was lacking in the Easter stock, which promised, at the time of my call, to be fully up to the usual standard, with demand equal to supply.

Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwaukee, is strong on roses and is planting heavily with Mrs. Russell and Ophelia. The company specializes along several lines and has built up a large department through the Classified Ad section of The Review. It keeps them guessing how to satisfy all concerned, but they seem to do it.

The Alpha Floral Co., Lansing, Mich., was looking forward to a banner Easter and had some excellent stock in readiness.

J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland, O., has a grand cut of roses and carnations for Easter.

A. Graham & Son, Cleveland, have a splendid lot of the Rambler family in both trained and naturally grown specimens, in perfect condition. They will lead the procession in a big block of blooming stock.

Frank Friedley, of the James Eadie Co., Cleveland, says that as soon as the Easter rush is over and their fine lot of stock disposed of, his firm will get to work on the fall exhibition, which, it is predicted, will be the best show yet held at that season of the year. A splendid lot of La Reine tulips were noted, proving that this popular variety is yet to be had in high grade. W. M.

Springfield, O.—Harry C. Reeser, president of the Reeser Plant Co. since its incorporation, and Mrs. Reeser have moved to Niles, Mich., where, it is said, he will engage in the greenhouse business.

Albert Lea, Minn.—G. A. Clausen has returned home from St. Paul, where he spent three weeks in a not wholly successful effort to drive the rheumatism out of his system in time for him to take his usual active part in the Easter rush.

Lynn, Mass.—James Little Miller, of the firm of Wm. Miller & Sons, surprised his friends March 10 by taking a trip to Somerville and marrying Miss Margaret Jane Paterson, of that town. He and his wife spent their honeymoon at the New York flower show.

Waltham, Mass.—Francis Goodwin, 19 years old, an employee at the store of James T. Silman, has been at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary undergoing treatment to prevent the loss of his eyesight. He complained of severe pains in his eyes after washing his face with tar soap, and it is thought that potash from the soap got into his eyes, perhaps eating into the membranes. The boy is an orphan and has been sleeping in the rear of the store.

Clinton, Ill.—J. U. Johnson, manager of the branch store in this town of the Peterson Floral Co., of Gibson City, was married March 18 to Miss Elizabeth Nelson, of Gibson City, at Champaign. Mr. Johnson was connected with the greenhouses at Gibson City for a number of years and recently assumed the management of the branch here.

Haverhill, Mass.—Morris Yaffe, aged 22, of Yaffe Bros., has disappeared. He is thought to have been suffering from mental trouble. He had $500 in cash when he was last seen. His brother, Hyman, learned he had been on a Lawrence-bound electric car, inquiring about trolley connections for Boston. After an unsuccessful trip to Boston, Hyman Yaffe reported the disappearance to the police.

Lawrence, Mass.—Joseph Leon Wingate was married March 20 to Miss Alice Dean Moors, of Stafford, N. H., at the home of Charles E. Wingate, 8 Fulton street. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Washington, D. C., on a ten days' trip. After April 1 they will be at home at 8 Fulton street. Mr. Wingate is a student at the Wentworth Institute of Electrical Engineering, Boston, from which he will graduate in June.

AMMANN AFTER MAYORALTY.

J. F. Ammann, of Edwardsville, Ill., has announced that he will be a candidate for mayor on the People's ticket at the election, April 20. His entry makes a four-cornered race.

Mr. Ammann is a bank director and member of the board of education, and formerly was an alderman. He has held many executive positions in trade organizations: He was president of the St. Louis Florists' Club at one time; was elected president of the Illinois State Florists' Association in 1906, and has served as secretary for several terms, still holding the office; and last January was elected vice-president of the American Carnation Society.

FIRE AT DULUTH.

How complete was the destruction by fire at the store of Louis Visias, at Duluth, Minn., may be seen from the accompanying illustration. This shows mainly the greenhouses at the rear of the store. The origin of the fire is a mystery and is being investigated by the state fire marshal. The firm carried $13,000 insurance on stock and fixtures. The schedule totaled $16,062.48, but, as the stock was completely consumed, it would have been difficult to prove the loss of some items, and so the firm settled with the Western Adjustment Co. for $11,042. There was some salvage, the icebox, desk, safe, etc., and some loss on signs, awnings, and other things outside the building, which were not covered by insurance.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

There promises to be an exceptionally heavy supply of Easter lilies this year, although it is thought that desirable stock will maintain the present price of $12 per hundred. It is expected that there will be but just enough roses to go around, for a number of consignors to this market report that their stock will not come into full crop until after Easter week. Locally grown single violets will also be among the missing. Orchids, too, will be scarce.

American Beauty roses from the east are good and are moving fairly well, bringing $4 per dozen. Giant marguerites, approximating the Shasta daisy in size, meet with good sale at $2.50 per hundred. There is a better demand for pansies, and some extra fine flowers are being offered at $1 per hundred. The marketmen practically control the sale of tulips, jonquils and narcissi. There has been an oversupply of sweet peas, and it is hard to get $1 per hundred for choice Spencers. Snapdragons are fairly plentiful and in good demand at from $6 to $10 per hundred.

There was a noticeable lull in the market last week, as is always the case just before Easter, but a marked improvement is expected.

Various Notes.

George C. Shaffer, William Marche, George H. Cooke and Z. D. Blackistone have been named by W. F. Gude, who has in charge the arrangements for the coming encampment of the G. A. R., as members of the citizens' committee of 100.

Among the visitors in Washington last week were William Craig, of the Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia; Harry W. Rubel, of Chicago; E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., and Sydney Bayersdorfer, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

Clarence Shaffer, the young son of George C. Shaffer, has quite recovered from scarlet fever, which caused his confinement at home for more than five weeks.

George H. Cooke spent the early part of last week at Atlantic City, N. J., with a view to securing a few days' rest before going to Philadelphia to purchase stock and, on returning to this city, entering the Easter rush.

William Marche spent a number of days in Philadelphia, purchasing potted plants and supplies for the Easter trade.

Gude Bros. Co. last week placed the first of three large window displays boosting telegraph delivery service, in the Lansburgh furniture store, on Ninth street, and so much attention did it attract that it was necessary to station a special policeman there to keep the crowds from blocking the thoroughfare. The telegraph company installed miniature telegraph poles at either end of the window, between which were stretched twenty-four copper wires. At the side of these are tables, one representing an eastern office, the other a western office, on which are regulation telegraph sending and receiving instruments, with dolls at the tables representing telegraph operators. On the poles and stretching in a line across the thirty-foot window are the shipping tags and labels of florists from all parts of the United States and Canada, showing the membership of the F. T. D., and in the center is a framed poster of the "Send Her a Flowergram" type. The base of the window is covered with moss, representing the right of way of the telegraph company. Baskets and bouquets of flowers complete the decoration. A second display of this kind is being installed in one of the large windows of the Young Men's Shop, on F street, while the third will be in a store on Pennsylvania avenue near the Raleigh hotel. Gude Bros. Co. has also secured stores at Twelfth and F streets and Thirteenth and F streets, northwest, for the Easter rush.

WORCESTER, MASS.

The Market.

Retail trade is still good, and almost everything is plentiful. Tulips, hyacinths, narcissi and other bulbous stock are abundant and have a good market. Spring flowers of all kinds, in pots, are in demand. Violets are beginning to drop off. First-class roses are becoming more numerous. All the florists are preparing for a large Easter trade. There are a number of large weddings in sight for Easter week.

Various Notes.

Oscar Soderholm, foreman for H. F. Littlefield, has a fine batch of 5,000 lilies for Easter. His 17,000 geraniums for Memorial day are looking well. He has made the experiment of grafting a tomato plant on a potato plant, and it is doing well.

H. F. A. Lange has an enormous stock of azaleas, acacias, genistas and bulbous stock for Easter. His 30,000 Easter lilies are exceptionally good; Mr. Lange believes they are the best he has ever had. His Pride of Haarlem tulips are excellent; they have stems of thirty-six inches. He has an Easter batch of nearly 500 pots. Mr. Lange had the decoration for the banquet of the Swedish Republican Club, at the Hotel Bancroft last week, at which there were 500 plates. The decorations were carried out in red and white, with American and Swedish flags.

Harry Randall is making big preparations for Easter. He says he will wrap every plant, even if he has to work all night long during the entire Easter week.

Among the Worcester florists who visited the Boston flower show were Mr. and Mrs. John Coulson, A. H.

Lange, H. F. A. Lange, Harry Randall and Henry Midgley.

Madaus, the Florist, features violets in small bunches and reports trade satisfactory.

Visitors last week were: S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia; Roman J. Irwin, of New York; J. J. Karins, of H. A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia. H. L.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Business last week was flat up to March 26, but then it picked up wonderfully. There was an abundance of stock, though prices were only fair. White roses and carnations for Palm Sunday were the only items in special demand. There is a plentiful supply of bulbous stock, which is selling fairly well. Peas were in demand, with a good supply. The wholesale stores were able to clean up March 27 at reasonable prices. Quite a bit of the stock accumulations of the earlier part of the week was disposed of to the street venders. Southern jonquils can be seen everywhere in the downtown section of the city and are being sold as low as two dozen for 5 cents, but the public, generally, has learned that they are worth little more than the price asked and do not buy as readily as when they were first offered on the market.

Various Notes.

James Hamilton opened his new store March 25. Though all the contemplated improvements have not been finished, the interior is quite attractive. An excellent line of cut flowers and plants was seen on the opening day. Some fine specimen plants of Pink Pearl rhododendron attracted quite a bit of attention.

August and Mrs. Tischinger are receiving congratulations on the birth of a fine son, who arrived March 24.

J. G. Harrison & Sons, whose nursery is at Berlin, Md., have opened a city salesroom at 419 North Howard street, where there is on display a large variety of evergreens and other nursery stock.

A number of florists are finding the motor car a necessary factor in the business. Halliday Bros. have recently put on the street a new delivery car with enclosed panel body finished in Brewster green. L. H. A. Klein has received his new truck, using it for the first time March 27. Edward Kress has purchased a truck and is having a special panel body built, which will be finished just after Easter and in time for the spring planting season.

T. F. Wilcox has opened a store at 348 North Calvert street and will do business under the name of the University Floral Co.

Wm. Terry has reëngaged in business, having opened a store at 1409 West Baltimore street last week.

Miss A. Muth, who purchased the interest of William Terry in the store at 1137 West Baltimore street, has changed the firm name to Eschenback & Muth and will move April 1 to 1119 West Baltimore street, a few doors east of the present location.

Fred Reitz, who left the city a few years ago and went to California, has returned and will start in business again at his former place in Franklintown.

F. C. Bauer, who has been ill for some time, is able to get around the greenhouses again, though not entirely well.

John Eberhart has divided part of his land into building lots at Franklintown and, as an inducement to prospective purchasers, he offers to erect a greenhouse on each lot and show the purchaser how to grow flowers. Moreover, he will purchase all flowers so grown. W. F. E.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Florists have had a busy time during the last week, and there is every prospect of a good Easter trade. Consignments have not been so heavy during the last few days; there has been an extreme shortage of carnations and a slight shortage of roses. The quality of both carnations and roses is excellent. Valley, for some unknown reason, hangs terribly, and much goes to waste. Easter and calla lilies are abundant, and sell well. Violets move more easily than in recent weeks. Daffodils and jonquils are plentiful and sell rapidly; there is some exceptionally fine stock on the market. Orange blossoms do not sell at all well. Sweet peas of all shades meet with a ready demand. Marguerites and pansies sell well and are much used for basket work. Snapdragons in all shades sell fairly well. There is a fair demand for orchids. The market is full of potted plants, and the supply for the Easter rush is considered large enough to meet what we hope will be a record business holiday.

Various Notes.

Visitors last week included J. W. Kellogg, of Clifton Springs, N. Y.; Morris Cohen, of Wertheimer Bros., New York, and T. T. Fryer, of the Tajami Co., New York.

I regret to record the death of Carl Desens, at the age of 48 years, which took place Monday, March 22, after a lingering illness of about two years' duration. He had previously been employed at the greenhouses of H. E. Wilson for a number of years.

The Hoard-Plumb wedding flowers were supplied by J. B. Keller Sons. The bride's bouquet was of white lilac and orchids with a valley shower, and the maids' bouquets were of Ward roses and dark brown pansies tied with Ward color ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Keller will leave Rochester about April 10 for a month's trip to California. They expect to visit Los Angeles, San Diego and other places of interest.

The Aster Candy Store, after undergoing alterations, has added a window, which is well stocked with flowers.

George B. Hart has added to his wholesale store a balcony 10x71, which is well stocked with all kinds of fancy baskets.

F. R. Bohnke has a good showing of Easter plants and bulbous stock. He has opened a store on State street for the Easter rush.

The campaign for beautifying Rochester was given great impetus in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Friday, March 26. The campaign in general seems to be approved by the public, and various captains and team members have already reported. Should this new feature be accepted, it should bring big results to our growers, and Rochester, the Flower City, should bloom still more freely.

William J. Keller has returned from New York. While there he visited the flower show. H. J. H.

Hillsboro, Tex.—Miss M. C. Wood has leased the store on the east side of the square next door to the Star Confectionery and opened a shop there, through which to dispose of the stock from her greenhouses on Milford road.

Mr. Schroeder was born in Germany, March 2, 1843, and came here with his mother in the early 60's to join an older brother, Christian. He was of a large family of children, three brothers of whom survive, one at Manitowoc and two in Iowa. Mr. Schroeder is also survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter.

Mrs. Martha Berning.

Mrs. Martha Berning, wife of Henry Berning, the well known wholesale florist of St. Louis, died March 28 at her home, 4211 Westminster place, after an illness of three years. She was born in Hanover, Germany, thirty-eight years ago. She was a member of the Ladies' S. A. F. and the Lady Florists' Home Circle. Besides her husband, she leaves a brother and sister, Otto and Emma Bruenig. Many expressions of sympathy were heard. The funeral took place March 30 and interment was in the new St. Marcus cemetery. J. J. B.

Edwin D. James.

Edwin D. James, aged 93, died March 23, at the home of his son, Walter James, 7209 Mount Vernon street, Pittsburgh. He had been ill for one week, death being due to pneumonia.

Mr. James was born in England, and moved from there to Canada. He fought there during the Fenian raid in Ontario, in 1866. He had been a resident of Pittsburgh for thirty years, and was engaged in the florists' business, having conducted an establishment in the Squirrel Hill district about ten years. Despite his great age, he had been quite active until a short time before his demise. He was a member of the Brushton M. E. church, and attended the service two weeks before his death. Mr. James had fifteen children, ten of whom survive. Twenty-two grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren also survive.

C. W. Moore.

C. W. Moore, of Clinton, Ill., died at his home March 22, aged 59 years. He was born at Lancaster, Pa. He married, in 1885, Miss Jennie Kollough, of Philadelphia, and then removed to Clinton, Ill., engaging in the florists' business and continuing in it until a month before his death. His wife, two daughters, four brothers and one sister survive. The brothers are Amos, Ellis, John and William Moore, all of Philadelphia. He was a member of the Universalist church, the Modern Woodmen of America and the Eagles.

Mrs. Mina Ditzenberger.

Mrs. Mina Henrietta Thorer Ditzenberger, wife of William Ditzenberger, of the firm of Ditzenberger Bros., Brooklyn, N. Y., which was dissolved several years ago when the property was sold to a real estate syndicate, died at the age of 67, March 26. Her husband, now retired, survives her, as do two sons, Philip, who is foreman for H. E. Froment, New York, and one now in the employ of Woodrow & Marketos, New York. The funeral was held at the residence, 550 Fifty-seventh street, Brooklyn, March 29, with services following at the German Lutheran St. Paul's church. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery.

Nathan G. Abbott.

Nathan G. Abbott, of Salem, N. H., died March 18, at the age of 74. From 1884 to 1899 he was undertaker and superintendent of Pine Grove cemetery. Afterwards he engaged in business as a market gardener and florist.

Mr. Abbott was born at Concord, N. H., June 20, 1840. He moved to Salem in 1858 and followed the shoemakers' trade until 1891, with the exception of five years, when he kept a general store. He married Miss Martha Ellen Ayer in 1864. He is survived by a son, Town Clerk Daniel A. Abbott; a brother, H. Edward Abbott, of Concord, and two sisters, Mrs. Susan A. Cluff, of Salem, and Mrs. Amanda A. Farnum, of Danbury. Mr. Abbott was a member of the First M. E. church and of Salem grange, and past master of Spicket lodge, A. F. & A. M. The funeral was held at his residence March 21. Interment was in the family lot in Pine Grove cemetery.

Howard E. Merrill.

Howard E. Merrill, head of the H. E. Merrill Nursery Co., of Geneva, N. Y., died at the sanatorium at Canandaigua after a lingering illness, at the age of 52. A son of the late Andrew Merrill, he was born in Geneva and lived there until the last few years. He was valedictorian of his class, graduating from Hobart College in 1883, and received Phi Beta Kappa honors.

William Granger.

Old Kew men, of whom there are many in the United States, will learn with the deepest regret that William Granger, who was in service at the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, England, for nearly forty-three years, died at Kew March 12, aged 86 years. After serving for eight years in the royal navy, he entered Kew as a laborer. In course of time he filled various offices, including those of office-keeper and curators' clerk, until, in 1866, he was appointed keeper of the stores, a position he held until his retirement in 1893. Of the many gardeners who passed through Kew during the time Mr. Granger was timekeeper there is not one but will cherish his memory, for his geniality and kindness made him extremely popular.

ALVIN, TEX.

The winter of 1914-1915 seems to be a matter of history here, as all indications point to the arrival of spring, and we are indeed glad to see it. Strawberries are beginning to move freely. Cape jasmine growers are feeling jubilant over the prospect of an early arrival of the crop. At this date, March 17, the crop is at least two weeks in advance of what it was last year on this date. W. L. Heller, manager of the Alvin Cape Jessamine Floral Co., reports that there are several hundred thousand buds set and developing nicely on that firm's large farm. The long rains of last fall and winter have developed a wonderful growth, and the quality of the stock this season is to be above the average. The company's additional 3,000 young trees are in the pink of condition and will probably be ready to cut several days in advance of the balance of the orchard. Mr. Heller says: "Our little plant and bulb ads in The Review have been hustling for us and making us hustle to keep up with the orders. Orders have come all the way from West Haven, Conn., and Santa Monica, Cal. We cleaned up in all lines, thanks to The Review."

Meadville, Pa.—Geo. W. Haas & Son report their sales for 1914 nearly $1,000 ahead of any previous year in their forty years in business, and 1915 is so far ahead of last year. Their recipe for success is: Grow plants just a little better than the others, send out nothing but quality plants and flowers, pay bills promptly, and take advantage of discounts. Sunday closing has not been at all detrimental to their business

The Review brings results.

WHY is it that, when the average florist finds another owing him more money than he should, he is afraid to refuse further credit?

IT develops that azaleas are not among the short items for Easter, in spite of the difficulties the Belgian growers had in getting their shipments out.

THIS is All Fools' day and tomorrow will be Good Friday, almost the end of Lent, with the busiest season of the whole year close at hand. It looks like a big spring.

AN early Easter is an advantage to the man who must prepare his largest crop for bedding out before Memorial day—but next year Easter comes April 23, three weeks later than in 1915.

TIMES have changed—are changing—and it will take always closer application, more conservative management and harder work to make the business go in this trade. But it always will be a good business for those who work it right.

IF one gets a certain slant it may appear that Lent no longer is a season of dull business for florists—quite the contrary, it is a busy season, as the quantity of stock marketed is much greater than in the pre-Lenten period and fully accounts for the fall in prices.

WHEN the theater proves short of dressing-rooms the actors who are compelled to don their makeup as best they may are said to dress "at large." Next Saturday night the dressing of plants and filling of orders will be done at large in the majority of flower stores.

BETTER AND BETTER.

Of course The Review is looking up; the paper has made more progress in the last seven months, since it adopted the magazine style, than in any equal length of time in its seventeen years of life. And, quite naturally, the advertisers are getting the benefit. Like this:

In sending my check I can say I never had an ad that brought me so much money as this one has done.—Henry I. Faust, Merion, Pa., March 24, 1915.

Advertisers in the eastern trade centers rapidly are awakening to the special value of The Review for their use.

WE DON'T KNOW IT. DO YOU?

A subscriber writes: "A customer asks me what is Mexican Pink, recommended as 'fine for window or porch boxes, and smiling under the fiercest sun.' Information as to the identity of the plant and its botanical name I should appreciate most heartily."

WHAT IS THE OUTLOOK?

No one will question that the florists of the United States will prosper at least as well as the general public. Consequently, the trade is interested in the general business situation.

A large brokerage concern with connections all over the United States recently consulted a large number of men in many different lines of business. To these men they put seven questions, the answers to which would make clear actual conditions throughout the United States and forecast, so far as is humanly possible at the present moment, the outlook for the future.

The questions and the answers were as follows:

1. Have the jobbers and distributors in your section large or small stocks of goods at present?
Fifty-five answered large. Six hundred forty-six answered small.
2. Are those who are able to save investing their savings or allowing them to accumulate in the banks?
Two hundred sixty answered investing. Four hundred forty-one answered not investing.
3. Is the unemployment of labor in your section unusually large for the season?
One hundred twenty-nine answered unusually small. One hundred thirty-seven answered about as usual. Four hundred thirty-five answered unusually large.
4. Do the higher freight rates which the railroads are now permitted impose an appreciable burden on domestic trade?
Six hundred eighty answered that the increased cost of freight is not appreciable. Twenty answered the increased cost of freight has checked business.
5. We have heard it said that "while money is cheap, credit is subnormal." Is this true of your section or can the average borrower obtain the money he requires with the usual facility?
Three hundred ninety-three answered credit is closely scrutinized. Three hundred seventeen answered facilities about as usual. Fifty-eight answered accommodation unusually abundant.
6. Are people generally disposed to economize and if so is this economy caused by reduced earning power or increased thriftiness and sobriety of thought and living? (If it be true that "economy is wealth," this is the most important of all the questions submitted.)
Four hundred fifty-eight answered economy general from necessity. One hundred eighty-four answered economy general from choice. One hundred four answered no unusual economy noticeable.
7. What, in your opinion, is the outlook for American business during the year 1915?
One hundred sixty answered discouraging. One hundred twenty-one answered normal. Four hundred twenty answered encouraging.

From the answers it is plain that jobbers and distributors generally have small stocks of goods on hand and need supplies; that of such persons as are able to save, the majority are not investing; that unemployment is unusually large; that the five per cent increase in railroad rates has not affected business adversely; that the supply of money is normal, but credit is closely scrutinized; that economy is becoming general both from choice and necessity, and that the general outlook is encouraging.

LILIES PLANTED OUT.

It develops that quite a few growers planted more or less of their Easter lilies in benches this season, instead of potting the bulbs. There are a great many short lilies, as usual, this year, but the most uneven lots not unnaturally are the lilies planted out in the benches. Growers offer various reasons for benching their bulbs, but the results seem to indicate that none of them is a good reason and that a grower should not buy more bulbs than he is able to handle by the approved methods of culture. If there were fewer lilies grown it would be no disaster, especially if the reduction came out of the considerable proportion of the stock that can be sold by no one but a department store.

NORTH OR SOUTH, IT'S THE SAME.

The Review does its work impartially for advertisers east or west, north or south. It isn't where a paper is printed, but where it is read that counts—and The Review is "black on white and read all over," as the old conundrum puts it. Like this:

We used The Review exclusively and had good results; the stock is cleaned up.—The Avenue Floral Co., New Orleans, March 16, 1915.

We are sold out; the ads in The Review worked fine.—J. A. Farnworth & Son, Galion, O., March 17, 1915.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

At the opening of the present week the market was hesitating. Last week business was rather quiet, as not unusually is the case as Easter is approaching. There was less than the normal supply of stock, but enough in practically all lines so that prices would have sagged had it not been for the approach of the big flower day. The early orders did not quite come up to expectations. Some houses are able to report advance orders ahead of other years, but with the majority this is not the case. Many houses have booked as many out-of-town orders as in other seasons, but quite a few of them report the orders are not so large as they would like them to be. The city buyers have not booked the usual orders for cut flowers; they have been buying plants, counting on there being enough cut stock so that they can get all they need the last day of the week.

As the week progressed orders have been coming in steadily and there is a big business in sight, principally for shipments to go out April 1 and April 2. The general impression is that there will be enough stock in all lines except, possibly, carnations, but there is no specially large supply in any line this year. Lilies, of course, are abundant, but certainly not more so than in other years. Carnations are in much lighter crop than usually is the case at Easter. Cattleyas are scarce. Violets have been on the short side for several days and probably the end of the week will see no unusual quantities in the market. Bulbous stock is no more than ordinarily plentiful. Consequently, some of the wholesalers feel that the market is sure to stiffen as the Easter business develops, but the local buyers feel confident they can get on Saturday any stock their Easter orders call for.

The weather, bright but decidedly cool for the season, while it has retarded production has put quality into the cut flowers—stock never was finer for Easter; it should give excellent satisfaction.

It is noted the early orders did not call for Mrs. Russell rose in the quantity expected. There are large and fine supplies, but apparently the retailers are afraid of the price.

The retail stores through the city have stocked up heavily on pot plants and the growers who ship plants have been doing a record business. Lilies far outnumber all other plants. There are all kinds, from good to bad. The short stock sells much better in pots than cut and the growers have been making special effort to work off this grade, which seems unusually numerous this year. Outside of lilies the usual variety of plants is seen, but there appear to be no unwieldy quantities. The growers report the trade is calling for the less expensive sizes, particularly in azaleas. Bulbous stock in pans is selling well.

Retailers Establish Headquarters.

H. H. Wilkerson, secretary of the Retail Florists' Association and manager of the new coöperative buying company, states that an office will be opened April 5 at room 510 in the Fairbanks building, the second floor of which is occupied by Percy Jones, Sinner Bros., M. C. Gunterberg and other florists. There will be a meeting, April 5, at the office, both of members of the association and members of the cooperative buying section.

At a recent meeting the following directors were elected for the coöperative buying section: George Stollery, H. R. Hughes, George Walther, A. Vanderpoel and Louis Wittbold. The purpose is stated to be to get in touch with all the local sources of supply with the object of getting the price advantage of purchases of plants and requisites in quantity. Later a credit bureau may be established to guard the members against non-paying patrons. Although a separate corporation has been organized for the coöperative buying department, the work of the association and the company will be carried on together.

Club Merger Seems Assured.

Much to the general satisfaction, the two local clubs will be merged into one April 8. The meeting of the Cook County Florists' Association at the Tavern, March 25, to hear the report of the committee on amalgamation was a lively one in every respect, but good nature prevailed. The committee, consisting of John Zech, W. H. Amling, P. M. Broadbeck, A. Henderson and N. P. Miller, reported an acceptance on the part of the Chicago Florists' Club of the proposition submitted by the association, to the effect that the members in good standing of the association, with dues paid to January 1, be taken into the club in a body, the proposition being amended, however, to the extent that the money in the association's treasury, with the exception of $75, be used to defray the expense of a banquet for the members of both organizations in celebration of the union, instead of being turned over in a lump to the club's treasury. The $75 excepted is to be accepted by the club in payment of dues of incoming association members up to August 1. No date was fixed for the banquet, as the matter will require joint action. All present were pleased with the action of the committee and are looking forward to strong team work in the future as the result of the unanimity of action promised by the amalgamation.

The committee representing the Chicago Florists' Club in the matter was W. J. Keimel, James Morton and J. P. Degnan.

The feature of the Florists' Club's meeting April 8 will be the final act in the amalgamation of the two organizations of florists. The Cook County Florists' Association will be formally dissolved and its present members in good standing will join the Chicago Florists' Club in a body. After the business of the evening has been transacted, the members will be entertained with a lecture on the various routes to and from the California expositions, illustrated by stereopticon views. Chairman Fink, of the good of the club committee, says lunch will be served, all members of the trade are invited and a large attendance is expected.

A Slip of the Pen.

A picture of a lily attracted the eye to the following advertisement in a recent issue of the Tribune:

25,000 lily plants in pots, clean foliage, fine stocky plants, height from 18 inches to 36, $8, $10 and $12.50 per hundred blooms. Plants averaging 3 to 6 flowers to pot. 30,000 cut lilies, the finest lilies in Chicago, long stems, $9 per hundred blooms. Will be packed at the greenhouse. Krowka Bros., lily growers, 5038 Lincoln Ave.

When investigated by retailers who had placed orders for lilies, the explanation was that it was intended to reach florists, but it is reported the largest order for Krowka lilies was canceled as a result of the advertisement having appeared outside a trade paper.

The Peony Season.

H. B. Kennicott is studying the peony prospects with much care, believing that average crops will mean that far more peonies than ever before will be marketed in May by Kennicott Bros. Co. R. L. Spaulding, of Spaulding & Son, Villa Ridge, was in town recently and reported everything coming on splendidly, with bulbous stock in the field nearly ready to cut, but shipments have been delayed by the cold weather. Ransom Kennicott, who spends his winters at Des Plaines, last week received word that there was frost almost every night on the farm at Carbondale, but that the peonies are not far enough out of the ground to have sustained any damage. Weather conditions thus far are thought to be favorable for the southern shippers.

Various Notes.

Quite a few growers, figuring that roses now pay best, are preparing to drop carnations at the end of the season, but at Niles Center the Blameuser Floral Co., with 30,000 feet of glass in roses, is planning to throw them out and give all the space to carnations next season. The concern is owned by Edward H. and Emil C. Blameuser, who each has a separate range of his own, and by their sister, Mrs. May Brod.

A. C. Zvolanek, the sweet pea man, is expected in Chicago the latter part of the week, on his way home to California from the New York flower show.

It is reported the agents for the new Lemoyne block, in which the E. C. Amling Co. and the A. L. Randall Co. have just established permanent headquarters, are negotiating with several wholesale florists, principally in the Atlas block, with a view to getting them into the basement of the new building.

C. W. McKellar and wife returned March 28 from their trip to the Pacific coast. They were gone just four weeks and visited the two expositions. Mr. McKellar says they both are better than people here realize. At Los Angeles they met three former Chicago florists, Leonard Kill, Fred Sperry and Fred Hills, each of whom seemed well content with life in the sunshine of southern California.

C. S. Stewart, who has been in business on North avenue for a year and a half, wants to sell his store so that he can engage in something else.

Erne & Klingel last week bought the fixtures and supplies in the store of the J. B. Deamud Co., which went out of business some weeks ago. The ice-boxes were sold to F. W. Dunteman, Bensenville, Ill., to be used for cooling his cut before shipment.

Charles Zapfe has removed to 421 East Sixty-first street, where he has much larger store space. Mr. and Mrs. Zapfe have established their residence nearby, in an apartment at Sixty-second street and Vincennes avenue.

N. J. Wietor reports an especially good demand for young plants of Sunburst rose. Among numerous good mail orders was one for 20,000, as a result of a classified ad.

The shipments leaving the establishment of Poehlmann Bros Co., in the last few days, have been the largest in the history of the concern, the orders for blooming plants running considerably ahead of last year. For the city business, six freight carloads of lily plants were sent in by rail, in addition to the quantities hauled by the company's motor trucks.

Winterson's Seed Store this season has an alliance with a nursery that fills all its orders and has found it possible to largely increase its sales of nursery stock by virtue of the arrangement.

Arizona early in March merely for a trip, but sent word he had decided to remain. His family will follow soon. The Weber range now is in charge of Arthur Weber.

Although there seem to be all the lilies that are likely to be needed this week, large quantities are known to be too late for Easter. At least three large growers, whose Christmas plants prevented an early start, have thousands of pots of lilies that will come on the market after Easter. The prospect of profitable prices during the greater part of April is extremely discouraging

A. Zech, of Zech & Mann, spent Sunday with W. H. Amling at Maywood. He reports that Mr. Amling is using this season sweet pea seed saved on the place last spring, with a visible improvement in the strain.

The U. S. general appraisers held court last week in the Federal building, one of the cases pertaining to the meaning of the word "tulips" as it appears in the tariff law. Certain importing interests are trying to prove it refers to cut blooms instead of to bulbs, which would have the effect of cutting in half the duty on bulbs. John Degnan and August Jurgens were among those called to testify.

According to Felix Reichling, Peter Reinberg's Easter carnation orders March 29 totaled higher than last year's entire Easter shipments of carnations.

Albert W. Larson, who has been with Poehlmann Bros. Co. three years, went to St. Paul this week to take charge of the greenhouses of Holm & Olson.

Mrs. Edith Horton, of Bassett & Washburn, returned March 29 from her trip to the California expositions. She visited O. P. Bassett and enjoyed some automobile rides in Pasadena and vicinity with that genial old florist. Mrs. Horton declares she has fallen in love with the Golden West.

greenhouses, has reduced his growing space for carnations six houses, and will utilize this space for roses.

A business trip to Detroit for the after-Easter days is being planned by Paul Klingsporn.

Joseph Ziska is looking forward to the warm, balmy days of spring, when he can again get into the open and delve in his garden. Fortunately for him, he doesn't need to worry about the business, as his two sons are amply able to take care of that without a thought from him.

That Fred Schramm, Park Ridge, Ill., a member of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, is a master in the art of growing calla lilies is evidenced by the grade of stock he is sending to the Chicago market.

H. A. Muir, an old-timer in the trade, has been engaged to assist Harry C. Rowe.

The Paris Flower Shop, 11 East Jackson boulevard, Peter Duris, proprietor, will move to 17 East Jackson boulevard after Easter. Mr. Duris has recently doubled the space of his Detroit store, the Central Floral Co.

The entrance to the basement at 112 South Wabash avenue, where Nicholas Speropulos has conducted the Wabash Flower Market for many years, has been closed by a new cement walk. A hundred feet north, however, Mr. Speropulos' new stand is flourishing.

Rothschild's department store advertised a sale of lilies March 26 at 15 cents per pot! It was, of course, pretty short stock, so far along it could not be held for Easter, and there were a good many cripples, so that if, as is reported, the grower got 12½ cents per pot it was as much as any florist would have paid, and perhaps more, but the resale at cost by the department store was not relished by anyone in the trade.

A patent has been issued to A. L. Poessel for a new and improved liner for flower boxes. It consists of corrugated lengths of pecky cypress, which, it is claimed, will aid in the aeration of the soil and prevent sourness. The material is being manufactured by the Ickes-Braun Mill Co.

The new power plant of the A. Dietsch Co. is now working and its efficiency demonstrated. An item of expense in the operation of the mill has been cut down considerably by using waste and sawdust for fuel, which is fed under the boilers by means of a cyclone system of dust collection.

The Market.

Business in the wholesale market last week was especially good, with plenty of stock and a strong demand. The retailers are not buying so sparingly. Funeral work has been the best for weeks and seems to have been distributed about evenly among the different stores. The retail places have already received some orders for Easter. This Easter is expected to bring more trade than any previous one; at any rate, more stock has been ordered than ever before. Business during Lent has been the best on record for that time. Palm Sunday made a heavy run on palms.

There are plenty of fine tulips, Easter lilies, daffodils, hyacinths and other bulbous stock for Easter. Pot plants of all kinds will be plentiful. Carnations are abundant and of better quality than has been seen in this market for some time. The prices are ranging near the $2 mark. Enchantress is the favorite. In roses a fine crop is expected for Easter. Sweet peas are also of excellent quality and plentiful.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The amount of business transacted during the last week of March was fully as great as that of any other week during Lent save only the week of St. Valentine's; some say it was greater, but the number of flowers was so large that the market lacked life. Prices were low, flowers were left over, conditions were unsatisfactory. Carnations continue the strong flowers on the list; they sell well at good prices and seem likely to do so until after Easter. Roses have weakened with each succeeding day. The receipts are heavy and the lower grades bring less than carnations, an unusual condition at this season. Violets improved just a little. The singles are disappearing. The light doubles sell better than the dark doubles, which are not appreciated as they should be in this market; in fact, the price of Marie Louise has been scandalously low throughout the season. Sweet peas have been in pretty good demand, but owing to their number, the buyers bear the prices unmercifully at times. The average price on sweet peas, as on violets, is lower than usual during March, although the really high grade stock brings fair money. This fancy stock is, of course, of the orchid-flowering type, finer than ever seen here before. Daffodils are selling a little better than a week ago. Emperor leads. There is dullness in Easter lilies; callas fare better. Smilax is in heavy demand and some fine stock is offered. Ferns and asparagus are selling well.

Three Trips.

A friend suggested that it is a good thing to get your nose off the grindstone and go about a little. He kindly offered to go, too, and you know friends generally don't offer to take it themselves when they give advice. So three trips were arranged, for three afternoons in March.

The first of these visits was paid to William A. Leonard. I have always admired William A. Leonard, but that doesn't in the least prevent our having scraps when we meet. For instance, Mr. Leonard assures me that he planted a house with three entirely different kinds of soil. Part of the house was filled with the best soil he could obtain, part with inferior soil, and part with soil dug from his stokehole. After the plants had been growing some months he asked me to point out the different kinds of soil in that house. I couldn't do it. He said he couldn't either. Now, I know that if I indulged in any such tomfoolery on my place I would "bust." Mr. Leonard shows no signs of busting; his plants look well. Then, again, William A. Leonard is growing a variety of rose that is particularly subject to mildew. Everybody who grows that rose tells you it is a good rose, only look out for the mildew. Some of our crack growers have confessed to me that they could not grow this rose because it mildewed so readily. Now, Mr. Leonard has this rose in all sorts of places, under the ventilators, near the doors, and wherenot. It has no mildew. He drops the temperature suddenly, but he gets no mildew. I know that if I did that I would bust. So you see that while I admire William A. Leonard I do not attempt to follow him and am quite satisfied that there are a good many people who could not successfully do so either.

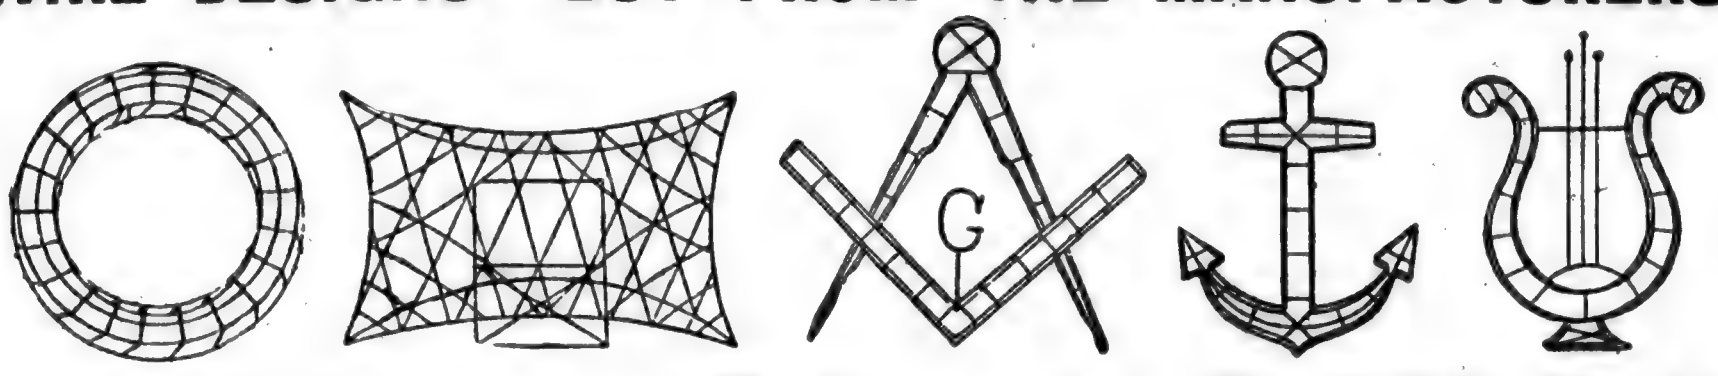
The place looked remarkably well. A heavy crop had just been harvested. The visit was a pleasant one. The only gingery feature was Mr. Leonard's naive introduction to his foreman, Mr. Bradley: "Here is the man who gives us ballyhoo in the paper."

I'll tell you about the other visits next week, if space permits.

Various Notes.

Edward Reid sums up the Easter prospects as follows: "Carnations are not likely to be overplentiful, with prices a little higher. Roses will be on crop and good, at moderate prices. There will be enough violets, but sweet peas are taking their place. Lilies are likely to be in oversupply." This seems a fair prophecy.



B. Eschner, president of the M. Rice Co., says the Easter business in florists' supplies has exceeded that of last year, despite unfavorable conditions abroad.

A little bird calls attention to the absence of comment on St. Patrick's day in flowers. It should be said that white carnations advanced to $5 per hundred then. Alma Ward brought $4 to $4.50, because this variety is not a pure white now. The purer the white the better it dyes. While Enchantress and Alma Ward will dye green, they will not dye so good a shade as the pure whites. Practically no other flowers are used for this purpose.

August Mueller has sold all his azaleas and lilies for Easter.

The condition of the lily market March 31 may be understood by stating that the wholesale houses and the leading growers are offering lilies at $10 per hundred. A few fine ones will bring $12.50, but many short ones will bring $8. The 10-cent stores all have lilies to retail, which is significant. While a department store offers to deliver lilies at 9 cents per flower, should these not seem good enough for the prospective customer, better lilies at 15 cents are shown. The retail stores are asking 15 cents and 20 cents, a few 25 cents.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co. announce that they have received, through the efforts of F. H. Harjes, Memorial day supplies in unexpectedly large numbers on the steamer Samueldyke, which docked this week, a great achievement.

Macaw Bros. have done well with their Scottii ferns, their gardenias and their asparagus.

The Floracroft Greenhouses of Walter P. Stokes have sold practically all their Easter plants.

Charles E. Meehan has repeatedly called attention to the fact that the wholesalers can sell all the flowers produced at some price; it is for the growers to say when that price goes below cost of production.

Phil is frequently asked, "Why don't you come to see me?" This occurs frequently before Easter. Phil always is glad to call on anyone who asks him. So far this season every invitation has been accepted.

Hope you have a great Easter.

Phil.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

Cold, wintry weather, accompanied by snow storms, set in last week, and the cloudy days have cut off the large supply of roses and carnations. Bulbous stock also has been affected, but not so severely. Trade conditions were not so good last week as during the previous week and it is believed that this is due to the pre-Easter season, as there is not much social activity during the last days of Lent. The retailers, however, have been rushed with funeral work.

The Easter stock in the local greenhouses is in the best of shape and the growers are well pleased with the prospects for business. Rhododendrons, spiræas, lilacs and azaleas were seen in the downtown stores last week. The market affords fine Spencer sweet peas, single and double violets, snapdragons, pansies, mignonette, forget-me-nots, Narcissus poeticus and all bulbous stock. It is hoped by several members of the trade that this will be a cut flower as well as a plant Easter.

Various Notes.

The Flick Floral Co. is strong on rambler roses, lilacs, Rhododendron Pink Pearl, deutzias and spiræas, which are being shown effectively for the Easter trade in the firm's downtown conservatory.

F. J. Knecht & Co. are cutting some splendid roses, principally Shawyer. They will cut a record crop for the Easter trade. Frank Knecht recently purchased a large, new delivery auto, which is kept busy between the retailers' stores downtown and the Knecht greenhouses.

The Bradley Flower Shop has moved from the old quarters at 828 Calhoun street, where it was located for five years, to the Jefferson theater building, at 1020 Calhoun street. The new store is 15x98 feet and is up-to-date and well equipped. There are mirrors everywhere, white enameled woodwork and a terrazzo floor. One of the novel features of the new shop is a birch bark railing separating the banks of blooming plants from the customers' aisle. An opening of the new store was held March 29.

The New Haven Floral Co. is cutting some fine carnations and expects to have some splendid blooms for Easter.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey are making a fine showing of Easter stock, principally in pot plants and in the rose and orchid houses.

been fairly good. An occasional funeral helps to clean up the surplus stock. There has been little decorating of any kind during the last month.

Various Notes.

The Mauff Floral Co. will rebuild the entire Logan street range this summer. The company will also add two new houses to the range in Harmon. All of the houses will be of Lord & Burnham construction.

The Columbine Flower Store, formerly located at the corner of Cheyenne place and Fifteenth street, has moved into new quarters at 1535 Cheyenne place.

Two new flower stores have opened during this month, the Denver Flower Store, at 712 Fifteenth street, and Theo. Loken's store, at Fifteenth and Arapahoe street.

J. E. Johnson, of the Pikes Peak Floral Co., and C. U. Fohn, of Glen Eyrie, both of Colorado Springs, and Charles Fawcett, of Boulder, Colo., were among the visitors last week.

Several of the landscape and nursery companies report a large number of advance orders for landscape work to be done this spring. R. S.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

Pittsburgh has been having fine March weather, somewhat cool, but pleasant. The general trade has only been fair. Several large funerals have helped matters considerably. Stock of all kinds, with the exception of carnations, has been plentiful. From November until the latter part of February the supply of carnations was abundant, but since then the plants seemed to let down and the crop for Easter is likely to be considerably shorter than it was last year. Roses will be in fine crop. Everything else is likely to be in full supply for Easter.

Various Notes.

There has been little complaint among the wholesalers. The McCallum Co. has been handling large quantities of lilies, tulips and narcissi. Easter supply business has been quite good. George Marshall has been confined to his bed, but hopes to be able to be on the job during the Easter rush.

Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., March 27. This is the second affair of this kind and is enjoyed by the married folks as well as by the bachelors and their sweethearts. Charles Randolph was master of ceremonies. He also made it pleasant for the young matrons by taking charge of the kindergarten. Dancing continued until midnight, when a splendid luncheon was served. Those who could not dance played euchre.

Fred Riegelmeier is out with a new truck, which is one of the finest seen. His trade is constantly increasing and he says it pays to drive up to a customer's door with a truck that is a credit to the trade.

George L. Huscroft, of Steubenville, O., recently moved his store to a better location and is making quite a bid for Easter business. John Colton, of East Liverpool, O., has rented the old Huscroft store and has started after a portion of the Steubenville trade.

Mrs. E. A. Williams seems to find something handsomer each year in blooming plant arrangement. Her window is a picture.

Randolph & McClements insist that Easter is the time for plants and from the great collection they have in their store and conservatory they evidently intend to supply the east end of the city.

The A. W. Smith Co. is right in line with blooming plants. The display is immense and, it is said, helps to sell cut flowers.

Visitors last week were: Miss Clara Forbes, Arthur Langhans and George Lash, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Miss Jane McDowell and Miss Agnes Wells, of Steubenville, O.; J. W. Glenn, Kittanning, Pa.; George Crissman, Punxsutawney, Pa.; Charles Nelson, East Liverpool, O., and Paul Berkowitz, Martin Reukauf and Frank J. Farney, of Philadelphia. If any of Mr. Reukauf's friends ask about his joy ride in Milwaukee—he likes to tell about it.

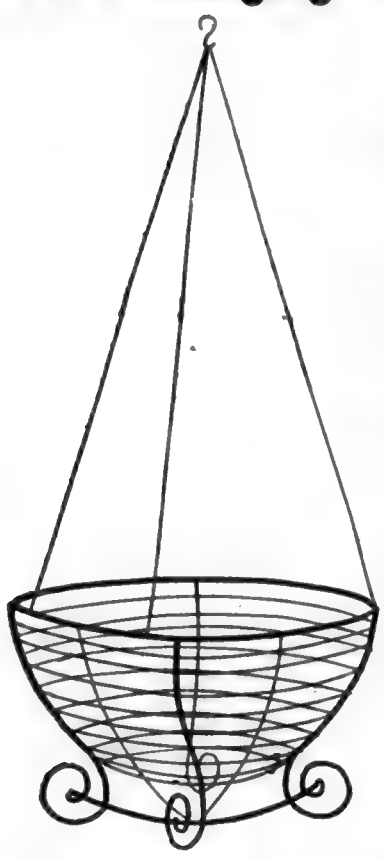
NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

The Market.

Business in general is good. There has been an unusual amount of funeral work, which has kept flowers of all kinds well cleaned up. Violets will not be as plentiful this Easter as in former years, owing to the heavy crop during the last few weeks. Everything points to a record-breaking business for Easter. First-class bulbous stock of all kinds is abundant. Easter lilies were never better.

Various Notes.

The Peckham Floral Co., of Fairhaven, is sending to this market excellent azaleas, cinerarias, cyclamens, genistas, hyacinths, lilies, lilacs, rhododendrons, oranges, tulips, valley and narcissi.



S. E. Shaw, on Kempton street, has an excellent crop of sweet peas for Easter.

Fred Reynolds reports business poor. He hasn't caught the spring fever yet.

William Peirce is doing his usual good business. He looks forward to an exceptionally big Easter. W. M. P.

Branford, Conn.—Clifford Barrows has opened a flower store in the rooms recently vacated by Everett Moore.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Figuratively speaking, everybody is on tiptoe with the final preparations for the Easter trade, which this year gives every indication of being larger than ever before. The growers all report a more perfect readiness for the big event than usual and the advance orders from churches, organizations and individuals all indicate an active demand. With the advent of holy week it was believed that prices would scale slightly under those of the last few Easters, but they were about a third higher than normal.

Various Notes.

William Hay is cutting about 1,200 to 1,500 roses daily from his houses at Oaklawn, with promise of heavy cuts for Easter.

D. W. McCoid has purchased a delivery automobile. He reports good business.

Johnston Bros. has several additional clerks for the Eastertide.

V. J. Berarducci, 22 Weeden street, reports an unusually busy time since the first of March. Last week he furnished a special design in the form of a large electric car, nearly six feet in length, with the photos of the officers of the local branch of the A. A. of S. & E. R. E. of A. at the windows.

H. Howard Pepper, of the Melrose Gardens, who is credit clerk for the Industrial Trust Co., addressed the Rhode Island Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon March 24 on "Some Things That Every Man Ought to Know About Banks." He will give the same address at the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston April 20.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Prices last week were low and unsteady right up to Saturday, and the week closed with a surplus in every wholesaler's icebox. American Beauties sank March 26 to $15 per hundred, and that for the best of them. Prices made a slight advance March 27, and the experts are prophesying $40 as top for the holiday. Roses of all kinds were abundant during the week, and large quantities remained unsold. The prize-winning novelties, especially Hadley, however, were steady at last week's quotations. Brunners are here again, and will soon be a factor as to prices. They have lost none of their popularity.

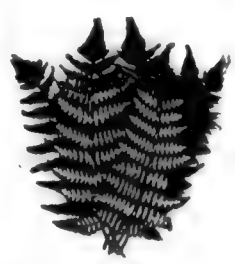
White carnations were in good demand and brought the highest prices of the week. Some fine Wards commanded $3 per hundred, but the bulk of the carnation arrivals sold from $2 per hundred down to $1.

Orchids were in lighter supply during the week and prices better than of late. There will be plenty of all kinds for Easter, and a long-hoped-for advance seems to be materializing. Sprays are scarce.

Valley, which has seldom sold above $2 per hundred for weeks, has advanced slightly. Gardenias do not advance, and there is a large supply. Enormous quantities of longiflorum lilies are already in the market, and they are arriving daily by the thousands. Orders are being booked at not more than $10 per hundred for Easter.

Tulips and daffodils now flood the market, especially the latter, the first shipments of the southern stock having arrived. Darwin tulips are here. Orchid-flowering sweet peas and Spencers sell quickly. Violets are scarce and higher-priced. There is no dearth of spring flowers of all varieties.

Various Notes.



The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club will take place April 12. The flower show committee will make its report. J. Otto Thilow is expected to lecture, and Philip Kessler has another treat for the inner man.

Mrs. Ditzenberger, of Brooklyn, mother of Philip Ditzenberger, foreman for H. E. Froment, and his brother, with Woodrow & Marketos, died Friday, March 26. A fuller report appears in this week's obituary column.

H. E. Froment will have entirely new fixtures in his store at 148 West Twenty-eighth street, having sold to C. C.

The Market.

Trade has been good during the month of March. Funeral work, which was plentiful during the first part of March, has dropped off during the last week. Stock is plentiful, and the indications are that there will be enough to supply all demands for Easter. The weather has been cold during March, which makes it easy for the pot plant growers to time their stock almost to the minute.

American Beauties and roses of all sorts are plentiful and of good quality, and are finding a good market. Sweet peas are fine, and have a good call. Carnations are abundant, as is bulbous stock, which can be had at almost any price. There will be no shortage in Easter lilies this year, either in pot plants or cut blooms.

The market is well supplied with blooming plants of all kinds; cyclamens, primulas, daffodils, tulips, lilacs,

F. W. Rochelle & Sons,
Chester, N. J.

Gentlemen: In reply to your query would state that I planted seedling stock plants and snapdragon cuttings in the first lot of bands that I received from you early in January.

We took some of these out and planted them where they are to remain about the 15th of February. They made a GOOD GROWTH while in the bands, and transplanted AS THOUGH they had never been moved at all.

I have now about 14,000 carnation plants started in 2-in. bands which are making a RAPID GROWTH, scarcely losing a plant in transplanting from the sand.

I also have about 20,000 aster plants transplanted in 2-in. bands which can stay there till time to plant out of doors WITHOUT FEAR OF BECOMING ROOT BOUND, as would be the case if I used 2-in. pots.

Plants SELDOM BECOME ROOT BOUND enough to injure them IN THE DIRT BANDS, and DO NOT REQUIRE NEAR THE AMOUNT OF ATTENTION that a pot plant does, in watering, shifting, transplanting, etc.

I make my bands and set them in flats, as I make them up, each flat holding 117.

When we get crowded indoors it takes but a short time to move the flats to a cold frame, where we harden them off before setting them in the field.

One man can set MORE THAN ANOTHER TIME AS MANY (twice as many) plants in the field from these bands and flats than he can from pots, and after he is through DOES NOT HAVE THE BOTHER OF GATHERING UP, CLEANING, and STORING AWAY A LOT OF POTS.

I believe anyone using these bands ONCE WILL BECOME A REGULAR CUSTOMER.

Yours truly,
H. B. Weaver.

Dear Sirs: You may send me 70,000 two-inch Dirt Bands instead of 60,000. I enclose a check for same. If you will send me a few circulars and price lists I will distribute them among my friends. We have a florists' club in our county of about sixty members.

277% MORE BLOSSOMS

on plants raised in Square Paper Pots than on plants raised in clay pots of same size.

There were 456 stems of blossoms on 40 plants raised in 4-inch Square Paper Pots and 105 stems of blossoms on 40 plants raised in 4-inch clay pots.

The above was taken from the following report in the Market Growers' Journal, January 1, 1914, page 6.

NUMBER OF STEMS IN BLOSSOM

	June 9	June 20	June 27
On 40 plants from clay pots	45	47	121
On 40 plants from paper pots	105	229	456

When set in the field May 15th, the root systems of the plants from the 4-inch square paper pots were 4-inch cubes (64 cubic inches of soil and roots) and from the 4-inch clay pots the root systems contained 31 cubic inches of soil and roots (the amount that a 4-inch clay pot holds).

The third count of blossoms was made June 27, 42 days after the plants had been set in the field.

The plants from the square paper pots were then more than twice as large and vigorous as those raised in clay pots.

All plants raised in square paper pots are larger and more vigorous than those raised in clay pots, because they have about double root room for the same size pots.

Measure the two pots and you will find that the 4-inch square paper pot holds as much soil as two 4-inch clay pots.

It is the same with square dirt bands, which are square paper pots without bottoms (the bottoms being furnished by old newspapers spread on the bench).

The theory that it is only necessary to have a big top to the plant has been proved misleading.

There must be a big root system to push the top or the plant will grow slow and small.

Try some square paper pots or dirt bands with your clay pots and see if you can afford to use any clay pots.

Some of the florists around Philadelphia are using large numbers of square dirt bands and paper pots.

We have shipped to Mr. P. B. Dilks, Bridesburg, Phila., Pa., 150,000 2-inch square dirt bands and 20,000 3-inch square dirt bands; to Mr. Geo. W. Dilks, Frankford, Pa., 10,000 2-inch square dirt bands and 10,000 3-inch square dirt bands; to Mr. M. H. Hostetter, Manheim, Pa., 20,000 2½-inch dirt bands and 6000 5-inch dirt bands; Mr. H. B. Weaver, Bird-in-Hand, Pa., 185,000 2-inch dirt bands.

393% MORE EARLY FRUIT

120 early tomato plants reported in Market Growers' Journal, Jan. 1, 1914, raised in 4-inch clay pots (31 cubic inches of soil and roots), had yielded up to Aug. 11 7¾ peach baskets—$4.75 worth of ripe tomatoes, while 120 plants raised in 4-inch SQUARE paper pots (64 cubic inches of soil and roots), had yielded 33 peach baskets—$23.50 worth of ripe tomatoes—393 per cent more.

"I used your Dirt Bands for tomatoes, peppers and eggplants—also for mignonette, heliotrope and hellchrysum. I AND MY TRADE WERE PLEASED WITH THEM. I shall use more the coming season."—Chas. C. Roberts, Lansdowne, Pa.

Various Notes.

The Pahud Floral Co. has added another automobile to its delivery service. This one has an open body, so that it can be used during the bedding season.

John Grande has just invested in a Studebaker six. He has his usual lot of fine Easter lilies.

Bertermann Bros. Co. has had some unusually fine window displays lately. Alvin Schreiber, of this firm, has a fine lot of blooming plants for Easter, which are hard to beat.

Clarence Thomas, of the Hill Floral Co., reports business good. This firm has been busy with decorations for store openings during the last week.

A. Wiegand's Sons Co. is well supplied with blooming stock for Easter. This firm has been busy with store openings.

John Rieman has been busy with funeral work.

E. A. Nelson has a fine lot of Easter lilies this year.

Baur & Steinkamp are having a fine cut of carnations for Easter. Their stock is unusually fine.

Albert Pittet says that he hit it just right with a crop of sweet peas for Easter. H. L. W.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The weather has been almost ideal for the last month. Practically every day has been bright and clear, with but little rain or snow. However, it has been somewhat cold, and all outside stock remains dormant. Fruit trees, which are generally in full bloom here at this time of the year, have hardly begun to show buds yet. This is an advantage to the fruit growers, as trees that bud early are in danger of a late cold snap, which either destroys or badly damages the fruit crop.

Stock is plentiful; in fact, the market has been glutted. Carnations are blooming in profusion and the quality is extra good. Roses, which have been off crop all winter, are coming much better now, and the prospects are fairly good for an Easter crop, although it will be necessary to buy a few from other markets to meet the expected demand. Orchids, valley and sweet peas are plentiful and the demand has been good. Bulbous stock is up to its usual high standard and has been disposed of to good advantage. Easter lilies are blooming freely and the Easter crop will take care of the local trade, with a nice surplus for the wholesale market.

Trade has been a little better than usual for this time of year. Social events, of course, are nil during Lent, but funeral work has been heavy and general trade has been unusually good. The local florists congratulate themselves on the fact that, according to its size, wealth and population, Knoxville is one of the best flower-buying cities in the country, and although the population is steadily increasing, the demand for flowers is growing much faster.

Various Notes.

R. M. Speer, with A. H. Dailey, recently spent a few days in Cincinnati, Ohio.

C. L. Baum and his force are busy people. He has been at a loss for the last few weeks as to how to dispose of his carnation crop. He has been cutting from 2,000 to 10,000 per day, and his local trade will not consume more than 1,000. Usually in times like this he can appeal to his wholesale trade for help, but this time it failed to come to his assistance as readily as he hoped. Therefore, rather than cut the price or allow any of this fine stock to enter the trash-box, he has been giving a great number of carnations to the local hospitals and sanitariums. He had a good trade on St. Patrick's day.

Mrs. R. H. Ryno has been busy with funeral work, with plenty of stock to take care of all orders. She is making preparations for a large bedding plant trade, which no doubt she will receive, as some of the other florists are going out of this line of business.

A. H. Dailey has been selling a great many pot plants of late. He contends that these are in greater demand than cut flowers, especially when sold for the sick room. He will have plenty of stock for Easter.

On account of Lent, C. W. Crouch is getting but little to do from society, but funeral work has been heavy and he has not been able to idle away any time. Trade for St. Patrick's day was extra good. Everything at the greenhouses is in excellent shape and the outlook for Easter trade is good. He has had a heavy cut of all kinds of flowers and for the last few weeks has had a surplus.

A. J. McNutt, who's salesroom is located in the city market, has had a great deal of trouble of late with the farmers and gardeners and their outdoor jonquils. Of course his stock is the best that can be produced and he is obliged to get 50 or 75 cents per dozen for his jonquils in order to realize any profit. On the other hand, the outdoor stock can be sold at 10 cents a dozen and a good profit be realized, and a great many customers will take the 10-cent stock in preference to the better stock at 50 and 75 cents. R. E. M.

Georgetown, Tex.—C. L. Shell reports trade much better than was expected at the beginning of the season, especially in blooming pot plants.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Merriam Park Floral Co., always among the largest forcers of Easter lilies, had exceptional success this season, there being 30,000 in their prime for Easter. A. Miller, of Henderson & Co., came from Chicago March 29 to inspect the stock.

F. W. ROCHELLE & SONS, Chester, N. J.

Elmore, O.—E. A. Hilgeneck, who recently started in business here, will use the trade name Hilgeneck Floral Arcade.

Erie, Pa.—Otto Seidel, for several years in the employ of J. V. Laver, has rented the East Buffalo Road Greenhouses. He will raise first-class potted stock, in the growing of which he has had twenty-seven years' experience. Mr. Seidel hopes to have his establishment in the best of condition by Memorial day.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Florists' Review,
508 S. Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

A few weeks ago I started a small card in the Retailers' Telegraph Delivery department of The Review.

I have paid you only $3.50 so far. And this is what happened:

I received orders for Wyoming delivery at Christmas amounting to $142.50.

I think that is doing fairly well.

Respectfully yours,

The Market.

Despite the fact that business in other lines has been dull, the florists' trade has been fair all winter and the business in March picked up wonderfully. Nearly all florists are feeling the awakening of spring trade. The weather still is cold, but it is hoped Easter will be much warmer, so that plants will not need heavy wrappings. There is an abundance of all kinds of cut flowers and plants for Easter. Harrisii, Formosa and speciosum lilies are especially fine. Excellent lavender and pink rhododendrons are seen.

The present cut of roses is heavy and nearly all varieties are to be had. Hadley, Russell and Ophelia, however, are off crop. Beauties are scarce and will undoubtedly bring a good price for Easter. Bulbous stock is plentiful. Cut spring flowers, such as snapdragons, mignonette, yellow and white marguerites, Roman hyacinths, pansies, myosotis, sweet peas, narcissi, freesias, swainsonas, pussy willows, etc., will be abundant. There is a lull in trade at present, as is usual just before the Easter rush.

Various Notes.

L. H. Neubeck is having his store front painted in green and white, adding a great deal to the attractiveness of the place. His Easter stock is in splendid condition. There is also a great variety of plants, including some unusual coronillas for his Easter trade.

The Easter lilies run from eight to forty-two inches in height and are quite thrifty.

The date for the final bowling match between the Rochester and Buffalo teams has been set for April 21. It is to be held in Batavia, which is halfway between the two cities.

Harold Brookins, of Orchard Park, made a trip to Philadelphia last week and spent a few days visiting the large greenhouses in that city and vicinity.

Philip Breitmeyer, of Detroit, Mich., was a visitor last week.

Albert F. Vick will begin his duties as manager of the Buffalo Cut Flower Co., 495 Washington street, April 1. Mr. Vick is popular here and the trade wishes him every success in his new venture.

J. Benson Stafford has some attractive Easter novelties. Good-sized eggs, made of cardboard in fancy designs, with dainty colorings, are used to hold corsages of violets, valley or peas. Humming birds in blue, green and iridescent shades, and mounted on long wires, are used for fancy plants. Artificial butterflies and fancy Easter cards are also displayed.

The Colonial Flower Shop is showing unusual Japanese bowls in glass and porcelain of different colors. These contain holders for just a few flowers, in accordance with true Japanese art. A few loose flowers float in the water and porcelain birds are attached to the bowls.

The birch bark craze has come back. Several florists are making birch bark baskets and boxes for Easter plants,

Jos. Howard Ranney, formerly with Chas. L. Dole, of Lockport, is now with the Lenox Flower Shop.

H. P. Neun, of Rochester, is growing some fine lavender rhododendrons, which are finding ready sale here.

Jacob Wiese had on sale last week a fine lot of plants, such as primulas, Boston ferns, begonias, hydrangeas and cinerarias. Mignonette, Japanese lilies, snapdragons, yellow marguerites, sweet peas and Victorias were in excellent condition.

H. Keitsch & Son have sold their greenhouse property and have had the conservatories torn down. They now buy all their stock. They were busy with funeral work last week and report business growing steadily.

BOSTON.

The Market.

The cut flower outlook a few days before Easter is encouraging. No fancy prices are looked for, but a large business at moderate prices is assured. Business last week held up well. March 27 a cold wave with a cutting wind depressed trade, but even then the clean-up was fairly good. Roses are in quite heavy supply and prices are a little lower, especially on shorter grades. No particular advance is looked for at Easter. Beauties are now of grand quality.

Carnations held at $3 to $4 all last week and now have a stiffening tendency. Quite a few growers are off crop. Violets are advancing and will probably average $1 per hundred for Easter. Singles are nearing the end. For these it has been an unprofitable season. Doubles are in heavy crop. Of sweet peas there is and will be an abundance. Trade for these has dragged of late. Yellow marguerites sell well, but the call for white is poorer. Double blue cornflowers make up to $3 per hundred. Dutch bulbous flowers are abundant and good. They have cleaned up well, however. In tulips Brimstone Beauty, Murillo, Couronne d'Or and Flamingo are all popular. Cut Easter lilies make $8 per hundred; L. candidum, $5 and $6. Pansies are now good and sell well, bringing double the money of violets. Among miscellaneous flowers are ixias, tritonias, hardy blue larkspur, annual lupines and Spanish iris. Cattleya Schrœderæ and phalænopsis are now the leading orchids. Gardenias are particularly fine. Lily of the valley is arriving of splendid quality, with fine, dark green foliage.

Pot plant trade is becoming active and reports from the leading specialists are that some lines are already quite cleaned up, the call being most robust for those of moderate price.

Various Notes.

Richard D. Kimball, of Waban, is sending to the market excellent calendulas, pink and white snapdragons and carnations. Of the latter, White Perfection, Philadelphia, Pink Delight, Enchantress and Beacon are of fine quality.

Peter Fisher's shipments of rooted cuttings of his new carnation, Alice, have now reached 200,000. Mr. Fisher has cut down so many of his carnations for cuttings that he is taxed to supply his retail customers with cut flowers.

Mann Bros. have a splendid cut of both candidum and Formosa lilies for Easter. Their best selling tulips are Murillo, Couronne d'Or, Brimstone Beauty, Rose Luisante and La Reine.

Howard, of Milford, which won first prize at New York, was Buxton's Killarney Pink, one of the greatest sellers in the market today.

J. R. Shield, of North Woburn, is sending to his salesman, M. Lipman, a fine lot of Schizanthus Wisetonensis in 6-inch and 8-inch pots, in addition to a fine line of carnations.

A. E. E. Koch, of Nobscot, has Mrs. Sander and yellow marguerites of splendid quality. His pink snapdragons are coming along finely.

The next important exhibition at Horticultural hall will be May 15 and 16. Calceolarias, pelargoniums, Spanish irises, tulips, narcissi and pansies will be special features. The first June show comes June 5 and 6, the peony show June 12 and 13 and the rose show June 19 and 20.

Particularly fine among Thomas Roland's Easter plants are his small bougainvilleas, which are beautifully flowered; also the small ericas. Rambler roses and French hydrangeas are splendid.

The Hanover Greenhouses have a fine Easter crop of carnations. The best varieties there are Pink Delight, White Wonder, Matchless, Beacon, Benora and Enchantress.

Penn reports plant trade and funeral trade as being brisk, with heavy advance orders for both cut flowers and plants for Easter.

Frank Edgar, of Waverley, has timed his lilies just right for Easter. He has some thousands of them, all in fine shape. He has been having exceptional success with Spencer sweet peas.

course of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society was given by Prof. Whetzel, March 27, his subject being "Diseases of the Peony."

F. F. Shepardson, of Mansfield, is sending in as fine pink snapdragon as I have seen this season.

The Sutermeister Estate, of Readville, had sold its entire batch of thousands of pans of tulips, narcissi and hyacinths ten days before Easter.

The West Street Greenhouses, of Reading, are cutting a grand crop of double blue cornflowers, which net as much money as the best carnations. Carnations are looking fine, especially Benora, Beacon and White Wonder. They also have a good cut of calendulas and stocks.

At Carbone's, plant trade is remarkably good. Particularly good here are lilacs in both bush and standard form, acacias, deciduous flowering shrubs, rambler roses and rhododendrons. I noted some fine hardy larkspurs and Spanish irises here.

John McFarland, of North Easton, had 7,000 of the finest giganteum lilies grown locally this season, and practically every pot sold in advance.

At the Gardeners' and Florists' Club meeting April 20, in addition to the lecture by H. Howard Pepper, of Providence, there will be fine exhibits of orchids, bulbous flowers and roses.

March has now nearly reached its end and has proved a consistently clear and dry month. No snow or rain has fallen for over a month and the ground is quite dry. While the beautiful weather is appreciated, it is going to exact a heavy toll on evergreens, which are reported dying by the wholesale, due to the ground freezing up while the roots were dry, and remaining frozen when our winter rains came. The combination of hot sun, drying winds and frosty nights completes the destruction.

E. H. Borowski, of Roslindale, is not one of the largest growers for the Boston market, but he is well at the head of the procession when it comes to quality. I doubt if any grower in America produces a better grade of rambler roses, bougainvilleas, French hydrangeas, azaleas and cyclamens, every plant being a specimen. The stock is always so good that it is not a question of finding customers, as there is an eager competition to secure the stock each year. Certainly the Easter plants this year are a credit to the growers and better than ever before.

James Wheeler, of Natick, has an immense crop of yellow marguerites on long stems for Easter. Mr. Wheeler seems to have mastered the successful winter culture of these popular plants.

So successful was the Boston spring show that plans are already well ahead for the show in 1916. We hope the dates of the Boston, New York and Philadelphia shows will be separated at least a week.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. reports good business, much of it coming from exhibits made at the spring show.

Hoffman has the store at 194 Boylston street, at one time occupied by MacMulkin, packed with choice Easter plants, the window decorations being most tasteful.

W. A. Riggs, of Auburndale, has a splendid lot of bulbous stock in pans, genistas, azaleas, lilies and other Easter plants, and has practically his entire stock sold.

The New England Nurseries, Bedford, sustained $500 loss from a fire in the packing sheds March 27, which for a time threatened to wipe out the entire nursery. W. N. C.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Trade in cut flowers last week was not at all satisfactory. There was plenty of stock, but the retailers did not buy any too heavily. They say little is going on in the flower line, except in funeral work, which made a good call for light colored flowers. Stock in other colors, however, met with a poor demand and all are glad that this is the last week of Lent. The weather has been bright and warm. The wholesalers say there will be an abundance of stock for Easter and at reasonable prices. Roses of fine quality are coming in; Killarneys form the bulk of them. Carnations have been selling well and are by no means a glut. The Enchantress varieties have the call over all others. There are plenty of Easter lilies and callas, with prices ranging from 8 cents to 12½ cents. Sweet peas and violets are arriving in great abundance daily. Tulips, valley, Paper Whites, Dutch hyacinths and daffodils are in great supply. Greens are plentiful.

Easter prospects seem bright for the retailers. As there will be plenty of both plants and cut flowers at reasonble prices, nothing short of a record-breaking Easter trade is looked for.

Various Notes.

Mrs. J. Rohrbach, who runs a greenhouse business in Baden, has opened a retail store on Union avenue, occupying the one recently vacated by Joe Ent, known as the Union Floral Co.

the firm of William Schray & Sons, underwent a serious operation at St. Anthony's hospital recently. The operation was successful and the reports state that she is improving daily and soon will be able to leave the hospital. Mrs. Schray is a member of the Lady Florists' Home Circle.

Paddy Patton, of the Smith Wholesale Floral Co., sold a great many thermometers to the local trade last week, on the plea that they will soon go up.

The Missouri Botanical Garden Students' Club will hold its meeting April 2, in the lecture room at the garden. A paper on "Roses for St. Louis" will be read by C. W. Penn, the Florist, of Boston, supplied the local florists with copies of the Boston Post of March 19, which gives an account of the Boston spring show. Thanks! It was good reading.

Count Von Hoffman, at Waldbart's, informs us that they worked up an unusual lot of funeral pieces last week. The blooming plants here meet with an excellent demand.

plenty of first-quality violets, sweet peas, roses, carnations and bulbous stock for the Easter trade. Cut lilies, too, will be abundant. Advance orders to date are numerous.

Vincent Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, still is confined to his home, just being able to get about on a pair of crutches. He is afraid he will have to miss the Easter rush, much to his regret. Never again will he look at roller skates.

George H. Angermueller has built up a large shipping trade in florists' supplies. His Easter bargain advertisement in The Review brought him a great deal of business from southwestern Missouri and Texas.

Henry Berning is receiving daily shipments of Ophelia roses and an abundance of other varieties, including an extra fine quality of Beauties. Ophelia has an excellent local demand. Cut stock for Easter will be plentiful.

Albert Gumz, of Windler's, is sporting a new necktie, which the giver insists he must wear daily. After burning up several kilowatts of midnight juice, he came to the conclusion that he will grow a beard.

The meeting of the County Growers' Association comes early this month, April 7, at the Eleven Mile House. Easter business in cut flowers will be taken up at this meeting.

W. J. Pilcher, of Kirkwood, is well pleased with his first season's growing of roses and is contemplating the building of another big house this summer. His Hadley, Killarneys in all varieties and Milady have been of extra fine quality all the season.

The flower department at Vandervoort's is showing, on the Locust street side of the store, a garden laid out so as to indicate the correct plants and shrubs to be used in such work. The landscape work in this display was done by Muskopf & Irish Co. Garden shrubs and bulbs had a large sale here last week.

The Florists' Club will hold its meeting April 8, in Odd Fellows' hall. Easter business will be taken up for discussion. The trustees, too, have something to be discussed. President Bourdet requests a full attendance.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June 22 to 24, 1915.

THE obituary of Louis B. Schulte, president of the Reichardt & Schulte Co., Houston, Tex., appears in this week's column.

THE J. W. Jung Seed Co., Randolph, Wis., has secured a lease on ten acres of land within the village limits, which will be mostly planted to asters. This is in addition to Fairfield Farm of 180 acres, which is located four miles from Randolph.

ONE of the clever advertising stunts lately used by Bolgiano's seed store, Baltimore, is a tall, lean, lanky country chap, Rube Brown, winding his way in and out through the downtown crowds closely followed by a big trained rooster. The rooster does a number of amusing tricks and Rube carries a big gripsack on which is Bolgiano's ad. The exaggerated rustic and the rooster never want for an audience.

IT was found necessary for the American Seed Trade Association to abandon the idea of a world's seed congress in connection with this year's convention at San Francisco, the war making it impossible for European seedsmen to participate. There is, however, excellent prospect for a large attendance of the regular membership of the A. S. T. A. President Morse says there will be no extravagant prices, at least not at the Inside Inn, which has been selected as headquarters.

ACCORDING to a report of the Farmer Seed Growers' Association at Groningen, Holland, the principal seed crop in that district in 1914 was radish, of which 101 hectares were grown by thirty-eight members, yielding an average of 1,200 kilos per hectare. Sixty-five acres were under spinach for seed, yielding an average of 1,400 kilos per hectare, which is below an average crop. In all, there were 310 hectares under seed crops, grown by ninety-one members of the society. A hectare equals 2.471 acres; a kilo, 2.2046 pounds.

WHAT are "tulips"? Certain importers of bulbs are trying to show that the present tariff law contains no direct reference to tulip bulbs, and that these, therefore, properly are dutiable as bulbs "not otherwise provided for" at 50 cents per thousand, instead of $1 per thousand. Protests and claims for refund have been filed covering large quantities of last season's importations. Much evidence recently has been taken by the U. S. General Appraisers, the government contending that the word

"tulips" as it appears in the law refers to bulbs, while the importers contend that it refers, or may refer, to tulip flowers. It may be possible to put over a thing like this, as was done in the hyacinth case under the previous tariff law, but no member of the trade will have any doubt as to what the authors of the paragraph had in mind.

THE CONVENTION PROGRAM.

A tentative program has been developed for the June convention of the American Seed Trade Association at San Francisco. Headquarters will be at the Inside Inn, on the exposition grounds, and the business sessions will be held there, with morning meetings only, leaving the afternoons and evenings open for sightseeing. The convention will open Monday evening, June 21, with a reception at the home of President Lester L. Morse, only ten minutes' walk from the Inn. Business sessions of about three hours each will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Wednesday evening the annual banquet will be held at the rooms of the San Francisco Commercial Club, downtown. Friday morning the party will go to Gilroy, arriving at 9:50, the day to be spent in an automobile trip to local seed ranches, concluded with a barbecue in front of the old San Juan Mission, as a courtesy of the seed growers of the valley, with Waldo Rohnert in charge. Those who wish may take the evening train to Hotel Del Monte; others will go by auto to San Jose and spend the night at Hotel Vendome. Saturday morning will be spent visiting the seed ranches in the Santa Clara valley, returning to San Francisco in the evening.

SEEDS IN BRAZIL.

According to the South American Journal there is a growing demand in Brazil for flower and garden seeds, the bulk of which are imported from France, Germany, Portugal, Spain and other European countries, the United States supplying only a small part. Vegetable seeds imported at Rio de Janeiro include watercress, cabbage and lettuce, small and large onions, cauliflower, cabbage of all kinds, spinach, peas, beans, melons, mustard, turnips, radishes and tomatoes; the most popular flowers being carnations, pansies, zinnias, violets, chrysanthemums and flowering vines. Small shipments by parcel post are permitted to enter the country without the payment of duties, and if, as recently stated in The Review, the packages are marked "Sementes para agricultura" (seeds for agriculture), much trouble and expense may be saved the consignees.

MOTT-LY MEDITATIONS.

The L. L. Olds Seed Co., Madison, Wis., states that a more rosy prospect at this season was seldom, if ever, experienced by the firm. When they erected that fine building last year they leased

Room to Let

With the passing of Easter, every florist will have more or less idle space. Memorial Day and the busy month of June will call for lots of blossoms. We have some fine plants of Snapdragon in pink, yellow and red that will make good if planted at once. Note low prices for immediate shipment:

SILVER PINK SEEDLINGS..$3.00 per 100; 200 for $ 5.00
Yellow, Garnet and Nelrose.... 4.00 per 100; 300 for 10.00

You should also have a good stock of S. P. Seedlings for spring sales and for use on your own grounds. Remember, they not only make a great show, but furnish high-grade cut blossoms all summer. Sow seed at once. Price, $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. Free cultural directions. All orders cash.

We specialize in Snapdragons. Our complete list for the asking.

a part, but they realize they can use it to advantage if present conditions continue.

Currie Bros. Co., Milwaukee, Wis., is almost settled in the big store. Favored by good weather, they were able to get stock in much more easily and it is going out again at a lively rate. The floral department will be a strong feature.

The A. C. Kendel Seed Co., Cleveland, O., complacently turns down quotations on beans, being among the fortunates who landed a full quota. Counter trade is running high, especially on the specials printed in heavy type in the catalogue and provided for accordingly.

Wood & Co., Cleveland, have a big attraction in the form of a representation of the Dardanelles. The base is of concrete; land is formed of fiber, in which grass is growing. A broken bridge, with battleships near by, gives the whole a realistic appearance. One window is given to this well worked out scene. W. M.

SEEDS FOR RUSSIA WANTED.

American seeds are wanted in Russia, according to a report to the State Department by Consul John K. Caldwell, at Vladivostok. He says the Department of Agriculture and Land Organization of Russia has received a number of inquiries about original American varieties of seeds and plants and also about western European varieties reproduced in the United States. The question is important to many landowners, because during the war and long after they will not be able to receive seeds from Europe, as many of the seed farms are destroyed in France, Belgium, Germany and Austria-Hungary. At the same time, the receipt of fresh seeds is necessary in many cases, especially for professional gardeners and institutions that have commenced experimental farming. The Department of Agriculture is informed that all kinds of seeds can be obtained in the United States, including such Russian specialties as Petrovsky turnip, Russian sunflower, Murom cucumber, Turkestan melons, etc.

HOW CAN YOU DO WITHOUT COLD STORAGE GIGANTEUM?

COMMERCIALLY speaking, a greenhouse is a factory equipped for the purpose of producing flowers and plants in a manner that will render as large a profit consistent with business principles as is possible to obtain, in a given time, by the sale of such merchandise. The florist who does not fill his greenhouses and keep them filled is not getting as much out of his business as his best interests require. So fill your houses with something and keep them filled. In June and July flowers are not as plentiful as is generally supposed, so why not plant a case or so of good Cold Storage Giganteum now—so that you will have flowers at that time and be prepared for funeral work, weddings, etc., when the occasion demands? Lilies are always good stock—plant now.

HORTICULTURAL IMPORTS.

The increased freight rates do not appear to have affected spring importations of horticultural commodities. The boats of the Holland-America line are giving about the usual space to nursery stock, with increased shipments of gladiolus bulbs and moderate quantities of seeds, some of which are of German origin, although it has been stated that the line will no longer accept German goods for transportation to this country until England modifies its stand against German commerce. On the Rotterdam, which reached New York March 26, there were the following:

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.

Every time I visit this most beautiful of all southern California towns I come away with a greater admiration for it. And probably the most beautiful spot of any surrounding the town is Eucalyptus Hill, where the fine mansion of the Cowles estate is situated. About a year ago the house was just being started; now it is complete and the wisdom of choosing this splendid site is fully proved. Looking from the terrace, the broad expanse of the Pacific is seen on one side, with the Santa Barbara islands in the near distance, a most enchanting view. But on all other sides are the magnificent mountain views, the mountains just now being at their greenest and at the height of their attractiveness. William Donald, the well known landscape gardener of eastern and San Diego fame, has this fine place in hand, and although at present little has been done in the way of planting, the grounds are beginning to take shape and a finely graded drive has been made from the road to the house. The drive skirts the hill in an easy gradient and advantage has been taken of every slope and vista to give ease of access and fine views. It is a fine piece of work. In the nursery large stocks of various plants to be used in the subsequent plantings are being worked up, the idea being to plant species and varieties suited to the locality, but not of the usual hackneyed type. Mr. Donald is doing splendid work here, in his own way, and the place will be a monument to his skill long after he has gone the way of all good Scotch gardeners.

J. Whipple, of State street, reports business good and the fact is amply proved by the activity at the store. Mr. Whipple is famous for the excellent design work and decorations carried out here, which are of the best of their kind.

A. Beverley, of Mission Oak Nursery, is always ready with the glad hand, and the writer and his friends, who shared his hospitality under the big live oak trees at his nursery, will not forget quickly the good cheer provided or the hearty welcome given. At his nursery Mr. Beverley grows principally flowering and vegetable plants for spring sales. But possibly he is better known as the patentee and inventor of one of the greatest labor-saving devices known, the Pacific sprinkler. He is connected with the Sunshine Irrigation Co. and on the experimental grounds of the company I saw the latest form of sprinkler working. This has a capacity of about half an acre and makes one revolution in about ten minutes. It works so slowly, in fact, that at the first glance it is apparently still. This slow movement is of the greatest importance, as it allows the water, which falls in a fine spray, to soak thoroughly into the ground before the next revolution, thus preventing any possibility of water standing on the surface. It runs with a small motor about the size of an ordinary alarm clock and is one of the finest things ever invented for quickly, easily and effectively irrigating large areas of ground. It is a perfect rain maker, in short, and Mr. Beverley and his co-workers are to be highly congratulated on its perfection.

The Exotic Nurseries are now well established in the new office out on the Montecito boulevard and Mr. Lejeune says he is well satisfied with the change.

The Kentia Nurseries report good business and both brothers Verhelle appear as busy as the proverbial bees.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

While there has been a decided slump in business in the city, the wholesalers say that shipping trade has kept up remarkably well and this is borne out by observation of the big loads of express shipments seen around the principal wholesale houses. Bulbous stock has about reached the zenith of supply and prices have gone tumbling. Taken on the whole, however, prices have kept up well. Violets are not first-class now, owing to the recent warm weather, but there is plenty of time for them to harden up again this season, provided the present cooler spell continues. Retailers are asking for plants for Easter and the supply of azaleas is not likely to be any too large, as so many of the late varieties were hastened by the hot weather. There is a fine supply of ferns of all kinds and some decorative foliage plants. Greens are plentiful and good. Orchids are scarce. Valley is plentiful.

Various Notes.

Miss Martha Dieterich, daughter of J. Dieterich, of Wall street and Montebello, had the misfortune to break her arm recently, when cranking her automobile. At the last report she was progressing as favorably as possible under the circumstances.

C. E. Morton, of Phoenix, Ariz., has been paying a visit to the city on business and looking up old friends. He says that business is coming his way rapidly and he expects an excellent Easter trade. He is looking well and has almost got rid of his throat trouble since going to Arizona.

C. Gutting, of the Superior Nursery Co., is handling some elegant small coleuses, bright and telling in color. He also reports a big business in Asparagus plumosus seed.

The H. N. Gage Co. reports good shipping business. Mr. Gage is getting to be considerable of a speeder with the auto.

The Germain Seed & Plant Co. reports several good landscape contracts since the improvement in the weather. Retail business in the store and nursery departments keeps up finely.

That was some stormy meeting between the Allies and the Germans. Who would have thought that such peaceful men as native flower seed merchants and millionaire nurserymen could say such rude things about one another in sunny, peaceful southern California?

Howard & Smith say they have to work long hours and all day every Sunday to keep up with the out-of-town shipping, notwithstanding the increased force of packers.

Polder & Groen are hoisting the "Sold out" signal on many of the best varieties of carnations for the present.

Murata & Co. report excellent business all along the line. The city trade as well as out-of-town shipping keeps up satisfactorily. H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

Trade has fallen into the dull condition which usually prevails before Easter. Decorative work for the exposition is still a prominent factor, but this is not especially profitable on the average, and does not begin to make up for the extreme dullness of ordinary house trade. Funeral work, also, is rather quiet.

Most lines of stock still seem to be overplentiful, and do not clean up well from day to day; but there would be little surplus if the retail stores were doing a normal business. The nature of the offerings has been changed somewhat by several days of unseasonably hot weather during and after the flower show. Violets have suffered greatly, and there is practically nothing of good shipping quality, while desirable stock for the local market is scarce. It is expected, also, that the roses will show the effects for several weeks to come, though most varieties are still plentiful and fairly good. Mrs. Russell is still popular and brings fairly good prices, and some nice Ophelia are coming in, finding a good demand. Cecile Brunner is well received.

Bulbous stock in general is less plentiful. The heavy crop of daffodils is cleaned up; hyacinths are about out; supplies of freesias and narcissi are much lighter. Forced tulips are also disappearing, but some fine long-stemmed Darwin and Gesneriana tulips, as well as late daffodils, Narcissus poeticus and freesias, are coming from outside points. Carnations are plentiful, but find little better sale. Many shops are making handsome displays of peonies, and the lilac season is opening well. Sweet peas are quite popular, with gradually increasing supplies. Fruit blossoms are becoming plentiful. Basket arrangements of ranunculus and anemones find ready sale. Orchids are still scarce. Gardenias are a little smaller, owing to the hot weather, but

Spring Flower Show.

The exposition authorities, as well as members of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, who had charge of the spring flower show, which ended March 21, express themselves as extremely well satisfied with the results. Seldom, if ever, has a larger or more representative lot of flower exhibits been brought together in this city at this time of year, and the attendance was even larger Saturday and Sunday than on the opening day, the bright, warm weather being highly in favor of attendance, if a little hard on the cut flower exhibits. Mrs. Darbee's prize-winning violet exhibit attracted much attention. A large crowd was present Saturday evening, March 20, which was the first day any of the exposition palaces have been open after 6 p. m. The judges for plants and cut flowers were: F. Pelicano, J. Baldocchi, Chas. Mitchell, A. O. Stein, Otto Stein and Sidney Clack; the judges for the retailers' work were ladies from points around the bay who are interested in flowers and gardening. The awards were as follows:

The Pacific Coast Horticultural Society has made a suggestion that its fall flower show be held in conjunction with that of the Chrysanthemum Society of America. It is expected that the matter will be definitely settled at the next meeting. At the last meeting, action was taken to postpone the annual banquet indefinitely. The place of meeting of the bowling club conducted in conjunction with the society has been changed to the Orpheum bowling alleys. The club meets regularly

The Market.

The weather last week was the warmest for March since 1886, and, as a consequence, stock intended for Easter trade has been forced so rapidly the growers have been kept busy putting potted stock into cooler quarters to hold it back. Benched stock, too, is maturing prematurely. Fruit blossoms of many kinds are to be had, and the demand for them is strong, causing a falling off in the sale of carnations and roses. All sorts of indoor cut flowers are in oversupply. No slump in prices, however, has resulted. Locally grown violets, especially the double varieties, are off color from the effects of the heat. Blooming hydrangeas sell well and tulips, hyacinths and outdoor daffodils are in demand. Perennials, hardy ornamentals and orchard stock are more in demand than usual. The call for orchids, amaryllis and other expensive flowers is light. Sweet peas are prime and are moving well. While the unexpected warm spell has brought out considerable stock ahead of time, there is enough in sight for the Easter rush. Business has been brisk with the retail seed and nursery concerns.

Various Notes.

R. C. Cook is displaying some attractive Azalea mollis grown by the Woodmere Floral Co.

George Betz has a flower store at 697 Union avenue and grows most of his stock in a range of greenhouses attached to the store. He reports business good and says he is kept busy making deliveries.

Tonseth Floral Co. is showing lavender rhododendrons in full bloom.

Martin & Forbes Co. has in its window display a red azalea, Ernest Enckhaute, which has a tint quite different from the other varieties.

Several vases of Narcissus poeticus are now seen in the stores.

Rahn & Herbert Co. is sending in some good Cecile Brunner roses.

William Borsch, of Hillsdale, says he is selling more perennials this year than usual. He has been shipping quantities of them into the interior towns of Washington and Oregon.

G. Teufel, who has a range of greenhouses near Kings Heights, says he is well satisfied with the season's business. He grows large quantities of carnations and greens, which he says he has disposed of without waste. He has developed a rose-pink sport of Carnation Victory, which he grows successfully.

Wood & Scott have started business at their new greenhouse near Columbia park. They retail their products at the greenhouse.

Routledge Seed & Floral Co. has imported from England some shoe nozzles for watering pots which produce a fine spray.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE death of Howard E. Merrill, head of the H. E. Merrill Nursery Co., of Geneva, N. Y., is reported in this week's obituary column.

THE death of John G. McReynolds, for many years in the nursery business at Cleveland, Tenn., is reported in this week's obituary.

A BILL has been introduced in the Massachusetts legislature to give the nursery inspector power to inspect all the fruit brought into that state.

THE New England Nurseries, Bedford, Mass., sustained $500 loss March 27, from a fire in the packing sheds that, for a time, threatened to wipe out the entire nursery.

THE planting of big orchards is not progressing at the usual rate this season, in the apple and peach sections, but in the grain states the nurserymen are picking up an unusual number of orders.

J. G. HARRISON & SONS, Berlin, Md., broke their record last week by shipping fifty carloads of fruit and ornamental nursery stock. The shipments were distributed over a wide area, taking in nearly every fruit-growing state in the Union.

INCORPORATION papers have been issued to the Nassau Nurseries, Inc., Great Neck, N. Y. The capital stock is fixed at $10,000. The officers are: President, H. J. Maynard; vice-president, M. E. Maynard; secretary and treasurer, W. E. Maynard.

THE cold snap has not injured the Georgia peach crop, according to P. J. A. Berckmans, Jr., of the Fruitland Nurseries, Augusta. The steadiness of the cold weather has been a benefit, although the trees are about two weeks behind last year.

THE citrus nurseries located about five miles east of Bartow, Fla., have been incorporated under the name of the Lake Garfield Nurseries Co., by George R. Johnston and Vet. L. Brown, of Bartow, and Lillian P. McMillen, of Pittsburgh, Pa. The capital stock is $25,000.

THE Texas commissioner of agriculture, Fred A. Davis, has appointed as chief inspector of nurseries, Ed. L. Ayers, formerly assistant entomologist of the Texas department of agriculture and a graduate of Texas A. & M. College and Cornell University. He is 22 years old.

THE business men of Neosho, Mo., about fifty in number, paid a visit to the William P. Stark Nurseries March 19, to examine the various activities on the 600 acres there. At the time, orders were going out at the rate of 400 per day, but the number is expected to reach 1,000 when the season's height is reached.

SUCCESSOR TO PHOENIX CO.

The Bloomington Nursery Co., of Bloomington, Ill., has taken over the business of the bankrupt Phoenix Nursery Co., of the same city, the affairs of which, as reported in last week's Review, have just been closed up by Receiver John Y. Chisholm. The history of these two concerns is closely interwoven, both being, indeed, of the same origin. In 1852 Franklin K. Phoenix, of Wisconsin, purchased the nursery of Robert Fell, at Bloomington. In 1858 it covered eighty acres; ten years later it had grown to 600 acres, but in the hard times of 1877 it failed. In that year John S. Tuttle and Alonzo Follett purchased the Phoenix Nursery Co. Six years later, when the Bloomington Nursery Co. was incorporated as a stock company, the two men sold their concern to it. In 1885 Sidney Tuttle and W. E. Rossney bought the nursery. The Phoenix Nursery Co. was incorporated in 1887, with W. E. Rossney as president; Sidney Tuttle, vice-president, and George J. Foster, secretary. Gradually Mr. Rossney acquired the stock of the other two, and at the time of the firm's bankruptcy, September, 1913,

EUROPEAN PINES TO BE BARRED.

No European pine trees will be permitted to be imported into the United States after July 1, a quarantine order to this effect having been signed by the secretary of agriculture. This action has been taken to save American pine trees from the pine-shoot moth, which has long done much damage in European forests. This pest has already become established in nurseries and parks in some states, but it is believed that by pruning and destroying the affected shoots the disease can be stamped out if no more infected nursery stock is imported into the country.

The European pine-shoot moth eats out the new buds and kills or deforms the young twigs of pine trees in such a way that the timber value is seriously and permanently lowered. The moth feeds mostly on young trees between 6 and 15 years of age, destroying a large number of buds and young shoots and injuring adjoining ones. These injured shoots bend downward and outward, afterwards growing upward again. When the pest is abundant the trees are rendered unsightly and crippled and of no commercial value.

The moth lays its eggs early in August singly on the new buds of the pine. The young larva soon hatches and eats its way into the bud, where it spends the winter. As soon as the sap begins to rise in the trees it leaves its winter quarters and bores into the adjoining bud, destroying this and as many others as it needs for food. When the remaining buds begin to grow into young shoots, the larva attacks these as well, consuming the entire inside of the youngest and injuring the more developed ones so that they grow downward and outward instead of upward. It is impossible to reach the larva with any insecticide after it has once found its winter quarters, and the only effective way of combating the pest is to destroy the infected buds and twigs. Pruning of this kind in the fall and winter months will minimize the damage in the spring, but it is more difficult to determine the existence of the pest at this time than when the injury is further developed. A little practice, however, will enable the nurseryman to recognize the trace of pitch at the base of the bud covering the entrance hole of the larva.

NORTH DAKOTA TREE BOUNTY.

By a law which took effect in North Dakota March 2, 1915, the act of that state providing for the payment of bounties for tree planting is amended so as to read as follows:

"Any person who shall hereafter plant, cultivate and keep in growing, thrifty condition one acre and not more than ten acres of prairie land with any kind of forest trees, shall be entitled to $3 for each acre so planted and cultivated, to be paid out of the general fund of the county wherein such trees are planted, but such bounty shall not be so paid unless such grove be maintained upon a tract of not less than eighty acres and shall have at least 400 living trees in each acre so maintained, and kept in growing condition, and in no case shall any bounty be paid in excess of the amount of real estate taxes levied for such year upon the quarter section of which such parcel of land planted to trees is a part."

OPHELIA — A New Rose of True Worth

We have grown this magnificent rose the past season with most gratifying results. As a free and vigorous grower and great producer it has no equal. It sets bud freely in the short days of winter, and is now coming in with a heavy crop, doing equally well on grafts or own roots.

MRS. GEORGE SHAWYER is at present more favorably thought of than ever, and we intend to again plant it heavily this season. As a money getter, our experience has proven its superiority over all sorts, and having grown extensively on own roots and grafts, we have no hesitancy in stating that, like Sunburst, it does better on own roots.

We have a splendid lot of both varieties (grafts and own roots) ready for shipment, together with a choice lot of Sunburst, Ward, Prince d'Arenberg, White and Pink Killarney, cuttings taken from sand the latter part of December. For prices and further particulars write

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

Flowers of various kinds have been arriving in fairly good quantities, but business has not been as brisk as it ought to be. In anticipation of Palm Sunday, there was an increase in the sale of palms and ferns, and many large palms were rented for church decoration. Hyacinths are plentiful, of good quality and medium in price. Potted geraniums are beginning to come into the market. Primroses are nearly gone. Sweet peas are selling well, the Spencers being a great favorite. Violets are plentiful, but many of them are becoming poor in quality. Many potted rose bushes came into the market during the week and have been in fairly good demand. Some of the local florists have had a fair demand for pussy willows, of which there are some good specimens in the market. Azaleas are plentiful and of good quality. There is also a good variety of tulips. Spiræas, snapdragons and orchids appeared in moderate quantities.

Many of the florists curtailed their stock a little last week, preparatory to putting in an extra large stock of flowers and plants for Easter. A number of the dealers have orders to decorate churches, and it is expected that large quantities of flowers will be sold to committees from other churches, where the committees in charge will do their own decorating.

Various Notes.

Strobell & Co., 895 to 897 Broad street, had some beautiful orchids in their window last week. They also had some excellent snapdragons. They report considerable funeral work.

A large sale of pussy willows is reported at Penek's Flower Shop, 637 Broad street. A great number of potted rose bushes were placed in stock last week.

There was a beautiful lot of spiræas at Wolfinger's, 683 Broad street, last week. They also had a fine lot of azaleas.

Among those participating in the trades' exhibits at the international flower show in New York were A. F. Jerome, of this city; Hitchings & Co., of Elizabeth, and S. P. Townsend & Co., of Orange. Peter Houck, Jr., of East Orange, took first prize in the class for private growers calling for 200 single violets. R. B. M.

Good, strong, well established plants in 2¼-inch pots of the exceedingly VALUABLE NEW ROSES

Ophelia, Francis Scott Key and Prince E. C. d'Arenberg

Growers will find all of these valuable additions to the list of standard varieties. They have been tested thoroughly and have been found to have exceptional value.

OPHELIA

No fancy rose ever introduced possesses so many excellent qualities. It is a splendid grower, a very free bloomer and has fine stems. It sells on sight. The demand undoubtedly will exceed the supply. Anticipating the large demand, we have propagated it extensively.

Strong plants on own roots. 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY

This variety, raised by Mr. John Cook, is very distinct, being entirely different from any of the indoor roses grown today. Flowers are rosy red and are unusually large and double, resembling very much a very full, double, hardy garden rose. Coupled with its large size and double form, it is an exceedingly free bloomer. It promises to be exceedingly valuable, especially for spring, summer and fall flowering, when other less double roses are difficult to handle. Its keeping qualities are remarkable.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

PRINCE E. C. D'ARENBERG

This variety might well have been termed a Red Killarney, as it possesses so many of the good qualities of the Killarneys. In color the flowers are similar to Richmond, but they are much more double, and it should prove a very much more profitable rose. Flowers have fine, straight stems on all the grades—from the shortest to the longest. It has fine foliage, comes away quickly and is even a freer bloomer than the Killarneys. We believe it is the best all-round red rose that we have today.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $12.00 per 100, $90.00 per 1000.

WE WILL BE GLAD TO QUOTE ON APPLICATION PRICES ON ALL THE NEWER AND STANDARD VARIETIES—STRONG, GRAFTED PLANTS READY NOW

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

All indications point to a good Easter business this year. Advance orders from out of town are already heavy and are still coming in. The city trade is not ordering heavily yet, but is making preparations for an extra large business. The cold nights have had a tendency to hold back the lilies, and it is possible there may be a slight shortage of this stock.

There seems to be a sufficient supply of everything but white carnations, which have been relatively scarce since St. Patrick's day. Spring stock is still good, owing to the cold weather. Violets seem to be shortening up. This is especially true of the singles. Fancy roses, such as Russell, Ophelia, Sunburst, etc., are not plentiful, as there is a heavy call for fancy stock, and the cut is hardly large enough to meet the demand. Carnations are in fine condition and are plentiful, with the exception of the white varieties. The plant trade is better than ever this year.

Various Notes.

Among the visitors last week were E. S. Austin, of Delavan, Wis.; H. Rowe, of Chicago; Miss Meyer, of the Rentschler Floral Co., Madison, Wis.; Ed. Winterson, of Chicago; L. Turner, of Kenosha, Wis., and J. E. Matthewson, of Sheboygan, Wis. H. J. S.

Winston-Salem, N. C.—A flower shop will be established in connection with the drug store to be opened shortly in the Smithdeal building, on West Fifth street, by George A., Fred N. and Robert H. Westbrook. The last two named, of Greensboro and Charlotte respectively, will not be actively engaged in the business. This will be in the hands of George A. Westbrook, who has been with the Norman-Perry Drug Co., on Trade street, for several years.

GROWERS OF PLANTS FOR THE TRADE

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Last week's market was only fair. The supply of stock continued large, and the demand failed to take up all of it. Only ordinary prices for flowers resulted. Shipping business is good. The general supply for Easter promises to be large and fully up to normal in every line except, possibly, carnations.

The cut of roses of all kinds is large and fully sufficient to take care of every immediate demand upon it. American Beauty offerings are again of high quality.

Carnations, while apparently enough for all immediate needs, still are not relatively as plentiful as other seasonable flowers are.

The bulbous lines, including Easter lilies, callas, rubrum lilies, both double and single tulips, jonquils, daffodils and Dutch hyacinths, are all well supplied. Other bulbous offerings include Narcissus poeticus and freesias. During last week their sale was only ordinary.

Sweet peas continue in heavy supply. They have a fair market, but bring only low prices. Valley, orchids and violets move slowly.

Various Notes.

C. E. Critchell has been receiving some fine American Beauties.

Last week's list of visitors included Paul Berkowitz, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; Ellis Woodworth, of Louisville, Ky., representing the Sefton Mfg. Co., Chicago; Oscar Leistner, of Chicago; Joseph Hill and George H. Fulle, both of Richmond, Ind.

The E. G. Hill Floral Co. had a window decoration last week which drew much attention and favorable comment. It was a spring scene, and was composed of a stump with its roots, a log covered with cork bark and a forsythia shrub, as the large parts of the arrangement. Genistas and daffodils were apparently growing from the earth around a lake, in which were goldfish, while a half-dozen canaries and two parrakeets were flying about. C. H. H.

Bailey's Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture.

First and second volumes just off the press. Remaining volumes will be issued as soon as possible. The following are a few of the features to be found in this new work:

KEY TO IDENTIFICATION OF PLANTS.

This is a device to enable one to find the name of a plant. The name thus found is quickly referred to under its alphabetical location, where full information will be found in regard to it.

SYNOPSIS OF PLANT KINGDOM.

This is one of the most important features of the new edition. It constitutes a general running account of the classes, orders and groups of plants, with a brief sketch or characterization of 215 of the leading families comprising those that yield practically all the cultivated plants. These family descriptions give the botanical characters and the number of genera and species and the ranges.

THE GLOSSARY.

This is an analysis of all technical terms that are used in the work and in similar works.

TRANSLATION AND PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN NAMES.

In Volume I is inserted a list of between 2,000 and 3,000 Latin words used as species—names of plants, giving the English equivalent or translation and the pronunciation.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

There are 24 colored plates, 96 full page sepia halftones, and more than 4,000 engravings which serve as guides in the text.

CLASS ARTICLES.

Special effort has been made to secure the best cultural advices for the plants requiring peculiar or particular handling.

GENERAL INDEX.

The final volume will contain a complete index to the entire work, enabling the reader to locate volume and page of any subject he has in mind. With the Index, Key, Synopsis and alphabetical arrangement of the Cyclopedia, any reasonable question asked by the consultant will receive a ready answer.

This work consists of six large quarto volumes, more than 3,600 pages, 500 collaborators, approximately 4,000 genera, 15,000 species and 40,000 plant names. Price, $6.00 per volume; $36.00 per set. Can be paid for one volume at a time.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

BOILER AT GREENHOUSE LEVEL.

Will you kindly inform me as to the best way of heating a single greenhouse, 20x60, with steam? The difficulty will be to get a good return. I cannot sink the boiler lower than the greenhouse, but can place it about level. Is there any means of helping the circulation that is cheaper than the steam trap? I am located in northern Tennessee. M. R. H.—Tenn.

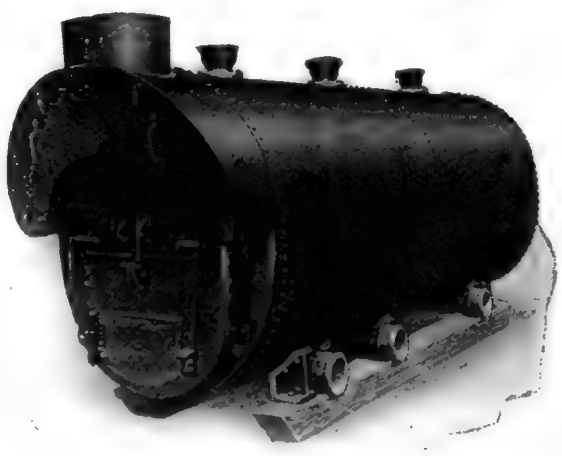
Even in a house of the size of the one described, it is desirable that the water level in the boiler be two feet below the level of the returns. If this arrangement cannot be secured, a steam trap will be found the cheapest way of handling the return water, unless cheap electric power is available, when an electric pump might be used. It is stated that the boiler can be "placed about level." If this means that the top of the boiler will be about level with the floor of the greenhouse, it will probably be possible to use a gravity system if the returns are placed on the walls.

To heat a house 20x60 feet, without glass in the side walls, to 60 degrees when the temperature is at zero outside, I would run a 2-inch main about two feet below the ridge to the farther end of the house and there connect it with four 1¼-inch returns on each of the side walls, raising them two feet above the water level of the boiler.

REBUILDING AND ENLARGING.

Will you please give me some information concerning the heating of my greenhouses? I expect to change my location, moving my two greenhouses to the east part of town. The houses are each 25x60. When I rebuild them I shall place them end to end, making a house 120 feet long. The two houses are heated with a Kroeschell hot water boiler. There are twenty-six 1½-inch pipes and thirteen 2-inch pipes, arranged in coils in the two houses. Would it be possible to convert the Kroeschell boiler into a steam boiler? If possible, how should it be done? Would the present piping be sufficient to heat, with steam, the two present houses, erected end to end, and one additional house 28¾x120? The temperature in the new house will be for carnations, 50 to 52 degrees at night. I shall use part of the old houses for roses, requiring a night temperature of 56 to 58 degrees, or possibly 60 degrees. Please answer this as soon as possible, as I am figuring now on a steam boiler. G. F. P.—Ill.

The Kroeschell hot water boiler cannot be readily changed to a steam boiler. In fact, while steam boilers may be used for hot water heating with more or less efficiency, it is not possible to use hot water boilers for steam heating unless a steam dome is added.



The amount of piping mentioned would answer well to heat the houses described up to 60 degrees. The carnation house may be heated by running a 2-inch flow pipe on each of the plates and connecting them at the farther end with four 1½-inch returns on each wall, or a part of the returns may be under

WHAT THE USERS SAY ABOUT KROESCHELL BOILERS

Kroeschell Boiler—Half the Coal and Half the Work

Your No. 13 Boiler is carrying 25,000 sq. ft. of glass, and I can keep it at 60° in the coldest weather without any trouble. I have three Sectional Cast Iron boilers also, heating a range of 25,000 sq. ft. of glass, but the No. 13 Kroeschell Boiler only takes half the coal and half the work to get the same results.
J. G. FRISZ, Vincennes, Ind.

Kroeschell versus Cast Iron

The No. 7 Boiler I bought from you is heating 14,000 sq. ft. of glass; I think it can take care of 16,000 ft. I do not have any trouble to keep up temperature of 50° in the coldest weather. I fire only once after 12 o'clock midnight. The boiler has given perfect satisfaction. I have four cast iron boilers—like the Kroeschell best of all. If anyone wishes to inquire about your boiler, let them write me, for I think your boilers are good ones. CHARLES SCHULTZ, Menominee, Mich.

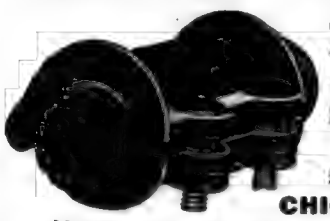
Cast Iron Boilers Waste Fuel

I bought a No. 3 Boiler in 1901. We had a corrugated cast iron fire box boiler and sectional cast iron boiler before we bought yours in 1901. The cost of heating with this boiler is one-half less than it was with my cast iron boilers. Your No. 8 boiler, which we bought recently of you, is not being run to its full capacity.
WM. GEENEN, Kimberly, Wis.



Kroeschell Better than Cast Iron

The Kroeschell boiler is indeed a dandy and beats any cast iron boiler we have had any experience with. Respectfully,
A. BECKRINK,

In regard to the Kroeschell Boiler, will say that we are well satisfied, as it heats quickly and also is a coal saver. H. KEITSCH & SON, the benches. For the rose house use three 2-inch flows, one being below the ridge, with five 1½-inch returns and one 2-inch return.

TO IMPROVE THE CIRCULATION.

Kindly let me know how I should pipe a greenhouse 25x150, three-quarter-span and nine feet high to the ridge, with 16-foot rafters on the south side and 10-foot rafters on the north side. There are thirty inches of glass in the south wall and a 5-foot stone wall on the north side, with eight windows, two feet six inches by two feet ten inches, fifteen feet apart. I have a 48-horsepower, tubular steam boiler and require a temperature of 48 to 60 degrees. The ends of the house are glass. There are raised benches. Carnations or tomatoes are grown, in different years. The house runs east by west and is exposed to strong west winds; 10 degrees below zero is the limit. The glass is mostly 16x24.

We expect to enlarge the house; that is the reason for the large size of the boiler and the use of steam heat. The returned condensation has only about one and a half to two feet of a drop and that does not seem to work; the circulation is poor and we think we can improve it if we can place the pipes high enough. So we have pulled out the piping and now wish to get expert advice as to how to do the repiping properly. F. B. C.—Mass.

In order to secure a better distribution of the heat in the house, I would prefer to run a 1½-inch flow on each plate and another under the ridge, and connect each of them with three 1¼-inch returns, those at the sides to be carried on the walls and the others to be distributed under the benches, all being carried as high as possible. I am in doubt as to just how high the middle returns can be carried and hardly like the idea of running an overhead flow in the middle of a low house where tomatoes are to be grown. It would be al right for carnations, especially as the middle run might be cut out in mild weather. If there is room for the necessary drop, I would put in a coil of four 1¼-inch pipes under the middle benches and connect them at the boiler end, bringing the drip back in a common return.

DETROIT.

Breitmeyer's opened their beautiful new store, in the David Whitney building, March 27. This is, without any exception, the best appointed flower store in Detroit. No expense has been spared in equipping the store, which is located on a corner just opposite the new Hotel Statler. The store itself is about 18x45 feet, with fine show windows at the front and side.

E. A. Fetters reports business as being excellent in his new location. For the last week an immense marguerite plant has attracted hundreds of people to the window. This plant is referred to on a card as being the largest of the kind in America and no doubt it is. Mr. Fetters has started a guessing contest and the person guessing nearest to the number of blooms on the plant on Saturday, April 3, will receive a five-dollar box of flowers on Easter Sunday.

A distinguished member of the Detroit Florists' Club, E. A. Scribner, paid the Schroeter-Stahelin Co. a visit last week.

J. F. Sullivan has an exceptionally fine lot of lilies this year and is disposing of his surplus to good advantage among local retailers.

B. Schroeter has his usual fine lot of plants, among them being some really wonderful Rhododendron Pink Pearl.

The weather turned severely cold on Sunday, March 28, and Monday morning the thermometer registered 14 degrees. Let us hope that when this is in print it will be 40 degrees, with nice, clear weather.

Many automobile firms are now seeing the advisability of attracting attention to their cars in other ways than by just placing a few cars in the salesroom window and the florists are being called upon to lend a hand. The usual method is to make a beautiful scene, either summer or winter, depending upon the style of car shown, and to place a car in the foreground. Some firms, like the Studebaker Co., change their windows every week. H. S.

The Market.

Several sunny days have helped the growers wonderfully in forcing their Easter plants and cut flowers. Flowers of all kinds are in fine condition and stock is plentiful. We have bright prospects for Easter and think it will be a record-breaker. Azaleas, rhododendrons, tulips, hyacinths, daffodils, cinerarias, deutzias and all other blooming plants that one could desire can be found in their most radiant colors in any of the greenhouses in the city. As to cut flowers, roses are plentiful, with good color and stem. Carnations are in good supply and the demand enough to take care of the crop. Long-stemmed American Beauties were quite scarce last week. The fine grade of sweet peas on the market, especially the Spencer varieties, has decreased the sale of violets to some extent. Snapdragons are in fine crop, but as yet the demand is not good. Bulbous stock of all kinds is fine and brings a good price. Lilies are in good supply and sell well.

Various Notes.

J. Jackson and J. Johnson, who have been held by local authorities for passing bogus checks on florists, were sentenced to the state penitentiary by Judge Brough, of the Common Pleas court.

William Feniger has a number of extra clerks engaged for the great rush. He told the writer that he felt it in his bones that this week will be a record-breaker.

Mrs. E. Suder has her conservatory decorated most beautifully with many new varieties of rose plants. The conservatory is an excellent place for a fine display. A large fountain in the center, with goldfish around the base, gives the room the appearance of a palace garden.

John Helmer has severed his connections with Harry Heinl. The call of city life was too strong for Mr. Helmer, after seventeen years of employment with Mr. Heinl at the West Toledo branch.

Metz & Bateman and John Barrow & Son have rented extra stores in the downtown district to afford facilities for handling the Easter trade.

Jacob Helmer, chauffeur for Miss Helen Patten, has purchased a car and contemplates engaging in the jitney business, which is a predominent idea in Toledo at the moment.

George Schramm, of Schramm Bros., has resumed his duties at the store after a severe attack of pneumonia.

The Market.

Business appears to be livening up considerably, and since the beginning of March trade has far exceeded expectations. Stock is looking healthy and everything points to a fine Easter trade.

Various Notes.

A large number of prominent growers gathered at St. George's hall, Toronto, March 18, and an association was formed called the Ontario Flower Growers' Association. Its purpose is the cooperation of flower growers throughout the province of Ontario.

T. W. Duggan paid a visit to Hamilton, March 22, and found trade there with little to complain of.

J. H. Dunlop, of Toronto, with his son and Geo. M. Geraghty, paid a visit to the Dale Estate last week. W. H. Gray, of Dundas; George Davidson, of Hamilton, and S. A. Frost, of Toronto, were also visitors. W. G. P.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Next Club Meeting.

The Minnesota State Florists' Association will hold its regular meeting in the Palm room of the Hotel St. Paul, corner of Fifth and St. Peter streets, St. Paul, Thursday, April 8. A spring flower exhibition will be held, for which a number of premiums are offered, consisting mainly of bulbs donated by Holland firms, the value of the premiums being about $8 for first and $5 for second prize. The prizes are for the best six pans, not over 10-inch, of daffodils or jonquils, single tulips, double tulips and Dutch hyacinths; the best six pots of Easter lilies, one bulb to the pot, and the best specimen, any variety, of lilac, hydrangea, polyantha rose, climbing rose, azalea and rhododendron. Exhibits of other stock will be judged and awarded diplomas, certificates of merit, etc.

After the business meeting, at 7 p. m., will be held the general meeting, at 8, the subject for which will be, "What Can the Commercial Florist Do for the Amateur Gardener?" The members of the Men's Garden Club and Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Paul and of the Minnesota Garden Flower Association have been invited to participate in the discussion. Lawrence Hodgson will address the meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

Co., is making a large planting of dahlias and gladioli.

Fred Burki, of Pittsburgh, Pa., left last week for Portland, Ore.

Carl Purdy, at Ukiah, has a fine crop of Darwin tulips, daffodils and other bulbous stock, the supply of which at nearby points is giving out. A good deal of Mr. Purdy's stock is being shown here by the Hogan-Kooyman Co.

The Misses Hannon, at 1438 Polk street, say the exposition has so far been a detriment to the house trade, as most San Francisco people are spending as much time as possible out at the grounds. They look for a substantial improvement, however, as the season advances.

Lundberg's Flower Shop, on Polk street, did some decorative work in the New York state building at the exposition last week.

Cleis & Jacobsen, formerly at Fillmore and McAllister streets, have been located on Fillmore, near Haight street, about a year, and feel that they have a much better location than the old one.

Navarret Bros., who some time ago sold out the New Rosery, at California and Devisadero streets, to Louis Ghiotto, resumed business about three weeks ago at 1422 Haight street, under the name of the Sunset Floral Co., and are getting nicely started in their new location. The store which they formerly conducted was recently taken over by Mr. Olson.

H. E. Hallawell, of the Hallawell Seed Co., says business has been rushing this month, making up for the dull times of February. The heaviest run, he says, is on fruit trees and vegetable seeds, though he has a good demand for plants for bedding, flower seeds and bulbs.

Mr. Cohen, of Cohen & Figone, in the Ferry building, says business is not all that it should be, as there have been too many street venders for the last six months, and there are too many flowers grown for the probable business, but he believes the exposition will help greatly later on.

The town of San Leandro, Cal., will hold its second annual flower show April 9 and 10, in the auditorium of the San Leandro grammar school. Wild flowers from all parts of the state will be shown, and a number of prizes are offered for garden exhibits.

G. H. Evans, of 323 Clement street, has purchased a 40-acre place near Occidental, Cal., where he expects to make his home. A. P. B.

Marshfield, Ore.—For March 6, annual clean-up day in this city, a committee made arrangements with the Drews Floral Co. for the latter to supply rosebushes to the citizens at reduced prices. Over 1,000 bushes were disposed of, and a large quantity of shrubbery.

Four Flower Shows.

At least four flower shows will be held in this city the coming summer, and, as a result, the season is expected to be an unusually busy one in florists' circles. The Newport Horticultural Society will have its annual rose exhibition in June; the American Sweet Pea Society, an exhibition in connection with its annual convention at the Newport Casino, July 8 and 9, the Newport Garden Association and the Newport Horticultural Society joining in the event. The outdoor show of the Newport Garden Club and the Newport Horticultural Society will be held August 12 to 14; and in the following week, August 18 and 19, the American Gladiolus Society will hold its fifth annual exhibition, under the auspices of the Garden Association and the Horticultural Society. The outdoor flower show, which will be similar to that given by the two associations at Belcourt last summer, is being planned on a much more elaborate scale and the schedule, which is being arranged by the Horticultural Society, will be ready in a few days. Negotiations are in progress for a large vacant lot on Bellevue avenue, which will afford ample room for an artistic layout. Cut flowers, plants and vegetables will be exhibited, for which suitable and substantial prizes will be offered.

Various Notes.

Carl Jurgens is receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends on the visit of the stork to his home March 21 with a bouncing boy.

There is a movement to hold a merchants' week here in the near future, and among those who have signified their intention of participating are a number of florists.

Andrew K. McMahon was elected superintendent of the Island cemetery for the thirty-second consecutive year at the annual meeting of the corporation last week.

H. J. Hass reports an increased demand this season for small and medium sized lilac bushes, both white and purple.

Valdemar Barth has accepted a foremanship in Wadley & Smythe's nurseries on Vernon avenue, under the management of Albert J. Smythe.

Robert Craig Says His Skinner System "Both Saves and Makes Money"

It saves money by saving labor and water.

It makes money by producing better plants.

It solves those most difficult of problems, the proper watering and preservation of air moisture so vital to the foliage plants grown so extensively by them.

The Scatter Mist nozzles used make a spray so fine that it settles down on the plants much as do the shifting fogs of the tropical climate in which these plants are at home.

To come anywhere near these results is next to impossible with hand watering.

A Try-out Try

$11.75 will buy a 50-foot Complete Portable Line, all ready to connect up. Order it. Try it out. Convince yourself. If payment is included with the order we will send you two sets of nozzles—the Scatter Mist for inside use; the Silver Stream for outside.

FLORISTS' REVIEW

When Writing Advertisers

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

THE GENTLE ART OF LAWN MAKING

There is a Profitable Part as well as a Gentle Art to Lawn Making, and the Florist gets acquainted with the former by learning about the latter. If you are looking for something in the way of an income-increaser just now, keep on reading.

IN THE spring the housewife's fancy sprightly springs to sowing seed; mainly grass seed. So she tells hubby to stop at the florist's for a package. Of course, she doesn't always; that is, there are more than one she, and they don't all do the same thing. Mrs. Made-O'Money leaves the whole matter to the head gardener. Mrs. T. W. Twobits gets a paper sack of seed at her grocer's. But a great many buy a carton of Somebody's Marvelous Lawn Mixture at the florist's. And where a florist has been enterprising enough to work up trade of that kind, they often ask him to send a man around to make the lawn for them.

Opportunity's Knocking.

It goes without saying that every florist, as well as the seedsmen, ought to have a corner of his window given over at this time of year to a display of grass seed, to call attention to the fact that the time is at hand for its use and that it can be obtained at the florist's store. What if the butcher, the grocer and the hardware man do handle it? They wouldn't, if the florist pushed it hard enough to bring all the buyers in his neighborhood into his store.

In addition, the florist can make the coin come faster by adding lawn-making to his list of sidelines. Hundreds of florists do it now. Thousands might. The men employed later in setting out bedding plants can well be engaged now in making lawns. Those who are planting trees and shrubs can put in their time on the lawns as well.

That a great deal of such work is needed, the most contrary-minded person will not deny. No matter how beautiful a residence may be, no matter how well planted are the trees, shrubberies, herbaceous borders, etc., if the lawn is of mediocre quality, the whole picture is spoiled. There are too many of these spoiled pictures.

Of course, it is to be admitted that the lawns of this country cannot rival the lawns of England, for we have not the ideal climatic conditions. But we can approach them closely, particularly along the northern Atlantic seaboard, at such noted resorts as Bar Harbor, Me., Newport, R. I., and the northern shore of Massachusetts, where the comparatively cool summer nights and not infrequent fogs help to make verdant lawns. In most sections, our hot summers and severe winters kill some of the grasses which luxuriate in Europe, no matter how well they are cared for.

Excellent lawns, however, can be obtained in other localities than the above-mentioned flocking places of the 400. Millionaire homes and gilt-edged golf clubs have not a monopoly of grassy tracts of the first quality. Provided the proper care is given, lawns may be secured that will win the praise of the most exacting horticulturist and excite the admiration of even those who view flowers, trees and shrubs of rare form and color with complete indifference. Suitable soil and seed, proper preparation, and painstaking weeding, watering, rolling and feeding all are necessary.

To extract profit from the making of lawns, the florist must know the requirements exactly. And even if he is only selling the seed, he should be well acquainted with the whole operation. For therein lies his means of drawing trade: He is an expert; the grocer sells seed only as a merchant. Giving good advice is a cheap and easy, but an effective, method of advertising.

Sowing the Seed.

Most lawns are seeded in spring. This has grown to be a habit, just as the planting of all trees, shrubs and perennials is usually left until that strenuous season. This, however, is not the best time to seed lawns, August and September seeding giving much better results. The grasses, when sown at that time, receive the fall rains and have roots of good length before the time of the summer droughts. But if the work has been left until spring, now is the time it should be done.

Such a Lawn as this Brings Pleasure to Owner and Profit to Florist.

In order to secure a good lawn, it is vitally necessary to have soil of good depth; one foot is good, but two feet is better. All stones and gravel should be removed. The upper soil should be rich and thoroughly pulverized. For fertilizer, cow or sheep manure is preferable to stable manure. The latter will yield a wealth of weed seeds. The manure should be well incorporated and covered. If decayed manure is not procurable, use a good lawn fertilizer. Fine bone and wood ashes are good. Pulverized sheep manure is valuable. Natural manures are preferable to artificial ones, as they place so much humus in the soil.

Fertilizer should be used at the rate of 1,500 to 2,000 pounds per acre when seeding down. It should be well forked, hoed or harrowed in, and the ground made as smooth as possible before seeding. Select a day as free from wind as possible for sowing seed. It is difficult to sow evenly; only practice can accomplish that. Then, using iron rakes, remove all stones, sticks and similar material carefully, after which give a rolling; the heavier the roller the better. On a small piece of ground tramping answers well, or firming may be done with the back of a spade or shovel. If the soil is loose, it is well to firm it somewhat before seeding.

What Seed?

There is no better grass than Kentucky blue, or June grass for the average lawn. Some of the best lawns I have in mind contain hardly any other grass, but I think that a little best quality red top and Rhode Island bent will improve it. The Kentucky blue grass is a little slow in starting, but once established it beats every other grass in the catalogue. For southern lawns, Bermuda grass, Cynodon Dactylon, gives the best results. In sowing the small home plot, it may be estimated that one pound will sow a patch of 500 square feet. For an acre, sixty pounds of the best cleaned seed should suffice. It is not a good plan to sow too thickly; the individual plants have greater vigor when not crowded. Dutch clover should be used where there is danger of grasses dying down badly in summer; this is a heavy seed, and should be sown separately to secure its even distribution. One pound to a bushel of the other seed is ample.

Cutting and Watering.

Do not make the first cutting of a new lawn until the grass is four or five inches high. Then use a scythe and not the lawn mower. It is a good plan to go over the lawn and weed it before the first mowing. When artificial watering is done, select cloudy days, evenings or nights for the work when possible, and do it thoroughly; constant sprinklings do more harm than good in hot, droughty weather. Lawns should have one or two sprinklings of fine bone or some other fertilizer through the growing season. Do not use barnyard manure as a winter or spring top-dressing except as a last resort. It is unsightly, insanitary, brings in hordes of weed seeds and often smothers many of the grasses. Do not cut lawns too short in dry weather, and, unless the crop of grass is heavy, leave it on as a mulch during the summer. This is better than raking or sweeping every vestige away.

RETAIL STORE MANAGEMENT

WHAT THE LEADERS IN THE TRADE ARE DOING

HOLM & OLSON'S YEARLY TRADE.

Reported by Samuel Seligman.

The size of the business transacted each year by a store that is ranked among the largest in the country cannot be closely measured. Approximate figures that are as accurate as possible are, however, of interest. The following are the approximate quantities of stock handled by Holm & Olson, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., in a year:

American Beauties	15,000
Roses	300,000
Carnations	600,000
Valley	150,000
Orchids	10,000
Violets	500,000
Bulbous flowers	1,000,000
Other flowers	2,000,000
Cut ferns	1,000,000
Adiantum and asparagus	150,000
Mexican ivy	200,000
Southern smilax, cases	300
Wire frames	15,000
Cut flower boxes	100,000
Blooming plants	50,000

Designs to the value of $50,000 are not included in the above figures.

The store in which the above business is done covers 15,200 square feet of floor space, having a frontage of fifty feet, most of which is devoted to window display space eight feet deep. The accessories require 14,654 square feet of shelf space, and include vases, jardinieres, pottery, baskets, etc., from the plainest conventional designs to the novelties of all shapes, styles and materials of European and American manufacture. To take care of the stock, 4,219 cubic feet of refrigeration is required, using 500 tons of ice annually. A display conservatory in the rear covers 2,340 square feet of floor space. Fifteen hundred palms are on hand constantly, in addition to ferns and other decorative plants. Four automobiles and two wagons compose the delivery equipment. The store force numbers thirty-five.

The firm operates in addition to the store a range of 60,000 feet of glass, and a nursery department, which employs from twenty-five to 100 men the year around. The selling territory includes ten states and part of Canada. Approximately 20,000 shipments of flowers are made annually.

GEORGE RYE'S HORSESHOE.

Not only the flower arrangement in the horseshoe shown in the illustration on this page, but also the wirework was the product of George Rye, of Fort Smith, Ark. The piece was the donation of the employees of the concern upon the occasion of the opening of the Wolf-Pollock department store, which occurred early in March. The horseshoe measured four feet. The upper half was made of White Killarney roses and the lower half of Killarney. The entire frame was studded with violets and the outer row with sweet peas. Some carnations also were used.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THIS?

A subscriber in a western city where business is good and competition keen sends The Review a newspaper cutting, the advertisement of another florist, offering "special for Saturday—twenty-five spring flowers for 50 cents, or fifty spring flowers and a bunch of violets for $1." The subscriber says in part:

"We have been wondering what the attitude of The Review is in regard to such advertisements as the enclosed clipping, where the florists' business is dragged down into the gutter and put on a par with the so-called 10-cent store proposition. Our friend makes a business of running a special every Saturday. We would like to know if the trade really thinks this is business or foolhardiness. There might be some excuse for running sales of this kind on an off day in the week, but it seems to us poor policy to have them on Saturday, when the natural conditions of trade are fairly good. Saturday is the one day of the week when the florist can really have a chance to get a fair price for good stock.

"In conclusion, it would give us, and no doubt other florists throughout the country, great pleasure if some stand were taken and a campaign of education inaugurated against such unethical business methods. For ourselves, we can say that we have never found it necessary to cut prices to move goods, nor to advertise so-called sales, nor to put a lot of price signs in the windows, or on goods in the windows. The back door is too handy for surplus stock, or charitable and worthy institutions will gladly accept any surplus goods that we cannot get a fair price for in the regular way."

The Review assumes most florists are in the business to make a living, and that they will take the course that seems to them to offer the best chance to achieve that result, but The Review holds that it is the duty of every florist to work with two objects in view: To increase the number of flower buyers, and to educate flower buyers to the appreciation of a superior grade of stock, artistic workmanship and good service; in a word, to pay a fair price for something worth the money. What do The Review's readers think?

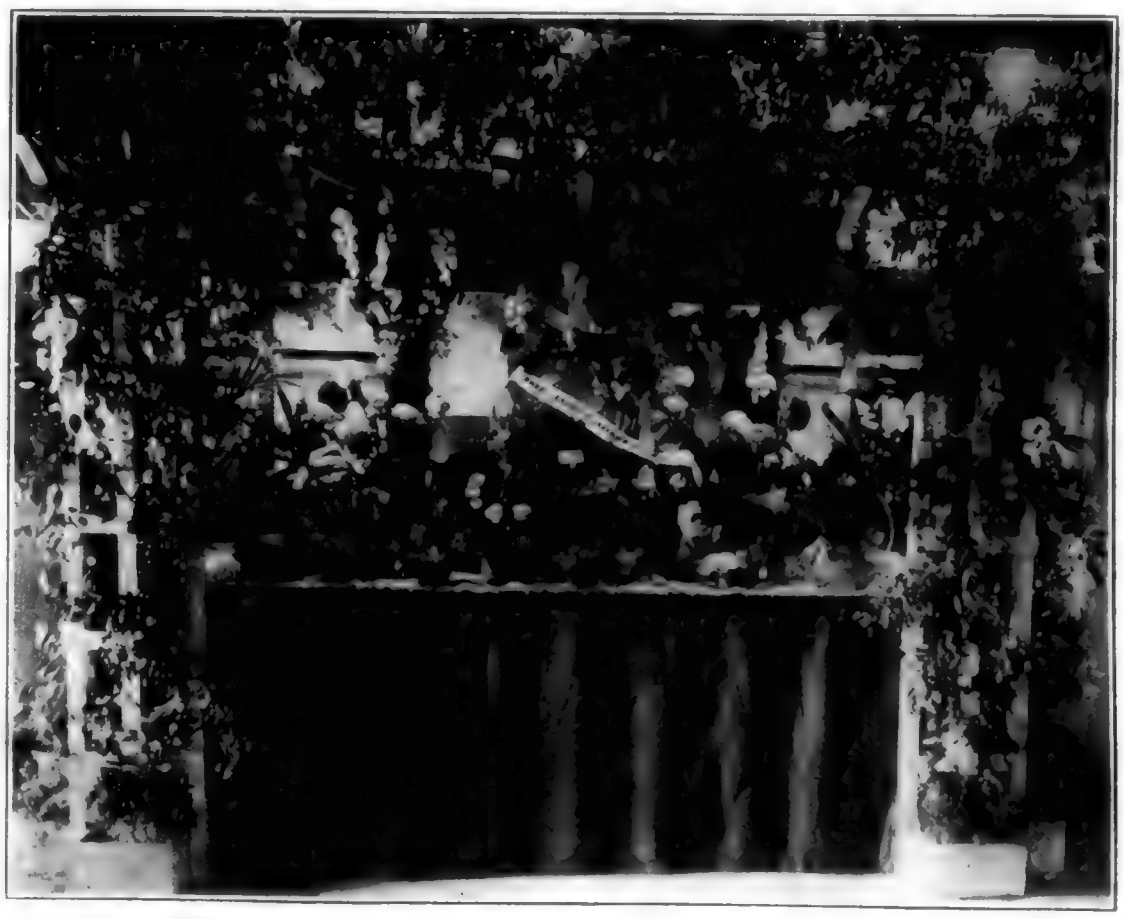
SUNDAY CLOSING.

In these days, when the Saturday night closing movement has been the subject of so many discussions among florists, would it not be in place to mention Sunday closing? The florists' business of the year 1915 is quite different from what it was twenty-five years ago; still it seems to remain, in many respects, on the same track as it was on then. For instance, take the Sunday forenoon "open shop." Is there any more tiresome, weakening and discouraging experience, after a heavy day's labor on Saturday, than to leave one's family and the comforts of home and go down to the store for three, four or five hours' work?

How greatly Sunday rest is needed can only be understood by those who work from ten to eleven hours daily, six days a week, not only expending their physical energy, but also putting much thought into their work. The successful retail florist nowadays is the one who not only is artistic in his work, but also original in his ideas. Here is where one of the bad effects of Sunday work comes in. If a person does not get complete rest on Sunday, rest for mind, soul and body, he cannot put in the same quality of work as the person who has had the rest. If the florist who has employees, and who likes to see his work turned out in a creditable style, would look into this matter more earnestly, he soon would find that Sunday work is a loss to him instead of a gain.

The writer has been employed in large establishments in Europe and there was never such a thing as Sunday work in any of them. Instead, the stores were kept open late on Saturday night, and all the would-be Sunday orders were then made up and delivered. The customers were all familiar with this practice and such a thing as a Sunday delivery was never asked for. If some leading florist would consider this idea of Sunday closing and push it through to success, the whole trade would be benefited. O. S.

EASTER WINDOW DISPLAY.



Perhaps the window artists can gain a suggestion or two from the accompanying illustration showing the window of the downtown store of Mrs. L. P. Fowler, at Wilmington, N. C., as it appeared during the three days before Easter last year. The color scheme was purple and white, the Easter colors. Each day a new arrangement was made, to keep its drawing power as high as possible. That it had drawing power is proved by the fact that over 3,000 ladies visited the store during the time the display occupied the window. The decoration was the work of L. A. Koeth, the manager of the store.

Another piece of work by Mr. Koeth that was of a high order is shown in the other illustration. This was Mrs. L. P. Fowler's display at the last floral and corn show at Wilmington, which won a special gold prize as the most artistic arrangement of cut flowers and plants. This was the first public display made by the concern. The pergola was decorated with crepe wistarias in pink and purple and southern smilax.

PELARGONIUMS NOT FLOWERING.

Please let me know what is wrong with my pelargoniums. They are big, hardy plants and nothing seems wrong with them, only there is not a bloom in sight on them. We keep them in a temperature of 55 degrees at night and 60 to 70 degrees during the day. The time for their sale is coming and they have no blooms. M. N.—Pa.

You are keeping your pelargoniums far too warm. Reduce the temperature to 45 degrees at night. Air freely, fumigate once a week for aphis, give full sunshine and you will see flower buds on your plants before long. Pelargoniums want cool treatment to be grown successfully. They are not winter bloomers, like the zonale pelargoniums; their natural flowering period is from April 15 to June 15. One or two varieties, such as Easter Greeting and Clorinda, will flower much earlier than the average large-flowered varieties. C. W.

BLIND WOOD ON GERANIUMS.

We have been troubled for the last two seasons with blind growth on our Ricard and Beaute Poitevine geraniums. Last season, for the first time in our experience of about ten years, a large number of our geraniums refused to bloom, producing instead a blunt terminal growth. The foliage of some of the plants had a mottled appearance, and on other plants the leaves were deformed and wrinkled. We have been culling the plants rigidly since taking them in last fall. In fact, we were not aware of housing plants from the field that showed any signs of the trouble. It is, however, still appearing, but only on the above named varieties. The other varieties grown under the same conditions successfully are Nutt, Landry, Perkins, Viaud, Castellane, Jaulin and white. W. K.—Mich.

I do not think that anything in your culture has caused the geraniums to throw blind wood. My experience has been that it all depends on care in the selection of cuttings. A few years ago I had a somewhat similar experience with a batch of Nutt and General Grant. One year two or three plants showed some blind wood. These were not sold, but planted out for stock. They started away near the ground and made a nice crop of cuttings, which were propagated, and the result was that towards spring I found a considerable portion were blind. I would throw away every plant which throws any blind wood at all. If this is done, I think you will soon overcome the trouble. No spraying will be of any value. For plants which are not blind but have a somewhat starved appearance, try a couple of weak doses of nitrate of soda water at intervals of ten to twelve days. C. W.

BLIGHTING OF THE LEAVES.

We are mailing you, under separate cover, samples of geranium and hydrangea leaves that are affected by some sort of rust or pest. Last season we lost thousands of geraniums and hundreds of hydrangeas because of this blighting of the leaves. As you may see, the trouble affects the edge of the leaf first, gradually approaching the center until the entire leaf is eaten away. We attributed it last year to our soil, which we thought might have been contaminated by street oil, as our compost pile was partly made up of street sweepings of horse manure. Our poinsettias were similarly affected. This year we are using a different soil, but still have the trouble. In fact, our geranium stock was in the same condition in the field last summer. Perhaps you can tell us whether it is a disease or is caused by a pest. In either case, what treatment would be beneficial? We have bought a good many geraniums from outside in the last few years and thought that perhaps we might have brought in the trouble in that way. S. F. C.—Mo.

The foliage forwarded had been attacked by a disease which seems to be increasingly prevalent among geraniums, but I have not hitherto known of the same trouble affecting poinsettias and hydrangeas. Your soil may be at fault and I would suggest that you send a sample of it to your state agricultural college and ask for an analysis. I think it quite probable that your soil contains too much acid and that a liming may correct this in large measure. The leaf disease you have is often caused by the specialists in geraniums keeping their cuttings too long in the propagating benches, or keeping the little pots in which they are rooted too crowded.

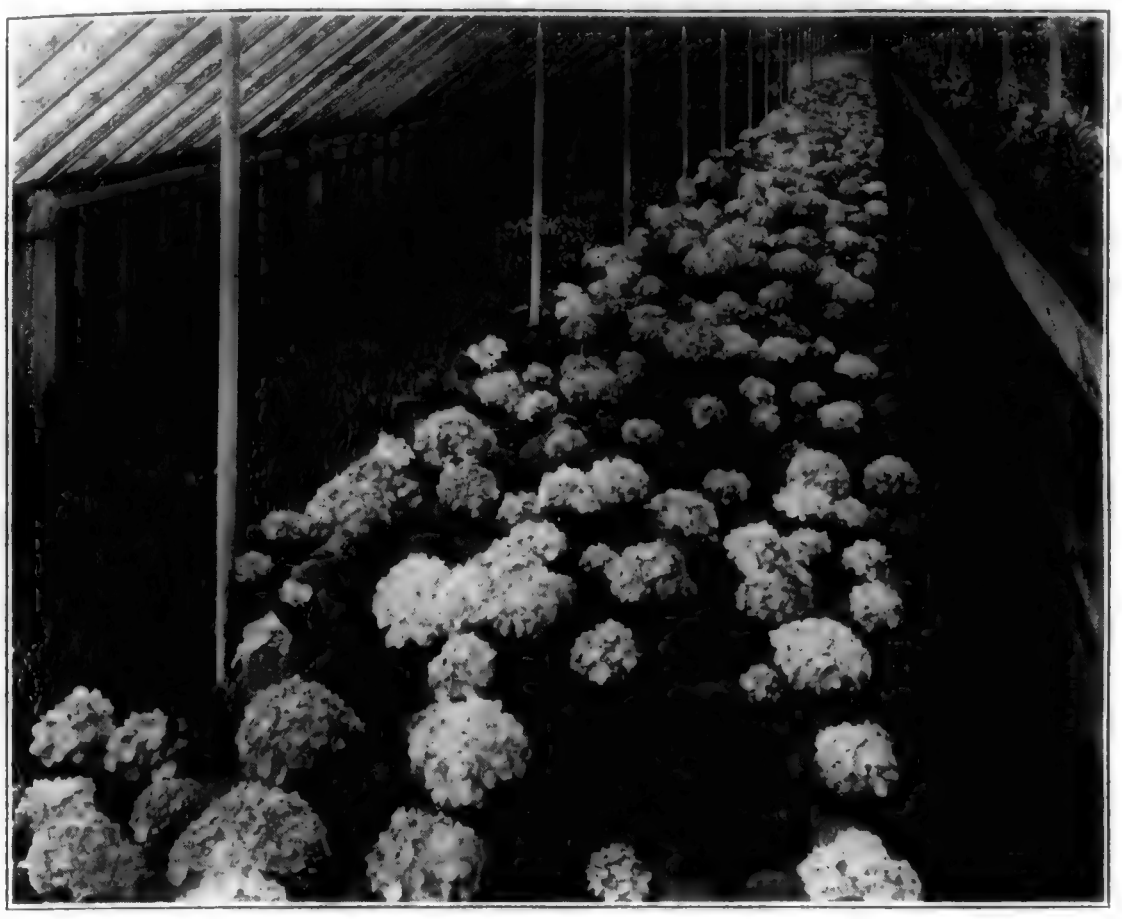
It would be best to throw away the worst affected stock. Keep the balance picked over and spaced apart a little more. Try to get new growth started on them. To assist in this, give the plants, providing they are well rooted in the pots, a watering with nitrate of soda water, using five pounds to fifty gallons of water. Repeat the watering in ten or twelve days. Also give the soil in the pots a sprinkling of fine bone, to encourage the roots to rise to the tops of the pots. Soot water is also good for greening up the foliage. Use black soft coal soot. Fill a bag with it and sink it in a barrel of water. Leave it there for a few days, stirring up occasionally. Use one part of the black liquid to five parts of water and apply once a week. This is good for any sickly plants.

Buying geraniums from outside may have brought in some of your trouble. Try to get clean stock and do your own propagating, which will prove vastly more satisfactory. Many growers sell out their stock too clean, leave little for planting out for themselves and depend on bought stock. No matter how carefully geranium specialists raise their plants and how carefully they pack, there is bound to be more or less loss to the purchaser, especially when long-distance shipments are made. If you are a long distance from reliable geranium specialists, that is all the more reason why you should do your own propagating.

Poinsettias are fickle subjects; too much or too little water, improper feeding or a chill from low temperature may be responsible for loss of foliage.

C. W.

FIFTY PER CENT SPLIT.



A large percentage of our carnation blooms are coming split, perhaps fifty per cent or more. We have tried to find the cause of the trouble, but so far have failed. Our temperature is even, 48 to 52 degrees at night, with the proper rise in the daytime. Some parts of the three houses are slightly warmer than others and some of each variety of the Enchantress family are in solid beds and some in well drained benches, but all are splitting alike, so we conclude that the trouble is not one of temperature or watering.

We probably fed them with manure water a little too heavily in December and January, but we stopped when the splitting commenced and have given nothing since except an application of lime in February. At present the plants are in strong growth, with fine quality of stem and flower, and are apparently healthy, but are splitting as badly as they did a month ago. Can it be that the plant food in the soil is poorly balanced?

The soil in which they are planted was composted the fall before, with three parts of soil to one part of horse manure, and the manure water we used was from horse manure. A good carnation grower recently told me he did not use manure water, because it furnished only nitrogen and no potash or phosphoric acid. Is there any truth in this? What is the difference between cattle and horse manure for liquid feeding? Is pigeon manure good for this purpose? J. P. K.—Md.

The splitting of the calyx is not always due to either overfeeding or improper night temperature, although these are the most frequent causes. It is quite probable, however, that your liquid feeding last December contributed in a greater or less degree to your troubles.

We find that if a prolonged spell of cloudy weather is followed by a spell of bright, sunny weather, any variety that is inclined to split the calyx will most likely do some splitting. It is caused by a sudden spurt in the growth of the flower buds, which puts more strain on the calyx than it is able to bear. If the culture has been moderate, the splitting may be inconsiderable, but if the plants have been crowded with rich food, the results are likely to be more or less serious. The dose of lime you applied would only have aggravated the trouble, because the lime liberated additional plant food, when the plants already had too much. The plant food is not poorly balanced. There is simply too much of it. I would suggest holding the day temperature down within 10 degrees of the night temperature on bright days. On cloudy days give a rise of only 5 degrees. Water moderately, but do not allow the plants to suffer, or the splitting will be aggravated again. As spring approaches, the trouble will cease.

The use of manure water is growing less general among carnation growers. We find that little feeding is needed until after the holidays, and then we use sheep manure, dried blood and either wood ashes or lime, giving the food in moderate doses and frequently enough to keep the plants going steadily. Large doses would cause the petals to soften, which means poor substance and sleepy carnations. Especially is this true during cloudy weather.

Cattle manure is considered the most complete plant food, but we have used stable manure exclusively for a number of years, for mixing with the soil as well as for mulching. We supplement it, however, with sheep manure, dried blood and lime, as already stated. If we used cattle manure, we might possibly dispense with the sheep manure and the blood, at least partly. I would not recommend pigeon manure for feeding your carnations. The cattle and horse manures are safer and perhaps more efficient. A. F. J. B.

DONALDSON HOUSES AT EASTER.

Preparations for a heavy Easter business were made by the L. S. Donaldson Co., Minneapolis. To show the public the extent of the preparations, the usual Palm Sunday opening was held at the greenhouses, drawing a large attendance of Minneapolis and St. Paul flower lovers. The two accompanying illustrations are an indication of what they saw there.

William Desmond made elaborate provision for the event. On display were 8,000 lilies in full bloom and 3,500 azaleas, genistas in various shapes, and hydrangeas of the French varieties, pink, white and blue in color. In the center of the palm house was a fountain, with an old-fashioned windmill in the center, operated by a waterfall. This piece of ornamentation was much admired by the visitors. The managers of the various departments of the L. S. Donaldson Co. store were detailed by Mr. Desmond to look after the comfort of the sightseers.

Ample provision was made for large Easter sales at the store. Extra space was given over to the flower department. The large window facing Nicollet avenue was turned over to Mr. Desmond in which to show his blooming plants for the holiday.

Mr. Desmond has had a successful season and has everything in the best of shape. For this he has won the congratulations of the heads of the big department store.

LILIES FOR CHRISTMAS.

What is the best soil for lilies and when should they be planted to have them in bloom for Christmas? What is the best variety for Christmas and midwinter? M. W. C.—Mich.

The best lilies for winter flowering are cold storage Lilium longiflorum giganteum. These should be potted early in September and given an average night temperature of not less than 60 degrees at night. Formosa lilies are also becoming increasingly popular. Pot these as soon as they arrive, which is usually early in August. These have much longer stems than the giganteums, and, if you want cut flowers only, are the best variety for you to plant. L. Harrisii, planted in July, will also flower for Christmas, as will L. speciosum from retarded bulbs. C. W.

LILY FOLIAGE WITHERING.

A grower in this city has requested me to send you a lily plant, which I am forwarding under separate cover. He would like to know what has caused the plant to be in its present bad condition. W. J. B.—Mo.

The plant had half its foliage withered. I should say that the miserable condition of the plant may have been caused by bad soil, incorrect treatment or too low a temperature in the early stages of growth. Bulbs immaturely dug would also develop trouble of this kind. Giganteum lilies must have heat from the start; a temperature of 60 degrees at night is none too high, and careful watering in the early stages of growth is really of more importance than the compost. SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Hydrangeas for Memorial Day.

You have probably disposed of a good many hydrangeas for Easter, especially the new French varieties, which have come to the front rapidly the last two years and have quite displaced the Otaksa for early flowering. Hydrangeas had not hitherto been good Easter plants, but the pure white, rich pink and lavender shades in the newer French sorts are taking and it is no wonder that they are in demand. For Memorial day, however, the old Otaksa still is the hydrangea par excellence. It has much tougher foliage and flowers than the French varieties and is, therefore, better adapted for outdoor and piazza uses. Plants which have been confined in frames or crowded in the greenhouses can now be spread out and given a little more heat to bring them along. As the pots become filled with roots, commence feeding and keep it up until the flower heads show color, when it must be stopped or the color will suffer.

By the way, have you remembered to put in a good batch of hydrangea cuttings? If not, get them in now. The French varieties are so floriferous that it is usually necessary to cut a few plants back for propagating purposes.

Poinsettias.

It is time to overhaul the poinsettia stock plants and pot them up if you want some long stems with big bracts on them. Cut the tops back somewhat and either pot or place in flats in a warm, moist house. Do not water too much until growth starts, but spray freely. The cuttings are best rubbed off with a heel when three to four inches long. If you do not want any long-stemmed stock with big heads in benches or pots, leave the stock plants where they are for another month.

Cyclamens.

Do not neglect the little cyclamens in the rush of Easter and other spring work. They can be either potted singly or grown thinly in flats on a shelf or bench well up to the light. Let the compost at this time be light, containing an abundance of leaf-soil of a flaky nature. Give the surface soil an occasional stirring, remove all weeds as they appear and give the plants a daily spraying during bright weather. A minimum temperature of 55 degrees will be found exactly to the liking of the plants.

Primulas.

The seedlings of P. Sinensis and P. obconica, to be in season for next Christmas, should have been pricked off into flats before now and must be kept growing on in a night temperature of 50 degrees. There is still time to sow seed of these varieties for blooming in the spring of 1916, but do not make the mistake of sowing P. malacoides yet; the end of June is sufficiently early for sowing seeds of this beautiful primrose. If started earlier, the plants will be much too large. This is far and away the most graceful and decorative of all the primulas and every florist who sells pot plants should grow a batch.

COMPOST CAUSES DAMPING OFF.

Can you tell me what is the matter with my salvias? I have them transplanted in small boxes in about three inches of good black soil from hotbeds, mixed with sand. They fall over just above the ground and seem as if rotted. I have tomatoes in another house in about the same soil which act in the same way. C. U.—Ohio.

I think the probable cause of your seedlings falling over and rotting is that you are trying to grow them in pure manure, for, if your compost is black and from an old hotbed, it can be nothing else. If you will use three-fourths loam and one-fourth of the hotbed manure, you should have no further trouble. Also, remember not to bury the stems of your seedlings. Some growers allow their seedlings to become drawn and at transplanting time, in order to make them stand erect, they bury the stems. Usually a large proportion of these damp off.

Be sure your boxes have proper drainage, shade them from bright sunshine for a few days until the plants become established, and do not try to grow them in a cool house. A night temperature of 55 to 60 degrees at first, later lowering to 50 degrees, will suit either of the plants named. C. W.

WHEN TO SOW SNAPDRAGONS.

Will you please tell me when is the right time to sow snapdragon seed for summer, late fall and winter blooms? Also, when is the right time to take the cuttings? I shall grow the summer blooms outside. M. W. C.—Mich.

For summer blooming, it would have been better to sow the snapdragon seed early in March, but there is still time to make a sowing. For fall and winter blooming under glass, sow the seed about the end of April, pot off singly and later move into 3½-inch or 4-inch pots. Do not allow the plants to become too much potbound before planting out, which should be done by the end of July. There will then be a nice crop of flowers early in October. While snapdragons can be flowered fairly well in solid beds in winter, they do much better when they have the root action restricted, and raised benches containing not over five inches of soil will be found the most satisfactory. Cuttings for fall or winter blooming can be put in about the middle of April. C. W.

WONDER LEMON SEEDLINGS.

Will seedlings of American Wonder lemon bear fruit, or must the plants be grown from cuttings? I have about 100 seedlings of this lemon.
E. C. C.—Okla.

It will be your best plan to bud the American Wonder lemon seedlings when they are 2 to 3 years old. You will be sure then to get one true type, which is unlikely in the seedlings. Furthermore, the budded plants will fruit earlier and more freely. C. W.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOUTHERN FLORISTS

Cyclamens.

The little cyclamen seedlings, if they have from four to six leaves, will be ready to transplant once more. When only 1,000 or so are grown for home sales and no regular house is needed for their culture, it is better to use flats two and one-half to three inches deep for this purpose, and leave plenty of cracks in the bottom to provide drainage. The soil used for the second transplanting can be one-half sifted loam and one-half leaf-mold, with the addition of a 7-inch potful of sheep manure to each barrow load of the mixture. On transplanting, keep the larger and stronger plants separate from the smaller ones and do not mix them indiscriminately. Each plant then has an equal chance to develop, without any overcrowding. Give them enough room to grow to double their present size without getting drawn. Plants that are drawn in the young stages of their growth never make good, symmetrical specimens. In fact, this rule holds good from seed pan to finish.

A good place for the flats is on a raised platform at the warm end of the rose house, near the glass. They do not require any shade yet, but will take quite a good watering every day. Pick out any weeds or grass as fast as they appear, and stir up the surface soil occasionally until time for potting. In transplanting, I like to have the plants just deep enough so that the top of the bulblet can be seen after the first watering. They make much better growth in flats than in little pots and really they ought not to be potted until ready for a 3-inch pot.

I know of no other plants that will so well repay a little extra attention as cyclamens. If well grown, they are easily the best sellers among the winter-flowering plants. In the Piedmont section of the south they can be grown as well as anywhere in the United States. In the extreme south the summer climate is decidedly against them, but if plants from 4-inch pots are bought in September, they can be grown into fine 6-inch specimens for the holidays. L.

That R. G. Wilson, the Brooklyn retailer, does not believe in hiding his light under the proverbial bushel is shown by the accompanying illustration. It reproduces the night scene at Mr. Wilson's store at 345 Green avenue. WHAT IS THE MEXICAN PINK?

Review Readers to the Rescue.

If you want information, just ask the readers of The Review; they will know. Last week a subscriber asked about the Mexican Pink; he couldn't locate it in any of the books. But Review readers quickly settle all doubt about it. The fact that the first three answers all give a different botanical name needn't matter.

Here is the question: "A customer asks me what is Mexican Pink, recommended as 'fine for window or porch boxes, and smiling under the fiercest sun.' Information as to the identity of the plant and its botanical name I should appreciate most heartily."

And here are the answers:

Mexican Pink cannot be anything but Wahlenbergia grandiflora (Platycodon grandiflorum), as it is a fine window box and vase plant.

Albert J. Mueller.

Mexican Pink is a common name for Mesembryanthemum roseum, a plant which in some localities is much used in window boxes and vases, as it is a great drought resister and delights in sunlight. W. C. K.

Mexican Pink, no doubt, is the Mexican Pink Vine, Antigonon leptopus. Sometimes it is called Mountain Rose, from the Spanish name, Rosa de Montana. Its native habitat is Central Mexico. It is a popular climber in the south, especially in Texas. The vines are killed to the ground by frost, but it quickly shoots up in the spring and develops flowers from June till frost. The beautiful flowers are rose-colored racemes. I have seen few climbers that equal it in beauty, and none that is so beautiful so long a time. I never saw it used for hanging baskets or window boxes, for which purpose, no doubt, it is well adapted. Paul Winkler.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Syracuse, N. Y.—The Pierce-Christian Co., 216 East Fayette street, filed a petition in bankruptcy March 26 in the United States court at Utica, through its secretary, Harold S. Pierce. The liabilities were scheduled as $6,205 and the assets as $3,766. The directors of the company met March 23 and decided to admit insolvency. The bankruptcy petition followed, it is understood, a futile attempt to make a settlement with creditors on a thirty-three and one-third per cent basis. The directors are Harold H. Will, Louis Will and Harold S. Pierce. The attorneys for the company are Nash, Mitchell & Eckel. Of the liabilities $149 are wages; $1,210 are listed as secured, and $4,845 as unsecured. The assets consist of $1,808 in stock and $1,958 in bills and accounts due. The secured creditors are the National Bank of Syracuse, for $500, the Jefferson County National bank, of Watertown, for $500, and the National Cash Register Co., for $210. About ten per cent of the liabilities represent local firms; the other creditors are of New York, Philadelphia, Dayton and other eastern cities. Unsecured creditors in the local trade are:

New Bedford, Mass.—William P. Peirce, 232 Union street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, scheduling $6,857 liabilities and $500 assets.

Washington, Pa.—The McCallum Co., of Pittsburgh, has filed a suit against B. W. Spragg to recover the sum of $698.34, with interest on $400 from October 22, 1913, and on $298.34 from October 23, 1913. This sum is alleged due on a certain promissory note, given as security for certain merchandise sold and delivered to the defendant. A suit has also been filed by the same plaintiff against B. W. Spragg and W. L. Spragg, formerly partners, trading under the style of Spragg Flower Store. In this action there is claimed the sum of $1,500, with interest on $750 from April 21, 1914, and on $750 from October 21, 1914. These sums are alleged due on two promissory notes. Another suit brought by the same plaintiff is against B. W. Spragg and J. B. Martin, formerly partners, trading under the firm name of Spraggs' Flower Shop. The amount alleged due is $96.93, with interest from July 14, 1914, alleged due on a certain promissory note.

CLUB ROOT ON BEGONIAS.

We are enclosing a begonia plant herewith and should like to know what is the trouble with the roots. If this is a disease, kindly let us know the remedy for it. O. F. C.—Ala.

The fibrous-rooted begonia forwarded was attacked by what is commonly called club root, or club foot, which is a contorted swelling of the roots. Such plants are useless and should be burned, not thrown on the rubbish heap or in the field, as that would only mean a probable propagation of the disease. Barnyard manure aggravates the disease, while lime helps to correct it. Fall is the proper time to spread lime on the land which produces club foot, and, where it appears outdoors, the crops should be changed. Your soil undoubtedly contains too much acid.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

What promised to become the best cut flower market at Easter for years, became early on Saturday the most hopeless and discouraging in the memory of the pioneers of the wholesale business in New York. Everything was moving normally and cheerfully on Good Friday evening, and even on Saturday morning the weather was not aggressive, but before noon the worst blizzard of the winter was at its height, continuing until long after midnight. By that time nearly a foot of snow had fallen, with a 60-mile gale raging. Business of every kind was seriously interrupted, but no trade suffered as did the florists' business. The total loss must be enormous. Prices on almost everything fell all day Saturday and the buyers were masters of the situation. Even after the all-night session, great quantities of roses and lilies remained. With the one exception of orchids, the supply of which was limited, everything declined.

American Beauties dropped to $12 per hundred and they carried the whole rose family, or most of it, with them. Brunner and Hadley held up better than the others. Carnations were uncountable, there were so many of them. Starting at 4 cents and 5 cents for the best, one could not hear a bid of 3 cents as the night wore on. It's hard to say how low anything but the selected will go before the iceboxes are empty. Gardenias were up, but there were plenty of them. Lilies were especially weak. There must have been a quarter million of them. From 8 cents to 3 cents is a tremendous fall. Of tulips, daffodils and all the spring flowers there was no end. The best of the sweet peas held fairly well. There were stocks, snapdragon, pansies, lilac, daisies and mignonette in unlimited supply. Violets came down from Dutchess county April 3 in lots of a hundred boxes and were sold at half the figure the wholesalers had anticipated.

Many of the wholesale florists on West Twenty-eighth street handled Easter plants and large quantities were sold. If the blizzard could have been postponed twenty-four hours, not a plant or flower probably would have remained unsold. No such unfortunate timing of winter's last kick has ever been known in the history of the cut flower industry of New York.

This week opened dull, of course. The city was only just recovering from the storm, the retailers were finding themselves after the rush and disruption of their plans, and the wholesale market was feeling for a footing, with large quantities of left-over stock to be cleared before anything like stable conditions can be established. There are a number of good bookings for April and a fair promise of business, but it will take several days to get things straightened out.

Easter With the Retailers.

The leading retailers in New York and Brooklyn have little fault to find with Easter, notwithstanding the big storm that made deliveries so difficult and kept many buyers at home. The window and store displays never were finer and a big business was done before the storm broke. After that it was largely telephone trade. The annual Fifth avenue Easter parade came off as usual. The sun shone, the snow melted, the walks of the greatest fashion street in the world were cleared and at noon the unique procession was under way, the street being crowded with pedestrians and autos until far into the afternoon. The principal retailers seem well satisfied or philosophically accept the bitter with the sweet. They say the demand for blooming plants was as strong as ever, but the hope for a cut flower Easter decreased as the storm grew in intensity. With good weather, every retail store in the two big cities probably would have sold out completely and even with the heavy handicap some of them are able to report the best Easter on record.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club's next meeting will be held at the Grand Opera House building, Eighth avenue and Twenty-third street, April 12. An interesting program is planned and, as this is the annual orchid and sweet pea night, it is hoped some notable exhibits will be staged.

A meeting of the club's transportation committee, T. B. de Forest, chairman, will be held April 12 at the office of R. J. Irwin, 108 West Twenty-eighth street. All those who plan to visit San Francisco at the time of the S. A. F. convention are invited to attend.

The first summer exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York will take place May 8 and 9, at the Botanical Gardens in Bronx park.

Seizo Suzuki, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., is on his way to London on the Lusitania.

The MacNiff Horticultural Co. held a daily auction last week and disposed of a large quantity of blooming plants. Many of the downtown seed stores displayed good assortments of blooming Easter plants, which were nearly all disposed of before the blizzard.

Importations from Holland are arriving for William Elliott & Sons and regular Tuesday and Friday auctions will take place throughout the spring season.

The Harry A. Bunyard Co., on Twenty-eighth street, has as a window attraction the country house and grounds in miniature which were staged by Samuel Woodrow at the spring flower show.

The florists' supply houses all report a big trade for Easter, the demand for novel and fancy baskets and for ribbons being especially strong. Stocks have been greatly depleted. No branch of the trade will more gratefully welcome the end of the European war.

John Young reports an order from one retail florist of 600 orchids at $1 each for Easter.

David D. Howells, superintendent of Hillandale Farms at Gladstone, N. J., was a visitor in New York April 3.

The Trepels were large buyers of roses April 3. Between C. C. Trepel in New York and Joseph Trepel in Brooklyn, with their fifteen stores to be stocked, one can imagine what a factor these men have become in the wholesale cut flower market of New York.

Bowling.

The scores made April 1 were as follows:

Player	1st	2d	3d
P. Jacobson	168	155	158
J. Miesem	215	191	203
H. C. Riedel	193	188	206
J. Fenrich	161	193	152
A. J. Guttman	156	172	151

A. Kakuda, one of the regulars, is in San Francisco, at the exposition.

BUFFALO.

The Market.

Even though the thermometer registered 26 and 28 degrees nearly all last week, Easter trade was excellent. The cold weather did not interfere with the delivery of plants, nor did it prevent the ladies from wearing corsages, for Easter Sunday was bright and sunny, although a bit chilly. All kinds of cut flowers sold well, as did plants of every description. There was an abundance of everything. Carnations are a little off crop in this locality just now, and so the price was firm. Easter lilies sold well. The quality of the cut lilies was decidedly poor, and the cold snap kept a great many budded lilies from maturing. These would have greatly increased the quantity of large blooms had the weather been warm and sunny. Orchids, valley and peas were exceptionally good. All the downtown florists report a bigger business than last year.

Various Notes.

Robert Brooker did special work for S. A. Anderson during the Easter rush.

The Colonial Flower Shop had a unique sign last week. It represented a chick, made of artificial yellow pompons, just leaving the egg, which was made of pink cape flowers and upon which were the words "Easter Greetings." The grass was made of green immortelles.

George Crammer did not spend his Easter in Buffalo this year, but confined his specialties to the Rochester market exclusively.

Barney Meyers, of Lancaster, had some excellent pink snapdragons and Japanese lilies for the Easter cut flower trade. He also had good Ulrich Brunner roses.

John Myers is busy repotting lobelias, coleus and various other spring bedding plants at the L. H. Neubeck greenhouses, at the corner of Main and High streets. He also has a fine lot of pteris and aspidium ferns, which is good, clean stock, due to his vigilance.

L. H. Neubeck has been serving on the grand jury for a week or so.

Rupert E. Hall, who has been with Wertheimer Bros., New York, for several years, is now with S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, and called on the trade just before Easter.

S. A. Anderson had the Sawyer-Hoyt wedding April 5, which was an elaborate affair.

The Lenox Flower Shop had a temporary sign put up in front of its store for Easter as a business getter. It advised the public that flowers and plants could be shipped to all parts of the United States and Canada on short notice.

White Bros., of Medina, N. Y., are cutting a crop of excellent Sunburst roses, with stems eighteen and twenty inches long.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn., is shipping good Ward, Killarney and Milady roses to this city.

Stephen J. Mahoney augmented the S. A. Anderson force at 440 Main street during Easter week, and Walter Lenney was at the Rebstock store.

Ed. Stroh, who had been confined to his home because of a severe attack of grip, had to practice a little Christian Science and temporarily forget his indisposition in order to take care of his Easter trade, which, he reports, was bigger than ever. He has some wonderful pale pink snapdragons.

The Easter display at the S. A. Anderson greenhouses was a big success, and it is estimated that about 3,000 persons visited the exhibition. A rose was given to each visitor. At the store on Main street a mammoth egg hung above the display window. It was made of fluffy white paper and trimmed with bunches of pink apple blossoms and pink satin ribbon in large double bows.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The Market.

The local florists have had a busy time the last fortnight. Merchants' week, just preceding Easter, gave them all they wanted to do, so that the heavy storm the day before Easter was not so disastrous as it might otherwise have been. For merchants' week potted plants and cut flowers were largely used in the decorations of the stores and business houses, and the demand for Easter exceeded anything ever before experienced. There is no doubt in the minds of the florists that the preparations for the coming shows here have materially accelerated business.

Various Notes.

Schultz has been making a display of orchids in his windows that have attracted general attention.

A grass fire near the greenhouses of William H. Maher last Monday afternoon gave one of the buildings a bad scorching. The damage was comparatively small.

The Newport Horticultural Society is planning for a ladies' night in the near future, Andrew S. Meikle, John T. Allan and Frederick Carter constituting a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

Charles D. Stark has been appointed superintendent of the city parks. He has been head gardener on the Fisk estate for 28 years. W. H. M.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

What had started out to be a good Easter trade received a sudden check by a blizzard which began early Saturday morning, April 3, and raged all day with great fury. Many flowers and plants were sold earlier in the week, and Friday, April 2, there was a rush of orders. The biggest sale of the week was expected for Saturday, and although many people gave their orders despite the storm, local florists undoubtedly lost thousands of dollars' worth of business. Flowers were plentiful and of good quality, while prices were medium. There were large quantities of carnations and sweet peas. Giganteums were of good quality and prices reasonable. Many varieties of azaleas of excellent quality were on the market at slightly lower prices than last year, ranging in price from $2 or $3 to $10 per plant. Snapdragons in pots, about a dozen spikes to the pot, were a novelty. They sold for about $2 a pot. Acacia was rather scarce, but the quality was good. Orchids were somewhat higher than last year, and sold from 50 cents to $1 a bloom. Plants as well as cut orchids were on sale. Roses were fine and brought good prices. Hiawatha and Tausendschon were in good demand. Beautiful Pink Pearl rhododendrons sold at from $3 to $6 each. Marguerites, daffodils, narcissi, tulips, hyacinths, valley and spiræas were among the other ready sellers.

Various Notes.

The storm made delivery difficult. Thousands of dollars' worth of plants had been packed Friday night ready for delivery Saturday morning. The snow so impeded traffic as to cause much lost time in deliveries, just at a time when every minute counted.

Philips Bros. had some choice bougainvilleas at from $2 to $12 each, being the only florists in Newark to make this a specialty.

George Muller, 25 Clinton avenue, is a member of the grand jury for the April term of the Essex county courts.

P. Penek, 6 Academy street, reports that, notwithstanding a general slackness in business conditions generally, the Easter trade, before it was checked by the storm, was considerably better with him than it was a year ago.

Fred P. Wolfinger, 883 Broad street, had a beautiful window display of large-sized hampers filled with various Easter plants.

One of the windows of H. C. Strobell & Co. was filled with small baskets of Easter flowers and plants, while the other held potted flowers, Farleyense ferns, etc.

One of the most beautiful of the Easter displays was that at A. Begerow's, 946 Broad street. The window represented a flower garden, and could be viewed either from the street or the entrance. Standing at the front, one saw at the left a brick wall, over the top of which appeared some lilacs and over which trailed vines of different kinds. Directly opposite the beholder was a white fence with swinging gate. From this gate to the center of the garden was a brick walk, which formed a large circle in the center and surrounded a fountain and pool. In the water goldfish were swimming, and in the moss immediately about the fountain nestled some small water birds. The ground was of moss, in which were plants of many kinds, so arranged that they seemed to be growing from the ground. In beds along the walks were flowering mimulus and beds of azaleas and other seasonable plants. In the corner where the white fence and brick wall joined was a clump of purple lilacs.

Many of the baskets used by Henry Leahy, 1169 East Jersey street, Elizabeth, N. J., for Easter were made by a blind man, A. N. Munro, of 69 West Grand street, the same city. Mr. Munro lost his sight about six years ago and makes baskets to support himself and his wife.

Mrs. A. R. Johnson had a fine assortment of flowers in her Easter flower shop at 51 Broad street, Elizabeth, N. J. Before her marriage Mrs. Johnson was a florist and now carries on the business for the two weeks immediately preceding Easter and Christmas.

HARTFORD, CONN.

The Market.

Easter business showed an increase over last year at the majority of the stores. With several weeks of almost continuous sunshine previous to Easter, a large supply of flowering plants and cut flowers of good quality was on hand.

Various Notes.

John Coombs has sold the property on which his large carnation house stands, to the school board. The price is said to have been $40,000.

George G. McClunie's new store, at 165 Main street, is one of the most attractive in the city.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, is highly pleased with the firm's results at the spring shows. At New York this concern won twenty-two firsts and four seconds on twenty-eight entries. At Boston it made nine entries and won six firsts and two seconds. This firm has added two more trucks to the delivery outfit, now having four heavy trucks and two light ones.

Robert Karlstrom, who was city forester here about ten years ago, will take charge of the landscape work for A. N. Pierson, Inc., April 15. Since leaving here, Mr. Karlstrom has been with W. A. Manda, of South Orange, N. J.

The Connecticut Horticultural Society held ladies' and rose night March 26. President Mason made an attractive display of roses. Alfred Cebelius exhibited Cineraria stellata, which were much admired for their size and beauty. Louis Chauvy exhibited four splendid specimens of amaryllis. For the benefit of amateurs, Mr. Mason and Mr. Hollister gave a demonstration of pruning.

R. C. S.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

The Market.

Easter prices and business were good. Lilies were plentiful and retailed as low as 15 cents per bloom. Bulbous stock of all kinds sold well. Azaleas brought $1 to $3; genistas, 35 cents to $1; cinerarias, 35 cents, and pans of tulips, hyacinths and narcissi from 35 cents up.

Various Notes.

Julius the Florist advertised the largest and best display in the city for Easter.

Fred Reynolds opened a temporary store on the corner of Williams and Pleasant streets, for the Easter trade.

Joseph V. Peirce had a window in Lawton's drug store, on Purchase street, for an Easter display.

Post & Gray handled Easter flowers and plants in the department store of the Stieger-Dudgeon Co. They filled the whole rear of the building on the ground floor and report the business as far above their expectations.

Ernest Chamberlain, on Sixth street, had some of the best azaleas in the city. He did a good Easter business.

William E. Mosher, of Hillman street, is supplying the local trade with some of the best double Von Sions that have been seen here in a long time.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS

THE SITUATION AT BOSKOOP.

The state of affairs at Boskoop, the center of the nursery industry in Holland, is summed up in the following, translated from a recent issue of a European horticultural journal:

"The declaration of war caused a panic at the center of the Holland nursery industry, the prosperity of which depends on the sale of ornamental plants. However, the clouds soon disappeared, and business became nearly normal, most of the growers agreeing in fixing minimum prices. The working force was not reduced, and wages were maintained. Without doubt, commerce with the belligerent nations has been diminished by the war, but, on the other hand, trade with neutral countries has been most satisfactory. The exports to America in particular have not suffered at all, thanks to the regular service of the Holland-America line. The big growers insist emphatically that Boskoop abstain from any manifestations which may indicate a preference for one or another of the belligerents. The condition of the nurserymen at Boskoop has been quite prosperous during the last few years. The question arises, however, whether this may not result in an overproduction, particularly as their products are luxuries, the demand for which may be greatly limited by a crisis such as the present one."

EASTER

South Lyon, Mich.—Walter E. Hastings reports Easter business as unusually satisfactory, everything cleaning up in fine shape.

Rochester, Minn.—Easter business this year, reports the R. Bragg Co., showed a remarkable gain over last year, especially in potted plants and particularly in lilies. A larger supply of everything and lower prices, except on lilies, resulted in a larger number of sales and a larger income. Telegraph orders showed a good increase over last year.

Zanesville, O.—C. L. Humphrey said April 5: "I have been in the florist business seven years and every Easter has been an increase over the year before, but this year has been the biggest gain of any in both cut flowers and pot plants. It was cool, but the sun was bright and everybody wanted to buy and did buy. The prospects are the brightest for a big spring business."

Biddeford, Me.—C. S. Strout, the well-known carnation specialist, reports an exceedingly lively wholesale carnation trade. His crop was well timed for Easter and was excellent in quantity and quality. Despite this large crop, a good many retailers had to have their orders cut down or turned away entirely. The retail trade throughout the state was excellent, even though a hard snowstorm hit the section the evening before Easter.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

The dark, cold weather last week did not help the Easter cut much, but the weather April 2 and 3 was ideal for handling flowers as well as for shipping. Business, however, was slow about starting, but when it did start it went some and everyone was pleased with results. The wholesale houses cleaned up nicely and stock, owing to the cool weather, was in splendid condition. The retailers are an optimistic lot in this city. One can hardly see how they had the nerve to lay in such an immense stock in the face of the general business conditions. But they were wise in their judgment, as nearly all cleaned up nicely.

Various Notes.

The John Bader Co. reports that it cleaned up on everything in the blooming plants that were salable and that it had the best Easter in years.

P. S. Randolph & Sons, who are the latest to get into the plant business, report a cleanup on everything.

It is estimated that 50,000 people passed through the Schenley park conservatories Easter. The display consisted of tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, crocuses and scillas with cinerarias, azaleas, lilies and roses.

W. M. Deyoe & Co., Oil City, report the best Easter trade in years.

Clarke.

Burglars broke the front window of the Victoria Florist Shop, 415 Seventh avenue, early in the morning of March 24, and stole $27. The robbery was discovered by A. Krongold, the proprietor, when he opened the store.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Easter business was heavier than in any previous year. Most of the florists delivered night and day and had not finished deliveries until the afternoon of Easter Sunday. Everybody seems to be well satisfied with results. The weather was ideal, helping to make deliveries pleasant. Every retailer added to his force to help out with the rush, which started Friday. Lilies were in big demand. Fancy baskets sold exceptionally well. Some pretty basket displays were noted; in fact, the best ever seen here. Azaleas had a heavy run. Hyacinths in pans were in heavy demand and all sizes sold well. Pans containing six bulbs sold exceptionally well, especially for cemetery purposes. Cut flowers sold above expectations, with carnations heading the list. In these the market was well supplied. Sweet peas were extra good for this time of year. The demand for corsages was heavy and business along this line was rushing.

Various Notes.

The Alpha Floral Co. says that with all the care in preparing for Easter business and with the large force of extra help, it was hard to get the orders out on time.

A. F. Barbe reports the best Easter business he has had, especially in stock to be used in the cemetery. He was cleaned out entirely.

W. J. Barnes is well satisfied with the sales for Easter, but he would have preferred to have some of the Easter funeral work come some other time.

Biedermann & Son sold out entirely. They are well satisfied with the amount of business done. The demand for church decorations was heavy here.

R. S. Brown & Son sold everything that looked as if it could be used for Easter. They had a heavy run on small plants for basket work.

E. D. Ellsworth had plenty of church decorations and funeral work, which added greatly to the burden of Easter deliveries. However, all orders went out on time and he is well satisfied.

Samuel Murray had an excellent display of baskets, which sold without any trouble. He also had a handsome display of good Easter stock in his store.

Miss J. E. Murray & Co. could have sold more if the stock had been on hand, but did well to deliver what they had already sold. There was nothing left to sell at closing time on Sunday.

Arthur Newell says he cannot complain. It was the best ever. He never realized the call for corsages would be so heavy.

According to reports, business across the state line was better than at any previous Easter. All the retailers were practically sold out.

P. Larkin reports an exceptionally heavy run on carnations and lilies.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. had an excellent display of hydrangeas, roses and other pot plants. Good prices were obtained. It seemed to them that when the buying public saw good plants there was no argument on account of prices asked.

The George M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. had a heavy run of out-of-town orders for cut flowers and pot plants.

W. J. B.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

The florists are now contemplating the proceeds of their Easter trade. Unusual preparations had been made for a record-breaking business and excellent supplies of potted and cut stock were at hand. Early buying was light, although orders for later delivery were exceptionally good and this saved the day. From the beginning of the week the winds were blustering and chilly, but the climax was reached Saturday morning, when a storm of snow and high wind began and continued far into the night, practically paralyzing the Easter trade. It proved one of the heaviest snows experienced this winter. Telephones, however, came in handy, and the florists took the brunt of the burden in making their deliveries. Extra covered delivery autos were pressed into service, and the clean-up will doubtless prove fairly satisfactory. There was an ample supply of everything. Easter lilies were at their best and sold well. All kinds of bulb stock moved to good advantage and, notwithstanding the fact that the big department stores, markets and drug stores opened temporary flower departments, prices ranged a third to a half above normal.

Easter Echoes.

J. Koppelman & Co. had a retail stand in the Liggetts, Hall & Lyon store, corner of Westminster and Eddy streets, during the week, in charge of John Roch.

Johnston Bros. had four extra automobile delivery trucks in service last week.

Olney Williams kept several wagons busy carting bulbous stock to the big markets and department stores.

J. Koppelman picked over 30,000 sweet peas from his houses off Pawtucket avenue, East Providence.

The M. B. Saunders Co. made one of the biggest cuts from its beds of valley it has ever made, more than 10,000 being marketed in one day, a large number going to Philadelphia.

Various Notes.

S. Greene, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, was in the city last week.

Manuel Roderick, Jr., of Somerset, has taken a position as traveling salesman for Knight & Bostwick, nurserymen, of Newark, N. J.

Walter S. Sword, of Valley Falls, reports being especially busy the last fortnight on funeral work.

Charles W. Morey, of the Woonsocket greenhouses, has been awarded the contract by the Treasury Department at Washington for the trees and shrubbery for the grounds about the Woonsocket postoffice.

The large greenhouses on the country estate of former United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich at Warwick escaped damage during the fire that caused a $300,000 loss the night of April 1.

The arboretum of The Oaks at the Russell farm, East Greenwich, had a close call from a destructive grass fire March 31.

A large automobile delivery wagon belonging to Smith, the Florist, was badly damaged April 2, when rammed by a jitney bus.

W. H. M.

TOLEDO, O.

The Market.

The 1915 Easter week trade will be noted as the record-breaker for the flower business. Never in the course of the last twenty years has there been a time when flowers in all grades and quantities were in such demand as this year. Easter business began to overwhelm the florists Tuesday, March 30, and several of the larger stores worked continuously through the nights of April 2 and 3. The stock may have been the main reason for the great demand for flowers, for it was as perfect as could be grown, in every greenhouse in the city, but the fact that the florists of the city advertised more than ever, in newspapers and with folders and by having fine displays in their windows and stores, seems to have been the principal factor in increasing the sales for Easter at least seventy-five per cent over the amount of business at Christmas time.

Choice rhododendrons, azaleas and hydrangeas were the leaders in potted plants, and then, in the less expensive class, came tulips, hyacinths and daffodils, in all colors. Cut flowers, though the prices advanced, met with a fine sale, and wholesalers were well pleased with the demand.

The weather was the finest ever had for handling Easter trade in the last fifteen years. The sun shone beautifully every day during the week, giving the trade the buying fever, and at the same time enabling the florist to get stock in fine condition.

Another factor that helped greatly to increase the volume of business and the sale of cut flowers for the week was the demand for fancy baskets of cut flowers, and the many corsage bouquets ordered for Easter Sunday.

Due to the many deaths in the city during the week, the florists were handicapped to some extent in preparing orders by the immense quantity of funeral work that was ordered during the last three days of the week.

Lilies of the valley, violets and sweet peas were in fine shape, and the demand exceedingly surprising to the florist. Roses were also excellent, with good color and yield. Carnations and bulbous stock were plentiful.

Various Notes.

Harry Heinl, expert lily and hydrangea grower, is wearing a big smile these days, due to the fact that he was fortunate enough to have an extra supply of potted plants, especially lilies, and disposed of them all.

Mrs. Freeman reports an extra heavy call for fancy baskets for the Easter trade, probably due to the splendid ideas she has in the arrangement of them.

Schramm Bros. had a record-breaking week. It was necessary to have the help of three extra machines for the delivery of plants and cut flowers. Schramm Bros. are consistent advertisers in the daily papers and with folders, and attribute the remarkable increase in sales to the fact that "it pays to advertise."

The Toledo Florists' Club, which is noted for its readiness to fight any cause for the interest of the trade in general, and particularly for its part in the recent agitation over the taxation question and the firemen's law, will now come in contact with the State Industrial Commission of Ohio in regard to the validity of a tax on a certain Toledo florist to the amount of $500, following the death of an employee last summer. After paying his regular amount to the commission, because of the death of the employee during working hours, although accidentally killed while delivering a box of plants across a railroad track several blocks from the establishment, the florist is obliged to pay the amount of $500. The florists of the city, after thoroughly investigating the workings of the commission, can find no reason for the extra taxation in this regard, and a special meeting of the Florists' Club has been called to consider the matter and draft resolutions to send the commission. G. B. S.

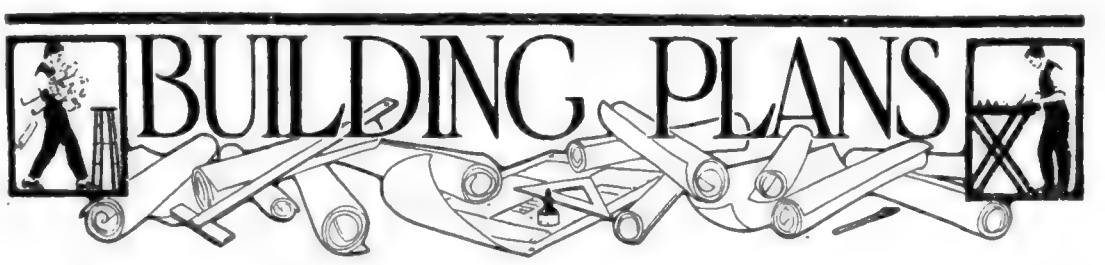
BALTIMORE.

The Market.

The Easter business, considering the weather conditions, was up to the average and exceeded the expectations of many. There was an ample supply of nearly all varieties of stock and fairly good prices prevailed. In roses, long-stemmed specials and firsts were in no large demand and prices declined on these, but the shorter sizes found a ready sale. Carnations cleaned up well at a good figure, with Ward as a leader, the lighter colors selling slightly cheaper. There was the usual demand for the smaller varieties of stock, such as peas, valley, violets, orchids and gardenias. Double violets ran ahead of single in sales. There was an unusual demand for asparagus, which was scarce. Bulbous stock was in poor demand, daffodils especially so. Plant sales were about as usual, although only a few stores were able to clean out. The weather up to April 3 was clear and cool, but then a snow storm blew up and put quite a damper on what would doubtless have been a record-breaking sales day. In the markets large quantities of stock were without buyers and greenhouses all over town are still half full of plants, especially bulbous stock. The storm practically closed the outlet through the street venders.

Various Notes.

Stevenson Bros. report roses in good crop for Easter, their Killarney Brilliant being especially fine.



Halliday Bros. had something novel for this season of the year, two large bowls of Spanish iris in blue, bronze and gold.

Two florists made a special effort to advertise telegraph delivery of flowers. E. A. Seidewitz had two miniature telegraph poles strung with wires from each side of the display window and a telegraph instrument attached to each end of the line, one end to represent Baltimore, the other, San Francisco. C. Campbell's display was on the same order, only Chicago was the western end of the line.

The Leo Niessen Co., in addition to some good valley and cattleyas, had some of the finest orchid-flowering peas seen in the local market.

James Hamilton was well pleased with the business in his new store and among the many fine plants he had were some beautifully flowered rambler roses trained to a basket shape outside two English hawthorn bushes in flower.

Boonville, Mo.—E. C. Stammerjohn is erecting an addition to his greenhouse on High street.

Buffalo, N. Y.—C. Letchworth has obtained a permit to erect a greenhouse at 176 Summer street. The cost is set at $2,000.

Lincoln, Neb.—The greenhouse at the state penitentiary is to be rebuilt in a new location and will be enlarged at the same time.

Clinton, Conn.—Nelson Anderson will add a greenhouse 100 feet long. The contract for the masonwork has been awarded, and work will start shortly.

Fort Madison, Ia.—Plans are being made for a new greenhouse at the prison here. The old one is to be torn down and replaced with one as up-to-date as possible.

Virginia, Minn.—Alfred Johnson, proprietor of the Virginia Greenhouses, on South Central avenue, has purchased five acres near the city limits, on which he will erect additional greenhouses.

Independence, Ia.—J. B. Steinmetz and Jonathan Bland are planning the erection of a greenhouse on East Main street. Mr. Bland has been landscape gardener and florist at the State Hospital for the Insane here since 1897, and was in the flower business before he left England.

Kankakee, Ill.—John Faber has just completed two greenhouses. He has now 62,000 square feet of glass. The new houses will be devoted to sweet peas and gladioli. Mr. Faber plans to put up another house, 28x85 feet, this spring. Roses and carnations, he reports, are doing finely.

Durand, Mich.—Adolph Bohr, proprietor of the Durand Greenhouses, expects to build a house this spring, to be devoted entirely to roses. It will be 42x135 feet. Of the four houses he has at present, one, 28x125, is devoted to carnations; one, 17x80, to sweet peas; one, 24x60, to calla lilies, and one, 18x75, is occupied by miscellaneous stock. His 45-foot chimney is built of cement bricks, 3x3 feet. Mr. Bohr graduated from the agricultural college at Köstritz, Thuringia, Germany, in 1888.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Albert A. and Joseph A. Thomas, proprietors of the Bool Floral Co., are making plans for the erection of three large greenhouses on Humboldt street. The company recently purchased a 5-acre tract on that street from Fred D. Van Order. The greenhouses will be 200 feet long. Work will not be started until June. After Easter, however, a small nursery will be opened on the same tract. The company also conducts a flower store in Oswego and built a large greenhouse there last summer.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

F. B. Smith's Sons, Danville, Ill., figure that cut flowers are more profitable to grow than plants. They grow both on a scientific basis and have every opportunity for comparison. Their handsome new store is the admiration of all who see it.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey, Fort Wayne, Ind., are cutting a choice lot of cattleyas, Trianæ and gigas, and these bring a good price in the market, which is short of them just now. A house of Rose Mrs. Shawyer is notable; the plants growing at one end, in a temperature of 58 degrees, are much more vigorous than those in another section, at 62 degrees. This rose seems to thrive in this soil and will be grown more extensively next season. Sunburst succeeds on its own roots only; it is fine. Fewer roses and more carnations will be grown. A red sport of Enchantress promises much. Philadelphia is well thought of. White Wonder and Matchless will be the whites. Eventually the 60-acre farm will be partly covered with a range of glass for cut flowers; the home range will be devoted to potted stock. W. J. Vesey, Jr., expects to entertain the State Florists' Association when it meets here in April.

G. Van Bochove & Bro., Kalamazoo, Mich., report good business right along, both in the wholesale and retail departments. They had a grand array of stock for Easter.

The West View Floral Co., Elkhart, Ind., has no complaint to make. Since they took hold of the business it has been a steady climb, but they feel the summit is reached and easy going from now on is expected.

J. A. Bissinger, Lansing, makes an attractive continuous exhibition in his fine location, close by the capitol. Business keeps up well.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., express the opinion that, although the queen of autumn opened the season at such unsatisfactory figures, it is sure to be grown as largely as ever, owing to its being a crop that is quickly out of the way. They think many growers are too liberal in the use of chemical fertilizers, though a little, judiciously applied, is beneficial.

The Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O., is well pleased with the season's showing. Palm sales are unusually good. A well grown assortment of Easter stock was largely ordered in advance. The nursery department is especially benefited by the excellent season for planting. Several carloads of nursery stock were awaiting shipment when this note was written. Here can be found practically everything pertaining to the trade. W. M.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

The weather Easter Sunday was fair and balmy and all that could be desired. The week previous was cold and cloudy, with threatenings of rain or snow even as late as Saturday. Sunday morning the thermometer stood at 26 degrees, but the sun warmed the air sufficiently so that all had a chance to wear their new Easter clothes, and an immense number of corsage bouquets were worn by the ladies. Ward roses and sweet peas were mostly used for these. There seemed to be roses and carnations in abundance, as well as sweet peas, valley, etc. In plants the Easter lilies had first call, and these were fine—not extra tall, but of just a good height. Bulbous plants were also fine and an immense lot of these were disposed of at from 15 cents for single bulbs in 4-inch pots up to $1 and over for larger pans.

Everybody made preparations and looked for a big business, and got it. Those who were up night and day for three days were glad it was over.

Various Notes.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. had one of the best Easters in the firm's experience and was well prepared with everything in plants and cut flowers. Their cut of roses and carnations was heavy, and equal to the demand. Their bulbous stock was good and the Easter lilies were a fine, uniform lot. Of these they had about 2,000, which brought up to $5 per pan. George Blackman was up two nights without sleep and when the writer saw him making the last corsage bouquet of Ward roses, at 11 o'clock on Easter morning, he said he did not know whether he was making a bouquet or climbing a telephone pole. He gave directions early to the telephone girl not to take any more orders for delivery.

Julius Niednagel & Sons had an immense cut of grand carnations. The rose crop was good. Their Easter lilies, bulbous stock and miscellaneous plants were excellent and were well cleaned up. Their big force was kept on the jump night and day for three days before Easter.

J. C. Elspermann got his share of the business and put into service a brand-new delivery wagon. His bulbous stock was extra fine and the big supply was well cleaned out.

Miss Nellie Goodge had a nice lot of bulbous stock and snapdragons and she had all she wanted to do.

Karl Zeidler reports a big demand for all Easter plants and cut flowers and he sold nearly all he had.

Louis Fritsch was hard pushed to get all orders out on time. He had good lilies and other bulbous stock. His carnations were in good crop.

Mrs. M. L. Doerr did an excellent business. She had a large stock of plants on hand and about all were sold.

Theodore Kuebler is bringing in some fine American Beauty geraniums. He says business is excellent and he is compelled to turn down a good many orders.

Royston & Fenton sold all their best grade of roses at good prices.

Henry Seymour had a large trade in potted plants. His stock was first-rate.

The company now has two stores, in addition to the Rochester Greenhouses, which were recently enlarged.

OBITUARY

William Weil.

William Weil, for ten years in the retail end of the business at Chicago, was found dead early in the morning of April 5, in the rear of his store at 421 West Sixty-third street. All the circumstances pointed to murder by robbers, who appear to have obtained from the cash register some $200, the Easter receipts. Mr. Weil, who was 55 years of age and a bachelor, without known relatives in this country, or close friends, lived back of the store and the room gave evidence of a terrific struggle before the intruders were able to bind and gag their victim. There were only slight marks on the body, from which it is adduced that he died as much from the shock of the midnight attack as from the injuries received in the battle. It seems probable the robbers did not plan the death of their victim, for after tying him they ransacked the place with a thoroughness calculated to uncover anything of value. The money from the cash register is all that the police miss. Several suspects have been arrested. Efforts are being made to communicate with relatives at his birthplace in Germany.

Mr. Weil was not widely known in the trade, but in the Englewood district he had been a familiar figure for years. When he appeared there it was as an employee of George Walther, with whom he at length had a disagreement that led to his starting in business for himself, at first almost across the street from his former employer. Both prospered and recently moved into better stores. Mr. Weil did a good business, paid his bills promptly, enjoyed the respect of his business acquaintances and the esteem of the people of his neighborhood, for he was one of the first to respond to an appeal for a worthy cause.

Charles Scallen.

Charles Scallen, who eight years ago owned a large flower shop in New York, adjoining the Knickerbocker hotel, killed himself with gas April 4 in the room he rented at 300 West Fifty-first street. His suicide was the culmination of seven and a half years of misfortune in which he lost his wealth, his family and his health.

As a florist Scallen was known to many who follow Broadway flower fashions. For many years he did a large business, supplying hotels and theaters with cut flowers and making a specialty of bouquets to be presented to actresses across the footlights. He also specialized in corsage bouquets. He had invested heavily in stocks, and in the panic of 1907, when his cash was tied up in the closed banks, he was unable to protect his holdings and practically lost everything. That was the beginning of his misfortunes. He lost his store, and later his wife obtained a divorce. With the little money he had saved Scallen attempted two or three business ventures, but he was not in Broadway, where he was best known, and he failed each time. Finally he went to work as a clerk in a Broadway flower shop, but quit a few weeks ago to take another place downtown, but he found that the new one did not develop and then he was out of work. Henry Scallen, 337 West Forty-second street, is a brother and took charge of the remains.

Elias G. Stockman.

Elias G. Stockman, 74 years old, for many years in the nursery business at Prospect, O., died of ulceration of the stomach March 31, at his home near Prospect. He had been in failing health for two years, but had been confined to his bed only a few weeks.

Mr. Stockman was born in Marion county, Ohio. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having enlisted in the Sixty-sixth regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry, in 1862. He resided at Prospect from the close of the war till his death.

Besides his widow, Mr. Stockman is survived by three children, Mrs. William Thorpe, of Columbus, and George and William Stockman, of Marion; two brothers, Francis Stockman, of Lansing, Mich., and Sanford Stockman, of New York city, and a half-sister, Mrs. Wesley Cook, of Marion. The funeral services were held April 2 at the Baptist church, Prospect, of which Mr. Stockman was a deacon.

ATTENTION, INDIANA FLORISTS!

Everybody take due notice of the following, and prepare to make the April 13 meeting and exhibition of the State Florists' Association of Indiana the largest spring turnout in its history. The Muncie members have interested the Commercial Club of that city, which has generously offered its club rooms for the meeting and exhibition and is preparing to give us a grand reception.

We want you to bring along something in the way of cut flowers or plants, either standard variety or novelty, for this exhibition. If unable to come yourself, send same in care of William M. Treffinger, Commercial Club rooms, who will arrange the staging of the shipment.

The following is a program of the day:

Register, or make yourself known at the Commercial Club rooms as soon as you arrive.
11:30 A. M.—Short business session.
12:30 P. M.—Lunch at Commercial Club rooms, followed by discussion on new business, led by W. J. Vesey, Jr., and J. S. Stuart.
2:15 P. M.—Automobile tour of the city, visiting various places of interest, arranged by Commercial Club.
6:00 P. M.—Dinner.
Entertainment, music, etc.
Address by E. G. Hill, of Richmond.

The officers especially urge that all make a special effort to be present, as a good time is assured and the Muncie members are preparing for you.

O. E. Steinkamp, Sec'y.
W. J. Vesey, Jr., Pres.

Pittsfield, Mass.—Max Engelmann leased the store at 257 North street, in the Wright block, to help dispose of his stock during Easter week.

Pittsfield, Mass.—The Rosery has purchased an automobile delivery car. It has a blue body, with the name of the concern in gold letters on either side.

Silver Lake, N. H.—David Knowles has been running a hotel in Bermuda during the last season. He will manage the greenhouses here upon his return.

Auburn, Me.—The George M. Roak Co. has some fine White Queen snapdragon, the flower spikes of which are from eight to fifteen inches in length and the stems from twenty-four to thirty-six inches.

Holyoke, Mass.—Hugh Clark celebrated the first anniversary of his Maple street store March 27 with a special sale. He is well pleased with the success with which he has met in the twelve months.

Lowell, Mass.—John McMenamin has had surveyors at work laying the lines for an addition to the greenhouses on Marshall avenue near Stevens street. The addition will probably be completed before the end of the summer.

Newburyport, Mass.—J. J. Comley is planning to ask for an extension of the Amesbury water main, which now ends about 1,300 feet from his estate. The proposed addition of several greenhouses will make the town water supply more advantageous, if, indeed, not necessary.

Dover, N. H.—James M. Hayes, of J. M. Hayes & Son and assistant secretary of the Rochester Agricultural and Mechanical Association, is slowly recovering from a severe attack of sickness of several weeks' duration.

Randolph, Vt.—A recent addition to the employees of H. M. Totman is Bruno Heine, of Berlin, Germany. He had been in this country sixteen months when the war broke out. He is a reservist, but was unable to get back to Germany, although he reported to the recruiting officer in New York.

Shannock, R. I.—Last year the Carmichael Orchards added to their business the growing of gladioli, peonies and hardy plants for cut flowers, bulbs and plants. This year extensive plantings will be made, as these lines have grown rapidly. G. A. and W. S. Carmichael are the members of the firm.

Brattleboro, Vt.—Carl S. Hopkins had an excellent window for St. Patrick's day. A large doll dressed as an Irish youth, wearing green silk trousers and a green silk high hat, leaned on an old-fashioned fence, apparently on his way to Tipperary. The floor of the window was covered with tiny pots of shamrock and clay pipes.

Manchester, Mass.—The North Shore Horticultural Society will hold its annual exhibition at Manchester August 4 and 5. The schedule of prizes just issued includes 150 classes, twenty-eight of these being specials. There are, in addition, twenty-six classes for school children, the society taking an active part in encouraging this work.

HAS Christmas displaced Easter as the big special flower day of the year?

THE anonymous inquiry is a regular feature of the day's mail. To get an answer, give name and address; otherwise, save your stamp.

THE rate at which florists are buying automobiles, both for business and pleasure, is taken by some to indicate that a degree of prosperity still abides with this trade.

SECRETARY BAUR has just mailed to members the annual volume of the American Carnation Society, containing the report of the Buffalo convention, list of members, etc.

IF you want to get your name in the paper, send a subscription for more than one year. Some weeks you can get the head of the Honorable Mention list for $3, with 156 copies of The Review to follow.

WITH Easter in the past, the next milestone on the trade calendar is Mothers' day, with Memorial day only two laps away. But the spring planting season is what brings the coin to the coffers of the greatest number of florists.

IT begins to look as though the wholesale plantsmen will have a chance to view the holiday situation a little more nearly from the viewpoint of the wholesale cut flower man. The method of reaching the public will come up for consideration whenever it looks as though the ordinary retail channels are unable to market the stock produced.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

FIVE YEARS.

Sherwood, H. M., Columbia City, Ind.

TWO YEARS.

Jones, Wm. G., Dubois, Pa.
Scheffler, R., Wheaton, Ill.
Gordon, J. A., Lost Springs, Kan.
Watson, J., Oswego, Ore.
Gesner, Albert, Nora, Ill.
McKinnon, A. J., Flint, Mich.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

EASTER.

A great deal might be said of last week's business, but not much of it would be worth while — conditions varied so much, and in the east were so unusual, that the experience affords no great amount of light by which to read the future.

Along the eastern seaboard, from Washington to Portland, a fall of snow, in many places heavier than any of the winter, disrupted all lines of business and, of course, hit certain florists a right swing to the jaw—the knockout blow—while it inflicted more or less loss on all. As usual, it appears to have been the growers who were hardest hit, although some of those who take time by the forelock had passed their load on to other hands. Philadelphia got the brunt of the blizzard and felt it earlier than did Boston, but everywhere in the storm-swept area the retailers stopped buying except for orders as soon as the weather turned. The retailers who have fashionable and wealthy trade suffered less loss of business and stock than befell their less aristocratic brethren, the plebeian street vender, who in pleasant weather merchandises a great quantity of low grade stock in certain cities, being put completely out of business.

Under such conditions it is useless to make extended comment on the fate of favorite flowers; that lilies were a glut and yet the largest seller, that cut stock was left in one place and cleaned up in another, means nothing. The only point of value lies in the fact that prior to the breaking of the storm everything was moving smoothly, with fair promise of a splendid business—there is no reason to fear that the big flower day of the year is not in every way as good as ever it was.

Getting out of the storm area, business was big and, in many middle-western cities, favored by ideal weather conditions. Whatever may have been the experience of individual wholesale concerns, the retail business was tremendous. If it did not exceed last year it was only because then, too, the stores had more customers than they could wait on in the few short hours in which most of the buying is done. In the smaller communities, where the business is less strenuous but also less erratic, a splendid volume of sales was recorded. The country florist, while he seldom makes a fortune, always seems to have the usual seasonable business.

There were plenty of flowers this Easter. The supply of pot plants has increased greatly and they passed from growers' to retailers' hands early in the week. The man who has a greenhouseful or storeful of plants does not buy many cut flowers until the plants are well ordered up. This was reflected in the wholesale markets, where a larger proportion of the cut stock than usual found its outlet through devious channels.

That the supply of plants has increased rather faster than required was shown by some decline in prices. It was a popular priced Easter. The big plants, such as azaleas, rhododendrons, genistas and hydrangeas, did not sell clean except at concessions and the retailers who bought them had the same difficulty passing them on to the public. Lilies were abundant, many of them short. While the small-city florist still can get the usual prices, in the big towns lower values prevail, forced by the supply exceeding the needs of the regular trade.

NEW RECORDS.

Week after week this spring The Review is carrying a record quantity of classified plant ads. Usually the largest showing of these "little wonder ads," as a user called them, is in an early May issue, but this season late March saw May's best records broken. The increase is principally because of the number of eastern florists who are turning to the use of The Review as a means of moving their surplus.

And, apparently, the more classified ads there are in The Review the better the results; certainly the "little wonder ads" never paid better than now. Like this:

Cut out all our classified ads, as we are sold out of everything, for which we thank The Review.—Charles Werner & Son, Shelbyville, Ind., April 5, 1915.

Twenty thousand pansy plants sold from two insertions of a 4-line classified ad in The Review; that's going some.—John G. Witt & Son, Chicago, Ill., April 5, 1915.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The individual reports of the houses in this market vary widely this year, the Easter business of some having been ahead of all previous records, with the majority about even with or slightly below last year, while a few tell most lugubrious tales of bad business, sales having fallen below any recent year, with considerable quantities of stock unsold. Probably a summing up would indicate a total Easter business about on a par with that of last year. This refers only to wholesale cut flowers; the wholesale plant business certainly exceeded all previous records, and retailers are not complaining.

When it comes to the various items of stock, the reports diverge almost as much as is the case with the reports of business done in the various houses. Taking the market as a whole, there was an abundance of stock. Especially, lilies were plentiful. Although some houses say they were able to clean out their lilies at usual prices, the majority had rather more lilies than they needed, especially of the shorter grades, and prices were distinctly lower than usual. The city stores bought lilies in pots and did not call for cut lilies in the usual quantities.

As frequently happens, the conditions as regards roses and carnations were exactly the reverse of general predictions. A fortnight ago almost everyone was sure there would be enough roses, but some shortage of carnations. It turned out there were enough carnations, with some to spare, and a slight shortage of roses. It is generally conceded that the prices, taking the market as a whole, averaged lower this year than ever before, but that roses came nearer realizing quoted rates than did any other flowers; indeed, some houses report they were compelled to advance their prices on roses. There was an abundance of medium and short Beauties, but more first-class long Beauties could have been used. Practically all roses were in request and cleaned up.

In a market with so many contradictory features no general statement fits all cases, but on the whole carnations were worth considerably more at the opening of the week than at its close. While a few wholesalers had to buy to fill their orders, others had so many that they phoned the growers to hold back the stock till Monday; it is a ruse that often has turned a profit when the market cleaned up, but this it failed to do this time.

The experience with violets was most unusual. The call seemed to subside as the week progressed and sales were made April 2 at ridiculously low prices. Saturday and during the morning of Easter there was a quick revival in the demand, but supplies by that time were so light in most houses that the good prices then received did little to sweeten a distasteful average. Singles only were wanted; the doubles were mostly of poor quality and sold only when singles were unavailable.

Sweet peas were among the best sellers. Especially on the morning of Easter were they in request, and it was then the best prices of the week were made. In general, the wholesalers shaded the price of peas in sympathy with the general condition of the market. Sunday morning was so fine that the retailers bought heavily of corsage flowers in anticipation of a big Sunday morning's business in flowers for street wear, and they were not disappointed.

Of other flowers there was an abundance. In general, fair clearances were made and little complaint is heard.

The shipping business was heavy. The out-of-town orders were at least as numerous as ever before and the houses that cater to this business had all the work they could do up to the night of April 2, many of them working from daylight to midnight. Wherever there was a falling off in business it appears to have been because the city trade did not come up to expectations. Undoubtedly the city retailers did as they did at Christmas; they filled their stores with plants and bought cut flowers only as their orders demanded, putting their energies into selling their plants. As a whole, the retailers seem well satisfied; many say they did the largest business in their experience and the appearance of the city seemed to bear them out. Easter morning the streets were thronged with people wearing flowers and almost every window in the better parts of the town showed its gaily decorated plant. But the retailers by no means cleared out all of their plants. Practically every store showed considerable stock on hand when the present week opened. Especially, it is noted that azaleas were carried over, most of them large, beautifully-flowered specimens, perhaps too large for a popular priced Easter.

At the opening of the present week business was more or less dull. Retailers were engaged in working off their leftover plants and the arrival of bright, warm, spring weather had the effect of crowding the market with cut stock.

Retailers Pushed Hard.

Eight retail florists spent approximately $1,500 last week with the daily newspaper that is thought to reach the most flower buyers, in addition to which some of them used smaller spaces in several of the other papers and one retailer used other papers and not the one best thought of by the majority. This is the record of the space used in the Tribune last week:

The rate varies with the size of the contract but probably averages 33 1/3 cents per line. It is more advertising than the retailers ever before have done for a holiday and it surely had a big influence on the flower sales for the day; it helped others besides the advertisers.

Various Notes.

A specially large attendance is expected at the Bismarck tonight, April 8, as calls have been issued by President Miller and Secretary Pyfer for the Cook County Florists' Association and President Keimel and Secretary French for the Chicago Florists' Club. It is understood all members of the county organization whose resignations have not been received tonight will be voted in a body into the Chicago Florists' Club.

Downtown crowds were surprised April 2 to find one of Chicago's busiest State street corners occupied by a flower store. But the Bohannon Floral Co., looking about for additional space for the rush season, saw no reason why the quarters lately occupied by Bauman & Co., jewelers, northeast corner of State and Monroe streets, would not be just what was wanted. So along the lower part of the long line of display windows, filled with cut flowers and bulbous plants, are bright-colored signs heralding the fact that flowers are retailed at wholesale prices. The store was packed during the Easter rush and still is open this week; it will be continued indefinitely.

The new wholesale commission cut flower firm of Miller & Musser opened for business the morning of April 5, at 181 North Wabash avenue, the location formerly occupied by the defunct Frank Floral Co., in which Mr. Musser was a partner. Nicholas P. Miller brings twenty-five years' experience to the service of the new concern, having recently been connected with A. L. Vaughan & Co., Kennicott Bros. Co. and the J. B. Deamud Co.

Appearances seem to indicate that John Mangel has not found his branch in the Marshall Field Annex building altogether profitable and that he would have no regrets should the landlord conclude to abrogate the lease.

Primula malacoides is one of the most accommodating of plants, according to Anton Then, who says stock that does not sell in the pots will give two crops for cutting and that the cut trusses of bloom will return almost as much money as one can get for the pot plants. He grows both the original and the white form.

Mrs. Eric Johnson was taken suddenly ill April 3 and was operated on that evening at St. Joseph's hospital for appendicitis. She is convalescing rapidly.

Erne & Klingel express their belief that the best interests of the trade were furthered by the Easter experience, the public finding plants and flowers abundant and moderate in price.

According to Philip C. Schupp, J. A. Budlong will grow at least twenty-five per cent more valley this year than ever before. The firm was fortunate in getting all its shipments to this country without difficulty.

A 1-ton automobile truck has been added to the delivery service of the J. F. Kidwell Co. This makes two. The house reports a heavy Easter trade in hydrangeas.

A coroner's jury sitting in Hollywood, Ill., found that Charles Louis Newman committed suicide March 31 by swallowing a quantity of Paris green while temporarily insane. The deceased owned a small greenhouse, in which he grew violets and asters. Lately he had neglected these to attend to other matters and, as failure threatened, he became despondent and took his life. A wife and five minor children were dependent on him.

Encouraged by his unqualified success with the Ophelia rose, F. J. Benthey, 165 North Wabash avenue, greenhouses, Newcastle, Ind., will go into the propagating end of the business quite heavily, though he will continue to grow roses for the market. Anton C. Zvolanek, of Lompoc, Cal., from whom most of the local growers buy their sweet pea seed, was in town several days last week on his way home from New York. He visited friends at Maywood, Des Plaines, Morton Grove, Wilmette and other points and incidentally made an arrangement with the A. L. Randall Co. to act as local distributor of his seeds.

Joseph Marks, who formerly traveled for local supply houses, is again calling on the trade, having joined the sales staff of the A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co.

As a result of strong advertising, Poehlmann Bros. Co. not only sold every pot lily but could have used quite a number more. The Easter plant business showed a big increase over last year. Bedding stock now occupies the attention of the plant department.

Tomorrow, April 9, Felix Reichling will complete a year of service as store manager for Peter Reinberg. He says it has been the most interesting year in his experience.

result of the European war, the A. L. Randall Co. last week took in large consignments of German merchandise. It is said the Easter supply business was larger than last year, in spite of the interruption caused by the fire of February 14 and removal to their new establishment.

Henry Van Gelder, president of Percy Jones, Inc., whose family is represented as well in the military as in the commercial pursuits, gave a brief exposition, the other day, of the peculiar lottery system of military service obtaining in Holland, and a sketch of its efficient method of colonial government. According to Mr. Van Gelder, there are many substantial reasons to account for the exalted brand of patriotism manifested, without exception, by the Hollandish people. Perhaps the same reasons would account for their wonderful success as growers of bulbs.

Ronsley the Florist, who has a shop in the Westminster building, rented temporary space for his Easter stock in a vacant store four doors south. There was an excellent display window, which Mr. Ronsley was not slow to take advantage of.

Next on the program of special events is Mothers' day and N. J. Wietor asserts it has become third of the flower days, exceeded only by Christmas and Easter. Mr. Wietor believes it bad policy to charge all the traffic will bear for Mothers' day; he says moderate prices mean a complete clean-up, also an increased demand next year.

WASHINGTON.

The Market.

From all accounts, Easter business broke all records, regardless of the heavy snow storm which reached Washington shortly after midnight and lasted through Saturday, April 3. The snow made deliveries difficult, and considerable shipping business was lost because the telegraph wires south of Washington were down in many places, especially in and around Richmond. The snow, however, proved a boon to the uptown stores, for it kept people off the streets to a large extent and turned much additional trade to them. Stock was never more plentiful and there was much left over, but it is believed that most of this will be sold before the Easter buying period is over.

The rhododendrons offered excelled anything ever before seen here. Rambler roses were exceptionally good, as were spiræas and azaleas. American Beauty roses could be had with stems seven feet long, fine foliage and large flowers. In cut flowers everything sold well, and shortages were reported only on single violets and orchids.

Various Notes.

Because of the fact that the regular meeting night of the Florists' Club of Washington follows so closely after Easter, that event has been postponed until Tuesday evening, April 12, when an attractive program will be presented.

Walter Gordon is now at the store of the Washington Floral Co., on Fourteenth street, northwest.

George Gould, formerly with the Washington Floral Co., is now with George C. Shaffer.

Among recent visitors were Charles E. Smith, of Baltimore, Md.; C. C. Taylor, of Louisville, Ky.; Walter E. Cook, of the Stumpp & Walter Co., New York, and Joseph J. Goudy, of Philadelphia.

INVITATION SPECIAL

"COME AND SEE US IN OUR NEW HOME"

The values listed in the following PINK PAGES are only a few samples of the GREAT BARGAINS we can offer when you "COME AND SEE US"

These sales are for the benefit of people who read our advertising. MENTION THIS SALE TO SECURE SPECIAL PRICES. It ends on April 30, 1915.

Following our fire February 14, we offer thanks

To the Retailers:

For the manner in which they rallied round. We might have expected a rush of cancelations, as no doubt everyone thought there would be inevitable delays and disappointments in the filling of orders. The fact that orders were not cancelled, but on the contrary, additional ones sent in, is a mark of confidence we will not soon lose sight of.

We appreciate the many encouraging letters sent us, and want you to know that your confidence in us will be amply justified.

Our manufacturing departments are in full swing on a bigger scale than ever, and we are able to take care of orders promptly and properly. This is true on practically all lines and you need not hesitate to let your orders come along.

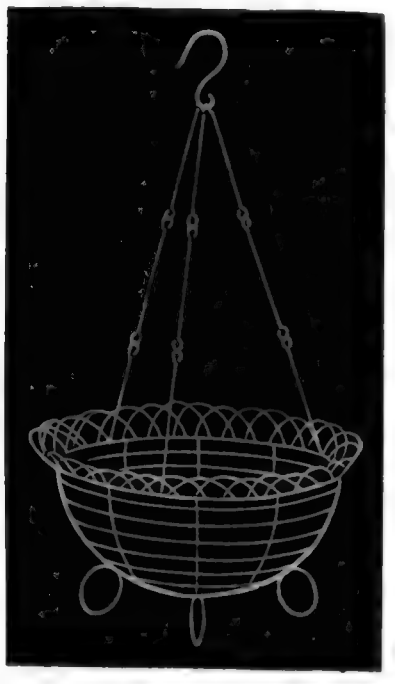
To the Growers:

For the manner in which they continued shipments. We were fortunately able to secure a temporary location and went on with business as usual, but at the outset it looked as though we might be crippled in handling their stock. However, this does not affect the fact you kept your consignments coming.

Such an expression of confidence was well worth while.

Now that we can offer service that is unbeatable, insuring perfect handling and distributing of stock, we hope to show you that we fully realize our obligations and that our association will be beneficial to both of us.

To the Dealers:



For the manner in which they assisted us to replenish destroyed stocks. Their unanimous unselfish attitude was truly gratifying. We will never forget the spirit displayed by our good friends at this time, and it will ever be our aim to do our utmost to even the score.

In this connection we are glad to remember that at the outbreak of the European war we were able to render a like service to many of them, as we were fortunate in being well supplied on import lines and able to come to the rescue. Reciprocity of this kind is a credit to any line of trade.

Now that our manufacturing departments are again working to capacity, and with our enlarged facilities to draw on, we hope that our friends will not be slow to take advantage of same. We know that it will be to their advantage as well as ours, if they do so

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Easter, 1915, was the worst this city ever has known. It has established a record for badness that we hope will not be equaled in a lifetime. This was the more aggravating because all the earlier days of the week saw regular, well sustained business, encouraged by magnificent weather. Then came the blizzard and snow storm of Saturday, April 3, unheralded by the Probs, unexpected by anyone, disastrous in its results. Business stopped stock still. With a raging gale, with nineteen inches of snow, it was little wonder.

The worst sufferers were the cemetery florists, those who depend on the loving thought for the departed. No one felt like taking an Easter plant away out in the suburbs in a fierce northeaster. It would have been madness to have done so. The result was that those florists who are near the burial grounds were neglected; they still have many of their plants and flowers. Next to them as losers came the City hall and Market street traders. Some of these street men are growers who annually dispose of great quantities of cut flowers and Easter plants on the curb. Director Porter took pity on the street men who attempted to trade amid the snow on the City hall plaza and invited them under cover of the public buildings. This was a help and probably saved some of their lives, but there was little trading. People did not want frozen stock; they wanted to get home just as quickly as possible. Next in point of loss came the suburban florists, who are difficult to reach in stormy weather. The retailers in the center of the city and the wholesalers suffered least of all. For the former the delivery problem was most serious; for the latter, what to do with the stock left over from Friday, April 2, and with the receipts of Saturday, April 3.

The plant market was hardly as buoyant at the outset as it was a year ago. It early became evident that the supply of lilies was likely to tax to the utmost the most strenuous efforts to dispose of them all. It also became evident that there was a larger stock of fine Easter plants throughout the country than usual. This meant that the shipping orders would be a little lighter than in the past. The result was a decided weakening in several lines of the plant market before the close of the week. Prices were cut on some lots of stock of good quality and lilies showed a decided tendency toward wobbling. Saturday's storm put the plant market out of commission a day and a half earlier than the allotted time. This meant a big lot of leftover stock.

Taking the plants by species, it may fairly be said that the consumption of lilies was great; hardly as great as in former years, but not nearly so much below the record as might be supposed. The quality varied considerably. A large proportion of the stock was well grown, but not nearly so large a proportion reached the market in good shape. Lilies will soften and bruise when vigilance relaxes. The azaleas were strong factors; they are popular and sold well. A sign of the times was the preference given to the medium and smaller sizes. Roses were unusually well done; they were well timed and in excellent variety. Nearly all the spiræa was Gladstone; it was in pretty good demand, taking the market as a whole. Hydrangeas also sold well, the supply being divided between Otaksa and the French varieties. The growers are handling these plants better than in former years. Valley in pots sold well, but genistas and the bulbous stock suffered. The plant buying by the retail stores was more cautious than in the past, but the department stores bought freely, particularly of lilies.

The cut flower market was excellent prior to the storm. That unfortunate event found the market quite bare of high grade stock suitable for shipping and plentifully supplied with medium and low grade stock that it was expected would be used locally by the quantity buyers. Many of those buyers do a curbstone business. Those who had bought could not sell their flowers and no one bought any more after the snow ceased to be a joke.

Carnations were the strong feature of the market. With them may be associated sweet peas. The former brought $5 and occasionally $6 per hundred for tiptop flowers. White and Mrs. C. W. Ward led; then came Enchantress and the light pinks; cerise and red were last. Spencer sweet peas brought $2 per hundred for selected long-stemmed stock; just a few brought $2.50, while ever so many more brought $1.50, thence down to $1 for shorter-stemmed stock and for the ordinary varieties.

Roses owed much of their popularity to the fact that there was no increase in price save only in Beauties and Russell. The former moved up to $6 per dozen for specials, in the face of heavy receipts, while the latter brought a little more than half that figure for a few fine flowers. White roses sold rather better than pink; red and yellow were not in demand. Violets were a disappointment. One-half the stock reached the market in good shape and sold quickly at prices ranging from $7.50 to $10 and occasionally $12.50 per thousand, but the other half of the violets reached the market in poor condition and were of little or no use. Lady Campbell was a disappointment. The deeper Marie Louise was much used. The Luxonne, depended on for the local business on Saturday, suffered heavily through no fault of its own.

Of the bulbous flowers, daffodils sold fairly well, but tulips were overdone. Yellow daisies suffered from the competition with daffs, although they were fine. Callas were rather scarce; that is, good ones; some were held too long. Orchids were in brisk demand at from 50 cents each for the small ones all the way up to 75 cents and even $1 for the large, dark-colored Mossiæ. Gardenias sold tolerably well, but valley was overdone. Greens were in demand, smilax especially so.

The market since Easter has reacted on the few flowers that had advanced in price for the holiday, notably Beauties, orchids and carnations. The tend-

At Southampton.

Stephen Mortensen, of Southampton, is the sort of chap who restores one's mental equilibrium. Things do well with him for some definite, known reason. When they do badly it is also for one or more reasons, but they don't often do badly. Mr. Mortensen has been steadily successful for a great many years, producing large crops that are a credit to him and to his establishment. He is probably the last man to continue growing the Sharon Hill variety of Double Pink Killarney, now so generally succeeded by Killarney Brilliant. While both varieties look well at Southampton, the paler pink is ahead of its new rival so far. It has produced more flowers and they have been carried on longer stems—carried erect, too.

Mr. Mortensen's latest love is Sunburst, with which he proposes to supplant Lady Hillingdon on the strength of last winter's performance. His new house, equally divided between Killarney Brilliant and White Killarney, is fine, the latter showing the stronger growth so far. Curiously enough, the own-root plants of Brilliant are more vigorous than the grafted. Another curious fact is that the model steam plant installed for this immense new house has so far shown no economy in fuel over the hot water heating system used in the older house. Returning again to White Killarney, Mr. Mortensen finds that with him the Waban variety, sometimes styled the Single White Killarney, produces three times as many flowers as the Budlong variety, sometimes styled the Double White Killarney. He will therefore retain the former and discard the latter, despite his fine summer flowers.

That Mr. Mortensen is a true rose lover is evidenced by his fondness for the new varieties that are on trial. His description of their habit, their likes and their dislikes marks a keen insight into plant life, strengthened by patient observation and strong common sense.

At Roelofs.

It is an inspiration to visit the model place of the Joseph Heacock Co. at Roelofs. There you find, in about equal proportions, the best greenhouses and machinery for running them that money can produce and the best brains and knowledge for growing plants obtainable in this country today. The result is some superb stock.

The place is familiar to readers of The Review, for whom it has been described in the past. The additions since the last description are a compressor and concrete tank, whereby water from two artesian wells is lifted and stored to be pumped through the pipes; a large greenhouse, 55x225, and a smaller one, 8x300, for propagating and for young plants.

The larger greenhouse is filled almost entirely with Radiance, and a finer lot of plants it would be difficult to imagine. This house is under the personal care of Robert Jamison. It is a curious fact that Radiance is appreciated in Gotham and not in the City of Brotherly Love. When you see that house of Radiance you can't help wondering whether the Quakers have good sense. Carl A. Corts gives excellent reasons why, but it really doesn't seem satisfactory somehow, especially when you look over the Boston prize list. The smaller house, so much of it as is not used for propagating, is filled with Mrs. Aaron Ward. This rose does well at Roelofs. The 2-year-old and 3-year-old plants average double figures in flowers to a crop and grow with a vigor most encouraging. The big houses looked well, exceedingly well—how well you can judge from those eight prizes on eight entries at Boston, Mass., March 18, 1915.

The prediction is made here that unless conditions materially change within the near future there is apt to be a great shortage of supplies of all kinds.

Gentlemen:-

A few weeks ago I started a small card in the Retailers' Telegraph Delivery department of The Review.

I have paid you only $3.50 so far. And this is what happened:

I received orders for Wyoming delivery at Christmas amounting to $142.50.

I think that is doing fairly well.

Respectfully yours,

The Market.

The wholesale market was in splendid condition last week. The supply of everything seasonable was plentiful. Wholesale trade was somewhat slow during the early part of the week, but later the demand became heavy. Prices remained reasonable all through the rush for stock. There was an abundance of good roses, including fancy Beauties. Killarneys formed the bulk of the consignments. Carnations were not overplentiful. They were cleaned up nicely at an average price of $4 per hundred. The Enchantress and Beacon varieties had the call. There were plenty of good lilies, which, of course, led in demand, selling at $12.50 per hundred. Sweet peas arrived in great quantities; the fancy butterfly varieties were in big demand. The trade did not take to the common varieties of sweet peas and of these a good number were left over. Tulips, valley, Dutch hyacinths, daffodils and snapdragons met with a large demand. Violets were not in large supply, but those that came in were sold quickly. A raft of southern jonquils came in, but these had little or no call. The local markets surely took good care of the trade this year in the cut flower line, as Easter consignments were larger and better in quality than in any previous year.

The plant business at Easter was tremendous. Cut flowers, too, had a much better demand this year than heretofore. Considering general business conditions, the sales were beyond expectations. The weather April 3 and 4 could not have been improved. The warm and springlike days made transient trade one of the great factors. The leading retail stores say plant sales were remarkable. Lily plants, which everyone said would be scarce, were much in evidence and of course had the call over any of the other plants. Fine displays of rhododendrons were seen at the leading west end establishments; also some splendid specimen azalea plants. Hydrangeas were in great demand. Tulips, valley, Von Sions and Dutch hyacinths in pans were cleaned up early in the day.

Various Notes.

The magnificent displays of blooming plants at the establishments of Fred C. Weber, George Waldbart, Fred H. Weber, Kalisch Bros., Sanders and Young, in the west end, attracted the buyers and all say it was a great Easter.

The south end florists, too, showed high-class stock in their window displays. At Windler's, Beyer's, Bergstermann's, Bruenig's and Schoenle's, they report business great. Among the downtown florists, Young, Grimm & Gorly, Mullanphy, Siegel, Foster and Riessen, more business could not have been wished for. The florists near the big cemeteries, Meinhardt, Koenig and Nyflot, had a great run in pot plants. The Ayres Floral Co., Metropolitan Floral Co., Bentzen and Ostertag, too, say this was one of the best Easters in years. The department and ten-cent stores greatly cut in on the florists' business, as they carried large stocks of blooming plants and did a large business.

Frank A. Weber, of the H. J. Weber & Sons Nursery Co., spent a day at Vandervoort's department store last week, demonstrating the planting of trees and shrubs and the kinds that should be used. He had large audiences all day.

Chas. A. Kuehn put his new automobile, which is of handsome design, into use last week. It came in handy for his many Easter deliveries.

William Schray & Sons are sporting a large new and handsome automobile delivery truck, which made rapid deliveries possible.

J. F. Ammann is in the race for mayor of Edwardsville. It is the hope of his many St. Louis friends that he will be the successful candidate when the ballots are counted April 20. "Mayor Ammann" would sound well to his great following in the florists' trade.

Fred H. Weber did a remarkably good Easter trade in his attractive store at Boyle and Maryland avenues. He hired several additional salesmen to handle his plant trade.

The telegraph delivery orders that came to Review advertisers were large. These orders were mostly for plants. All were in splendid shape to handle anything that came along. This line of business is increasing with each holiday.

Among the visitors last week were Charles Ford, representing A. Herrmann, New York, and F. F. Minaker, of the Luther Burbank Co., San Francisco, Cal. Both spent Easter with us.

Carl Beyer and Frank Fillmore visited Belleville last week. They called on brother florists and prevailed on E. W. Guy and A. G. Fehr to join them in paying a visit to their friend, J. F. Ammann, at Edwardsville.

The fine weather Easter Sunday brought out 5,000 visitors to the Missouri Botanical Garden, where an Easter show was advertised. The display consisted of cinerarias, Easter lilies and rhododendrons. It was a magnificent exhibition. The garden class in engineering recently visited greenhouse ranges at Kirkwood and Crescent, Mo., and Edwardsville, Ill. These inspections are part of the engineering course, which relates to greenhouse construction. J. J. B.

While Vincent Gorly has been recovering from the physically disastrous results of speeding on roller skates, Francis Gorly has been recuperating from financially similar results of ditto in his automobile. His car collided with another March 26 at Twenty-second and Locust streets, suffering about $100 worth of damages.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Easter, 1915, will long be remembered, as the most violent snow storm of the year ushered in the first white Easter in years. The morning of April 3 was bitterly cold, but snow driven by a fierce northeast gale did not commence to fall until noon. We can, therefore, comfort ourselves with the reflection that it might have been worse, but it was bad enough in all truth, with street car traffic more or less demoralized, autos unable in many cases to run, steam car traffic delayed and telephone and telegraph wires largely out of commission. However, we fared better than New York and Philadelphia, where the storm started hours earlier.

Prospects were bright for a big

Easter, nearly approaching the record, until the storm arrived. Even as it was, it was satisfactory in many ways. The plant growers and wholesalers had the advantage over the retailers, where store trade was heavily crippled and deliveries rendered difficult and costly. The many outdoor venders of plants and flowers suffered serious losses, as the storm made outdoor selling practically an impossibility.

It was a great plant Easter and growers were all pretty well cleaned out. Lilies were extra fine. The best made $12.50 per hundred buds. Some of the poorer quality made $8 and $10. Some of the dry goods stores offered quantities of second grade flowers at these prices, but it seemed to have little effect on the retail flower store trade. Ramblers sold finely. The biggest sizes went the slowest. Leaders in popularity were Tausendschon, Dorothy Perkins, Hiawatha, Excelsa, Mrs. Cutbush and Catherine Zeimet. There also was a good call for hybrid perpetuals. Azaleas were in short supply, except the largest sizes, which were not wanted. Bougainvilleas, ericas, acacias, Pink Pearl rhododendrons, genistas, Dutch bulbous flowers, spiræas, marguerites and primulas were the leaders among the other flowering plants. The call for palms, ferns and other foliage plants was not large.

Coming to cut flowers, roses, which were in abundant supply, made little advance. A few special Beauties made $8 per dozen, but the bulk of long-stemmed stock only made $4 and $5. Ophelia made $4 to $25 per hundred. Hadley made up to $30 per hundred.

Russell, Sunburst and Taft all made good prices, but the more common roses made practically no advance, going at from $2 to $12 per hundred. Only fancy flowers reached the higher prices and after the blizzard struck prices came down with a thud. Carnations sold quite well, as they were off crop with many growers. Prices varied from $4 to $6 per hundred. Few reached the high price and a lot had to be cleared below $4. Single violets made practically their adieu. Good stock realized $1; a poorer grade, 75 cents. Doubles made similar prices. Sweet peas were abundant at 35 cents to $1 per hundred. Some select flowers made more.

Bulbous flowers cleaned up well. Golden Spurs made $2, Victorias $2 to $2.50, Princeps and ornatus $1 to $1.25 per hundred; also doubles. Murillo tulips made $2.50 to $3; other varieties $1.50 to $2.50. There were a few Spanish iris and Gladiolus nanus. The best pink snapdragon realized $1.50 to $2 per dozen, but poorer grades and other colors sold lower. Callas and lilies made $8 to $10 per hundred, valley $2 and $3. Stocks and schizanthus were hard to sell. English primroses made $2 per dozen bunches. Cattleyas were in quite short supply and made $5 per dozen. Gardenias were abundant.

There was a large surplus of flowers on the wholesale markets when the doors closed April 3. April 5 saw much of the snow gone and the bulk disappeared during the day. The market was not at all good and prices all around showed considerable declines, carnations holding up the best. Retailers bought somewhat sparingly and it will take the market a few days to get back to anything like a normal basis.

Various Notes.

A. E. E. Koch, of Nobscot, had the finest Mrs. Sander marguerites I saw for Easter. These realized $3 per hundred. He also had a fine lot of yellow marguerites.

Some of the finest single violets noted at Easter were those from William Spillsbury, Shannon & Son, Estey Bros.,

Thomas Capers, of Wellesley Hills, struck the Easter market right with a big crop of high grade Beacon, Benora and Pink Delight carnations.

W. W. Tailby, of Wellesley, was strong on spiræas, tulips in pans, snapdragons and English primroses, and cleaned up well.

William Sim, of Cliftondale, was the heaviest shipper of single violets. He also had a heavy pick of Spencer sweet peas of grand quality.

Do not forget the next meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, which comes April 20. The lecture should interest every member.

Peter Hylen, of Randolph, had some beautiful bunches of Sutton's Pink snapdragon for Easter. This is one of the finest pink varieties I have seen. He sold over 30,000 bulbous flowers April 3, specially fine being Murillo, Prince of Austria, Cramoisi Brilliant and Rose Luisante tulips, and Victoria, Golden Spur and Von Sion narcissi.

William Capstick, of Auburndale, has sent in some nicely flowered plants of Strelitzia regina, or bird of paradise flower, lately. He is specializing in asparagus, callas and white snapdragons this season.

Charles E. Evans, of Watertown, has a splendid lot of bushy Tausendschon roses for Easter. Of hydrangeas he has some thousands in various stages. The earliest are just showing color.

John J. Fee, of Jamaica Plain, has not been at the wholesale market lately, owing to a bad dose of blood poisoning in his hands. Meantime, Mr. Fee's large shipments of high grade bulbous flowers are being handled by Arthur Carr.

At Carbone's the Easter business proved to be remarkably good, a tremendous volume being done. They had a large batch of splendid herbaceous calceolarias, flowers not much seen at Easter, which sold well. Mr. Carbone has recently returned from a successful and enjoyable trip to the Pacific coast, including the world's fair at San Francisco.

The Budlong Rose Co., formerly J. A. Budlong & Son Co., of Auburn, R. I., sold 60,000 roses Easter week.

John McFarland, of North Easton, disposed of 15,000 valley of splendid quality for Easter. He sold his entire lot of lilies, Galvin securing the majority of them. They were certainly a fine lot.

Robert Montgomery's roses were not in specially heavy crop for Easter, but he had, nevertheless, a good lot.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. never had a busier Easter. Had it not been for the blizzard, the volume of business would have been far in excess of other years.

Frank Edgar had only fifty lilies left out of over 7,000. He also had a fine pick of yellow marguerites and sweet peas. For Memorial day business he grows bedding geraniums and salvias heavily.

H. A. Stevens, of Dedham, says his Easter retail trade showed a big increase. He has some fine seedling carnations, from one or two of which he is hoping for good things later.

An immense business was done at Galvin's Back Bay and Park street stores. The big, light and roomy new store on Park street proved a boon when it came to handling a large volume of orders.

The W. W. Edgar Co. sold all its lilies and had no Easter plants left over but a few large azaleas. There was difficulty in getting delivery teams for all the orders.

Harry Quint, at his two stores on Tremont street and at the Hotel Brunswick, did a business far ahead of his expectations. Pot plant trade was particularly good.

Everett E. Cummings, of Woburn, sold 100,000 single violets in the first three days of April, which practically cleaned up his crop for this season. He will plant the new winter Spencer peas largely another season.

Paul F. Brigham, of Westboro, is sending in a superior grade of snapdragons. His finest carnations at present are Matchless, Rosette, Mrs. Ward, Pink Delight and Benora.

Sidney Hoffman did some heavy advertising in the local dailies for Easter and this boomed business at his two stores. Both stores were hives of industry.

P. J. Donohoe, of the Boston Rose Co., had a fine lot of Beauties for Easter from Scarboro, N. Y. His Hadley, Russell and Killarney from the Montgomery Co. were unusually fine.

John W. Foote, of Reading, had some of the finest Pink Delight, Beacon and White Wonder carnations I saw for the Easter market. He finds it hard to interest retailers in schizanthus, one of the most beautiful and decorative of annuals and one which keeps fresh in water for four or five days.

A. M. Davenport had about 1,000 calceolarias in nice bloom for Easter.

W. R. Nicholson, Framingham, and the Scituate Greenhouses, of Scituate, Mass., are each sending in nice lots of Gypsophila elegans.

Mann Bros., of Randolph, had over 4,000 fine candidum lilies for Easter, which cleared out quickly.

Penn did a tremendous Easter business. They advertised heavily and orders came in great volume from all parts of New England. The full staff and a number of extra hands worked all night for three nights to keep abreast of the orders. The blizzard added greatly to the difficulty of deliveries.

H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park, among pot plants, had a fine lot of Primula obconica and malacoides, genistas and Dutch bulbs.

N. E. Boyle, of Malden, cleared out every lily and could have sold several thousands more. He had some splendid Richmond roses.

The blizzard interfered somewhat with late shipments from Welch Bros. Co., but the greater part of their shipments were made before the storm broke. They had a heavy sale of Easter lilies in pots and a big volume of cut flower trade.

Peirce Bros., of Waltham, grew only 10,000 lilies this season. They once grew treble that number. They had a good cut of roses.

Edward Winkler, of Wakefield, had a fine pick of Carnation Morning Glow. It readily realized $5 per hundred. Mr. Winkler has made several long distance shipments of this variety and it has proved a splendid keeper.

John T. Gale, of Tewksbury, had 100,000 double violets for Easter, also a splendid pick of sweet peas.

J. Newman & Sons, on Tremont street, had a satisfactory Easter trade. They did considerable newspaper advertising, which helped business wonderfully.

E. D. Kaulbach & Son, of Malden, hit Easter just right with a big lot of lilies.

A splendid lot of Rose Prince E. C. d'Arenberg came from S. J. Reuter & Son, Westerly, R. I. Many growers are well pleased with this variety.

Wax Bros. had an increased staff and did a great business. Their store never looked more attractive and was crowded all the time April 2 and 3.

Kidder Bros., of Wakefield, had a grand lot of Spencer peas on long stems.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.
Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June 22 to 24, 1915.

JOHN GERARD, New Britain, Conn., states that he is retiring from the seed business.

THE number of seed houses is increasing faster than is the number of capable assistants.

THE Fort Bragg Growers' Association, Fort Bragg, Cal., recently received four tons of peas from San Francisco, the crop to go to the local cannery.

SEED selling along the Atlantic seaboard suffered an interruption April 3 by the heaviest snow that ever has visited that section so late in the season.

THE southern seedsmen have about reached the end of a highly successful season. The movement for the diversification of crops was greatly to their advantage.

QUITE recuperated by the healthful climate of southwestern Texas, S. F. Leonard, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, expects to resume his duties at the office about April 9 or 10.

FIRE April 1 destroyed the building of Hardin, Hamilton & Lewman, Inc., at 218 Second street, Louisville, Ky. The loss on the seed concern's building and that of N. M. Uri & Co., liquor dealers, adjoining is estimated at $140,000.

THE seed business, generally speaking is good, although the recurrence of cold periods every few days has a marked tendency to hold things back. This, however, is only temporary and the large seedsmen are boosting 1915 for a record year in the trade.

MAIL orders are on the down grade, of course, but April 5 in most houses showed them still holding up well. Counter trade had gained considerable headway in eastern cities prior to the big snow April 3, but is only beginning to show signs of life at interior points.

THERE is a heavy demand for cabbage, onion, potatoes, cucumber and, in fact, everything that can be exported. It is said in some quarters that this demand, the heaviest in several years, is due to the fact that Europe generally and England especially will have to look to America for its supply of food stuffs for the coming year at least.

THE Georgia Products Co., of Atlanta, recently organized for the purpose of handling exclusively Georgia-grown food products, is opening a seed store next to the present store, on South Forsyth street. R. O. Cochran, head of the con-

The Dollar Lily

Easter Lilies $1.00 per plant will be the best slogan for the florist in future. Flowers from 5 to 12 per plant, too. The time when retailers charged 25c per bloom is past. Blooms at 10c each will be the department store prices. Florists will make more money in the long run—provided they grow the quantity and invite General Public to buy. Old General Public walks in your store, planks down the long green, and if the dope isn't too heavy walks home with it under his arm, whereas Old Bucketshop waddles out of his limousine into your shop, tells you to deliver it at once, charge it to his account, and if it doesn't prove satisfactory (to him) he will bring his "bull" into your shop when he comes again. The florist who can produce a quantity of lilies, and sell that quantity to the general public at reasonable prices, is the fellow who is scheduled for the best business. And sell the public at all times. The pure white lily has no substitute—up-to-date florists must always have them. Horseshoe Brand Giganteum produce the best results—order now. You can have them shipped once per week, month, or for special occasions. Plant now for July flowers.

Not how cheap but how good.

cern, says the company will handle Georgia-grown seed as much as possible, though it is not possible to confine its stock to Georgia seed entirely.

MOTT-LY MEDITATIONS.

W. C. Beckert, Allegheny, Pa., is glad he stayed at home to keep his finger on the pulse of trade, which is throbbing vigorously. The seedsmen are having a banner time and the older houses that can profit by their past experience in regulating stocks will undoubtedly come through in fine shape. He does not anticipate any shortage, owing to variation in planting, and notes the orders cover a wider range every succeeding year. When in South America last year Mr. Beckert saw the possibilities for a market for certain lines in seeds, which can be supplied here as soon as conditions are more settled there.

I. W. Scott & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., have been attracting a continuous crowd to their windows, one of which recently contained a large brood of Easter chicks, the other a plot of lawn grass from their special brand of seed. Such displays usually influence the spectator, who is possibly an intending sower and is debating where he can obtain the satisfactory article. Such scenes decide it.

The A. C. Kendel Seed Co., Cleveland, O., has secured the contract for seed for the Cleveland parks, which is a considerable item.

George Moody, Youngstown, O., commented on the quick adaptability of his large coterie of customers to local conditions. Those newly arrived rarely have a failure with their crops, so explicit are the directions in his seed literature. W. M.

I. C. C. RULINGS.

The Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce has complained to the Interstate Commerce Commission against the switching charge of the C., M. & St. P. R. R. of 1 cent per hundred pounds on seeds at Milwaukee. The chamber says that any charge in excess of $3 per car is unreasonable. It is also alleged that the C. & N. W. R. R. is charging unreasonable rates on seeds received at Milwaukee and switched to

The commission has decided that the rate of 29 cents per hundred pounds on imported sunflower seed from New Orleans to East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo., is not unreasonable and has dismissed the complaint of Alfred Hirsch, an importer of New Orleans, who brought the complaint. ZVOLANEK ON SWEET PEAS.

There is nothing like last season's acreage of sweet peas in the vicinity of Lompoc this year, according to Anton C. Zvolanek, who has been visiting eastern trade centers. Mr. Zvolanek himself had over 400 acres near Lompoc last year, but he lost 123 acres by the aphis and the yield on the balance was not over thirty per cent of a crop. This year Mr. Zvolanek has seeded about 250 acres and he has scattered it widely up and down the coast for over 200 miles, some of his acreage being at San Diego, but this is more to secure an early harvest in response to the demand for early deliveries; the San Diego acreage was in full bloom at the end of March and the seed is expected to be ready for shipment by July 15, not a heavy yield, but of good quality. Mr. Zvolanek's connections are principally with florists, who use his stock for forcing, rather than with the seed trade,

REPUTATION and SENSATION

ONLY ONE IS FOR SALE, and when we say: "Plant SENSATION because it is the earliest, freest, most profitable Sweet Pea in existence," we will stake our reputation that it is all we claim for it. We are also giving you absolute proof in the letters published, that other reliable firms and people are gladly backing us up in our statements. It is a true Orchid-Flowering Variety, and, if planted in August, will start producing in October and continue as late as any variety, giving months more profit than other Orchid-Flowering Varieties, and this at a time when SENSATION has no Sweet Pea competition in the markets.

We are introducing two colors: First, is color of Orchid-Flowering Xmas Pink; second, is a good, bright scarlet, same as King Edward Spencer. Both produce flowers up to 16-inch stem, flowers averaging two inches and over in diameter. It has the foliage of the Grandiflora type, which is a great benefit, allowing all available light in dark Winter days.

Supply is limited; order now and avoid disappointment. Seed will be sent out early in July.

$12.00 per ounce, $150.00 per pound.

New York, Jan. 20th, 1915.
Newman & Legg, Manasquan, N. J.

Dear Sirs.—In regard to your variety of "Orchid-flowering Grandiflora Sweet Peas," which you have been shipping us since early November, we repeat this stock is great. You will find that it brought nearly double the money of any other such early variety, and our best customers jumped at it; we never had enough to go around. You will notice that for some time the Peas were bringing more per flower than the Carnations you were shipping. If you care to have us do so, we will send you the opinions of some of our customers who, as we have mentioned before, greatly appreciate such stock.

Very truly yours,
HENSHAW & FENRICH,
"Woodside," Oakhurst, N. J.

Newman & Legg, Manasquan, N. J.

Gentlemen.—I wish to say in regard to your new Orchid-flowering Sweet Pea Sensation, that it is the finest Winter-flowering variety that it has ever been my pleasure to have seen. I have examined it growing, from time to time, and have no hesitation in saying that it has a great future in store for it.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE MASSON,
Superintendent to Fred'k Frelinghuysen.

PLEASE NOTE.—Secretary Elberon Horticultural Society.

Newman & Legg, Manasquan, N. J.

Gentlemen.—Both the samples of your new Pink and White Orchid-flowered Sweet Peas, which you sent us, were very good, especially so since they started to bloom in October. The foliage is of the Grandiflora type and quite distinct from the Spencer.

Your photographs leave no question of its great floriferousness.

Kindly advise us how close you allow the plants to stand in the rows, as we shall undoubtedly want some of the seed.

Yours truly,
ALBAN HARVEY & SON,

Dear Sirs.—In regard to your new Winter-flowering Sweet Pea, Sensation, I would say that you have named it rightly, as it was a pleasure to me to see it growing with its remarkable freedom of bloom, long stems, and pleasing color; also one of the greatest points in its favor, over other varieties, is its extreme earliness. And I am sincere in saying that I wish Sensation and your firm all success in introducing this great Pea.

Yours respectfully,
MR. MILLS,
Superintendent.

although many seedsmen handle his seeds. He believes the acreage of sweet peas by all growers is materially smaller this year than last in California. In the Lompoc neighborhood last year the aphis worked such havoc that the locality may almost be said to have been abandoned this year, according to Mr. Zvolanek; while there still are many pieces under sweet peas, they are so scattered as to afford some hope that the aphis can be controlled. It has been demonstrated that two sprayings will keep the aphis in check, but last year many of the growers did nothing at all to try to save their crops. Of course, the sweet peas this year are on land used for other crops, as no grower cares to put peas on the same land two years in succession. The custom is to contract small tracts with farmer growers, shifting about from year to year.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

The retail stores never looked better than this Easter, and although at the time of writing it is a little early to be positive on the matter, all indications point to a record-breaking business. While many of the Easter lilies did not make the market, there does not seem to be any serious shortage in numbers, though much of the stock is short in stature. Giganteum is again practically the only lily grown. Other plants are plentiful, including azaleas, rhododendrons, spiræas and potted valley. There is also an abundant supply of ferns.

In cut flowers of the better class there is no oversupply, though bulbous stock may be described as a little overplentiful. Rather unusual here are the forced plants of laburnum, or cytisus, which some of our knowing botanists are describing as the "yellow wistaria." Funeral work has been good and there has been a brisk demand for cut flowers.

Various Notes.

The firm of Smith & Dieterich, formed a short time ago to take over the nursery business of J. Dieterich, at Wall street and Montebello, and to establish a flower store at Seventh and Figueroa streets, has been dissolved by mutual consent. George W. Smith, who, it will be recalled, left the firm of Howard & Smith about one year ago, now retains the flower store above mentioned, and also the nursery, greenhouses and salesyard at Wall street, for so many years carried on by J. Dieterich. Mr. Dieterich retains the nursery at Montebello, where he intends to carry on a wholesale growing business. Mr. Smith's business will bear the name, George W. Smith, successor to Smith & Dieterich.

Preparations for the Pasadena show are in a forward state and it is believed that the show will outclass anything ever before seen there.

Gebhart Prechtel, foreman for Jacob Dieterich at Montebello, has acquired a valuable 5-acre tract of land and house on the Whittier boulevard. It is believed that he intends to subdivide this property into building lots, for which there is a brisk demand in this section.

At Frank Lichtenberg's everybody is busy and this means considerable business, as the staff seems to increase in numbers every time I pay a visit there. The pretty rockwork in the front of the store still seems to be an attraction, and no wonder, for it is at once the most artistic and most natural thing of its kind ever done in so small a space and is a great credit to the originator, F. Scotti, who has done some elegant work also at the San Diego show.

A. F. Borden, of the Redondo Floral Co., has again fallen off the—no, fallen a victim to My Lady Nicotine.

In the Easter plant collection at J. W. Wolters' was a fine lot of the new French hydrangeas in various colors, grown by W. Armacost & Co., of Sawtelle; also some elegant ericas of the melanthera type.

Everybody is busy at Darling's Flower Shop and the Easter display is away above the average.

Although Miss Martha Dieterich won many prizes during the competition for Fiesta queen, she did not quite make the top of the list, but she ran a close second.

There is always something of interest to see at Coolidge's Rare Plant Gardens, at Pasadena. Among the most fragrant of all shrubs is Buddleia Asiatica, the perfume of which reminds one of that of Boronia megastigma. It is of a tall, loose-growing habit, bearing pure white flowers. In the new lath house just across Colorado street from the home place is a fine lot of young stock of valuable varieties not often seen. The parking in front contains an elegant plant of Dendromecon rigidum in full bloom, some exquisite new varieties of broom and a large number of novel plants and shrubs.

Murata & Co. handled immense numbers of Easter lilies this year, of splendid quality.

H. W. Turner is making great headway with his propagating, especially of the newer baby types of roses. The large stock house is always full of stock, but this is always changing. In the growing quarters everything looks fine and an immense crop was timed just right for Easter.

Ed Rust, of the Palm Nursery, South Pasadena, hit the Easter business just right with a big bunch of Spiræa Japonica and azaleas.

Polder & Groen have put on a new delivery truck with a neat, attractive body. As their nursery is nearly ten miles from the center of the city, the time saved will be considerable.

The first of the buildings at the new nursery of the Germain Seed & Plant Co., a large lath house, is to be started at once, the greenhouses and other buildings later in the year. Retail business keeps up well here.

The L. A. Floral Co. reports big Easter shipments to all out-of-town points. The city trade also was highly satisfactory. H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

March closed with a week of rain, which was welcome after nearly a month of warm weather, though tending somewhat to curtail cut flower sales. Easter shipping business was fairly good. Everything of a popular nature, both in cut flowers and potted stock, was plentiful, with prices about normal. Easily the most prominent feature of the season was the large supply of potted rambler roses, notably Dorothy Perkins, of which many large shops made elaborate displays. The smaller ones found ready sale, though many were too expensive to be readily disposed of. Easter lilies had their usual popularity and brought fair prices. A few callas were shown, but they were too common to be handled much by the trade. French hydrangeas had a large sale, and there was a conspicuous supply of azaleas, as well as a fair offering of nice rhododendrons. Scotch heather and Spanish iris were popular lines. Some nice bougainvilleas in small pots attracted considerable attention. Both potted and cut lilacs were unusually fine and found a good sale, purple predominating.

Of cut flowers, most bulbous stock is getting rather scarce, and good prices are realized for late daffodils and freesias, the latter being largely used in decorative work. Darwin tulips are in good demand at easy prices. Cut lilies find a large sale. Violets are scarce, but some are still being shipped east. Roses are in only moderate supply, and move readily. Cecile Brunner is in strong demand, with a moderate supply. Russell, Taft and Frau Karl Druschki are quite popular. Cattleyas and phalænopsis are in better supply, but by no means plentiful, and clean up well. A good supply of all grades of gardenias is readily disposed of. Sweet peas are fairly plentiful and quite popular.

The Exposition Gardens.

In the horticultural gardens of the Panama-Pacific exposition, the California Nursery Co., of Niles, has just set out an exhibit of Pacific coast conifers, all fine specimens, including one each of ninety-four varieties, from dwarfs to twelve feet in height. This exhibit gains much from its location, being directly in front of the massive log pile of the Lumbermen's building. Notable exhibits in this class have also been planted by the New England Nursery Co., Bedford, Mass., and the Bay State Nurseries, North Abington, Mass.

The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., has planted a large plot of cannas, including a number of fine varieties. Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y., is putting in 13,000 gladiolus bulbs, and John Lewis Childs, Flowerfield, N. Y., is planting 11,000 gladiolus bulbs in thirty-three varieties. Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, also is putting in a large collection of gladioli and cannas. B. H. Farr, Wyomissing, Pa., has planted 163 varieties of German iris.

W. W. Wilmore, Sr., of Denver, and W. W. Wilmore, Jr., of Wheat Ridge, Colo., are both setting out large exhibits of dahlias. Forbes & Keith, New Bedford, Mass., expect to make a notable showing with their new seedling dahlias.

While the climate at the exposition was not considered highly favorable for rose exhibits, good results are promised from the plantings of the Gill Nursery Co., Berkeley, Cal., and H. W. Turner, Montebello, who is showing his new rose, September Morn. Other plantings of roses which are doing well are those of the Vallance Nursery Co., Oakland, Cal.; Henry Eichholz, Waynesboro, Pa.; Dingee & Conard Co., West Grove, Pa.; C. H. Totty, Madison, N. Various Notes.

Daniel MacRorie, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., returned from his eastern trip early last week.

While the final results of the Easter trade are not yet altogether certain, the greatest hit seems to have been made by E. James, of Oakland, with his rambler roses. Mr. James went into this line extensively, and practically cleaned out two large houses of it. While his stock included a large quantity of fine Crimson Ramblers, the greatest success was with Dorothy Perkins. A number of the leading downtown florists, including Podesta & Baldocchi, B. M. Joseph, Pelicano, Rossi & Co. and the Art Floral Co., gave these ramblers a leading place in their Easter decorations.

Podesta & Baldocchi had one of the finest Easter decorations, the whole store being a bower of pink and red ramblers, the latter at the rear. The effect was gained by placing large plants on either side, each plant rising nearly to the ceiling and bending over to form a half-arch, while a single large rambler trained in fan shape formed an effective backing at the rear. Potted primulas along the floor in front and a large bank of rhododendrons in the rear harmonized well with the effect of the ramblers, and to one side was an alcove of Easter lilies.

At Joseph's, the inside display consisted largely of Dorothy Perkins ramblers, trained in basket form, standing seven to eight feet high. The window feature was a large bank of azaleas, backed by large specimens of Scotch heather and set off in front by small primulas and ferns. This house had a large decorating job during the week at the Indiana building at the exposition, for a reception to Vice-president Marshall, and also two large church decorations for Easter.

C. C. Navlet, of San Jose, has again taken the flower stand at the Emporium department store, which he conducted some years ago, but which has been vacant since the first of this year. Mr. Navlet has been spending most of the week in San Francisco to get the new stand started.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee believes there should be some general understanding among the trade, or that some definite custom should be established, in regard to discounts on flowers shipped. The trouble now is, she says, that while some buyers regard the price of goods shipped as net, others seem to consider themselves entitled to deduct a discount from their remittances. Mrs. Darbee says she will have violets for shipment about a month longer. She now has some fine large daisies that have proved quite popular in the shipping trade, and has had a good run on tulips for several weeks, with Spanish iris just getting well started.

The E. W. McLellan Co. has just received a large shipment of its violet-shipping paper, which has been needed for some time. This house is still shipping a good many violets, but finds them rather scarce.

The Hogan-Kooyman Co. is increasing the capacity of the San Francisco store by building a mezzanine floor over the greater part of the space.

The Kearny street store of J. B. Boland is showing some exceptionally fine triple lilacs, which are rather a novelty here and sell readily.

Miss Rothschild, of the Bellevue Florists, says visitors from the east seem to take a great interest in local offerings of ranunculus and anemones; people come in every day asking what they in your greenhouses, see and ask your neighbor how they pay. It is still time to sow some now.

Now is the time to sow some of the Summer Sweet Pea Seed, outdoors or in cold frames, to have good crop for Decoration Day. I have only the best commercial varieties, like: Frank Dolby (lavender), Nora Unwin (white), Gladys Unwin (pink), etc.; 1 lb., $1.50; 5 lbs. of each, at $5.00.

are, and sales of these, as well as of California poppies, are large, with a good demand also for the seeds and bulbs to send east. This shop did considerable business in April Fool flower boxes, containing stems only, which were sold at 50 and 75 cents.

Domoto Bros. had some good potted wistarias in bloom for the Easter trade.

A good example has been set by W. H. Crocker and J. J. Fagan, president and vice-president of the Crocker National bank, which has lately been decorating its quarters extensively with cut flowers. Mr. Crocker says, "Don't confine all the outdoor beauty for which the state is noted to the exposition grounds. Eastern visitors would almost believe that we have grown so accustomed to beautiful plants that we consider them indifferently. Potted shrubbery is easy to procure, and should be in every business house during the fair." The slogan of "Flowers everywhere," which these gentlemen have started, seems to be taking hold among other business men, and many offices and retail stores are taking on an unaccustomed festive appearance in consequence. A. P. B.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

The Easter rush kept all the florists busy, but it is too early to attempt to estimate the volume of the Easter business. Cooler weather kept the stock in prime condition and the stores were filled with excellent flowers.

Various Notes.

John Gower, a well known landscape gardener, has for several years been located in Newberg, where he has a range of greenhouses. He grows a general stock for retail trade and ships his surplus to this market. He says the winter's business was the best in his experience and he is pleased with the outlook.

Oregon rose growers and dealers are considerably concerned over the appearance in this market of a wholesale rose growing company from California, which has opened a retail store and is advertising extensively, offering to the public standard varieties of roses at wholesale prices, and by this method disposing of large quantities of bushes. With the present high cost of labor, it is doubtful if the Oregon growers can meet these prices and make a living profit, and if this competition, which seems to them unfair, continues through another season some action must be taken to offset it. It is suggested that the most effective remedy will be a lively campaign to influence the public to buy Oregon-grown roses.

The People's Flower Shop has opened a branch store at 129 Second street.

S. Lubliner is on duty again after his wedding trip.

The Tonseth Floral Co. has opened a branch store in the Morgan building.

W. J. Williams, of the Clarke Bros.' store, has been suffering with an attack of ptomaine poisoning. He is at work again, but feels the effects of his illness.

Julius Dossche, manager of the rose festival floral center, says all the exhibition spaces have been taken and there were not enough to go around.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

The nursery business in the east is suffering to a considerable extent because of the dryness of the ground.

This week's obituary column contains the notice of the death of Elias G. Stockman, a veteran nurseryman, of Prospect, Ohio.

Among recent incorporations is the Blue Mound Nursery Co., of West Allis, Wis. The capital stock is fixed at $6,500, and the incorporators are Theodore J. Ferguson, Russell C. Holbrook, Frank N. Ferguson and Albert C. Hanson.

The business which has been carried on by Frederick W. Von Oven at Naperville, Ill., has been incorporated as the Naperville Nurseries, with a capital of $12,000. Besides Mr. Von Oven the incorporators are Emma and Helene Von Oven.

A. M. Augustine, the Normal, Ill., nurseryman, states that the peach crop in his vicinity has been killed by the severe weather. Indications are for a big crop of apples, but pears and cherries are somewhat injured. Small fruits, it is thought, will give a good yield.

George H. Whiting, proprietor of the Whiting Nurseries, at Yankton, S. D., has been in Bayfield, Wis., looking after his nursery and orchards there. It is said, though not confirmed, that Mr. Whiting has about made up his mind to sell out his holdings in South Dakota and move to his Wisconsin property.

C. P. Hartley, of Emmett, Idaho, is a member of the Idaho State Board of Horticultural Inspection, which has just organized after a controversy between the old members of the board and the governor. Mr. Hartley was one of the two appointed by the governor to take the place of those whose appointments the old board members opposed, although the courts upheld the governor in his original appointments.

The annual meeting of the Florida State Horticultural Society, at Tampa, April 13 to 16, will draw many nurserymen of the state, as this is the nearest to an organization they have. George L. Taber, of Glen St. Mary, is on the executive committee. D. C. Gillett, who, by the way, is president of the Board of Trade of Tampa, takes a prominent part in the society's meeting, as does also M. E. Gillett. Prof. L. H. Bailey, of Ithaca, N. Y., is on the program for an address for the evening session April 15.

BORERS IN TREES.

What is the best way to prevent borers from attacking shade trees?

T. J.—Mo.

I do not know what will prevent borers from attacking trees. Various plans have been adopted, such as painting the lower part of the trunks with a solution of soap and carbolic acid, tacking asbestos roofing paper around the lower trunks, painting with paint containing arsenate of lead, or hilling up the bottom of the trunks about a foot high in May or June. The moth lays her eggs near the top of the mound, and if the soil is then pulled away the exposure will kill the young larvæ. None of these remedies is more than partly successful, however. I have more faith in digging out the borers in fall or early spring, or injecting some carbon bisulphide into the holes and then plugging the holes up with putty.

C. W.

Enclosed you will find some advertising matter. We have a surplus, and we believe IF ANYONE CAN HELP US MOVE IT, YOU CAN.—Atlantic Nursery Co., Berlin, Md., D. W. Babcock, Mgr., January 30, 1915.

SPRAYS FOR SAN JOSE SCALE.

Detailed instructions for the use of various sprays in controlling the San Jose scale are given in a recent publication of the Department of Agriculture, farmers' bulletin 650, "The San Jose Scale and Its Control."

Where only a few plants are infested, it is probably better to use some of the prepared washes. These consist of compounds of sulphur in a highly concentrated condition, or powders, to which it is only necessary to add a sufficient quantity of water. The powders, which have but recently appeared on the market, are much more convenient to handle and store than the commercial lime-sulphur concentrates. The latter, however, are still largely used by those who do not care to incur the expense of constructing the cooking plant to make their own lime-sulphur washes.

Prepared in one way or another, some form of lime-sulphur wash is the most common agent for controlling this scale. An old formula is:

Stone lime	20 pounds
Sulphur (flour or flowers)	15 pounds
Water to make	50 gallons

In preparing this wash, about one-third of the total quantity of water required is heated in a cooking barrel or vessel; the lime is then added, and the sulphur immediately afterwards. The sulphur should previously have been made into a thick paste with water. After the lime has slaked, about another third of the water should be added and the cooking continued for an hour, when the rest of the water is put in. During the time of cooking, stirring is necessary if the wash is cooked in kettles. It must also be strained as it is run into the spray tank. This wash must be applied immediately after it is cooked.

When lime-sulphur concentrates are made at home the so-called 50-100-50 formula is frequently used. This is composed of fifty pounds of lime, 100 pounds of sulphur, and water to make fifty gallons, the respective ingredients being boiled together for from fifty minutes to an hour, while the mixture is vigorously stirred either by hand or by a mechanical agitator. As soon as the cooking is over, the solution should be drawn off and run through a 30-mesh strainer into barrels, the agitation being continued all this time in order to effect an equal distribution of the sludge. When properly stirred this solution can be kept for a year or more before being used.

In controlling the scale, it is always advisable to spray the trees while in a dormant condition, for at this time the wash may be used much stronger than would be safe to use on foliage. Spraying may be done in the fall, in mild climates during the winter, or, preferably, in early spring before the buds push out.

In addition to the lime-sulphur washes, kerosene and crude petroleum, either pure or in emulsions, are used. The department does not recommend the use of these oils in a pure condition; while there is no question as to their efficacy in destroying the insects, their employment is likely to cause serious injury to the trees. Kerosene and crude petroleum may be readily emulsified in soap and then used at any strength. The so-called miscible oils, however, which are commercial preparations, are now largely used by those requiring oil sprays in preference to the home-made emulsions. Treatment with these oils is probably desirable only when the infestation is severe and experience has shown that the scale will not be controlled by lime-sulphur sprays. Soap washes made from fish-oil soap are also used to some extent, at the rate of two pounds to the gallon of water, and always on trees in a dormant condition.

OPHELIA
A New Rose of True Worth

We have grown this magnificent rose the past season with most gratifying results. As a free and vigorous grower and great producer it has no equal. It sets bud freely in the short days of winter, and is now coming in with a heavy crop, doing equally well on grafts or own roots.

MRS. GEORGE SHAWYER is at present more favorably thought of than ever, and we intend to again plant it heavily this season. As a money getter, our experience has proven its superiority over all sorts, and having grown extensively on own roots and grafts, we have no hesitancy in stating that, like Sunburst, it does better on own roots.

We have a splendid lot of both varieties (grafts and own roots) ready for shipment, together with a choice lot of Sunburst, Ward, Prince d'Arenberg, White and Pink Killarney, cuttings taken from sand the latter part of December. For prices and further particulars write

The Market.

Easter business far surpassed that of last year, according to the reports of the various florists. There were more plants sold than ever before. Plant baskets were especially popular, and the demand for large plants such as rhododendrons, lilacs, rambler roses, azaleas and other hard-wooded plants was notably fine. Some florists had difficulty in forcing Easter lilies on account of the continued cold, dark weather, and as a result the lower foliage suffered badly. Notwithstanding this, one flower shop sold 500 lilies in two days. The prices obtained for flowering plants were as good as ever.

In cut flowers the demand was tremendous. American Beauties were favorites with a large class of people. These retailed at $8 to $12 per dozen. Richmond roses also met with a strenuous call. Roses brought $1.50 to $5 per dozen. The demand for corsage work was enormous. Orchids were used extensively. Valley was hard to obtain, and there was scarcely enough to meet the demand. Carnations were quite plentiful.

The efforts made by the florists of this city to make of this holiday a cut flower as well as a plant Easter have been productive of such splendid results that it is almost impossible to determine which sales were in the majority.

Various Notes.

The Doswell Floral Co. completely sold out the large stock of plants from their greenhouses. Some fine spiræas were handled here.

Wenninghoff, the Florist, had a fine sale of plants, notably bulbous stock. The call for cut flowers was big.

Herbert Zur Muhlen reports a fine business in large plants, such as azaleas, etc.

The Bradley Flower Shop had a good Easter in the new quarters. The new pelargonium, Easter Greeting, took the popular fancy.

The Flick Floral Co. reports a big sale of large plants and plant baskets. Corsage work was heavier than ever before and, with the cut flower orders, necessitated the store force working all night Saturday, April 3.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey's orchids were splendid, and the quantity of gardenias, roses and cut bulbous stock was not nearly large enough to meet the demand. R. F.

We Offer for Immediate Delivery

Good, strong, well established plants in 2¼-inch pots of the exceedingly VALUABLE NEW ROSES

Ophelia, Francis Scott Key and Prince E. C. d'Arenberg

Growers will find all of these valuable additions to the list of standard varieties. They have been tested thoroughly and have been found to have exceptional value.

OPHELIA

No fancy rose ever introduced possesses so many excellent qualities. It is a splendid grower, a very free bloomer and has fine stems. It sells on sight. The demand undoubtedly will exceed the supply. Anticipating the large demand, we have propagated it extensively.

Strong plants on own roots. 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY

This variety, raised by Mr. John Cook, is very distinct, being entirely different from any of the indoor roses grown today. Flowers are rosy red and are unusually large and double, resembling very much a very full, double, hardy garden rose. Coupled with its large size and double form, it is an exceedingly free bloomer. It promises to be exceedingly valuable, especially for spring, summer and fall flowering, when other less double roses are difficult to handle. Its keeping qualities are remarkable.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

PRINCE E. C. D'ARENBERG

This variety might well have been termed a Red Killarney, as it possesses so many of the good qualities of the Killarneys. In color the flowers are similar to Richmond, but they are much more double, and it should prove a very much more profitable rose. Flowers have fine, straight stems on all the grades—from the shortest to the longest. It has fine foliage, comes away quickly and is even a freer bloomer than the Killarneys. We believe it is the best all-round red rose that we have today.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $12.00 per 100, $90.00 per 1000.

WE WILL BE GLAD TO QUOTE ON APPLICATION PRICES ON ALL THE NEWER AND STANDARD VARIETIES—STRONG, GRAFTED PLANTS READY NOW

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

The demand for stock for Easter was quite good. Almost everything of any quality at all cleaned up readily. Prices were good and held up until the business was almost over, when they dropped on a few lines that were still on hand. Shipping business was excellent.

Roses were in pretty good supply and, with the exception of choice American Beauties, sold readily. Carnations had a fine market. Easter lilies were plentiful, and it was not until Sunday morning that all of them were cleaned up. Callas sold well. Tulips, jonquils and daffodils moved readily. Stock was generally of a high quality. Valley enjoyed an active market, while orchids did not do so well. They seemed to be a little too high-priced for the Easter demand. Sweet peas were in good supply and sold well. Some fine snapdragons were offered, but they had a rather slow market. What violets there were sold readily.

Various Notes.

The regular meeting of the Cincinnati Florists' Society will be held Monday evening, April 12.

L. H. Kyrk reports a quite satisfactory Easter business.

C. E. Critchell says this Easter was the best he has ever had. Robert Buck & Co., Washington C. H., O., have been sending him some fine snapdragons.

E. G. Gillett had no trouble in cleaning up on his large receipts of flowers for Easter, although he admits he was kept stepping pretty lively while the rush lasted.

Charles Weltz, of Wilmington, O., was a recent visitor. C. H. H.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Club Meeting.

At a special meeting of the New Orleans Horticultural Society, at the Association of Commerce hall Monday evening, March 29, it was decided to hold a spring flower show in Lafayette square, May 6 to 9. Opinion was divided as to the advisability of holding a show at that time, some maintaining that more time should be given so as to insure a better exhibition, perhaps next fall.

Several members present offered to pledge certain amounts towards guaranteeing expenses. C. W. Eichling suggested that the society advance $250, receiving a first mortgage on the gate receipts. A framework, to be covered by tarpaulins, will be erected over the platform and seats in the square. A 10-cent admission charge is suggested as adequate to meet expenses. Profits will be distributed among the women's civic leagues to aid their work of beautifying the city.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

At the beginning of last week the weather was far from favorable, but Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3, were good, clear days, and followed by a perfect Easter morning. It is hard at this time to state exactly business conditions, but it is safe to assert that Rochester florists have had a record Easter. Blooming plants were never in better condition, and much the same can be said of cut flowers, of which there was an abundant supply. The demand for corsages was unusually heavy. Sweet peas were in great demand, with plenty to fill all orders. Carnations were of fine quality, and brought fairly good prices, although the darker varieties dragged considerably. Roses were exceptionally fine. Daisies, mignonette and pansies sold well in baskets. Daffodils and jonquils sold well. Valley received a larger call, and there was plenty to supply all demands. Fine orchids were on the market, and brought good prices.

Various Notes.

Advertising pays. Not only did the florists have their individual advertisements in the local papers, but a large, attractive one was published by the combined florists of the city. The press in general printed interesting stories of "Easter and Its Flowers," which added to the sales.

It never rains but it pours. Immense quantities of funeral work had to be got out the last two days of Easter week.

Henry P. Neun's new store, in the corner of the Hotel Rochester, with an attractive front, is being much talked of. The interior is arranged quite artistically.

There were six annexes on Main and State streets last week, occupied by E. R. Fry, John A. Murrell, F. R. Bohnke and others.

Hugo Teute had an elegant lot of blooming plants for Easter, which were nearly all cleared by Saturday noon.

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO., Painesville, Ohio

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Easter morning was bright and clear in this locality, ideal weather for corsages. Buyers seemed to anticipate this and ordered accordingly. Violets, Ward roses, valley and sweet peas were in heavy supply and were sold out clean. Early in the week the weather was anything but encouraging. Snow flurries during the day and freezing weather every night made life miserable for the wholesale plantsman who had to wrap his stock. All plant deliveries were made to the stores from Palm Sunday up to Wednesday, during the coldest and most disagreeable weather. Luckily for the store men, the latter part of the week was much better, but far from perfect. Saturday was the best day, and the amount of business done that day was enormous. Coöperative advertising has received another strong boost. None will deny its efficacy now. Reports come in from store men, growers, wholesalers and small retailers in the suburbs that their business increased from ten to fifty per cent over any other year.

Plants sold well. Lilies were never in such demand, owing to the recent articles on lilies and lily-growing that have appeared in the local papers. The call was for medium-priced stock. Large azaleas, rhododendrons, heather and basket arrangements went slowly. On the average it was by far the best Easter Cleveland has ever seen.

F. A. F.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

Easter business was in most cases quite satisfactory. Notwithstanding the hard times, the florists did a thriving business.

The market was loaded with flowers, which were not entirely cleaned up. There seemed to be no shortage in any line this year, and the prices in most cases were fair. Easter lilies were more than enough to go around. Roses were of first-class quality and found a good demand. Carnations were plentiful, with the demand falling off. This flower seems to be losing some of its former popularity. Valley, sweet peas and violets had a good call. The market was overloaded with bulbous stock, which could be had at the buyer's price.

There was a heavy demand for blooming plants, which is increasing yearly. Lower priced plants, from $1.50 to $3.50, found a good sale; the call for the higher priced ones is falling off.

I think the volume of business was as large as ever before, or larger, but the sales were smaller.

The city flower market was overstocked, nearly every florist and vegetable gardener being represented. A great deal of stock was disposed of and in many cases at low prices.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

THE COAL MARKET.

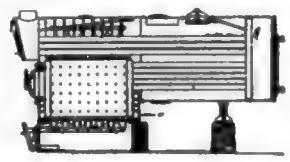
The coal market during the last week or two has shown a slight general improvement in tone, partly due to the cool weather in March. Nearly every dealer has had a little increase in business and this has had the immediate result of quickening operations somewhat at the mines, for there is practically no free coal to take care of any rush of orders. As soon as buying increased, it was necessary to enlarge the output at the mines. "Smokeless coal," says the Black Diamond, "has shown an improvement both in spot buying and in sales for future delivery. While prices are at the lowest level of the year, there is some little interest also in contracting and reports are that some tonnage has been placed among retailers and among dock interests in the northwest. Contracting is not yet as lively as it has been in other years, but an improvement is noted in that direction. The price of mine-run smokeless, f. o. b. the mines, is $1 to $1.25."

FIRST PRINCIPLES OF PIPING.

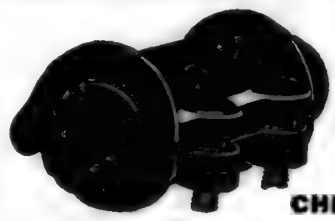
You've heard of the fellow that "didn't know twice." Well, that's yours truly. I am simply "up in the air" as to my heating arrangement. Some say to run my flow through the center of the house, two or three feet below the ridge; others say to run it, or them, along the plates; still others say that by all means I should use large, say 4-inch, pipes for both flows and returns and put them all under the benches.

Now, I can't see any sense in delivering a large percentage of the hot air, and the hottest of it at that, at the top of the house, where it is not wanted, where it will do no good, but where, alas, it will quickly go anyway—more's the pity. Neither can I see any sense in using a 4-inch pipe or pipes (one man is using three 4-inch flows and the same returns under each bench), and feeding the whole shooting match with a 2-inch or 2½-inch pipe from the boiler. Another thing that gets my goat is that one says, "Be sure your flow is highest at the farther end from the boiler," and the next one says, "Rise to your extreme height at the boiler and let the flow fall as it goes toward the farther end of the house." "When the doctors disagree," etc.

I am building a little house, a mere plaything for size, as you would likely term it—only 18x50, with 6-foot side walls, glass in one end, the other end attached to the boiler house. I shall probably use a Wilks boiler and I want to pipe the house in the best way and at the same time the cheapest way. A temperature of 60 degrees at zero is all right, but how about 30 degrees below, as it sometimes gets here?



Now, somehow I have considerable confidence in your opinion (foolish, too, isn't it? I used to be a newspaper man myself), and I shall much appreciate it if you will advise fully just how to arrange my heating system, for, as I said at the start, "I don't know twice" about the matter. F. G.—Ill.



In piping a greenhouse we endeavor to secure an even distribution of the heat and to provide sufficient radiation to maintain the desired temperature in the coldest weather. When the top of the boiler is several feet below the returns, a fairly good circulation can be secured with any of the methods of piping mentioned, but the circulation of the water in the pipes is based upon a simple natural law and the best results can be obtained when the system is arranged in accordance with the requirements of that law.

The circulation in a hot water system results from the fact that hot water is lighter than colder water, and when there is a fire in the boiler, the water, being warmed and thus reduced in weight, is pushed out through the flow pipe, which is connected with the top of the boiler, by the weight of the heavier cold water in the returns, which are connected with the bottom of the boiler. The rapidity of the circulation will, therefore, be determined largely by the difference in the temperature of the water in the flow pipes, counting them from the boiler to the highest point of the system, and that in the returns, or the remainder of the system. Hence, as we wish to keep the water in the flows hot, the pipes should be as short and as large as is found feasible, while the returns should be small and of greater length. Of course the exact size of the pipes will be determined by other conditions, such as friction, etc. The rapidity of the circulation will also be influenced by the height above the boiler of both the flow and return pipes.

So far as the flow pipes are concerned, we believe that it will answer to have one upon each plate for a narrow house, but as the width of the houses increases we would place a third pipe under the ridge, and in extremely wide houses there should be additional flow pipes under the purlins. These should be high enough to be out of the way, but may be from one to six feet from the glass, according to the height of the house and the use it is to be put to. By placing one or more of the flow pipes in the middle of the house, it is a simple matter to have some of the returns under the middle benches, and this is often desirable.

Just how large the flow pipes should be will depend upon the length of the houses and the number and size of the returns, as well as the height of the system above the boiler. As a rule, we would not use 2-inch flows in houses over fifty feet in length and where they must supply more than two 2-inch returns; 2½-inch flows may be used up to 200 feet in length and for two 2-inch returns of that length (three runs might be used if five feet above the boiler). For longer houses we would use 3-inch flow pipes, and they may be used in houses above 150 feet to good advantage, especially in the wider houses.

While it will really make but little difference if the returns are well above the boiler, the best results are obtained when the highest point in the system is near the boiler and the flow pipes, so called, run downhill. When the pipes run uphill and the highest point is at the farther end of the house, the water in the flow pipe will cool slightly and, as already explained, will act as a "drag" upon the circulation, while in a downhill system it will tend to "boost" and hasten the circulation. With a downhill system, also, the expansion tank may be connected with the highest point and thus the use of air valves may be avoided.

To heat a house 18x50 feet, with 6-foot side walls, to 60 degrees in zero weather, we would use one 2½-inch flow upon each plate and a third two or three feet below the ridge. If there is no glass in the side walls, we would use nine 2-inch returns, in three coils. We would use an additional return for each two feet of glass. Thus, if there is three feet of glass in each wall, we would use three additional returns.

In the case of outdoor temperatures as low as 30 degrees below zero, which would not come often or stay long, it would be possible to maintain the 60-degree temperature with the radiation specified, by heavier and more frequent firing, or three more returns might be installed. Another plan in such extremes of weather would be to connect a mercury generator or other contrivance, for placing the water under pressure. These serve an excellent purpose in such cases, as well as when the returns are below the top of the boiler, as they not only make it possible to carry the water at a higher temperature, but they improve a sluggish circulation. By carrying the water under pressure it is often possible to make a considerable reduction in the amount of radiation required in a system, and 2-inch flows and 1½-inch returns may be substituted for 2½-inch flows and 2-inch returns used with open-tank systems. In case, however, the water is only carried under pressure in extremely cold weather, the larger sizes of pipe should be used.

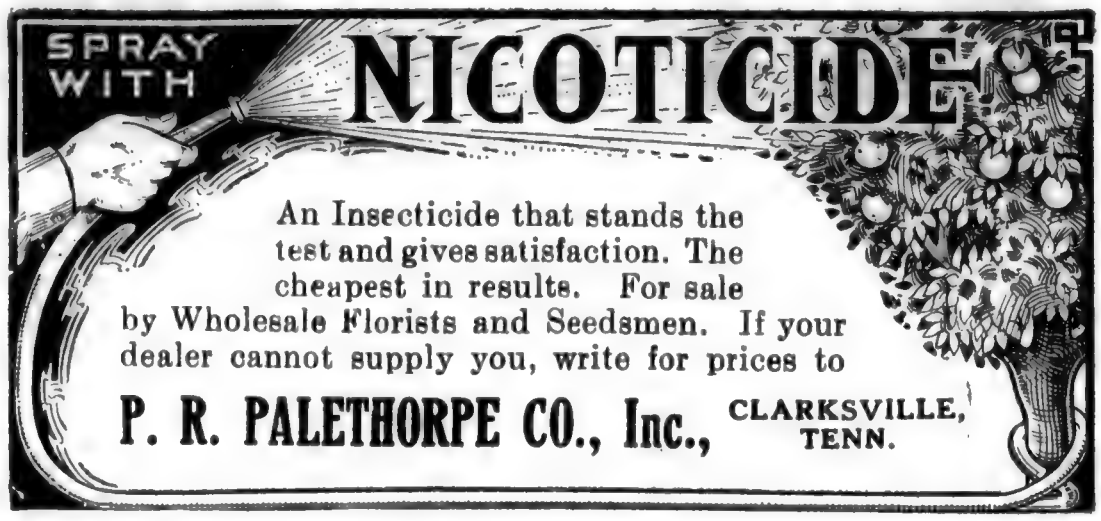
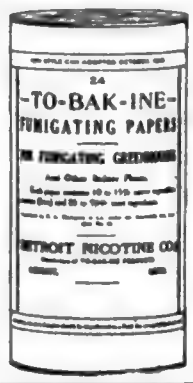
The Market.

Easter was pleasant, though a little cool. Never before was there such an amount of flowers for Easter. Everywhere one looked there were flowers. Several of the dry goods and clothing firms made a venture in them. Everyone seems well satisfied with results, though prices were not as high as expected, and especially in potted stock the price was far below normal. Cut flowers were quite plentiful and cleaned up fairly well. Carnations did not move as readily as they should, but there were quantities of bulbous stock, which seemed to be almost first choice for the general trade. Roses were plentiful, with the exception of Beauties. The demand for sweet peas was enormous, as they seemed to be the favorite for corsage work, and, while there were fairly large supplies, there were not enough to go the rounds and they were cleaned up early, with a scramble for them at the last moment. Valley, violets, Sunburst and Richmond roses were used extensively for corsages. Lilies, both cut and potted, were cleaned up. Taking it as a whole, the craft is well pleased with the wind-up and that we did not have weather conditions like those prevailing all through the east.

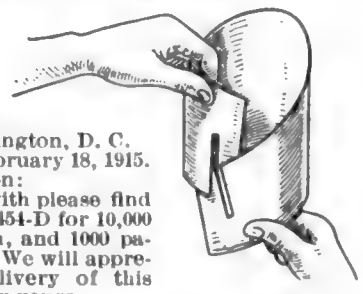


J. M.



BRAMPTON, ONT.

By Saturday afternoon, April 3, the greenhouses in this neighborhood were sold out of almost everything for Easter. No previous Easter has resulted in such a large turnover, and everything goes to suggest that perfectly healthy conditions exist in business, despite the crisis through which the Dominion is passing.



At the Dale Estate the lilies, although they seemed to hang fire slightly at first, were eagerly sought after, so that by the middle of the week there were not nearly enough to meet the demand. Some of the finest antirrhinums ever seen in Canada have been cut during the last fortnight and reflect considerable credit on the grower, Charles Bacon. Jack Freestone has left to engage in vegetable farming for himself at Georgetown. W. G. P.

PAPER POTS AND DIRT BANDS

Our Square Paper Dirt Bands are the original of all that are on the market today. All others being sold are imitations of these we advertise, and some of the imitations being sold are made of cheap paper, costing only about half as much as our heavy stock. We sell no experiments. Ours have been tried out by long use in the greenhouse. They will stand up in any wet and heat as long as wanted. Samples of all sizes FREE.

"I had some of your paper pots last year. I want more this year."—W. R. Wissinger, Homer City, Pa.

"We used 10,000 of your paper Dirt Bands last Spring and we like them. They are just the thing. Please give us prices on 40,000 or 50,000."—S. K. Green Co., Paris, Ill.

"Ten thousand paper pots came duly to hand. We are enclosing check for 15,000 more. Kindly rush them out as before."—L. A. Budlong Company (700-acre gardens), Chicago, Ill.

"Please ship immediately 150,000 2-in. Dirt Bands and 20,000 3-in. Dirt Bands."—B. B. Dilks, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Could you ship me by freight at once 15,000 more 2-in. Dirt Bands and 5000 3-in. Dirt Bands? I like them very much."—H. B. Weaver, Bird-in-Hand, Pa. (Mr. Weaver grows Carnations, Mignonettes, Sweet Peas and Cut Flowers. He got 5000 2-in. Dirt Bands in December, 40,000 in January, 20,000 in March last year, and we have just shipped him 70,000 more.)

"I have now about 14,000 Carnation plants started in 2-in. bands which are making a RAPID GROWTH, scarcely losing a plant in transplanting from the sand.

I also have about 20,000 Aster plants transplanted in 2-in. bands, which can stay there till time to plant out-of-doors WITHOUT FEAR OF BECOMING ROOT BOUND, as would be the case if I used 2-in. pots.

Plants SELDOM BECOME ROOT BOUND enough to injure them IN THE DIRT BANDS, and DO NOT REQUIRE NEAR THE AMOUNT OF ATTENTION that a pot plant does, in watering, shifting, transplanting, etc.

I believe anyone using these bands ONCE WILL BECOME A REGULAR CUSTOMER."—H. B. Weaver, Bird-in-Hand, Pa.

"We note friend H. B. Weaver's testimonial. Coming from a man like H. B. Weaver, it is WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD."—James Brown, Jr., Florist, Coatesville, Pa.

"Tomato plants which without your Pots sell here at $1.00 per 100, raised in your Pots sell at $4.00 per 100."—The Dalles Floral Company, The Dalles, Oregon.

"From about 2700 Tomato plants I picked 1140 MARKETABLE CRATES of Tomatoes, which brought me $600."—D. B. Moses, Purchase, N. Y.

"Tomato plants raised in the 4-inch size sell readily at FIVE CENTS EACH."—W. J. Symonds & Son, Decorah, Ia.

"Your Paper Pots gave better plants than clay pots and sold at Double Price."—Mt. Gilead Floral Co., Mt. Gilead, Ohio.

"BANDS WILL GIVE BETTER PLANTS THAN POTS." (Clay Pots.)—F. B. Murdock & Co., Kingston, Pa.

"We got BETTER PLANTS, BIGGER PLANTS AND PLANTS WHICH WERE HEALTHIER AND MORE VIGOROUS THAN IN CLAY POTS."—Wm. Schruers, Gardener, Oil City, Pa.

"We find that WATERING ALONE SAVES TIME ENOUGH TO PAY OVER CLAY POTS, and with proper handling there is NO QUESTION BUT A BETTER PLANT CAN BE GROWN."—H. Russell & Son, Market Gardeners, Boonville, New York.

"I find them SUPERIOR TO EARTHEN POTS IN EVERY CASE, requiring about half the water—at least that is the case after the sun gets well back and very drying."—W. L. Leeka, Fairmount, Ill.

"We grew Tomato plants and Chrysanthemum plants in your Dirt Bands last year and they proved VERY SATISFACTORY AND CHEAP, A GREAT SAVING OVER CLAY POTS."—L. M. Smith & Co., Laurel Greenhouses, Laurel, Del.

"They do not dry out as fast as clay pots and MAKE BETTER PLANTS in the same length of time. They hold the plants longer in fine condition without getting yellow than clay pots. They are also better for shipping plants, as they are light and pack better than clay pots."—Evan R. Miller, Florist, Bridgeton, N. J.

"All worked very satisfactory and they DO NOT REQUIRE THE ATTENTION THAT SMALL POTS DO. We certainly like Dirt Bands."—Reimers Bros., Rapid City, S. D.

"Please ship us 200,000 2½-inch Dirt Bands."—Hudson River Orchards Co., Saugerties, New York.

"We were well pleased with the Dirt Bands we got. Our Asters are GROWING FINE in them."—Koopmann Bros., Davenport, Iowa.

"We used the Paper Pots last year for Coleus and found the plants GROW SO MUCH FASTER than those in clay pots."—E. P. Houston, Lowellville, Ohio. (The roots of plants are pumps. They had twice as much soil to pump substance from and could not help grow faster.)

"We have tried these pots and THINK THEY ARE THE FINEST THING OUT."—E. E. Keener, Florist and Rooted Cutting Specialist, Little River, Kansas.

The Market.

The week preceding Easter was bright and clear and was quite satisfactory to those who grow sweet peas, carnations, etc. On Saturday morning a blizzard visited this section and there was snow all day, which made it most unpleasant to be outdoors. Consequently the Saturday shoppers were not as numerous as they might have been, and this accounted for the fact that some stock was not so well cleaned out as in some other years. The stock in general was of good quality.

Various Notes.

The Rosery had a creditable display of fancy stock. Some calceolarias, pans of valley, cinerarias, lilac bushes, etc., were extra good.

W. A. Hammond's store was a busy one. The azalea display was a prominent feature.

Thos. R. Fries occupied a large store on North Queen street, which was filled with extra good bulbous stock. Some specimen azaleas of his own importation were of the highest order.

B. F. Barr & Co. had their usual fine display of everything in flowers. In addition to their regular store, they also occupied another one in the same block.

H. A. Schroyer had possibly the finest lot of Easter lilies grown in this section. His bulbous stock and blooming plants were extra good.

Geo. G. Goldbach, one of the largest calla growers in the east, had an unusually fine supply for Easter. His showing of miscellaneous stock also was good.

Miss Mary Bachler and Frank A. Suter, whose establishments are adjacent to the largest cemeteries here, had a good business for Easter.

In the markets Frank L. Kohr, A. F. Strickler, John R. Shreiner, Frank Johnson, Israel Erb and Jacob H. Weaver all had a part in supplying the demand for Easter plants and cut flowers.

The Lancaster Florists' Association will have a ladies' night, April 15, at the Stevens House. Supper will be served at 7:30 and a pleasant time is assured. Any out-of-town florists who wish to attend should send their names to the chairman of the social committee, Ira H. Landis, Paradise, Pa.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

On the whole, the Easter market was satisfactory. A tremendous volume of stock was disposed of, but the prices on cut flowers were only medium. Stock was cleaned out pretty well; little was left at noon of Easter day. The plant end of the industry again showed its ascendency and the quantity of plants moved greatly exceeded that of last year. The demand for Easter lilies was large, of course, and they were cleaned out before Easter. Other plants also found a ready sale.

There was some shortage in fancy roses, such as Ophelia, Russell, Sunburst, etc., but the cut was sufficiently large to give everyone a share of these varieties. Killarney and White Killarney were in large supply, but the entire cut was disposed of readily. Carnations were really plentiful and no trouble was experienced in filling all orders for them. The quality was fine and, as there were plenty to pick from, all orders were satisfactorily taken care of. The supply of sweet peas was large and some of them were especially fancy. The butterfly sorts were in great demand and were cleaned out early; the ordinary stock was then sold without difficulty and on Easter there were none to be had. Single violets were rather scarce and were therefore at a premium. The double varieties moved rather slowly; after all demands were met, there was a good-sized surplus. The quality was only medium and violets show that they are already on the wane. Valley was scarce the latter part of the week; the stock was somewhat green and so was not readily salable. Spring flowers sold well, considering the quantity on the market. Prices were none too good.

The retailers report business as satisfactory, but it is still too early to determine just how the holiday panned out. H. J. S.

BE INDEPENDENT OF THE RAIN CLOUDS. The HURST Over-Head Irrigation System gives you water in the right quantity when and where you need it. WORCESTER, MASS.

The Market.

A blizzard started April 3 and continued for twenty-four hours, hurting the retail trade and playing havoc with deliveries. About a foot of snow fell and, as nobody was prepared for it, blocked traffic to a great extent. Only a few of the largest and well established florists sold all their stock. There were three stores that were opened just for the Easter trade and these sold their supply almost at wholesale prices. It looked as if these temporary places would hurt the regular florist, but the blizzard on Saturday killed their trade. Some large grocery stores sold lilies at a low price. Violets sold well, but by Saturday it was impossible to buy them in Worcester. Sweet peas also were popular and most of the florists sold all they could get. Next to lilies, azaleas and roses were most popular in potted plants. Bulbous stock sold well, as did acacias, ericas and genistas.

Various Notes.

The florists' telegraph delivery was quite popular this Easter and the public seemed to realize its value more than ever.

H. F. A. Lange did a large business and cleaned out his enormous supply in fine shape. He said that when he saw it start to snow on Saturday he looked for a slow day, but it seemed that the more it snowed the faster the customers came. Mr. Lange had a fine display of genistas, acacias and azaleas in all sizes. His lilies were good, and although he charged a higher price than the groceries and such places, he sold nearly all his stock. For novelties he had chorizemas, bowieas, little window baskets filled with hyacinths, genistas, acacias and ericas. Two auto cars, three teams and seven boys constituted his delivery force.

Harry Randall was another florist who sold lilies at a fair price and cleaned up his stock. Business here was large and seemed to grow with the storm. Mr. Randall had a good line of lilies, azaleas, acacias, ericas and bulbous stock. He did a great deal of advertising and the returns were good. A large force of extra help was employed to take care of the increase in business. The delivery force consisted of two autos, two teams and five boys.

F. B. Madaus did a good business, having all he could handle. On account of his wife's illness, he left the business in the hands of his clerks on Saturday. The clerks showed their merits and did well. H. L.

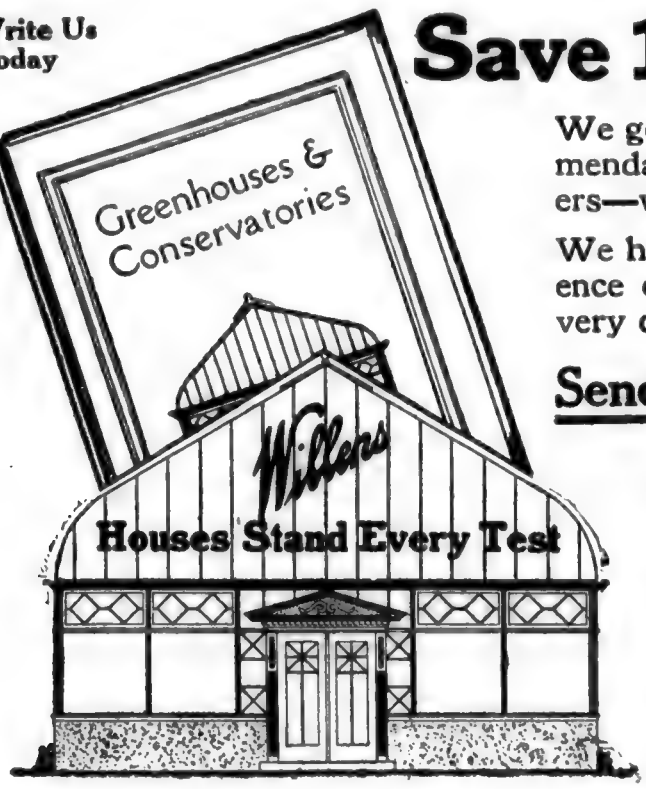
THE STRAINS OF CYCLAMEN.

It is generally acknowledged that a stock of any seed will deteriorate unless it is kept up to concert pitch by selection. It is not sufficient to merely rogue down or weed out throw-backs. Such a stock might suit for general purposes, but seed from this and the following generations would not be improved by such simple methods. Only by marking down special plants and seeding them for stock purposes can a strain be improved, or even kept up to the top notch.

The importance of this fact was exemplified when I was examining two or three strains of cyclamen recently. The extraordinary difference between the Giant Whites, Giant Crimsons, etc., from different growers was marked, not only as regards size, but color also. What one grower would term crimson was a dirty magenta alongside another. One stock of salmon scarlet was merely salmon compared with that remarkably brilliant novelty named Mrs. L. M. Graves.



The St. George's Nursery Co. exhibited three remarkably fine baskets at the last show of the Royal Horticultural Society (London) and, although occupying but a small amount of space, they simply compelled attention. At a short distance Mrs. L. M. Graves looked quite vermilion, while that remarkable variety, St. George, amazed everyone by its immense and beautiful variegated foliage. For several years I have had the pleasure of seeing this variety, and I must confess that the present-day strain is more beautiful than ever. There is every likelihood of further developments in this variegated section, for the St. George's concern has two or three others under way, including a fine crimson.

The third basket contained a new variety, named Queen Mary, a giant-flowered Salmon Queen. No one requires telling that the modern giganteum cyclamens are vastly different from the ordinary persicum types, and it is only when one sees the monstrous flowers of the St. George's strains that one realizes what developments have been made.—H. THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

MOTHERS' DAY AND THE "GET TOGETHER"

Do you suppose it's the Mother Spirit that brings Florists together for "Her" day? At any rate, it's easy to get the trade lined up for cooperative advertising. It was done in a dozen cities last year. In this article, Florists tell how it was done, and how it worked.

EVERYONE knows the story of Mothers' day; how it broke out sporadically in 1908; how the call for white carnations found florists unprepared; how many wrote The Review for information, the first letter coming from Chapin Bros., Lincoln, Neb.; how The Review had difficulty in tracing the origin and ascertaining the purpose of Mothers' day; how the trail finally led to a Philadelphia lady who had written an open letter to a local newspaper; how The Review, sensing an opportunity for another flower holiday, exploited Mothers' day in its late April issue, 1909; how the trade took up the idea and pushed it according to the suggestions made in The Review; how the public responded in such force that the supply of white carnations became far short of the requirements; how, to turn the demand, The Review next year suggested

For Mothers at home, flowers bright,
For Mothers' memory, flowers white;

how, as the years rolled around, The Review has offered suggestions for the further development of Mothers' day that have been taken up first by dozens, then by hundreds and finally by thousands of florists, until now Mothers' day ranks fourth and perhaps third in the list of special flower days.

Mothers' day, annually the second Sunday in May, affords a splendid illustration of the power of publicity; of the value of advertising; of the splendid results that follow united effort on the part of the trade. While we are indebted to an outsider for the idea, Mothers' day has been made by florists. Its exploitation has been almost wholly through newspaper advertising by retail florists. And one of the most interesting points has been that the demand, originally centered on the white carnation, has been turned to include all classes of flowers. And turned by the simple expedient of omitting reference to carnations from the ads.

Working Together.

One of the suggestions made by The Review was that Mothers' day be exploited in each city by raising an advertising fund by subscription among the trade. This never had been tried when The Review printed the suggestion, but since that day it has become a regular practice in a large number of cities. But Mothers' day more than any other special flower day seems to draw the trade together for united effort. Last year coöperative advertising was done in a dozen cities. Several pages of this issue are used to show the different plans employed and in this article numerous letters from participants are printed to show how it has worked and what results were obtained. It is timely because within the next few days the subject will be up for action, not in a dozen cities but in score. The coöperative advertising for Mothers' day this year will exceed in volume and excel in quality anything that has been done in the past. And it goes without question it will bring results.

Showing How.

The coöperative advertisements reproduced in this issue nearly all are much reduced in size. The Cleveland and Boston advertisements are reproduced full size, but the Dayton, Columbus, Louisville and Memphis advertisements were full pages and all the others much larger than they are shown here—to show so many it was necessary to make the plates as small as possible and still retain legibility. Without exception they are worth study. It will be noted the advertisements are of three general characters. There is the advertisement that is divided into a number of small spaces, each subscriber being permitted to put in his space whatever text pleases his fancy. Then there is the advertisement that tells the Mothers' day story only once, the subscriber's part being limited to the printing of his name and address, each one receiving equal prominence. Then there is the advertisement paid for by subscription but containing no names, merely an advertisement of Mothers' day and flowers.

The letters in this article will show that each of these forms of advertising brought good results, but it will be apparent that some of the advertisements are better than others.

The Best Ads.

It will be apparent that the most effective advertisement is not the one that contains the most text; the crowded advertisement is not attractive; the best one is that which "he who runs may

Mother o' Mine

A Flower Bright

THE observance of the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day originated with a Philadelphia lady, Miss Anna Jarvis, who observed the first anniversary of the death of her mother by wearing white carnations, her mother's favorite flower. The happy thought then occurred to her that all mothers, whether living or dead, should be so honored that the second Sunday in May the date of the first observance should be recognized as the time for this tribute. To make the distinction clear, white flowers are worn as a tribute to the dead and bright flowers in honor of the living.

read.'' Where the coöperative plan of advertising has had the longest test it has been found most effective in every sense to have the subscribers' names appear in the advertisement; the announcement appears to lose force unless its origin is plainly apparent. It seems quite plain that the public has been educated to accept advertising as the natural thing and to place confidence in the announcements that frankly state their commercial purpose, but to less readily understand and less freely accept advertising which does not show on its face the commercial interest of its sponsors.

The earliest coöperative advertisements nearly all were divided into separate spaces for each subscriber. The result was that each man told the whole story, or conflicting stories, and an unattractive, almost unreadable hodgepodge frequently resulted. The best results thus far obtained have come from the use of large space devoted to striking display, with brief text and the signatures and addresses of the subscribers. It will be noted that last year at Memphis only three florists subscribed to the fund, but they used a full page. At Louisville there were nine subscribers and at Columbus, only seven. In cities of moderate size a full page can be had in the leading paper at from $50 to $200, where in Chicago or New York the papers of largest circulation charge perhaps $700 or $800. Ten florists can well afford to pay $10 each and use a full page that costs $100.

MOTHERS' DAY

WHITE FLOWERS—

BRIGHT FLOWERS—

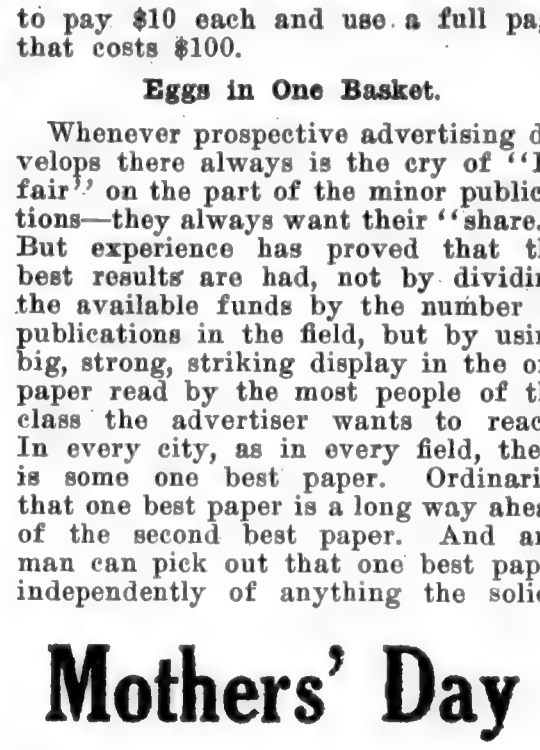
Sunday, May 10, is set aside officially throughout the United States to honor the best mother who ever lived—your own.

The purpose of this announcement is to properly bring MOTHERS' DAY to the attention of the public and to extend the popularity of this beautiful idea.

Remembrances should be made with floral tributes in the home and no one should be without a flower on Mothers' Day.



Each one should do his best to keep alive the observance of this beautiful day

Whenever prospective advertising develops there always is the cry of ''Be fair'' on the part of the minor publications—they always want their ''share.'' But experience has proved that the best results are had, not by dividing the available funds by the number of publications in the field, but by using big, strong, striking display in the one paper read by the most people of the class the advertiser wants to reach. In every city, as in every field, there is some one best paper. Ordinarily that one best paper is a long way ahead of the second best paper. And any man can pick out that one best paper independently of anything the solicitors may say. For any florist, anywhere, at any time, the one best paper for him to use is the one that carries the largest volume of advertising directed at the same class of people the florist wants to reach. If the florist's offer is a special sale of violets at 19 cents per bunch, then he wants to print his advertisement in the paper that carries the ads of the bargain basements, but if he wants to reach good trade the paper to use is the one that carries the advertisements of the better class of merchandise.

Mothers' Day

Sunday, May 10th

REMEMBER your mother. REMEMBER that no matter how much you do for her, you never can do enough to repay her, that you never can do too much to show appreciation of her love.

By buying flowers or a pretty plant for her, or by wearing a flower in her honor on the day set aside for this purpose, you can show your appreciation in a good way.

Mothers' day this year falls on May 10th. Your Florist is exceptionally well prepared to take care of your Mothers' Day wants. Just telephone to him.

Be sure to remember your mother if only by wearing a blossom on your coat lapel.

Mothers' Day May 10th.

How Clevelanders Did It.

Start Something.

The coöperative advertisements have nearly all come about through some one energetic florist having set the ball rolling. In some cases a florist, impressed with the opportunity, has collected the fund. At Cleveland and at Knoxville the Florists' Clubs took charge, and at Boston the Retail Florists' Club attached its name to the advertising, but in most places the cooperative advertisement has been the result of a florist telephoning the advertising manager of the best paper in the city. The newspaper usually has been quick to grasp the opportunity and has sent a solicitor to call on the other florists. This probably is the best way to work it. The Review suggests that the reader here reach for his 'phone and call up his newspaper; then go on with the letters that constitute the balance of this article and learn how the plan worked in other cities last year as florists tell it here.

This most beautiful idea and sentiment originated with Miss Annie Jarvis, of Philadelphia. The happy thought occurred to her that all mothers, whether living or dead, should be especially honored some one day each year, and the second Sunday in May was set aside as "Mother's Day."

The leading florists of Springfield and throughout the country are making every preparation to supply their customers and the public in general with flowers appropriate for the day.

The purpose of this announcement is properly to bring "Mother's Day" to the attention of the public and to increase the popularity of this beautiful idea.

This advertisement is paid for by the following florists as a tribute to the general welfare of the floral art.

ticle is the result. All the letters printed here were written while the subject was still fresh in mind. The man who wants to push can find inspiration in them and the man who wants to lie back, believing "we'll sell out anyway," will find here others of the same mind. But read them all; they're worth it.

A Bad Start.

Baltimore made a first attempt and bad start—too much was undertaken. Two florists, assisted by the advertising manager of the News, secured subscriptions from forty members of the trade, and they printed all their names and addresses, with a story twice too long, in a space only eleven inches on three columns. The results were not appreciable to many of the forty subscribers, according to one of them. Samuel Feast & Sons say:

"The idea originated through the columns of The Review; one of our local papers worked up the scheme, based on the article that appeared a few weeks before Mothers' day. Our local retail and wholesale florists and growers subscribed to the fund and the ad that appeared was the result. Now as to the benefit that the trade derived from same, we are sorry to state that the majority of these advertisers have reported that the ad did not materially help their sales on Mothers' day, as business was only normal; that is to say, on the same line as that of previous years. We do not know but it may have a good effect on the future, but our personal experience this year was with the majority.

"It seems that the public has been educated to the fact that nothing but the white carnation should be used, and as in previous years, the supply soon ran out. If they were better informed through the press that any white flower is appropriate for mother's memory and that colored flowers should be used for mothers at home, we believe that the trade in general would be benefited by such a campaign. As the matter now stands, the Baltimore public is still in the dark as to the intent of the day."

It Worked Well at Springfield.

At Springfield, Mass., five florists signed an ad of almost exactly the same size as the one used at Baltimore but containing far less matter, with no reference to the carnation. Here is what Mark Aitken says about it:

"The idea was not original. I saw in The Review an advertisement similar to the one used here. If I remember rightly, it was an advertisement the florists of Detroit used the year before, for Mothers' day. There is no doubt this advertisement did all the florists a lot of good, even those who did not participate in it. It brought to the mind of the public the fact that the particular date was Mothers' day, which was all that was necessary to make a lot of business for that day. A year ago, when we first ran this ad, it almost doubled the amount of business done on Mothers' day, and we did much better this year.

"The cost to the florists who participated in the advertisement was about $5 each for one issue."

A Cleveland Newspaper's Day's Head.

And Then Go West.

Spokane, Wash., also made its first attempt at coöperative advertising, using a half page. This is A. J. Burt's story of it:

"In regard to coöperative advertising for Mothers' day, I wish to say that I was much pleased to know it aroused more than ordinary interest among the trade. The idea was introduced by Leroy B. Hill, who was at that time The Review's correspondent here and the manager of my retail business. In calling on the trade he found that a few of the florists approved of his plan and believed coöperative advertising would pay. This was tipped off to the advertising manager of one of our large dailies, who immediately set about working up an agreement among the florists. Five of them fell in line at once. The cost, $90, was stood by the florists in proportion to their estimated business, three of the large firms standing equally two-thirds of the cost, and two smaller firms the remainder.

"The result was the breaking of the records of previous years, the results being generally attributed to coöperative advertising. All kinds and colors of flowers were sold, and also a great many plants, much to the delight of the florists.

"Mr. Hill called upon our mayor, asking him to issue a proclamation for Mothers' day, but the mayor considered the idea of the florists purely mercenary and refused to do so. Another year we will endeavor to get the editors of the newspapers to devote part of their editorial space to writing correct data regarding the day, and thus by the power of suggestion increase the sale of flowers.''

But S. Younkin, secretary and treasurer of Hoyt Bros. Co., is not quite so enthusiastic. ''I am inclined to think,'' says Mr. Younkin, taking the attitude that has been held by florists for years, ''all of us would have cleaned up our stock without any advertising, although the demand this year was for more red and pink carnations than for white. I have not made up my mind yet to like the coöperative advertising. This cost me $23. I could have carried a 4-inch ad in three successive issues for the same money and believe it would have done me more good as an individual firm for Mothers' day and the days that follow.''

Then, Back to Boston.

In Boston, one of the most conservative of cities, a full page ad was printed in the leading daily and the surplus spent in several smaller spaces. This is the progressive report, by Wax Bros.:

''We are pleased to say that Mothers' day, 1914, was the best ever and the day promises to become better known and better loved until it becomes 'the day of days' throughout the universe. In Boston the public was most enthusiastic, but of course that was all due to advertising. The day is yet so new that the date has not made its impression on many minds, but all it needed was the reminder through newspaper advertising to make them sit up and take notice.

''Regarding the coöperative advertising, would say that we have here in Boston what is known as the Retail Florists' Club and through this medium the advertising was arranged for. Each member of the association, as well as the different growers, contributed what he could, or thought he should, toward the ad, and $157 was raised. We had a full page ad in the leading morning newspaper on Saturday, the day preceding Mothers' day. It was a great success, but the mistake was that only carnations were advertised—white for mothers gone before and colored for mothers still in the home, adapting the phrase from The Review. We think that all flowers should be advertised, making the distinction only between the white and colors. In that way it would give all the growers the opportunity they should have to sell the flowers that bloom so readily in the warm weather, and at the same time keep the prices down on carnations, for which the growers ask exorbitant prices, more than some poor folks who love their mothers or their mothers' memory can afford to pay. Next year we shall try to advertise all flowers, white for mothers deceased and colored for mothers living.

''We hope this letter will help you in awakening interest in preparations for another Mothers' day and assure you of our interest and efforts to make the event the greatest on record.''

And then, lest too much be expected, consider the conservative view. It is that of Henry R. Comley, vice-president of the Retail Florists' Club:

''I simply entered into the Mothers' day advertising so as not to appear different or offish; personally, I do not believe in advertising any of these days—we can get all the business we can properly take care of such days. If advertising is to be done at all, then general advertising at all times should be resorted to. What is the use of making a big blow about something and then have the producers put up the price so that you have to charge the public higher prices? This gives it a slap in the face. You will not think this an enthusiastic letter, but these are my views.''

Louisville Approves Plan.

At Louisville the coöperative idea is approved. Fred Haupt says:

''Mothers' day was a big success in 1914, as far as the florists and flowers were concerned; in fact, we believe we could have handled more stock if we were better equipped in the way of good salesmen. These men, it seems to us, are a rarity; that is, good, well-trained men. The increase in business on Saturday preceding Mothers' day, and on the day itself, was largely due to the public press. Several good write-ups appeared in the papers and several of the more important florists worked out a coöperative advertising plan for this particular day with a full page, which worked well, the cost, I believe, not exceeding $10 each.''

The coöperative page was worked up by the newspaper, which had been put on the trail by one of the readers of the article on such advertising published in The Review for April 23, 1914. August R. Baumer says: ''The solicitor for the paper had the diagram of the page when he called on the florists. It is my opinion that the drawing and the reading matter connected with it was prepared by some regular advertising firm which furnishes newspapers with a service of that kind.

''On account of the scarcity of carnations, especially white, it is a hard matter to judge just how much the ad helped us, but every retailer did a big business. Perhaps I had better explain my views on certain phases of advertising. I believe in constant advertising to bring yourself before the public, but do not believe in special advertising of my own business just for the holidays or certain holidays, as I believe every honest retailer will get for the principal holidays just about all he can handle satisfactorily for himself and his trade. But I do believe in advertising our goods for the holidays and believe this can best be done in coöperative advertising. By joining together we can afford larger space and the service of expert help.

"In regard to improving the advertising for Mothers' day, I think we must teach the public through advertising to use plants and other cut flowers besides carnations, otherwise the high prices for carnations on that day will kill the day. I believe the grower of medium-priced plants should look into the question of Mothers' day and assist the retailer to hold the price of cut flowers within reason by pushing plants.

"Coöperative advertising, I believe, can be profitably used at New Year's, Christmas, Valentine's day, Mothers' day and Thanksgiving. All these days can be made more profitable to the trade in general by judicious educational advertising, and this I think can best be done by coöperation. We must teach the general public that a flower is a more suitable valentine than tinseled paper and fully as desirable as candy. We must teach them that a rose or a plant is just as much admired and desired by mother as is the carnation. We must let them understand that the New Year's sentiment is more delicately expressed in flowers than in many of the other things that are used for greetings. This letter is longer than I wanted it to be, but I do not know how else to give you some of my views on this advertising question."

Memphis Is Unanimous.

The solid south lives up to its reputation—all three of those who coöperated to run a page in Memphis say it was a winner.

Mrs. M. E. Irby, of the Flower Shop: "The Evening Scimitar got up the ad. Our part cost $31. We must say it was the best ad we have invested in; we certainly had splendid results."

W. H. Englehart, of the Idlewild Greenhouses: "We think the page was a corker; it certainly brought the business; increased forty per cent over the previous Mothers' day. The page cost each one of the three about $31. We think the same idea carried out at Christmas, Easter or any occasion of that kind would be a good thing for all."

W. C. Johnson, of Johnson's Greenhouses: "I am much gratified to note that an interest has been aroused by The Review in regard to coöperative Mothers' day advertisements. I showed a News-Scimitar man a copy of The Review that contained your suggestions along this line. Being energetic newspaper men, they called on a number of the leading florists and put the proposition up to them, but received favorable answers from only three of them. The original idea was to secure at least five florists to bear the expense of the full page ad. Not being successful in getting the proposed number, the paper itself agreed to come in as one, bearing an equal portion of the expense, thereby making the cost to the three florists taking advantage of the idea on the basis of a quarter page. The results were entirely satisfactory and I feel that the money was well spent. The only way that I can see to improve the advertisement is to get every florist in the city to cooperate. It occurs to me that a similar plan could be carried out for Thanksgiving, popularizing the idea of everyone having flowers on the table on that day. My idea is to offer a special box of flowers at a reasonable cost in order to reach a class of people that do not have much to spend on flowers. As a last note, I beg to state that The Review can be credited with influencing the Memphis florists to use the coöperative plan of advertising, the same as it has broadened and increased the business in many other ways."

At Knoxville.

Knoxville was one of the cities in which the Mothers' day ads carried no names, yet "the campaign certainly proved a big success," says L. A. Giger, manager for Charles W. Crouch, who estimates the increase over the year before as "100 per cent; we could have done more had stock lasted. We sold all kinds of stock with equal ease, although of course white carnations are most called for."

"The idea of coöperative advertising for this day was first suggested to other florists here by the writer," says Mr. Giger, who had noted in The Review what was being done in other cities. "I asked several of the local florists what they thought of us all pooling a certain amount of money and simply advertising Mothers' day, in particular the sending of 'flowers' to 'mothers living' and the wearing of any 'white flowers in mothers' memory.' In advertising in this way, without any names attached to any advertising, my idea was to educate the public to observe this day as a flower day. Our local florists' society appointed a committee of five, one member of each retail firm in the city. The writer, being the first named on that committee, arranged for a 5-inch double-column display ad in both the morning and afternoon papers, also for six little locals, the copy for which was taken from The Review, which were scattered as reading matter in different sections of the papers. The cost of the whole advertising was only $50, each retail florist being assessed $10.

"A delegation from this committee visited the editors of the papers and asked them to omit anything that would conflict with our advertising bright flowers for mother in the home, white flowers in her memory. We explained the necessity for omitting any statement that the white carnation is the appropriate flower of the day and told them that if white carnations were pushed for this occasion it would soon kill the day, as there will never be enough to go around.

"My suggestion for improving the advertising would be to take this matter up with the S. A. F. and have it approach the Associated Press and other news agencies to get them to eliminate any mention of white carnations. I note that several of the papers received cuts of white carnations as the official flower for this day. These same news items in several of the larger cities have practically killed all efforts made by the florists."

As It Worked in Ohio.

Says Mrs. J. B. Freeman, successor to George A. Heinl, Toledo: "It was an easy matter to get each florist to put in $10. It appeals to me as being more effective than any other kind of advertising, certainly more effective than small individual ads. Most of the retail florists in Toledo are old in the business and everyone knows them. When anything occurs that creates an extra call for flowers nearly everyone goes to a florist who has been dealt with before. So what we want in the way of advertising is something big and striking that all the people will see. The big coöperative ad calls everyone's attention to buying flowers; it escapes no one. Of course we got the idea from reading in The Review what others had done. We tried it, and we like it; it gives us all more publicity than we could get if we each went at it alone."

"I think coöperative advertising is the proper thing and it certainly proved a great success with us," writes H. H. Ritter, Dayton, O.

"The results were entirely satisfactory," says H. W. Munk, president of the Munk Floral Co., Columbus, O., who adds: "The page ad was designed and written by the newspaper in which it ran and each florist was solicited by that newspaper. The cost was divided pro rata, amounting to about $17 to each advertiser. Easter and Memorial day advertising could, and no doubt will, be done along the same lines, since the advantage of a full page over small individual ads is obvious."

And this from the newspaper man: "I am sending you a copy of the Columbus florists' Mothers' day ad. They'll have to step some to beat this, won't they? The poem and idea for the ad all were obtained from your splendid publication. If every florist in America isn't a subscriber to The Review, that's what's the matter with their business."

FUNERAL FLOWERS AT ST. PAUL.

The larger of the accompanying illustrations shows People's church at St. Paul arranged for the funeral of the late Rev. Dr. Smith. The casket in the foreground is shown open. In the other illustration the casket cover is shown as it appeared with the casket closed. The pall was made in two parts, one of which was attached to and removable with the lid of the casket, permitting opening the casket without removing the blanket, yet presenting a finished appearance when the casket was closed. The pall and the arrangement in the church was the work of Holm & Olson.

INDIANA FLORISTS MEET.

Large Attendance at Muncie.

The State Florists' Association of Indiana held its monthly meeting at Muncie April 13, with one of the best attendances of the year. The Commercial Club of Muncie joined hands with the local florists and assisted in arousing interest among the florists throughout the state and in handling the local arrangements. The public was admitted to the exhibition and in the evening a program of music and talks was given. The music was provided by local talent of exceptional merit. E. G. Hill gave an entertaining and instructive talk on roses as seen both in this country and abroad, and only those who have heard Mr. Hill give one of these talks can appreciate this treat. President Vesey gave a short talk on orchids, following it with an elaborate and instructive discussion of landscaping, giving valuable hints on the best trees and shrubs to plant.

At the business session in the afternoon four new members were taken in. President Vesey gave an interesting talk on working up new business, outlining some of the methods employed with good success by his firm. Several members joined in the discussion that followed. A committee consisting of A. F. J. Baur, H. White and F. King were named to make arrangements for the annual outing at Winona Lake in July. Mr. Baur, on behalf of the Indianapolis members, challenged the outstate members to a game of baseball at this outing.

Following the business session dinner was served at the Y. M. C. A. building, which was followed by a 2-hour automobile ride through the city, touching at the various places of interest.

There was a splendid display of cut flowers and plants, F. H. Lemon, A. F. Longren and F. J. Knecht being appointed to pass judgment on the vari-

MINNESOTA FLORISTS MEET.

Interesting Gathering at St. Paul.

The Minnesota State Florists' Association met in the Palm room of the St. Paul hotel, St. Paul, Thursday, April 8. A gorgeous display of plants and cut flowers encircled the room, the two largest displays being from the L. S. Donaldson Co., of Minneapolis, and Holm & Olson, of St. Paul. O. J. Olson presided. The Men's Garden Club and Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Paul and the Minnesota Garden Flower Association participated in the meeting.

Morton Barrows spoke on "How Can the Commercial Florist Be of Assistance to the Amateur Gardener?" In the discussion that followed, Theodore Wirth said that if florists would clear their grounds and plant them, the amateur could get many ideas from them. S. D. Dysinger, of Holm & Olson, emphasized the fact that the clerks in the average florist's shop are without knowledge as to the care of outdoor plants and shrubs, not knowing which are hardy and which are not.

O. C. Swanson, in answering the question, how to kill aphis on aster plants, stated that the aphis came after a long wet spell followed by a dry spell, and the epidemic of the aster disease was due to climatic conditions. He said that asters sent to Pennsylvania did well, while those out of the same batch grown in Minnesota were a failure. Growing asters in part shade was also discussed. Most florists were in favor of growing them in the shade. C. B. Livingston spoke on the ways in which different nurseries grow asters, stating that the finest outdoor asters are grown in an orchard.

A. Miller, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, replying to the query, why sweet peas damp off, said sweet peas outdoors should be watered only in a dry spell, in greenhouses only once a week.

A spring flower exhibition was held in connection with the meeting. A number of premiums were offered, consisting mainly of bulbs donated by Holland firms. The awards were:

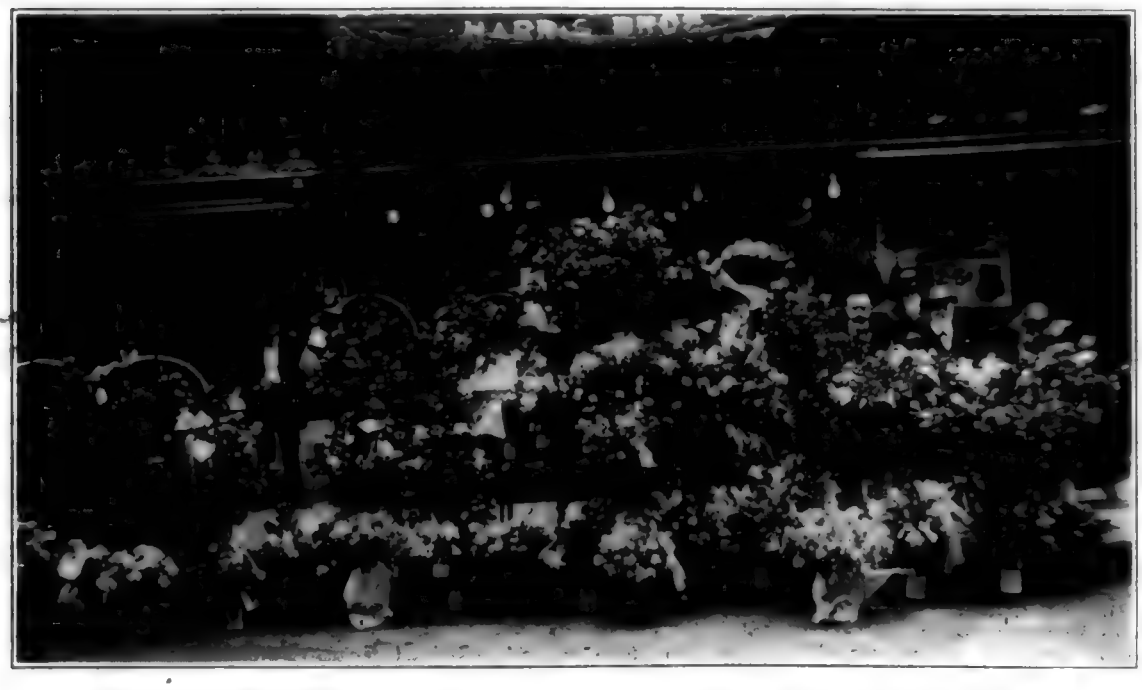
FOR PITTSBURGH OPENING.

For the opening of the new department store of the Rosenbaum Co., at Pittsburgh, Wednesday, April 7, Harris Bros., 511 Market street, furnished a large quantity of flowers, most of them in elaborate basket arrangements. In the accompanying illustration the flowers appear as they stood, waiting for delivery, on the sidewalk in front of the store of Harris Bros.

INSPECTION OF MAILED PLANTS.



Florists, seedsmen and nurserymen who send plants through the mail have doubtless followed with interest the steps toward carrying out the provision added to the last agricultural appropriation bill for the further enforcement of the plant quarantine act. The gist of the provision was given in The Review for March 18, the most important point being that all plant packages should be marked with a description of the contents. The machinery for carrying out the enactment is given in the rules just promulgated by the Postoffice department.

According to these regulations, when a package of plants subject to terminal inspection is received at the postoffice of address, or destination, the postmaster shall at once notify the addressee of the amount of postage required to forward the package to the place of inspection and return. Upon receipt of this amount, he shall affix sufficient postage to carry the package to the place of inspection and attach an envelope containing the postage for its return. The postmaster at the place of inspection delivers the package to the state authorities for inspection, and if it is passed, affixes the postage for its return to the postoffice of address, where it is delivered to the addressee.

If the package is found to be infested and incapable of disinfection, the postmaster at the place of inspection notifies the sender of that fact and of the amount of postage required for the return of the plants. Upon receipt of the postage, the package will be returned to the sender. If the postage is not furnished within a certain time, the plants will be turned over to the state authorities by the postmaster, for destruction. The postage furnished by the addressee for the return of the package from the place of inspection to the postoffice of address will, in this case, be remitted to him, together with a notification of the circumstances.

If the addressee fails to furnish the postage for sending the package to the place of inspection and return, the state inspector shall be notified. If he supplies sufficient postage, the package will be forwarded for inspection and returned to the postoffice of address. If neither the addressee nor the inspector will pay for sending the parcel to the place of inspection and returning it to the postoffice of address, the package will be treated by the postmaster as is any other undeliverable fourth-class matter.

From this it may be seen that the buyer of plants bears the expense of inspection, which is only a few cents postage. If the plants prove to be infested, the sender pays for their return to him, but the buyer is out the amount he furnished for postage from his postoffice to the place of inspection. The question of delay and other doubtful issues which arise in the plantsman's mind will be settled, or perhaps aggravated, by the working out of this new species of inspection.

Flowers Supplied by Harris Bros., for Opening of a Pittsburgh Department Store.

TOLEDO, O.

The Market.

It is amazing to see how blooming plants are still finding sale after a rush Easter week. Florists naturally had an idea the town was completely supplied with potted plants, after loads of them had been sent out for Easter gifts, but all through the week past there has been a heavy demand for blooming plants. Large azaleas, rhododendrons and hydrangeas have been in great demand, and florists who had stock left over that was not in condition for sale at Easter can dispose of it now.

The price of cut flowers has decreased considerably, and the demand is heavy, especially for the hospital trade. The usual Easter weddings have been occupying florists, and several large church and house decorations, with lilies and azaleas as the prevailing flowers, have helped considerably to increase the sales for the month.

Roses are fine, with the new crops coming on. Among the better varieties are Mrs. Russell, Killarney Brilliant, Ophelia, Richmond and Sunburst. Prices range on these from $6 to $10 per hundred. Carnations are plentiful, but do not keep well. They sell at $1 and $2 per hundred. Bulbous stock is scarce, but growers will have another fine crop in a week or two. Violets, valley and sweet peas are in prime condition. There have been some choice mignonette, snapdragons and daisies in the downtown windows.

Various Notes.

Considerable excitement reigned in the store of Max Spanner last week, when a pet tomcat went mad and began to scurry around the store. Several lady customers ran into the street, and Max began to pull his hair out in bunches when the vicious feline sprang into the icebox and stampeded over a beautiful display of orchids, valley and sweet peas. Mr. Spanner estimates his loss at about $50.

Harry Turvey, formerly with Max Spanner, has started in business for himself in West Toledo and reports that his Easter business far surpassed his expectations. Mr. Turvey is a member of the choir of Trinity church, and sang several selections each day at the noon-day services during Lent. Now that these and the Easter flower rush is over, he says he can breathe a little more easily.

Schramm Bros. have been quite busy with several large wedding decorations.

T. Magee also reports several large decorations.

Among the visitors last week were Mr. Markson, of the Chas. Meyer Corp., New York, and Mr. Nelson, of the Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago. G. B. S.

Williamsport, Pa.—Ground was broken March 31 for the erection of two greenhouses, each 20x100 feet, on North Michael street. The buildings will be completed, it is expected, by May 1, and will be occupied by the City Floral Co., a new concern.

FIRES

Findlay, O.—George M. Palmer has been in Melrose, O., investigating a fire which caused a loss of $8,000 at his hardware store there. He carried $4,000 insurance. A barn, dwelling and the store were burned.

Wheeling, W. Va.—The greenhouse of Philip Dorch, at Scotch Ridge, was badly damaged by fire March 21, when it caught fire from the boiler. The loss on the house was small, but a large number of plants were injured.

Waltham, Mass.—A fire which started on the third floor of the building at Moody and Crescent streets April 1 damaged the store of Matthew F. Ruane, on the street floor. The total loss on the building is estimated at $10,000.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The greenhouses and contents which were damaged by fire at the establishment of John Condon, Gravesend avenue and East Second street and Catom avenue, March 16, were insured in six different companies for the aggregate amount of $2,000.

FIRE AT KIRKWOOD, MO.

The value of an organization to its members on a purely pecuniary basis is illustrated by the fire at the range of Phil. J. Goebel, Jr., Kirkwood, Mo. On the night of March 13, when the boiler fires were out, a blaze of unknown origin destroyed nearly the whole range of Mr. Goebel. Seventy-five per cent of the crop in the houses was destroyed, and Easter was only three weeks away. As the next day was Sunday, Mr. Goebel expected great difficulty in getting lumber and help. But he reckoned without the County Growers' Association. Early in the morning he had all the lumber he needed, and plenty of help from the growers of the vicinity. The houses which had escaped destruction were partitioned off from the burned houses, and the oil stoves which the County Growers' Association has on hand for such an emergency kept out the frost admirably.

As it was close to outdoor planting time, Mr. Goebel had 40,000 gladiolus bulbs, which were cooked to a total loss. There was no insurance carried, and so the loss is a total one to the owner.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

The market is flooded with cut flowers of all kinds and the dry goods store special flower sales are in full blast. Carnations sold Saturday for 1 cent each and roses for 2 cents—the same quality of roses which had wholesaled all the week for 5 cents. Business in the downtown district was not nearly up to expectations. The florists in the residence districts report a good week, better than usual for the week following Easter.

Roses are plentiful in all grades and colors, except American Beauties, which are scarce; good Beauties are still away up in price. Carnations are of exceptionally good quality. The growers of this city are all cutting good crops now, owing to the warm days and the strong sun, which brought everything into flower. Even the fruit trees are showing color and lilac bushes have big bunches of buds on them. A great many pot plants of lilies intended for Easter were too late and it is expected that there will be plenty of lilies on the market for a while. Other bulbous stock is cleaned up pretty well. Snapdragons and sweet peas are coming in heavily.

Various Notes.

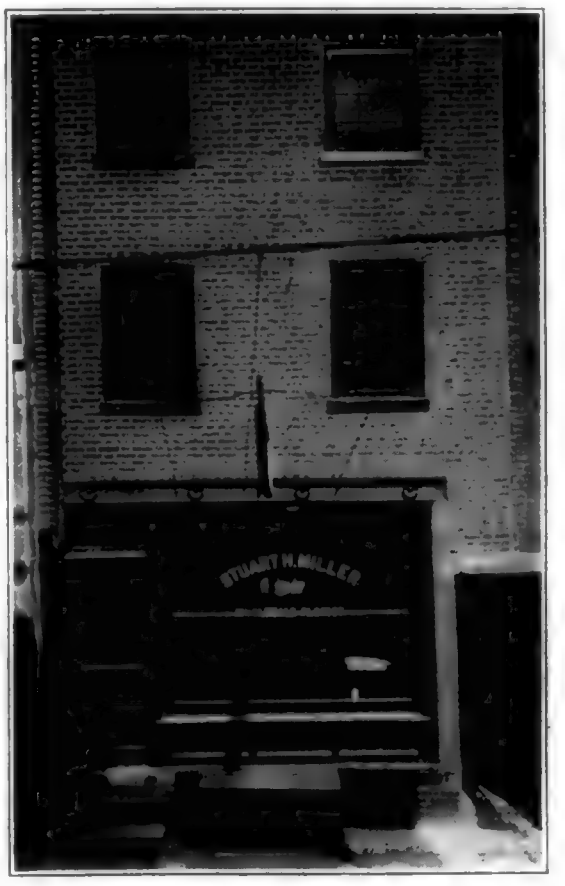
The Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. made one of the large horseshoes that were sent to the opening of the Federal League ball park April 10. The horseshoe stood six feet high. This firm is cutting a large quantity of stock.

Patrick Larkin furnished the other large horseshoe, six feet high, that was sent to the Federal League ball park. It was made of carnations, lilies and smilax.

T. J. Noll & Co. report that they are receiving more stock than they can move. They will not handle stock for less than the market price, as it does not pay to take care of it and then sell it for 75 cents or $1 per hundred.

The R. A. Long greenhouses, at Longview, are in fine shape. This range of all-steel construction is devoted to carnations and roses and some snapdragons. They are sending in some of the best cut flowers that have been seen in the market.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. has planted all its carnations outdoors and is well satisfied with the way they have started. This firm also reports that its out-of-town business this year is a little ahead of that of last year.



E. D. Ellsworth was unusually busy last week, with plenty of funeral work and decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth and family have moved all their furniture down to Forest lake for the summer, and Mr. Ellsworth will use his car to go back and forth between that place and his store.

The Christ-Moore Floral Co. is well satisfied with its new location, as business has been good so far, especially in funeral work and bouquets of all kinds.

Henry Kusik & Co. were loaded down last week with cut flowers, more than they could handle. W. J. B.

FOR PITTSBURGH OPENING.

For the opening of the new department store of the Rosenbaum Co., at Pittsburgh, Wednesday, April 7, Harris Bros., 511 Market street, furnished a large quantity of flowers, most of them in elaborate basket arrangements. In the accompanying illustration the flowers appear as they stood, waiting for delivery, on the sidewalk in front of the store of Harris Bros.

INSPECTION OF MAILED PLANTS.

Florists, seedsmen and nurserymen who send plants through the mail have doubtless followed with interest the steps toward carrying out the provision added to the last agricultural appropriation bill for the further enforcement of the plant quarantine act. The gist of the provision was given in The Review for March 18, the most important point being that all plant packages should be marked with a description of the contents. The machinery for carrying out the enactment is given in the rules just promulgated by the Postoffice department.

According to these regulations, when a package of plants subject to terminal inspection is received at the postoffice of address, or destination, the postmaster shall at once notify the addressee of the amount of postage required to forward the package to the place of inspection and return. Upon receipt of this amount, he shall affix sufficient postage to carry the package to the place of inspection and attach an envelope containing the postage for its return. The postmaster at the place of inspection delivers the package to the state authorities for inspection, and if it is passed, affixes the postage for its return to the postoffice of address, where it is delivered to the addressee.

If the package is found to be infested and incapable of disinfection, the postmaster at the place of inspection notifies the sender of that fact and of the amount of postage required for the return of the plants. Upon receipt of the postage, the package will be returned to the sender. If the postage is not furnished within a certain time, the plants will be turned over to the state authorities by the postmaster, for destruction. The postage furnished by the addressee for the return of the package from the place of inspection to the postoffice of address will, in this case, be remitted to him, together with a notification of the circumstances.

If the addressee fails to furnish the postage for sending the package to the place of inspection and return, the state inspector shall be notified. If he supplies sufficient postage, the package will be forwarded for inspection and returned to the postoffice of address. If neither the addressee nor the inspector will pay for sending the parcel to the place of inspection and returning it to the postoffice of address, the package will be treated by the postmaster as is any other undeliverable fourth-class matter.

From this it may be seen that the buyer of plants bears the expense of inspection, which is only a few cents postage. If the plants prove to be infested, the sender pays for their return to him, but the buyer is out the amount he furnished for postage from his postoffice to the place of inspection. The question of delay and other doubtful issues which arise in the plants man's mind will be settled, or perhaps aggravated, by the working out of this new species of inspection.

Flowers Supplied by Harris Bros., for Opening of a Pittsburgh Department Store.

TOLEDO, O.

The Market.

It is amazing to see how blooming plants are still finding sale after a rush Easter week. Florists naturally had an idea the town was completely supplied with potted plants, after loads of them had been sent out for Easter gifts, but all through the week past there has been a heavy demand for blooming plants. Large azaleas, rhododendrons and hydrangeas have been in great demand, and florists who had stock left over that was not in condition for sale at Easter can dispose of it now.

The price of cut flowers has decreased considerably, and the demand is heavy, especially for the hospital trade. The usual Easter weddings have been occupying florists, and several large church and house decorations, with lilies and azaleas as the prevailing flowers, have helped considerably to increase the sales for the month.

Roses are fine, with the new crops coming on. Among the better varieties are Mrs. Russell, Killarney Brilliant, Ophelia, Richmond and Sunburst. Prices range on these from $6 to $10 per hundred. Carnations are plentiful, but do not keep well. They sell at $1 and $2 per hundred. Bulbous stock is scarce, but growers will have another fine crop in a week or two. Violets, valley and sweet peas are in prime condition. There have been some choice mignonette, snapdragons and daisies in the downtown windows.

Various Notes.

Considerable excitement reigned in the store of Max Spanner last week, when a pet tomcat went mad and began to scurry around the store. Several lady customers ran into the street, and Max began to pull his hair out in bunches when the vicious feline sprang into the icebox and stampeded over a beautiful display of orchids, valley and sweet peas. Mr. Spanner estimates his loss at about $50.

Harry Turvey, formerly with Max Spanner, has started in business for himself in West Toledo and reports that his Easter business far surpassed his expectations. Mr. Turvey is a member of the choir of Trinity church, and sang several selections each day at the noon-day services during Lent. Now that these and the Easter flower rush is over, he says he can breathe a little more easily.

Schramm Bros. have been quite busy with several large wedding decorations.

T. Magee also reports several large decorations.

Among the visitors last week were Mr. Markson, of the Chas. Meyer Corp., New York, and Mr. Nelson, of the Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago. G. B. S.

Williamsport, Pa.—Ground was broken March 31 for the erection of two greenhouses, each 20x100 feet, on North Michael street. The buildings will be completed, it is expected, by May 1, and will be occupied by the City Floral Co., a new concern.

FIRES

Findlay, O.—George M. Palmer has been in Melrose, O., investigating a fire which caused a loss of $8,000 at his hardware store there. He carried $4,000 insurance. A barn, dwelling and the store were burned.

Wheeling, W. Va.—The greenhouse of Philip Dorch, at Scotch Ridge, was badly damaged by fire March 21, when it caught fire from the boiler. The loss on the house was small, but a large number of plants were injured.

Waltham, Mass.—A fire which started on the third floor of the building at Moody and Crescent streets April 1 damaged the store of Matthew F. Ruane, on the street floor. The total loss on the building is estimated at $10,000.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The greenhouses and contents which were damaged by fire at the establishment of John Conlon, Gravesend avenue and East Second street and Catom avenue, March 16, were insured in six different companies for the aggregate amount of $2,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

There has been a marked change in the temperature. Though the Saturday before Easter was like a midwinter day, with a heavy snow storm, last Saturday found the mercury reaching the 90-degree mark. This has caused a heavy overcrowding of the market, and but three varieties of stock bring anything in the way of a price—lily of the valley, violets and orchids. An enormous quantity of blooming plants was left on hand early in the week, but a majority of these are being used in the many wedding and dinner decorations which have followed the ending of Lent. A lot of cheap stock found its way to the trash heap, but this was to be expected. As a whole, the week's business was exceptionally satisfactory and it is believed that it will prove to have been better than for the same period last year.

Various Notes.

May 14 has been set as the date for the hearing on the discharge from bankruptcy of the Washington Florists' Co., formerly of 1408 H street, northwest.

Charles Scarborough, an employee of Gude Bros. Co., had a narrow escape from death last week when hit by a trolley car in front of the firm's place of business. Mr. Scarborough was on his way to work and had alighted from a car. In attempting to walk across the street he stepped in front of another car, bound in the opposite direction. Seeing his plight, he stepped on the fender, but was severely shaken up, his face was badly lacerated and it is now feared that three of his ribs may have been broken. He was hurried to the Emergency hospital and has since gone to his home in Pennsylvania. Earl Wilson, also in the employ of Gude Bros. Co., is on the sick list with a bad looking arm and hand, having contracted poison from handling American Beauty roses. It is expected that it will be some time before he will be able to return to work.

Otto Bauer is slowly recovering from an aggravated case of grip, with which he has been suffering for two weeks or more.

Mr. Skidelsky, of S. S. Skidelsky & Co., Philadelphia; Julius Dilloff, of Schloss Bros., New York, and I. Rosnosky, representing H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, were noted among the week's visitors to this city.

The breaking into the store of Fred H. Kramer, at 916 F street, northwest, created considerable excitement last week, ending in the capture of the two intruders. It seems that Wilbur I. Doty, a chauffeur in the employ of Mr. Kramer, had been sleeping at the store during the week, looking after the place at night. Hearing considerable noise within the store, he began to investigate and found a man endeavoring to crawl over the partition which separates the private office from the sales department, the door to which had been locked. The thief heard him coming and made his escape through the basement. Police and others soon took up the chase, but failed to find a trace of the thief. Not being satisfied, Mr. Doty continued the search and found the man hiding under a box in the alley near the store. The man put up a fight, but Mr. Doty is quite a scrapper himself and soon had him quieted. His accomplice, who had been watching on the outside, was captured later in the day. C. L. L.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

We have enjoyed balmy, springlike weather during the last week. Enormous quantities of cut flowers have come on the market, and although the stores are doing an ordinarily good business, they cannot begin to move the supply the wholesale houses have on hand. Carnations are in largest supply, and in quantity they can be purchased at the buyer's figure. Prices have dropped away down in the last week on all varieties. Roses also are plentiful, and the prices on them are low. Sweet peas, violets, cattleyas and gardenias have also decreased in price and demand. The only scarce article is asparagus sprays. This staple article held its price, and there was only a limited supply at that price.

Club Meeting.

A well attended and interesting meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club was held April 12. Richard Vincent, Jr., spoke on the possible formation of a national dahlia society and outlined its purposes. He also spoke of getting a party together to attend the S. A. F. convention in San Francisco. It is doubtful if many will attend from this city, owing to the distance. The following were elected to membership: Charles F. Feast, John B. Harmon, Robert W. Johnston. A paper on bedding plants was read by Harry Ekas, for which he received a vote of thanks. The following were appointed to act as an entertainment committee for the ensuing year: F. C. Bauer, chairman; James Boone; William F. Ekas; James Glass; I. H. Moss; John Rider; C. Harry Wagner. A committee to bring Mothers' day before the public was appointed, consisting of William F. Ekas, J. J. Perry, William J. Johnston. The committee will endeavor to have the mayor of Baltimore issue an official communication recognizing the day. At the next meeting, April 26, Edward Kress will give a talk on rose growing in the garden. F. J. Michell, of Philadelphia, was the club's guest.

Various Notes.

Samuel Feast & Sons are cutting some fine orchid-flowering sweet peas.

P. C. Erdman has taken the stall in Lexington Market formerly occupied by John Donn.

Edward Kress is erecting two brick dwellings and a garage in the rear of his North avenue store, on the site formerly occupied by the greenhouse, which faced Belair avenue.

Visitors of the week: Geo. Hermann and Walter E. Cook, New York; S. S. Skidelsky, Philadelphia; Henry Eichholz, Waynesboro, Pa.

Matthew Richmond is cutting a fine lot of snapdragons in all colors. A lot of 4-inch geraniums are showing up well.

There was a plentiful supply of bulbous stock left over from Easter in Lexington Market Saturday, April 10. Judging from the looks of some of the stalls, many florists have enough stock to start Easter all over again. Bulbous stock was in the majority, but plenty of azaleas, lilacs, spiræas and hydrangeas were to be seen. W. F. E.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

As we have no Memorial day here, all growers are turning their attention toward the bedding plants and toward propagating for next year's business. There is such an abundance of outdoor flowers at present that they affect the market materially. In stores of every sort, on the streets and from wagons, narcissi and daffodils are being sold by the tens of thousands, and sweet peas and violets are almost as abundant. Roses and carnations are in good supply, and are selling as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Although it is a little late for such reports, it may be noted that Easter was one of the best that this city has ever known. Not only was the retail business fully up to that of a year ago, with the larger growers, but the wholesale business was the best that we have had for years. Some of the smaller growers, who depend on selling their stock from wagons among the poorer residence districts, had poorer sales than usual, but on the whole no one can complain. The weather since Easter has been all that could be desired, and already there is demand for bedding stock. The wise ones are holding off for the late frost that they say is sure to come, but the feeling is general that winter has gone for good. Tomato plants have been selling well the last few days, and a few porch boxes have been filled.

Various Notes.

The Joy Floral Co. had a "Flowers by Telegraph" window at Easter that brought them good results. They had collected the tags and pasters from florists all over the United States, together with copies of telegrams they had received and that they had sent, ordering flowers delivered, so the public could see just how it is done.

Since Easter Geny Bros. say they have had a good business in bulbous stock and plants. The bedding season is right on us and they are already beginning to have a good business in that line.

Hillcrest School Farm is receiving many visitors on account of the quantities of daffodils and narcissi that are blooming. They say that they are booking good orders for fall delivery in some of the newer varieties that have seldom been grown here. The newer Poetaz varieties are attracting their share of attention. They have a block of 8,000 Golden Spur that bid fair to mature as good bulbs as can be grown. The bloom is even better than on forced stock.

McIntyre Bros. have just cut the heaviest crop of good orchids that I have ever seen in the city.

Mt. Olivet Cemetery Greenhouses will soon have the bulk of their bedding stock out. The cemetery was in good condition Easter. F. B.

Chillicothe, Ill.—Hal Piper will make use of the experience he has gained in the employ of various greenhouse concerns during the last few years by starting a greenhouse business here.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Easter brought with it quite agreeable weather, although it was somewhat stormy until a few days before. The winter was one of the longest and hardest experienced here for a number of years, and spring is just beginning. Fruit trees, which are nearly always in bloom by March, are just putting out now.

Easter business surpassed the expectations of the most optimistic and every florist reports a nice gain over any previous Easter. Cut flowers were plentiful, with the exception of Beauties and other choice roses, a few of which were bought from other markets. Sweet peas were plentiful and cleaned up well. Easter lilies, rhododendrons and other plants sold well.

Various Notes.

C. W. Crouch's Easter trade was much better than expected and it was necessary to work both day and night to get all orders out. A large number of plants were sold and corsage bouquet work was heavy. Since Easter, trade has been brisk on account of social affairs. One affair of special note was a dance given by the Girls' Cotillion Club, which called for decorations and a large number of corsage bouquets. Mr. Crouch, who has been spending the winter in Jacksonville, Fla., is expected to return home about May 1.

C. L. Baum's Easter trade was better than that of any previous year, and it was difficult to handle all the orders. However, automobiles made it possible to get local orders out promptly. He ran three cars in addition to messenger delivery. His express shipments were about fifty per cent better than those of last year.

A. H. Dailey had a splendid Easter trade, and although he does not approve of Sunday work, he was forced to come to the store and work on Easter Sunday. Bedding plant trade has picked up since Easter and he has all that he can take care of. He makes a specialty of this line of work and his stock is fine.

Mrs. R. H. Ryno is rushed with bedding plant orders. She has a large supply of fine plants and the outlook is good. On account of some of the florists going out of the bedding plant business, her trade will no doubt be much better this year than ever before. Her Easter trade showed a good increase over that of last year.

A. J. McNutt is cutting some of the finest Kaiserin roses ever seen in Knoxville; also a fine lot of snapdragons and lilies. His Easter trade was gratifying, being thirty-seven per cent better than that of last year. It looks as if he would soon have to abandon his place in the city market and locate in larger quarters. R. E. M.

Alvin, Tex.—The growers of cape jasmines have been given another black eye, the freeze of March 22 having done irreparable damage to their crops. It is said perhaps fifty per cent of the buds have been killed and the rest of the crop set back to where it is doubtful if it will make Memorial day. W. L. Heller estimates the loss of the Alvin Cape Jessamine & Floral Co. as $4,000, the early promise having been for a record season.

A SPECIAL GLADIOLUS SHOW.

To Boost the American Grower.

The American Gladiolus Society has decided to hold two exhibitions of gladioli this year, one at Newport, August 18 and 19, as announced, and an additional one at Atlantic City from August 26 to August 29, inclusive. The latter exhibition is intended for the benefit of the growers and dealers, as Atlantic City in August presents the unusual opportunity of drawing up to 100,000 people a day to a show. No schedule will be required for the second show, but a series of medals may be offered by the society for the most noteworthy exhibits.

The Royal Palace Casino, situated directly on the Board Walk and surrounded by the ocean on three sides, has been secured, and it will prove not only a daylight hall, but the atmosphere for an August day will be made delightful both to the flowers and the public.

The American Gladiolus Society is desirous of making this exhibit the foremost national floral event of 1915, and wants every grower, large or small, to be represented with an exhibit.

Every possible assistance will be given by the committee in charge to those who live distances away, with information, guidance, accommodations for hotels, etc.

Exhibitors will be allowed to book all the business they can; in fact, the sole purpose of the exhibit is to boost the American gladiolus for the American garden and thereby help the American grower to fight foreign competition, which has before this caused much concern to the American grower.

For further information address the chairman of the special exhibition committee, Maurice Fuld, 1 Madison avenue, New York city.

H. Youell, Sec'y.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

T. M. Fitzgerald, Beaver, Pa., has for several years largely advertised an invitation to the public to visit his greenhouses on Palm Sunday. This year, the weather being favorable, the attendance eclipsed previous records, and that in spite of the protestations of an overzealous dominie, who solicited the aid of the district attorney. That official, however, objected to interference, taking the stand that such exhibitions tend to educate and elevate the community.

W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., says that when he gave up the growing of Beauty he decided on taking a chance with Ophelia, but all he could get from Richmond was 500 plants, the clean-up of the stock. These were planted around June 1 and the following record, taken from August 1 to March 1, makes interesting reading: The actual cut of blooms was 10,000, while the wood furnished 1,500 grafts and 500 own-root plants, all thrifty stock, now ready to shift. Additional Manetti is ready for grafting more and there is no trouble about furnishing the wood, as the plants average fully six feet tall and are full of blooming shoots. Ward, Maryland and Double White Killarney are being planted for summer use. In carnations White Wonder is truly a surprise, giving tremendous cuts.

Tong & Weeks Floral Co., Ashtabula, O., was awarded first prize for the best window display during Fashion week. It was composed of Dutch stock planted in fiber, in the form of an oval bed. It was artistically arranged and side mirrors added greatly to the general effect. Herbert Tong did not make his usual pilgrimage to St. Petersburg, Fla., finding that Secretary Bryan could not accompany him as on his previous trip. If the fine lot of spring stock sells well, a trip to the convention at San Francisco is assured. W. M.

Minerva, O.—A. M. Stackhouse and wife are planning to visit the San Francisco fair at the time of the S. A. F. convention.

Indianapolis, Ind.—After having practiced law for fifty-four years to a day, William Watson Woollen opened a flower store on Delaware street, opposite the City Market, April 1, under the name of the Hoosier Floral Co.

Ashtabula, O.—H. Woeckner has taken Fred Wick, an employee of the Ashtabula Wholesale Bakery, into partnership, and formed the Harbor Floral Co., now in operation at 197 Bridge street. Mr. Wick will take no active part in the business.

Minot, S. D.—In last week's city election George Valker polled a larger number of votes than any other candidate, being chosen to fill a vacancy on the park board. It is said, also, that Mr. Valker now has the largest greenhouse in the state, 65,000 feet of glass. He did a record Easter business.

Fond du Lac, Wis.—To Robert Haentze, florist and manager of the Haentze Co., has come the honor of being chosen as first mayor of the city under the commission form of government recently adopted here.

Norwood, O.—M. M. Carroll recently returned from a long trip among the trade and says she found business not half bad, but what impressed her most was the way the growers cross-examined her on various problems of the business; she says a successful traveling salesman must be a veritable walking encyclopedia.

Wichita, Kan.—The popularity of Charles P. Mueller in this town was shown in the recent election, when he ran for membership on the board of education. Out of 12,300 votes cast, Mr. Mueller received 8,856, or 1,471 more than any other candidate. Not in many years has a candidate for office in this town received so decisive a majority.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Just as predicted, all of last week was necessary to normalize the cut flower market after the severe experiences of the Saturday preceding Easter. The damage to the retail and wholesale florists and to the growers of cut flowers by the blizzard is far greater than the early estimates. Last week prices continued to fall and shipments to increase. Saturday, April 10, was like a day in June, and despite the abnormally low quotations, every wholesaler had enough left over to supply any possible demand for a week to come. There seems to be no stable bottom to anything.

American Beauty specials were down to $10 per hundred and under Saturday. That tells the whole rose story. "Straight slips," they say, were down to $5 per thousand. The supply of everything has passed any present possible demand. Of course, this does not apply to the few real and worthy novelties and the Brunners. These find a ready market always.

Carnations have followed the roses. On Saturday they fell to $10 and even $5 per thousand. Even the special blooms of the new kinds and the prize-winners did not sell above $2 per hundred.

Orchids fell to $50 per hundred for the finest cattleyas, and the scarcity is over. Within ten days the market will be oversupplied. Gardenias are down to $1 per dozen for the best long-stemmed, and $5 per hundred for excellent flowers.

Lilies are the puzzle of the Easter market. I saw fine stock on Saturday selling at 1 cent each, and the selected and long-stemmed stock seldom rose above $3 per hundred. Valley, too, was weak, with 50 cents per hundred bottom, and only the choicest touched $2 per hundred.

The spring and bulbous flowers are all here, and there is an unlimited supply of daffodils, which sell, in boxes of 800 flowers, at $1, 75 cents and even, they tell me, 50 cents a box.

Acacia is done, and another week will end the violets. Of Darwin tulips and orchid-flowering sweet peas there is no end.

Club Meeting.

An attendance of over 100 enjoyed the meeting of the Florists' Club April 12. President Bunyard was in the chair. Leonard Barron reported for the essay committee, with many interesting meetings assured during the balance of the year, but his suggestion that the club should have its own stereopticon, put into a motion by J. H. Pepper, was voted down. Chairman Schenck reported on the club's annual banquet, showing a deficit of $172.86, which was ordered paid from the club's general fund. The attendance at the banquet was 220. The music cost $100. Chairman Armitage, for the outing committee, reported progress for the excursion July 14 and requested the usual contributions for prizes. C. B. Weathered reported for the room committee at the flower show and the expenditure of over the $200 voted in its behalf, the final report to be made at the next meeting.

F. H. Traendly read a detailed statement of the receipts and expenses of the spring flower show, showing total receipts of $33,237.50 and a balance after all expenses of over $4,000. Mr. Ebel reported progress for his affiliation committee. T. B. De Forest reported for the transportation committee. The majority favor the trip to San Francisco on the Canadian Pacific, via Chicago and Vancouver, with the return through San Diego, Yellowstone and Denver. The cost of such a trip, covering twenty-eight days, will be about $220. It was stated sixteen have already arranged for the trip and at least thirty-five are expected, ensuring the use of two special cars.

A communication from W. H. Siebrecht, Jr., secretary of the Plant Growers' Association, was read, requesting the club's coöperation in requiring foreign houses to make prices f. o. b. New York. This was referred to the legislative committee.

Announcements of the deaths of Mrs. Nugent, Mr. Niquet, Mr. Rodh and Miss Gunther were made and committees appointed to draw up resolutions of sympathy for the bereaved. Messrs. Guttman, Duggan, Sheridan, Donaldson, Chevalley, Pepper, Schloss, Schenck, A. T. Bunyard and J. A. Shaw were named.

G. W. Cobb, W. F. Leary, S. A. Woodrow, L. T. Rodman and Peter Wenk were elected to membership and George Stillman, Louis A. Noe, Robert G. Caldwell and John Everitt were proposed.

Some beautiful exhibits were staged. W. A. Manda received an award of merit for his lælio-cattleya hybrids. Lager & Hurrell were highly commended for six vases of orchids. S. G. Milosy, gardener for George Schlegel, Brooklyn, received a certificate of merit for an oncidium and L. Straus, also of Brooklyn, a certificate for his dendrobium. H. Mamitch, of Englewood, N. J., received the thanks of the club for a splendid vase of sweet peas.

Robert Pyle's lecture on roses was a gem and his stereopticon views were superb. His address covered his travels, not only in America, but Ireland, France, Germany and England, and the club gave a rising vote of thanks.

The committee announced that the May meeting will be devoted to bedding plants, the arrangements in charge of John Birnie.

Various Notes.

There is to be another child of the S. A. F. born May 10. Its name will be the National Dahlia Society, and R. Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., is its father. The meeting of those interested will take place May 10 at the Hotel Earlington, 55 West Twenty-seventh street. In addition to Mr. Vincent, the following are interested: W. W. Wilmore, of Denver, Colo.; J. K. Alexander, of East Bridgewater, Mass.; Geo. H. Walker, of North Dighton, Mass.; Hugo Kind, of Hammonton, N. J.; C. Betscher, of Canal Dover, O.; Geo. W. Kerr, of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., and J. D. Eisele, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia; John Lewis Childs, of Flowerfield, N. Y., and Thomas W. Head, Bergenfield, N. J.

H. A. Siebrecht will return in a few days from his two months' trip to San Francisco, where he has had a large force beautifying the grounds around the New York State building and others on the exposition grounds. The combined orders for all these plantings are said to total nearly $75,000.

Another nursery enterprise has been established at Great Neck, L. I., called the Nassau Nurseries, the incorporators being D. J. Wagner, C. M. Ludder and P. M. Polietrean.

At the auctions of the MacNiff Horticultural Co., Tuesdays and Fridays, the large attendance of ladies is remarked, over fifty, many of them buyers, being there April 9. Large quantities of hardy roses, evergreens and gladiolus bulbs are being disposed of at satisfactory prices.

H. A. Bunyard says business is far ahead of even his sanguine expectations. His handsome new store is complete and thoroughly up-to-date.

J. K. Allen, P. J. Smith, H. A. Froment and Traendly & Schenck make up a quartet who will be moving and settling this week and next, in new stores, the move in each case being to larger and better quarters, a cheerful sign of optimism that should make their growers happy.

The directors of the Growers' Cut Flower Co. met April 10 at their office, 129 West Twenty-eighth street, President Weston in the chair.

The flower show in the Bronx May 8 and 9, after the Horticultural Society's two months' rest, will doubtless be well worth seeing.

S. Suzuki, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., after making all arrangements for his trip to Europe last week on the Lusitania, decided to stay here for a while.

W. E. Tricker, of Western Springs, Ill., was a recent visitor.

Professor Whetzel, of Cornell University, lectured Monday, April 12, before the Brooklyn Botanical Garden Society, and Tuesday, April 13, before the Plant Growers' Association.

Charles H. Totty has been appointed a member of the international board of jurors at the Panama-Pacific exposition. Mr. Totty will leave for San Francisco April 26 and will return East about June 1.

Fred H. Dressel, Jr., of Weehawken, N. J., has purchased the retail store of E. Bonnot, 188 Newark avenue, Jersey City. Mr. Dressel won three prizes on his hydrangea exhibits at the international flower show.

Traendly & Schenck will move Friday, April 16, to their new store, at 436 Sixth avenue, near Twenty-Sixth street. The firm will celebrate the attainment of its majority Saturday, April 17, having been in business on Twenty-eighth street for twenty-one years and thereby holding the record for longevity.

The essay committee of the New York Florists' Club held a meeting at the office of President Bunyard Wednesday, April 7, and completed arrangements for the entertainment of the club's members during the remainder of the year.

In the obituary column this week appear notices of the deaths of John Niquet, eldest son of Frank Niquet, of Patchogue, L. I., and Simon Rodh, the ribbon merchant, of 40 West Twenty-eighth street.

Bowling.

At their gathering April 8, the members of the New York Florists' Bowling Club made the following scores:

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

During the last week there has been a plentiful supply of cut flowers at reasonable prices. Carnations have been of good quality, the flowers being large and the stems long. Roses have been fairly abundant; the quality has been good, and prices have been medium. Bulbous flowers have been plentiful and the prices low. There is a good demand for this class of stock, especially the yellow varieties, such as daffodils, jonquils, tulips, etc. Hyacinths have also had a ready sale. There were not quite so many potted rose bushes in the market as there were the week before Easter. Orchids are rather scarce and dear. There is a large supply of azaleas of fine quality in the market, selling from 75 cents up. Hydrangeas of good quality are coming in. The demand for the French type exceeds that for the hardy white kind. There is a small demand for yellow callas, which sell at about $1 per plant, with one bloom to the plant. There has been considerable funeral work. During last week and this there were a number of large weddings, and others are scheduled for next week.

Various Notes.

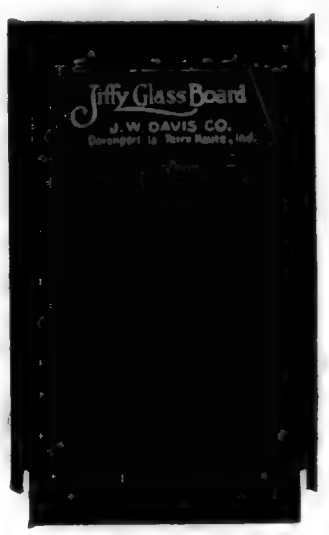
McLaughlin & Murphy, of 181 Clinton avenue, have been busy with funeral work during the last ten days.

Strobell & Co. had to call in their delivery wagon on the Saturday preceding Easter, because of the blizzard, and hire sleighs from grocery stores in order to make their deliveries.

Fred P. Wolfinger has decorated for several large weddings during the last two weeks and has orders for other dates ahead.

Henry A. Strobell, of 931 Broad street, has had the decorations for four large society weddings during the last ten days. Mr. Strobell is the florist member from Newark of the Rotary Club, and is enthusiastic over the work of that organization.

Hahne & Co. made a specialty last week or rose bushes, boxwoods, magnolias and rhododendrons.



The Enterprise Trading Co. has opened a temporary store at 199 Market street for the sale of seeds and imported bulbs, bushes and trees.

Sheriff George C. Otto and Charles P. Russ, acting as jury commissioners, last week drew the grand jury and petit jury panels for the Union county courts for the May term, and on both of these panels were a number of florists and nurserymen. They were: On the grand jury: Henry Leahy, Elizabeth; Charles L. Stanley, Plainfield; John E. Lager, Summit; William A. Allen, Union; William Flemmer, Springfield. On the petit jury: Edward P. Leahy, Elizabeth; Valentine Hamann, Summit; William Wetzel, Springfield; Otto F. Adams, New Providence Borough. F. Howard Nodine, a tree surgeon, of Springfield, was also selected on the petit jury panel.

Chester J. Hunt, of North Mountain avenue, Montclair, spoke Tuesday, April 6, before the girls' department of the Woman's Club of Upper Montclair on the cultivation of daffodils and tulips. Mr. Hunt conducts a daffodil and tulip experiment station on Porter place, Montclair. R. B. M.

DAVIS' JIFFY GLASS BOARDS.

Trade visitors to the Terre Haute plant of J. W. Davis frequently note where a broken light of glass has been temporarily replaced by what seems a pasteboard that is cut to exactly fit in the space and lap over the glass below. When asked about it Mr. Davis says it is a little scheme of his own for quick repairing; that in that section and up in Davenport territory, they had frequent hail storms in April and May, that sometimes caused considerable glass breakage. In winter, too, there always is more or less breakage by ice, no matter what style of house one has. He tired of seeing his men chase around for pieces of board to tack over the openings, so he went to a manufacturer and had some special waterproof corrugated boards made that were scored on the side so that the edges could be turned over, giving a lip which, with two tacks on each side, can be securely fastened between the bars of the roof. To hold it securely in an overlap on the glass below it, he had the corners notched out.

In conversation with a recent visitor, the mender under observation had been in position, he said, for six weeks and had stood the spring rains remarkably. It looked so absolutely practical and good that the visitor suggested his letting other members of the trade in on it. Right then and there Mr. Davis was willing, so they dubbed it the Jiffy Glass Board.

For Mr. Davis' use he has had these glass boards made in stock sizes, 16x18 and 16x24, but no doubt he will add other sizes if there is a call for them. The cost is low and a great many growers are likely to want a few bundles on the place.

OBITUARY.

Henry Decker.

Henry Decker, in the florists' business at Norfolk, Va., was found dead in his bed at 621 Botecourt street on the morning of April 4, when the colored girl employed by him went to wake him at 8:30. The physician who was summoned pronounced his death due to apoplexy.

The widow and daughter of Mr. Decker arrived from Orange, N. J., April 6, for the funeral, which was held at an undertaker's establishment April 7. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, Norfolk. Mr. Decker was 72 years of age.

John Niquet.

John Niquet, eldest son of Frank Niquet, of Patchogue, N. Y., died of pneumonia Monday, April 5, and was buried Friday, April 9. A number of florists were present at the funeral. The floral remembrances were many and beautiful. J. A. S.

Simon Rodh.

Simon Rodh, for fifteen years in the florists' ribbon business at 40 West Twenty-eighth street, New York city, was taken suddenly ill a few days before his death, which occurred Friday, April 9, with acute pneumonia. He was 66 years of age. He was successful in his business and much respected by those in the trade. J. A. S.

Mrs. John B. Nugent.

Pneumonia caused the death of Mrs. John B. Nugent, at New York, April 10, after a week of severe suffering during which the serious character of her illness scarcely was understood.

Mrs. Nugent was a lady of rare attainments, her musical talents giving her a national reputation. She had just completed an engagement in opera at Washington when seized by the fatal illness. She was 33 years of age. Mrs. Nugent numbered the members of the New York Florists' Club among her closest friends. Her husband, John B. Nugent, of Young & Nugent, was president of the club when she married with him in 1911, and it was her pleasure to assist in the club's entertainments whenever circumstances would permit. For years her wonderful voice has been heard at club gatherings and her friendly disposition endeared her to all the members. To the public she was known as Mme. Sabery Dorsell, prima donna with the Aborn Opera Co.

The funeral was held April 13, at the Broadway tabernacle. The casket was covered by a great pall of Killarneys from the employees of Young & Nugent and the floral offerings from Mr. Nugent's friends were notably numerous and beautiful. Many of the leading members of the trade in New York and vicinity were present. Interment was at Woodlawn.

Ogden, Utah.—The business of B. Van der Schuit has been sold to Mrs. J. J. Van der Schuit and G. van Holst.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.
Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1915: President, Patrick Welch, Boston; vice-president, Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

TRADE conditions the country over have been quite similar since Easter: Large supplies of stock and quantities being moved through channels outside the trade, which nobody likes to see.

THE premium list for the Cleveland fall show is ready. Copies may be had by addressing Frank A. Friedley, secretary, 356 Leader building. The Cleveland show promises to be the big trade show of the autumn season.

THE retail end of the trade at last is awakening to an appreciation of the possibilities that lie in newspaper advertising. The space used for Easter was far larger than ever before and the copy was of better quality.

MRS. CHARLES RISSMAN, proprietor of the Herington Greenhouses, Herington, Kan., sends the editor a box of carnations of the tribe of Enchantress with a note that "These are my own growing; they are not selected stock; our benches are covered with the same kind; how do you like them?" Long since the editor became convinced there's nothing "the matter with Kansas."

THE Review has received The Carnation Year Book for 1915, the official volume of the carnationists of Great Britain. In addition to the records of meetings and exhibitions, lists of members, registrations, etc., it contains many interesting articles on the state of the industry. Contrary to the practice of the trade societies in America, this organization sells its book to any purchaser for a sum equivalent to 30 cents.

IT is easier to fill space than to get it read.

WITH the spring rush on, the unemployment in the trade is scarcely greater than usual at the season. Any good man can get a job.

POSSIBLY the most significant item in last week's issue of The Review was the one headed "New Flower Stores"; there were fifteen of them reported there. It speaks for the rapid development of the selling end of the business.

FLORISTS who send plants by mail should read the article entitled "Inspection of Mailed Plants," in this issue. It explains the postoffice regulations for carrying out the provision for the terminal inspection of mailed plants.

EACH holiday, and each period of heavy crop, serves afresh to call attention to the manner in which the producing end of the business has outstripped the expansion of the selling end. A flower store can, on a pinch, do two or three times its normal business, but it stops there; it can not handle an unlimited increase.

WE'RE MIGHTY LUCKY.

The Review, with headquarters in the principal city of the middle west, frequently has commented on the special brand of good fortune that has attended all branches of the trade in the grain states of late. Now comes an eastern observer, from his aerie looking on snow-clad roofs, offering this felicitation:

"The east has suffered again. Already straitened by the effects of the war in Europe, the flower business had a setback at Easter, owing to a sudden and violent snow storm and gale. Meanwhile the middle west escapes and battens in the sunshine of prosperity. 'To them who hath shall be given.'"

EAST OR WEST, IT'S THE SAME.

The Review is carrying more classified ads this season than ever before simply because they are bringing excellent returns to all who use them. It makes no difference where the advertiser is located. Like this:

Please discontinue my offer of roses, as the stock is sold twice over.—Eugene A. Perry, Dorsey, Md., April 10, 1915.

In sending my check for $12.10 to cover your March bill I want to say I am well pleased with the results The Review is bringing me.—H. J. Potomkin, Muncie, Ind., April 8, 1915.

VINCENT CALLS MEETING.

Richard Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md., states that a meeting will be held May 10, at 2 p. m., at Hotel Earlington, 55 West Twenty-seventh street, New York, for the purpose of organizing a national dahlia society. He states that the movement has been discussed with and has the support of J. K. Alexander, W. W. Wilmore, George L. Stillman, George H. Walker, Herd's Bergenfield Nurseries, John Lewis Childs, Hugo Kind, George W. Kerr, of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., and J. D. Eisele, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc. All who are interested are invited to be present.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The Chicago market experienced the usual after-Easter inertia in the week ending April 10. There were several contributing causes, such as a succession of warm, bright days that forced a large quantity of stock on the market at a most inopportune time; a considerable number of pot plants, left over from Easter, in the hands of the retail florists; a flower-buying public well stocked with blooming plants; the paucity of post-Lenten weddings and entertainments. Buying did not commence until April 8, while increasingly large supplies continued to pour into the market, with the result that there was a glut of almost everything. If there was anything approaching the short side of the market it was smilax and Beauties. Stock in all lines was in prime condition, much of it grading as excellent. April 9 and 10 the market picked up a little, but prices were low. After the out-of-town and city trade had been taken care of with the select stock, large quantities were moved through such outside channels as the department stores and the street stands, and yet immense supplies were left over to sell for what they would bring.

Practically all lines of stock are in the same boat, but perhaps lilies suffer most of all. It is almost a habit, when times are dull, to say it is the worst ever, but probably it is true the market never had so many lilies just after Easter. A buyer who can use them in any quantity can name his own prices and even then it is impossible to clean them up. Killarney and White Killarney, being the most largely grown roses, of course are most overabundant, but there is no shortage except, perhaps, momentarily of some of the little-grown sorts. Russell is abundant. The price of carnations has gone along with the rest of the stock, there being more than can be sold through trade channels, especially white. Violets ceased to be much of a factor; the warm weather nearly finished their season.

Great quantities of sweet peas have been sold, at prices ranging from moderate to extremely low. Jonquils, daffodils, Paper Whites and other indoor bulbous flowers are approaching the end of their season, but there have been enough and arrivals of southern stock have been so large that South Water street and the provision stores even have taken a hand in the game. Spanish iris is becoming more plentiful and there is a marked improvement in the quality of the snapdragon. Indeed, if there is any feature of the situation that has attracted more attention than the size of the supply it is the uniformly high quality of the stock. Flowers seldom have been of better quality.

The opening of the present week saw little change in the market. There was no decrease in receipts and shipping orders continued light, indicating a condition through the country similar to that which exists at Chicago. Of course, the slightly cooler weather of this week will have a regenerating effect and another week will probably see things approximating a normal condition.

Club Meeting.

It is doubtful if the Chicago Florists' Club ever had a more truly successful meeting than that of April 8. After the routine business had been finished the room was darkened and the members and guests were entertained with a Leffingwell travel talk, which was illustrated with stereopticon views and moving pictures of the San Francisco exposition and the scenic and industrial wonders of the Pacific northwest. William B. Leffingwell, who is official lecturer of the Union Pacific system, arranged this talk especially for the florists and he succeeded in making it, not only highly entertaining, but quite instructive as well.

The lecture was followed by a pleasant talk from A. Henderson, in which he sketched briefly the career of the Cook County Florists' Association and announced the surrender of its charter, its members being elected to membership in the club. President Keimel, in an informal talk, welcomed the new members and H. E. Philpott responded for the incoming body. President Keimel then stated that he would later appoint a committee to arrange for a consolidation banquet. Those elected to membership were Louis Hoekner, Crystal Lake, Ill.; Fred Ronsley, 106 Dearborn street and John Swenson, Chairman Fink, of the good-of-the-club committee, has made arrangements with the Sheldon School of Salesmanship to send a lecturer to the next club meeting, May 6, to give a talk on subjects of absorbing interest to every business man. As usual, lunch will be served and all are invited.

Killed by Former Employees.

According to the police, William Weil, who was found murdered, April 5, in the rear of his flower store on West Sixty-third street, was killed by former employees. Three young men have been arrested. One of these is Walter F. Weed, 18 years old, a brother of Edward Weed, who was Weil's bookkeeper, and himself employed by Weil up to six months ago. He kept his key when he left Weil's employment and used it to gain ingress on the fated night. Another of those arrested is August Hard, 23 years old, who was an extra hand in the store during the Christmas rush. The police say both have confessed but they deny they knew Weil had been killed when they left him.

By arrangement with the public administrator, Dinger & Black, proprietors of the Garfield Flower Shop, 211 East Garfield boulevard, will take over the flower store at 421 West Sixty-third street, recently operated by William Weil, who was found dead in the rear of the shop April 5. The store will be under the management, for a time at least, of Mr. Dinger and Mrs. Black, his sister.

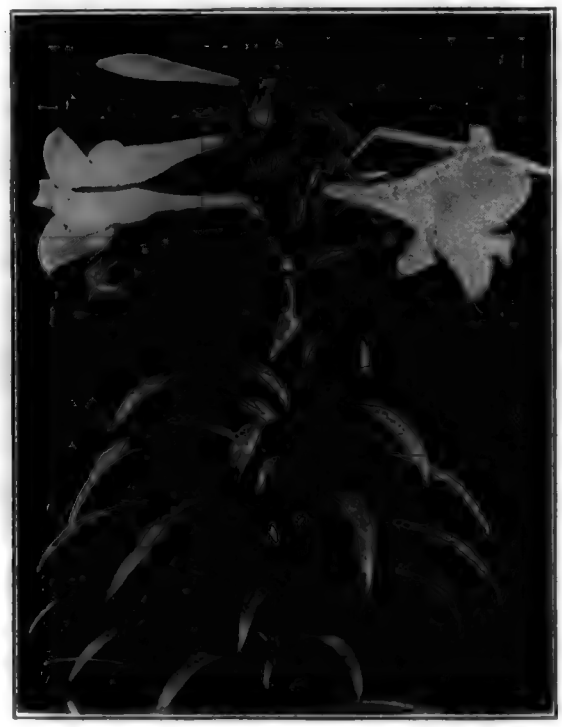
true sense of the word, according to L. R. Bohannon, of the Bohannon Floral Co. That, he says, is the reason why florists are not, as a rule, found on those streets where high rents prevail. To his way of thinking there is no reason why flowers should not be merchandised in the same way as other wares. He believes they should be and is now putting his belief to the test in his State street store, which, he says, has so far vindicated his judgment. In his own words: "It is simply a case of merchandising your goods properly, making a presentation of them that invites examination and ultimate purchase, as do the large department stores. I have always believed this and I am going to demonstrate to the trade and to the buying public that a flower store run on the lines I have stated can make good on the best corner in Chicago."

Various Notes.

When Peter Reinberg headed the ticket in the county election the Democracy had 49,000 plurality, but with another leader in last week's city election the party was beaten by 147,000. Mr. Reinberg's friends in the trade are anxious to see the florist run for the mayoralty.



Sol Garland, Jr., Des Plaines, Ill., whose greenhouse was recently destroyed by fire, suffered the loss of his residence in the same manner the night of April 10. No one was home and the loss was complete. As yet the cause has not been ascertained.

The growers who do not have glass enough so they can hire most of the work done usually earn all they get, but at the same time they get a lot of fun out of life. Take Nick Thinnes, for instance: He and his son do most of the work on a place of nearly 20,000 feet of bench space in Rogers Park. It's a long winter, but there is good money in it. And then when summer comes Mr. Thinnes rarely misses a ball game, except the summer he made a trip to Europe.

C. M. Dickinson is on Bison Ranch, Brockway, Mont., superintending the putting in of a spring crop. Mrs. Dickinson and Mrs. E. H. Hunt are with him. They will return to Billings in a few days.

Two benches of Killarney will be cleared out to make room for Mrs. Charles Russell this spring in the greenhouses of John Weiland, at Evanston.

With 12,013 plants to a house, French & Salm last week completed the planting of their range of three houses at Union Grove, Wis. There are two benches of own root Russell; all the others are planted with grafted stock. It probably is the only establishment in America devoted exclusively to this rose, certainly the only one of anything like its size. While maintaining his home at Morton Grove, Ill., Guy French spends the week at Union Grove, boarding with his partner and going home for Sunday. A fire in an old frame building nearby threatened Mr. Salm's residence on a recent midnight, turning to steam the water the partners put on the walls and roof.

Their china wedding anniversary will be celebrated April 18 by August F. Poehlmann and Mrs. Poehlmann. China is twenty, you know.

Plans are being made by Poehlmann Bros. Co. for the erection of three additional houses, 27x100, to be used as cold houses for the plant department. They will be built on the west end of plant A next to the railroad.

A new telephone switchboard is to be installed in the office of Kennicott Bros. Co. It will have three incoming wires and should greatly facilitate the work of handling telephone orders.

Wietor Bros. have begun the season's work of replanting, starting, as usual, with Beauties. N. J. Wietor says Sunburst has turned in more money per plant than any rose on the place this season, Hadley and Shawyer the least. The two latter are to be dropped.

The police were asked April 13 to search for F. C. Bargholtz, 3916 North Clark street, who disappeared the afternoon of the previous day while on his way to the bank to make a deposit. He had with him $120 in cash and several checks. Notice was immediately sent to all stations, but up to noon, April 14, the police had learned nothing.

According to Philip C. Schupp, J. A. Budlong is discarding the Hadley rose as unprofitable.

A local department store sold 20,000 roses at a cent apiece one day last week, selling at cost.

C. L. Washburn is to have the pleasure of neighboring with Roger Sullivan, the well known politician, in the near future.

Dictaphones have been adopted for the correspondence of the A. L. Randall Co. The staff is being increased as plans develop for a further extension of the business.

Mail orders April 12 cleaned out F. F. Scheel's carnation cuttings and left him in the position of having to return money, so he 'phoned from Schermerville.

An unusually good counter trade in addition to the heavy shipping business is reported by the W. W. Barnard Co., which has found it necessary to employ a cashier's assistant, as well as extra help in all departments.

F. J. Benthey will go to Newcastle, Ind., April 17, to look over the greenhouses. He reports an unusually successful season.

Counter trade has become quite active at Winterson's Seed Store in spite of the handicap imposed by the torn up condition of the street caused by relaying the sidewalk along the east side of the Atlas block. Zech & Mann, Weiland & Risch and H. C. Rowe also are hoping for the speedy completion of the work.

Thomas F. Browne, who arrived in Chicago April 5 and took a flying trip to several central Illinois points, left for his home, in Greenfield, Mich., April 8, immediately after the adjournment of the Chicago Florists' Club meeting, which he attended.

H. E. Philpott left Chicago for his home, in Winnipeg, Canada, April 9. He expects to return to this city about May 6. He is president of A. T. Pyfer & Co., Inc., and also has other financial connections in this vicinity, in each of which he takes a keen and active interest.

The Market.

Trade has been quiet since Easter. Although there have been a few social functions and considerable funeral work, counter trade has been dull. Market conditions remain about the same as last week. Carnations are more plentiful, and the price has come down. Roses are abundant in all varieties and grades. Good Beauties can be had at a low figure. The glut in the Philadelphia market makes them cheap here. Plants were plentiful last week, and there are still plenty of spiræas, hydrangeas, ramblers, cinerarias and azaleas in the market. Snapdragons, pansies, forget-me-nots, sweet peas, mignonette and swainsonas are on hand. In bulbous stock, Victoria, Golden Spur, Von Sion and Sir Watkin are still arriving. There is little or no demand for orchids and valley.

W. J. Palmer & Son have tried a new scheme of giving a discount of ten per cent on all purchases carried home after 5 p. m. This was done to induce patrons to take goods with them instead of necessitating a late delivery. After trying it for several weeks it cannot be pronounced a great success, but they are giving it a fair trial and eventually it may be made a permanent feature.

Various Notes.

The Buffalo Cut Flower Co., under the management of A. F. Vick, is doing a fine business. It was not anticipated that the firm would meet with such great success from the beginning as it has.

Emil Brucker is confined to his home for a week suffering with the grip and rheumatic and nerve troubles. While his condition is not serious, his physician prescribed absolute rest for a time.

The Wm. F. Kasting Co. has a new importation of pyramid and standard box trees, which are fresh and green.

The regular meeting of the Buffalo Florists' Club was held April 6 at Kasting's hall. The new president, Robert Scott, took office, and presided over the meeting. The financial officers gave their reports. Owing to the fact that most of the members had not recovered from the Easter rush, the attendance was not large. Refreshments were served.

J. H. Rebstock is suffering with a severe case of primula poisoning. His physician has ordered him to be confined to the house for several days, for his face is badly swollen. His Easter trade was excellent; he was completely sold out of lilies.

Mrs. W. A. Adams and daughter, Jean, spent Easter in Toronto.

Mrs. Katherine Raeker reports trade excellent. She was sold out of everything.

Anton C. Zvolanek, of Lompoc, Cal., the sweet pea specialist, was a visitor here recently. He was entertained by Jerry Brookins.

At the opening of the Walter Bedell, Inc., store, April 5, the floral gifts were elaborate and numerous. Felix Alberts and S. A. Anderson had the greater part of the orders.

A handsome awning of broad green and white stripes, with the monogram of the Colonial Flower Shop, adds a distinguished air to the store of Kowalski & Bellanka, on lower Delaware avenue.

J. B. Wiese, of the Chippewa market, reports a big Easter trade, with a scarcity of lilies.

At the branch store of W. J. Palmer & Son, the business done at Easter exceeded that of last year.

The Hoyt-Sawyer wedding called for large quantities of blue hydrangeas and white lilacs. White lilacs and valley were carried by the bride, and the numerous bridesmaids carried blue hydrangeas. S. A. Anderson had charge of the work.

K. M. Cantlin made a special feature of Easter baskets, and reports that business was fine.

Albert Weckerman is selling out all his fancy red geraniums, which bring a fair price. He will dispose of his entire stock at wholesale, because the laying of a new road near his greenhouses will prevent his marketing the goods later.

Geo. Crammer, of Rochester, was a visitor last week.

J. Benson Stafford had an order for a colonial bride's bouquet last week. It was made of Sunburst roses and white sweet peas, with a shower of valley, which fell over the bunch proper and was caught and fastened near the apex of the pyramid. E. C. A.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Positive, bad; comparative, worse; superlative, worst. This extreme comparison aptly describes the distressing conditions that have prevailed in the cut flower market during the last week. There are several reasons for the unhappy state of affairs. First, everybody had so much stock left over after Easter that it was impossible to work it all off, to say nothing of using much fresh stock. Then the sudden change from winter to spring brought on the crops rapidly. This applies, not to one crop alone, but to practically all varieties of flowers coming into the market. Then, the southern daffodils have arrived. Any one of these three conditions would have weakened the market; all combined, they overwhelmed it.

Instead of going through a list of flowers and the particulars surrounding each, a few stories will give a better idea of the state of affairs. One retailer, when asked why he did not help the market by using a few cut flowers, said that he had so many fine plants left over that whenever a cut flower order came he offered a blooming plant at about half its Easter value as an inducement instead of cut flowers; four times out of five the purchaser took the plant and the fifth time the flowers could be cut from the plants. A buyer wanted a quantity of carnations that could be retailed at a startlingly low price; great concessions were made, but the buyer was not satisfied and bought his carnations elsewhere at his own figure. An entire shipment of several thousand roses was disposed of at a mere fraction of their value the week before, but they were not missed in the avalanche of stock that swept over the place. Snapdragon could not be moved at any price; it differs from carnations and roses in a time of overproduction because the quantity buyers can not or will not use it, so that great numbers of snapdragons are passed by.

These are a few of the incidents that mark one of the greatest periods of depression that have passed over the cut flower market. Values fell tremendously without enabling the sellers to dispose of anywhere near all the stock they received. Then, too, they discouraged all shipments from irregular shippers, or those who offered stock that there was little prospect of marketing. This worked a great hardship on the cemetery florists, who had prepared much stock for Easter which was left on their hands in unsuitable condition for wholesaling. Flowers intended to be at their best for retailing at a given period will rarely meet the requirements of the critical buyers in the wholesale market a few days afterwards.

good judges look for a turn in the market ere long; some hope for it this week, but the only encouraging fact is the demand for green. Asparagus plumosus sprays are actually scarce, which reflects somewhat on smilax and on tender and hardy ferns.

The Easter market report last week should have read "Red and yellow roses were in demand." This was due to a rather short supply in red roses, always popular at Easter, in striking contrast to red carnations. Yellow roses were largely used for corsage bunches. The supply was better than of red, but it was hardly equal to the demand.

The National Flower Show.

Adolph Farenwald is steadily getting things into shape for the preliminary work on the national flower show to be held here next spring. Convention hall, at Broad street and Allegheny avenue, has been engaged for the show. Arrangements have been made for heating the large building with steam boilers. Space in the hall will be offered to intending exhibitors at $1 per square foot. Applications for space may be made to Secretary Arthur A. Niessen, Twelfth and Race streets. The first meeting of the chairmen of the various committees was held at Horticultural hall April 14.

Various Notes.

Macaw Bros. are erecting a new greenhouse 34x150 feet, Lord & Burnham material, on their place at Norwood, Pa. It is understood that this house is intended for ferns of the Boston type, with which the firm has been exceptionally successful.

Alexander Haig, for ten years on and off an employee of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., died April 8. Mr. Haig, who had charge of the rose sorting for his company, was 35 years of age. The funeral took place April 12.

Robert A. Craig is confined to the house by a painful though, it is thought, not serious attack of illness. His friends hope he will soon be entirely well again.

Goeller Bros., of Trenton, N. J., and Charles Vorkeller, of South Bethlehem, Pa., were recent visitors.

Paul Berkowitz puts a cheerful light on the well filled houses of blooming plants near the cemeteries by saying that people will be going out there this fine weather and soon many of the plants will be sold.

The seed stores are lively places now.

Arthur Zirkman is in town.

Joseph G. Neidinger has originated a two-tone wax rose that is true to nature. Formerly these roses came in single colors. Mr. Neidinger has perfected a half dozen pleasing combinations with two colors in each, such as are seen in Killarney or in Sunburst.

John P. Habermehl says that Easter was satisfactory at all his firm's stores. Business since then has been quiet, save for some decorations that have required all of the few left-over blooming plants to brighten the green of fern and foliage.

Prof. George B. Kaiser spoke on fungi before the Germantown Horticultural Society April 12. Phil.

Dr. Robert Huey will give an illustrated talk on roses under the auspices

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Pittsburgh had a week of fine weather and the result was a flood of everything seasonable, especially roses and carnations, but today, April 12, we have had sleet, rain, hail and sunshine alternately. Western Pennsylvania needs plenty of rain, for we have had little snow this winter and no rain until now. The farmers are actually stirring up dust with their spring plowing. The wholesale houses are flooded with stock of all kinds—Beauties, roses, lilies, mignonette and almost anything you can think of. You can name your own price, provided you will buy in thousand lots. The stock is all fine. Retailers still are keeping up fine displays of plants and all are fairly busy with cut flowers. Easter trade was satisfactory and there has been little complaint as to business since then.

Various Notes.

The Rosenbaum Co. moved into its new building April 7. Ray Daschbach had the decorations, but almost every florist had a part in the orders from out-of-town and from city firms who sent baskets of flowers and plants. Immense quantities of stock were used for the opening of this concern, which helped to relieve a flooded market.

Harry Hamm had the decorations for the charity ball given by the Knights of Columbus, April 7, at the Motor Square Garden.

A. W. Smith, Jr., of the A. W. Smith Co., can hardly find time to go home. The landscape department is booming and he reports a general improvement in business. He says he hardly knows where it is coming from, but is satisfied it is here to stay. The store is filled with blooming plants of every description, flowering shrubs, etc. Many customers, after making purchases, sit down to admire the flowers and listen to the birds sing, as cages of canaries are hung all over the store.

HARDY PERENNIAL PLANTS

These will be found of unusual vigor and of exceptionally fine quality. We grow these plants at our Nurseries at Andalusia, where the heavy soil produces extra fine quality. This offer is subject to stock being unsold when order is received. Mention this special offer when ordering.

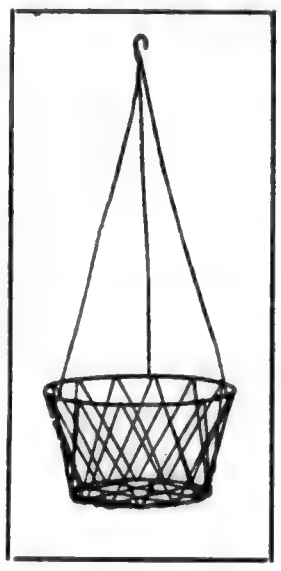
crowded. They are having a heavy run of funeral work and have a couple of good wedding decorations booked for this week. Miss McKinley came back to help them through the Easter rush. They report a considerable improvement in trade.

Ed. Weaver says too much Easter has almost put him out of business.

The Zieger Co. is keeping up its usual good display and reports an excellent Easter trade.

Miss E. B. Maxwell does not find that the hard times affect her business. She reports having about all she can do.

Fred Riegelmeier says the south side is holding up its end of the cut flower business. The only thing necessary is to sell at a low enough price.



T. P. Langhans met with a painful accident while pruning and tying his vines. He hung the pruning shears up above his head and they fell and struck him in the leg.

It is reported that Michael Nahalka, who is employed by Wm. M. Turner, was recently a victim of robbers. On entering a Lawrenceville bank to cash his pay check, which amounted to $75, he was approached, it is said, by two strangers, who lured him to a lonely street, drugged him and robbed him of the money he had just drawn and $25 besides.

The Market.

A good, brisk business was enjoyed the fore part of last week, but Friday and Saturday, April 9 and 10, the falling off in trade was quite noticeable; this, no doubt, was caused by the warm weather. Prices naturally are considerably lower, and most florists have been offering specials on various flowers. The market is well supplied with all kinds of cut flowers, which are all of fine quality. Most of the stock is cleaned up daily, thus giving customers the best and freshest of all kinds. There are large quantities of roses reaching us daily, Ward, D'Arenberg, Sunburst, Shawyer and Maryland being the best sellers. Carnations are not quite so plentiful, the whites in particular, but they are not missed in the presence of the immense quantity of Easter lilies, which are being used for funeral work. Callas are a little more plentiful. Valley, as usual, drags considerably and much goes to waste. Sweet peas are plentiful, and the orchid varieties sell fast. Violets are almost at a standstill, and have to be cleared at special prices. Jonquils and daffodils are plentiful, and the demand for both is large. Snapdragons of various shades sell quite well. Forget-me-nots and pansies, yellow and white daisies are all popular in corsage and basket work. Cut hyacinths do not sell readily. Orchids and gardenias have no special demand.

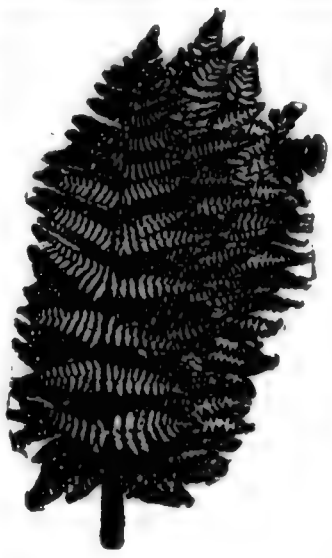
Various Notes.

George T. Boucher received an order for 900 callas recently, to be used in the churches of the city. He reports a record Easter trade.



Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand J. Keller and daughter left for California Saturday, April 10. Most of the store employees were at the New York Central depot to wish him a pleasant trip, and as the train was leaving, a huge bouquet of flowers was handed to him. He expects to be away for from four to six weeks.

Recent visitors were E. F. Kennon, of the Climax Mfg. Co., Castorland, N. Y., and Julius Berg, of Lion & Co., New York city.

H. E. Wilson is growing some fine snapdragons in white, pink, yellow and dark red, which meet with a ready sale.

A mammoth cross of oak leaves and Easter lilies, with a base of white hyacinths and spiræa, was shown in the window of the Rochester Floral Co. last week.

ness at both stores. He had a beautiful showing of plants. Some of the large rhododendrons he shipped to out-of-town markets.

J. B. Keller Sons had a record Easter trade. They decorated for a large out-of-town wedding Tuesday, April 6.

The Rochester Florists' Association was responsible for a unique decoration at the Rochester Newswriters' Club banquet, held April 10 at the Powers hotel. The approach to the hall was made through a giant submarine. The hall was decorated in greenish-blue tints to represent the deep sea and the sight was a weird one. From the ceiling hung immense fish, with eyes electrically lighted, made lifelike in appearance by the use of electric fans. The marble pillars were covered with Florida moss and wound with weird-looking sea serpents, starfishes and mermaids. At the back of the speakers' table was a wrecked hull at the bottom of the sea. The bow was labeled "Empire State Democracy," and in the stern was a jagged hole made by a submarine torpedo. The tables were decorated with centerpieces of rock covered with moss, over which crept a large red lobster. The wirework, of which there was a large quantity, was made by Geo. B. Hart. H. J. H.

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists — those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists — has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

The Market.

The week following Easter proved a most unsatisfactory one to growers and wholesalers. The blizzard of April 3 caused a heavy surplus to be crowded into ice-chests and the market has not yet become normal. But for the unwelcome snow storm there would have been a good clean-up this week all around. Roses have had a tough week and clearances have only been made at low figures. Good sellers continue to be Russell, Hadley, Taft, Sunburst, Killarney Queen, Killarney Brilliant and Miller. Killarney and White Killarney are each in oversupply. Carnations continue off crop with nearly all growers and sell fairly well at about half the prices of the previous week. Single violets are out of the market, but doubles will last a week or two longer. Sweet peas are of splendid quality and are as popular as anything on the market. Nothing but the Spencers are wanted. Snapdragons sell slowly, as do Easter lilies, callas, stocks and calendulas. Valley has been moving well for funeral orders. Dutch bulbous flowers are all lower in price, but no decided glut of them has yet taken place. There are now good supplies of Spanish iris. Yellow marguerites drag, but good bachelor's buttons clean up well. Some Cattleya Mossiæ is coming in. This sells much better than C. Schrœderæ. Gardenias are good, but are in excess of the market's needs.

SPOKANE, WASHINGTON
A. J. BURT, 829 Riverside Avenue

There has been a fairly good plant trade since Easter.

Various Notes.

L. E. Small is the champion local grower of double bachelor's buttons. Many of his flowers go to New York and Philadelphia. He has a couple of fine seedling carnations which may be heard from later. One is scarlet, the other similar in color to Mrs. Ward. Of the standard sorts his best now are Pink Delight, Matchless, Champion, Beacon and Yellow Prince.

Some magnificent light pink ten weeks' stocks are coming in from Donald Carmichael, who also has an extra fine lot of carnations this season.

Thomas F. Galvin had numerous orders for the funeral of ex-Governor Curtis Guild, late American ambassador to Petrograd. For Mrs. Guild they had a large and beautiful wreath of Phalænopsis amabilis and valley, for the American ambassador a large wreath of over 300 gardenias, with a cluster of valley. They had designs for the state senate, legislature, governor and numerous others. Their Easter trade broke last year's records at the three stores in Boston and New York.

cializes heavily in bulbs. At present his leaders are Murillo, Rose Luisante, Vermilion Brilliant and Couleur Cardinal in tulips, while Golden Spur and Victoria are the favorite narcissi. He also has grape hyacinths and asparagus.

Herman Waldecker, of Braintree, is shipping a fine lot of Spanish iris. Mann Bros., of Randolph, also are shippers of these popular flowers.

C. S. Andem, of Putnam, Conn., has good Matchless, Philadelphia, White Wonder and Enchantress carnations. He also has some excellent hyacinths and snapdragons.

The monthly meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club occurs April 20. There will be interesting exhibits of bulbous flowers, roses, orchids, sweet peas and other flowers. H. Howard Pepper, of Providence, R. I., will lecture on "Some Facts About Banking All Florists Ought to Know."

A. G. Lake, of Wellesley Hills, has better calendulas than any other local grower. He also grows callas and yellow marguerites successfully.

Local nurseries started digging trees and shrubs this week. In some ground there is still considerable frost. A soaking rain would be welcomed by all would-be planters.

J. B. McDonald, formerly of Wax Bros., and J. McDonough, formerly with MacMulkin, have each now joined the staff of the Boston Cut Flower Co., where business continues good.

William H. Elliott has a superior lot of Taft roses from his Madbury, N. H., greenhouses, also mixed bunches of his newer single Irish roses and bunches of sweet brier. Other roses doing remarkably well are Killarney Queen, Hadley, Miller, Richmond, Sunburst, Ward and Mlle. Cecile Brunner.

Penn had numerous orders for the funeral of ex-Governor Curtis Guild, April 9. He reports that if clear weather had ruled through April 3 they would have nothing but bare walls left, so great was the demand in spite of the blizzard. Funeral work and plant trade continue to keep the staff busy.

William C. Stickel, of Lexington, one of our most prominent carnation specialists, has now a fine crop of Matchless, Pink Delight, Beacon, Benora and White Wonder. These are sold by Nathan Lerner.

Later inquiries among retailers show that nearly all had a record Easter trade. Growers of pot plants were almost cleaned out. The chief losses were on cut flowers, and these would have been entirely sold out had the weather been pleasant April 3.

S. J. Goddard, Framingham, had the largest Easter retail trade since he has been in business. His carnations are now largely off crop, but his Beacon, Pink Delight, Yellow Prince and Matchless are equal to the best coming into the market.

H. R. Comley had an interesting window April 10. A fine assortment of orchids was included, also strelitzias, clivias, ixias, anemones, Spanish iris and gladioli.

Recent visitors were G. E. Baldwin, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and A. Barmwater, representing John Scheepers & Co., New York.

German Gardeners' Club.

The German Gardeners' Club, composed of local florists either coming from the Fatherland or born of German parents, held its monthly meeting April 7 at the College Inn, Vice-president Henry Kraak in the chair. The Easter business formed the main topic of the evening. All those handling stock for this special trade voiced the opinion that it was one of the best in years and that some firms cleaned out their flowering stock completely. The chairman urged the members to secure space for exhibits at the coming show, held under the auspices of the New Orleans Horticultural Society. This club always combines the social features with business cares and it was decided to hold the first fishing trip April 21. The boat will leave Harvey's canal at 6 a. m., for Bayou Barataria. Kraak appointed the following committee to make the necessary arrangements to make the outing thoroughly enjoyable: B. M. Wichers, Joseph Faust and John Zuerer. Secretary J. Merkel will notify each member in ample time, giving full instructions, and it is hoped the club will turn out in full force. Richard Eichling was elected a member.

The officers of the club are: President, Paul Abele; vice-president, Henry Kraak; secretary, Joseph Merkel; treasurer, John Rink. Meetings take place the first Wednesday of each month at 717 Common street.

Various Notes.

It has been definitely decided to hold a flower show in Lafayette square May 6 to 9. The city gives the use of the square free and the trade has subscribed to a guarantee fund to cover the expenses. At the last meeting of the Horticultural Society President Chopin secured from each member present a pledge of assistance and a big show is expected. The admission will be only 10 cents, insuring a large attendance.

It is a little late for Easter trade reports, but the general report here is that an excellent business was done. It was all in a rush during the last two days. Lilies were a little short, because of the earliness of the date. Plants were fine, but cut flowers enjoyed their usual sale. R. E.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

A week of warm, bright weather brought out an immense crop of flowers. Prices fell to almost nothing. Downtown florists bought heavily at these low prices for show and transient trade, while the florists in other parts of the city bought sparingly. There was a glut in sweet peas and many were dumped. The common varieties were obtainable at $1 to $2 per thousand, while fancy Spencers held up to $4 to $6 per thousand. Violets are nearing the close of their season and are becoming small and pale in color. Carnations were counted in the glut. Extra fine stock in all varieties went at $10 per thousand. The stock coming in is of extra fine quality. Next to these in supply came roses in all varieties. Prices on these, too, were forced down to a low level. Bulbous stock came in great quantities and went at prices so low it would hardly pay for the bulbs. Dutch hyacinths brought only $1 per hundred. Tulips, valley, lilies, callas, Von Sions and freesias have come down in price since Easter. Greens seem to hold their own.

The store men are looking for some improvement in business this week, as several weddings and balls are announced by society. Greenhouse men are busy preparing for planting out.

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club held its monthly meeting April 8, in Odd Fellows' hall. The meeting was not well attended, the fine weather, no doubt, keeping many of the members working at home. But these few kept things lively for a few hours. The report of the judges of the club's recent exhibition was read and accepted with a vote of thanks. W. J. Pilcher, who is one of a committee appointed to select a fitting place for the annual convention of the American Carnation Society here in January, reported that the Planters' hotel was the choice of the committee. Vice-president Ammann will report this decision to Secretary Baur at once. Conrad Bergstermann was appointed a member of Mr. Ammann's committee, in place of R. J. Windler, who resigned. Messrs. Fillmore, Windler and Ohlweiler were appointed a committee to draw resolutions on the death of George R. Frow. The committee on the application of B. Lechner reported favorably and his election to membership followed.

When business was finished, a discussion on Easter business was taken up, in which all took part. This and the question box, which contained a number of queries, brought an interesting meeting to a close. The next meeting will be held May 13.

Various Notes.

The Retail Florists' Association will hold its monthly meeting April 19, at the Washington hotel. There will be important business to transact regarding the credit system. Easter business, too, will come up for discussion.

August Hummert, vice-president of the St. Louis Seed Co., says the rush for all kinds of garden seeds has been the largest the concern ever had. Other seed houses give much the same report.

Robert J. Windler, state vice-president of the S. A. F. for eastern Missouri, has forwarded his resignation to President Welch. The Florists' Club recommended Frank Windler for the place.

William C. Young, of the firm of C. Young & Sons Co., who has been on the sick list, is much improved. He says mail orders for plants are now coming in heavily and the big packing shed is a busy place.

April 9, Arbor day, Mayor Kiel and other city officials planted the first of 100 trees to be planted in Fairground park by the North St. Louis Business Men's Association.

The Students' Club at the Missouri Botanical Garden will hold its second meeting of the month, April 16. B. M. Dugger will read a paper on "Culture of Mushrooms." President Grossart says the meetings have been well attended.

Nelson Cunliff, chief engineer of the park department, has been appointed park commissioner to succeed D. F. Davis, according to the announcement of E. N. Tolkacz, director of public welfare. Henry C. Muskopf was a candidate for the appointment and had the endorsement of the Florists' Club and twenty-nine members of the trade, who signed a petition for him.

Otto G. Koenig was elected alderman last week. He was swept in with the rest of the ticket in the big Republican landslide.

Robert J. Windler will leave St. Louis May 1, to make his home in Chicago, having leased one of the places owned by his father-in-law, Adam Zender, at Rogers Park. His many friends wish him well in his new venture. His stock will be consigned to the Windler Wholesale Floral Co. here.

Nat Kingsley, who has charge of the Mullanphy Flower Co., is now the regular morning buyer in the wholesale district. He says they had an exceptionally good Easter trade, especially in cut flowers.

D. Bova, of the Red Bud Floral Co., has opened a branch store at 619 Locust street, where fruits and flowers are sold. The store was opened just before Easter and is getting its share of the downtown trade.

Some of the leading retailers have been commenting on the blooming plants exhibited at the Missouri Botanical Garden just before Easter. This helped to educate the public greatly, for the call for cinerarias and rhododendrons was large at Easter.

George Waldbart has a new pleasure car in which he is seen daily going to his country place in Clayton, where he grows quite a large stock of outdoor flowers.

The show house of Fred C. Weber has been replenished with a fine stock of blooming plants. The Easter rush cleaned it out completely.

Grimm & Gorly, Mullanphy and Foster are making big displays of cut flowers these days. The springlike weather has brought out great crowds of shop-

GARDENERS' ACTIVITIES.

The essay committee of the National Association of Gardeners has selected the following subjects for the contest for President Everitt's prizes for the best written essays:

Class 1—Prize, $35 gold; subject, "Horticulture as a Profession from the Standpoint of a Gardener."

Class 2—Prize, $25 gold; subject, "The Proper Grouping and Culture of Trees, Shrubs, Perennials and Annual Bedding Plants in the Ornamentation of Private Grounds."

Class 3—Prize, $20 gold; subject, "Preparation of Ground for and General Treatment of Hardy Herbaceous Perennials." Naming a list of species limited to 100, providing a succession of flowers throughout the entire season.

Class 4—Prize, $20 gold; subject, "How to Secure a Year's Vegetable Supply with the Aid of Coldframes or Hotbeds, but no Greenhouses, Including Soil Preparation."

The contest is open to professional gardeners who are engaged in the capacities of superintendents, head gardeners or assistant gardeners. The contest closes October 1. The judges, consisting of three gardeners and two representatives of the horticultural press, appointed by the essay committee, will report their decision at the next convention, which will occur the first week of December. Full particulars will be furnished by William H. Waite, chairman essay committee, Box 290, Madison, N. J., to whom all inquiries should be addressed.

board held in New York recently, it was voted, in response to an invitation from William Kleinheinz, chairman of a committee to secure private growers' exhibits for the fourth national flower show, to be held in Philadelphia in March, 1916, to coöperate with the Society of American Florists to make the show a success.

President Everitt has appointed a committee on protection of native birds which includes the following members: L. P. Jensen, St. Louis, Mo., chairman; David F. Roy, Marion, Mass.; Lester E. Ortis, Bernardsville, N. J.; Robert Williamson, Greenwich, Conn.; Frank R. Kuehne, Lake Forest, Ill. Chairman Jensen reports that the committee has secured the coöperation of Dr. H. W. Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.
Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June 22 to 24, 1915.

THE New York seedsmen are using more space than ever before in the metropolitan dailies—and they are doing a record counter trade this month.

FEELING the lure of the quiet places, induced by the balmy weather, A. H. Goodwin, of W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, left April 8 for his summer home in Syracuse, Ind.

FRED J. KREISEL, who has been with the Archias Seed Store, at Sedalia, Mo., for the last four years, has purchased the T. Culley Commission & Seed Co. at the same place, and is now conducting the business.

SEEDSMEN who send plants through the mail should read about "Inspection of Mailed Plants" in this issue to learn of the postoffice rules for carrying out the provision for the terminal inspection of mailed plants.

THE thirteenth annual meeting of the Western Seedsmen's Association, held April 20, 1914, must have been unlucky, as President H. A. Johns advises, "We are not quite sure at this moment when the association will meet again."

THE seedsmen at Nashville, Tenn., report a better season thus far than they had last year. They are still rushed to the limit. Cowpeas are unsettled at present, with every indication of a rise in the price. The Seven-top turnip seed crop promises to be short this season, because of the severe winter. The plants are just coming into bloom.

IT is the general belief that the attendance at the thirty-third annual convention of the American Seed Trade Association, June 22 to 24, at San Francisco, will be far in excess of what was first expected, for seedsmen in all parts of the country are declaring their intentions to attend, whereas a few weeks ago most of them were of a contrary mind.

IT is said the trade has been fearful of contracting with European houses this season, doubting that the exportation of the crop would be permitted should the war last until next winter. In Holland this question has been raised so frequently that the seed growers sought assurances from the Dutch department of agriculture. The general director of agriculture stated in the official reply that, under reservation as to unforeseen circumstances, bona fide seed merchants and exporters can obtain a special permit next autumn to export

MOTT-LY MEDITATIONS.

The Steele-Briggs Seed Co., Toronto, Ont., is working its 400 hands in day and night shifts to keep up with the rush of shipping. Secretary A. W. Annandale remarked that while export trade has suffered, home demand more than compensates for the deficiency. Much difficulty is still experienced in obtaining supplies from abroad, and those stocks that are on the way, particularly flower seeds, will be trebly valuable for the season of 1916. When such items as a carload of rutabaga and 1,000 sacks of mangel seed are quoted as examples, it conveys some idea of the inconvenience the wholesale houses, especially, are put to. Boston is the favored port of entry for seeds, New York for bulbs, as much greater care is taken in handling the goods than through Canadian ports and the expense of transportation is about equal. A possible shortage will be on White Portugal onion seed, as this variety produces the best sets and is much in demand, owing to its mildness of flavor and cleanness of growth.

Herman Simmers, of J. A. Simmers, Toronto, reports an exceptionally busy seed time, which will, to some extent, offset the Waterloo suffered by the trade on bulbs. An additional war tax recently levied affects many articles catalogued and will help further to reduce profits. An attractive window showing the route from Niagara Falls to the store is cleverly constructed.

GRASS SEEDS ARE PURER.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture last week made public the results of its test of grass seeds during 1914. The list of those found selling adulterated or misbranded seeds is the shortest since the law was passed.

Of the 453 samples obtained as Kentucky bluegrass seed, nineteen were found to be either adulterated or misbranded. Of these, thirteen contained less than three per cent of Kentucky bluegrass, ten contained more than seventy-five per cent of Canada bluegrass, and one sample was rye grass.

Of the 404 samples obtained as orchard grass seed, forty-two were found to be either adulterated or misbranded. Of these, nineteen samples contained more than ten per cent of rye grass or meadow fescue, nine samples contained more than five per cent of chess or soft chess, and four samples contained more than six per cent of timothy.

Several seed firms of excellent repute are in the lists, showing that the trade still is just a little neglectful, as the government will examine and report promptly as to the presence of adulterants and dodder in any sample of seed submitted for that purpose. According to the location of the sender, these samples may be submitted to the SEED SHORTAGES INEVITABLE.

"Few seedsmen," says the D. Landreth Seed Co. in a circular to its salesmen, "even faintly imagine the shortage which will prevail in the seed harvests of 1915 and 1916 of sorts usually obtained from Europe, the shortages being a consequence of the prolongation of the war. We have letters from the largest seed firms in Europe that 'the next turnip seed harvest, July, 1915, will be insignificant, not only in England but on the continent of Europe.' This shortage in turnips of crop 1915 will apply to a lesser extent to all biennial seed crops, the plants of which are now being eaten up by starving populations, and the shortage also will apply to this spring's crops of annuals, which, if raised, will also be eaten up or not taken care of.

"But looking further ahead, what as to crop 1916? The shortage of 1915 will continue and grow worse; really there may be a total failure of many seeds of 1916, if the war continues over July, 1915, for the biennial crops, intended to produce seed in 1916, must be planted in the summer of 1915 and carried over the following winter to make seed in 1916. We therefore say if the war continues over July, and that it will is obvious to everyone, there will be a small acreage of biennial seeds sown to produce seed harvest of 1916. Notice this remark applies to such biennials as beet, cabbage, carrot, parsnip, parsley, brussels sprouts, endive, leek, kale, etc. Consequently the prices of stock in hand should increase at once.

"Now, to go back to next crop 1915, for example, as to annuals, such as radish, spinach and other items. These must be sown this April or May, periods now here. Now, will they be sown? Hardly. If sown, will they be taken care of, harvested and threshed? Anyone can prognosticate on this as well as we, but our opinion is that the seed for the spring sowing of annual seeds for seed will not be planted, cultivated and harvested. Consequently there will be none, or very little of radish, melon, spinach, peas, beet, tomato, cucumber, corn salad, lettuce, celery and other annual crops for this year's 1915 European harvest. Here, too, the values should rise at once on many seeds.

Since then we have had no one quite so wise except in their own opinion of themselves. A man never realizes how ignorant he really is until he has become learned. A well educated man does not refer to his attainments, because he realizes there is so much he does not know, which he may learn by listening to others. Our Maker gave us two eyes and one tongue, so we may see twice as much as is good to say. Self-laudatory men are usually successful in inverse ratio to their idea of their own ability. So it does not pay to "know too much," nor to think too much of what you have done. Same relative to lily bulbs—the more we know about them, the more we see we have to learn. So we are always thankful to learn new things about lilies, to promote the quality of Horseshoe Brand. This has been our position for twelve years, and as a result Horseshoe Brand Lily Bulbs are superior to any brand in the world, and used more by large consumers than other brands because of their productive powers. Try a case or more. Plant Cold Storage Giganteum now for July flowers, and Auratum, Rubrum and Album for summer flowering outside. Especially Magnificum, if you want a nice outside show in September.

"A man who does not understand seed growing conditions might say: 'Why! bless my soul! America can produce anything in the seed line that the rest of the world can raise, and it can produce ten times as much as has been raised in the past.' To this we would say: 'Quite so, but it takes time for the farmer to get a move on, it takes time for him to get select seed to plant, it takes time for him to acquire information so that his seed product when it is raised will carry with it sufficient confidence to make it worth a cent a pound; it takes time for him to assemble tools and other appliances and requisites to do the business. Undoubtedly it can be done, but it will take two or three years to get into operation. It cannot be done in one year. Don't let enthusiastic persons deceive you.

"The California men, and they know something of the seed business, have been trying to raise carrot seed for several years, but it is still so bad that no one wants it the second time. It is bad, bad, bad, and just the same with radish seed. Last year the largest grower of radish seed on the California coast told us, in a letter which we have before us, that if we wanted to get dependable radish seed, not to get it from California. Yet California seed will be largely used to fill shortages; shortages both of radish and of carrot. But what of other things which the Californians do not grow? Really, it looks as if a great many seeds before long will be worth two prices, and next winter and the year after possibly some of them will not be obtainable at any price."

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

SIERRA MADRE, CAL.

The annual flower show, held under the auspices of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club and kindred bodies, was a magnificent success from the point of view of exhibits, but, as these notes are written just at the opening of the show, it is impossible to say what the financial outcome will be. A large marquee was erected this year and this was filled to the utmost with exhibits of a high order of merit, in addition to the exhibits in the club rooms.

On entering the tent a splendid show of cinerarias, lily of the valley and hyacinths, put up by W. W. Felgate, showed plainly that this well known gardener knows how to grow flowers as well as vegetables. It was a first-class display, which would have done credit to any show.

H. W. Turner, of Montebello, put up some extra fine roses, including his famous September Morn and Jonkheer J. L. Mock.

The Germain Seed & Plant Co. had an artistic grouping of plants, consisting of fine kentias, boxwoods, bays and other foliage plants, with small plants of coleus, Agathæa cœlestis and others in front.

The Clemence Nurseries, of Pasadena, put up one of the characteristic bright groups of flowering plants for which this firm is noted, and Coolidge's Rare Plant Gardens were to the fore with an interesting collection of varieties. Ward's Nurseries, of Sierra Madre, had a bright and telling display, while Howard & Smith and G. W. Smith, of Los Angeles, both contributed of their best.

J. H. Teekamp, of Pasadena, showed some elegant Darwin tulips.

The competitive classes were all well filled and the baskets and table decorations were especially fine. Probably the writer has missed some exhibitors, but, as already stated, these notes were hurriedly taken just at the opening of the show.

W. W. Felgate managed the show. The judges were H. W. Turner, H. R. Richards, James McGillivray and J. Dieterich. H. R. R.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

The Easter business, according to most of the retailers, was not quite up to that of last year, though a few report an increase. A large number of tourists are visiting the city, but hotel men say that, owing to the counter attractions at San Francisco and San Diego, they are cutting their stay shorter than usual; consequently there are fewer entertainments. Transient business is good, however, and there is a healthy tone to plant trade. Easter lilies were not as plentiful as usual and cleaned up well. There were large numbers of spiræas left over, while rhododendrons and good azaleas were on the short side. There was a marked shortage of small decorative stock, and baskets of plants were again conspicuously absent. In cut flowers there was no shortage, nor any great oversupply. One of the principal rose growers said he filled all orders, but was glad there were no more, and this about sizes up the situation.

Club Meeting.

The usual monthly meeting of the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society was held in Kruckeberg's hall, April 6. Everyone present was sorry to hear that Secretary Hal Kruckeberg had met with an accident, spraining his back, but his place was taken by his father, H. W. Kruckeberg.

The topic for the evening, "Florists' Plants," was ably handled by James Taylor, of the Homer Laughlin ranch at Hollywood. Mr. Taylor, while referring to many other plants, mentioned particularly Begonia Gloire de Lorraine and similar kinds, cyclamens and cinerarias. His lecture, while short, was pithy and full of good, practical advice, and was listened to with the greatest interest. An interesting discussion, in which W. W. Felgate, J. Robertson, W. Hunt, Fred Howard and others took part, followed the lecture.

On the table were choice amaryllis blooms sent by Howard & Smith, a splendid specimen cineraria from W. W. Felgate, of Sierra Madre, and some excellent cyclamens grown and exhibited by Mr. Taylor.

A number of new members were initiated. J. Grant, forester for Orange county, drove up from Santa Ana with a party of friends and there was an excellent attendance. A rising vote of thanks was given the lecturer and exhibitors.

Various Notes.

In one day last week Murata & Co. handled 1,500 Easter lilies in pots, besides great quantities of the cut blooms.

W. W. Felgate, gardener for Dr. Barlow, of Sierra Madre, and vice-presiden of the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society, is now chairman of the park commissioners of that charming foothill town and was recently elected school trustee. "Billy" polled 109 votes; the next highest candidate, seventy-nine.

An immense rhododendron, splendidly flowered, was one of the attractions for Easter at the store of the Morris & Snow Seed Co., on Main street.

At H. W. Turner's the new dwarf rose, George Elgar, is a delight. Mr. Turner has potted on some young stock into 6-inch pots and they are about fifteen inches across, covered with the pretty yellow flowers so unusual in this class of rose. As a pot plant it is perfect, for the flowers appear on every bit of young growth when only a few inches high. Mr. Turner's plants are so delightfully fresh and the foliage so good that one cannot help admiring them, both from a cultural point of view and for their delicate beauty.

It is so usual in this section to place a big house on a small lot that it is refreshing to come across the opposite and find a small house in the center of a large and lovely garden. This is the case at Lionel Armstrong's place at Sunny Slope, between Pasadena and San Gabriel, where Karl Lipman ably presides over the garden. Mr. Armstrong is one of the liberal patrons of the trade and Mr. Lipman's knowledge of plants and their effective grouping conduces to the splendid results attained.

One of the finest plants ever introduced is undoubtedly Howard & Smith's new verbena, Crimson King. The flowers are of the richest crimson and the trusses are magnificent, built well up and extra large. The effect of this grand plant in the mass is splendid. The Montebello nursery is looking its best now and a fine display will be kept up for a long time. The Easter display at the retail store, at Ninth and Olive streets, was in every respect a magnificent one and practically all the stock was home-grown. There was a constant rush of people during the three days before Easter and an immense business was done.

H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

On the whole, the Easter trade was satisfactory, especially to the retailers, who were rather more cautious than usual in their purchases and had little left over. Some of the growers did not clean out the stock forced for Easter quite as well as they hoped, but on the average they came out well. The rambler roses fulfilled all expectations; even the large pieces, retailing up to $25, were well cleaned out. Good potted lilies were a little scarce toward the last, though the cut stock was not so largely used as in some former seasons.

This week business has dropped off again and cut flowers of all kinds are plentiful, with prices in general rather easy. There is still a big cut of lilies, which find little demand. Among the most popular items this week are the fine long-stemmed Darwin tulips, which are abundant and cheap, quality considered; also iris, which is becoming rather plentiful, and lilacs, which are arriving in great quantities and moving off likewise. Basket arrangements of ranunculus find a good sale, either alone or in combinations. Some striking displays of peonies are shown. Roses are abundant and good, but move slowly. Some notably fine Beauties are offered. Cecile Brunner is cheaper, with a large crop coming in. Ordinary carnations are hard to move, as the supply is somewhat excessive and the demand limited. Sweet peas are steadily becoming more plentiful and do not move readily at present. Spiræa has been coming in for several weeks and is well received. Really first-class gardenias are scarce. Orchids are coming in a little faster, but the supply is still moderate. A lot of fruit blossoms are still being used.

Various Notes.

Owing to the Easter rush, the monthly meeting of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, scheduled for April 3, was postponed to April 10.

The Luther Burbank Co. has closed a deal for the purchase of the J. E. Rodgers ranch of thirty-eight acres near Martinez, and Rollo Hough, of the company, announces that he will make his residence on the property and conduct it as a demonstration station.

The Market.

Easter trade being over, business is again back to normal. The consensus of opinion is that Easter business was not equal to that of the last few years. Expectations were, on account of the exposition at San Francisco, that it would be a boom for the florists, but in fact it was the reverse. Plants, basket arrangements and lilies were the best sellers. Cut flower sales were slow and, in fact, a severe blow to some who had a heavy supply. Violets were scarce, with no demand. Roses and tulips sold well. Carnations did not move at all. There was no attempt to raise the prices of stock. The present week greens are plentiful, but move slowly. Spanish iris, in various colors, is being offered. Ranunculi, daisies, sweet peas and tulips are in profusion. Daffodils are out of the market. Kaiserin roses are coming in and move well. Peonies are to be had in limited quantities.

Various Notes.

J. A. Carbone, of Berkeley, has a heavy cut of Cattleya Mossiæ. His houses are a solid mass of flowers. Some plants have more than a hundred flowers on them.

E. James had a fine lot of azaleas, ramblers, rhododendrons and hydrangeas for Easter, which he readily disposed of.

G. Rossi & Bros. report business satisfactory, especially shipping trade.

E. R. C.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Easter did not fulfill the expectations of the trade and more stock was left on hand than has been the case for a number of years. Some of the stores did well and one or two almost cleared up, but the majority had more stock left over than could be cared for by ensuing trade. If ever there was a year when lilies were a drug, it was this year. The quantity of them, and the price of them, and the miserable way in which they were displayed on fruit stands, in drug stores and department stores, and thrown around in all kinds of promiscuous places—all of this did anything but accelerate their sale. The people who buy the most flowers do not want them to be too common and at this Easter the best buyers were looking for other flowers than lilies. There was good sale for carnations and roses and none too many of either. Quantities of good daffodils were on hand and most of them were sold. Good azaleas were meeting with a good demand. Pots of tulips sold fairly well. Lily of the valley was more in evidence than previously. One or two of the storekeepers took unoccupied stores for their displays and the showing in all of them was fully up to the average, but the resulting tale of the cash register, in all but a few cases, was behind former years.

Various Notes.

Frank J. Bell and Arthur Byer have taken over the store of the H. Harrington Co., on Fourth avenue. Mr. Beal, who has long had the management of the retail part of the Harrington business, has retired and the new firm will carry it on as formerly. Mr. Byer has been in the employ of the Harrington Co. for some years and bears a good reputation in the trade, and Frank Bell, the well known Brighton grower, expects to facilitate the sale of the varied assortment of flowers he now handles by taking an interest in the store business. The Harrington Co. had a first-class record as one of the leading stores of this town, and while the retirement of the firm is a loss to the trade, let us hope that the successors may, as they evidently intend, carry on the business in the same good style.

FRED GROHE, R. D. 4, SANTA ROSA, CAL.

establishment on Third avenue report a good Easter business, with the proceeds in excess of Easter in 1914. They were not overstocked with lilies or any other of the usual Easter flowers; consequently, on Monday morning they looked as if Easter were over, instead of about to commence, as was the case in some places.

Rosaia Bros. had a fine trade at their Third avenue place and their reënforced staff was kept busy all the time. They had an immense stock and had to acquire an additional store on Second avenue to accommodate it all.

Miss Burns had a big supply of Easter lilies and did a good business, though the prevalence of these flowers was evident.

The Paris Florist, in expectation of the usual Easter rush, took a store on the opposite side of Pike street, which, like their regular establishment, was well stocked with good flowers. Mr. Matria reports business hardly up to that of former years.

The Crescent Flower Store, in its limited space, got fully the average sale of flowers, but prices had to be cut in some cases to meet the competition.

The Hollywood Gardens had a large stock and were advertising lilies and other flowers at low rates.

The most notable flowers seen here this Easter were the French hydrangeas. Of these, some excellent plants were displayed, proving the adaptability of these plants for Easter trade. T. W.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Ideal weather Easter Sunday and for the half-week previous favored the florists, and a large volume of Easter business was done. Lilies and corsage flowers were the best sellers. The demand for orchids was fair. Large pans of lilies and expensive basket arrangements were not so popular as lower priced items. The number of sales was probably greater than usual, but the amount realized was somewhat less. Prices showed no advance over the figures which had been maintained since midwinter. The public appreciated the opportunity to purchase Easter flowers at prices in some lines twenty-five per cent below what they were accustomed to pay, and the result was a good clean-up of stock at the stores. Cut flowers of all sorts were all sold, and not more than a normal supply of potted plants was left over. The wholesale growers disposed of everything they had ready and some report that they had orders which they could not fill. The retail seed houses which carried potted plants found ready sale for them.

Last week there was a noticeable increase in the number of social events, and during the latter half there has been an unusually large demand for funeral designs. There is plenty of cut stock coming in, and the quality is good. Bedding plants are moving from the wholesale growers into the hands of the retailers. Hardy perennials are selling well, but the dealers are not pushing tender varieties, fearing a change from the present warm weather. Outdoor flowers are more plentiful; dogwood, wild currant, flowering almond, lilacs and a few varieties of outside roses. Unless all signs fail,

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

President, H. B. Chase, Chase, Ala.; Vice-president, E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia.; Secretary, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treasurer, Peter Youngers, Geneva, Neb.

Fortieth annual meeting, Detroit, Mich., June 23 to 25, 1915.

W. L. FERNALD, of Eliot, Me., has been on a short visit to Charlotte, N. C. Hardy perennials are Mr. Fernald's specialty.

AFTER forty years of service, James Kelley has left the employ of Stephen Hoyt's Sons Co., New Canaan, Conn. He will take contracts for landscape work and trimming and planting trees and shrubbery.

TWICE the quantity of last year's imports have been received by Paul M. Hubbard & Co., whose Pinehurst Nurseries are about one mile and one-half from Bristol, Conn. The concern has been established six years.

NURSERYMEN who use the mails to send plants should read the explanation of the postoffice regulations for carrying out the provision for the terminal inspection of plants sent by mail, under the head "Inspection of Mailed Plants," in this issue.

TENNESSEE nurserymen say business has been better this season than they had anticipated, and there is little surplus stock in that part of the country at present. Collections have been slow, but are coming in faster now. There will be little change in the acreage planted this season from that of last.

A BILL has been introduced in the Iowa legislature by Representative Craven, of Jasper county, to regulate the sale of nursery stock so that buyers may be certain that they are getting stock true to name. Mr. Craven says he "expects to make it possible for a fruit grower to get the kind of trees he wants to buy." A similar bill was introduced last session by Senator Malmberg, also of Jasper county, which was lost in the closing rush.

NINE acres of land at $2,500 and seven acres at $2,000 per acre have been purchased by the Delaware County Orchard & Nursery Co., of Delaware, O. The land is being prepared for planting. A greenhouse will be erected this spring. At a recent stockholders' meeting J. C. Vergon was reëlected president, C. O. Allen was chosen secretary and Ward Smith treasurer. The directors elected were W. S. Patton, Wesley Gross, W. S. Pollock, C. G. Rose, C. C. Cowgill, Henry Yates and W. N. Noble.

THE Brigham Nursery Co. and the Intermountain Nursery Co., both of Brigham, Utah, have been compelled to throw thousands of apple trees on the waste pile because of the lack of a market for them in their territory. Increased plantings of apple trees in the last few years have, it is thought, resulted in an oversupply and consequent poor market. Of peach stock, on the other hand, there appears to be a shortage.

IT is estimated that in the immediate vicinity of Geneva, N. Y., there are over 2,500 acres devoted to the growing of nursery stock. The land is valued at approximately $375,000, and the investment represented is estimated to be above the million mark. The annual

Hill's Specimen Evergreens for Landscape Planting

These trees are all perfect specimens, having good roots owing to frequent transplanting. Always freshly and carefully dug. No extra charge for Ball and Burlap. To satisfy the increasing demand for trees to give quicker results, a large portion of our Nursery is devoted to growing of Specimen Evergreens to be handled with Ball and Burlap. This stock is all grown in wide rows with plenty of room to develop both root and top. Each tree is staked to insure symmetrical growth and at regular intervals throughout the growing season trimming and pruning is done by men of long experience in this line. We keep this stock on the move also, transplanting every two years, as a root system can be developed in no other way, and in Evergreens roots are the basis of success.

SPRAYING SHADE TREES.

I have a large number of forest trees, including oak, ash, lime, maple, etc., which I wish to spray at once, while they are still dormant. What would you recommend as a good mixture for this purpose? I also want a mixture to use for spraying the same trees after they are in leaf. T. J.—Mo.

For San Jose and other scales, which attack many shrubs, some trees and nearly all fruits, a spraying of the lime-sulphur solution or one of the soluble oils, such as Scaline or Scalecide, should be given while the trees are perfectly dormant. The trees you name are not troubled by these pests, so far as I am acquainted; nevertheless, such a spraying will do them no harm and will kill eggs of various kinds and thus help to improve the trees. The oil solutions are to be preferred. Give the sprayings on clear days. Damp every portion of the bark, using a fine spray nozzle for the work. A proportion of fifteen or twenty parts of water to one of the oil solution is a safe strength to use. C. W.

PESTS ON IMPORTS.

The most important interception reported to the office of the federal horticultural board in the first two months of this year, according to the statement of C. C. Marlatt, chairman of the board, in news-letter No. 17, is the finding of egg masses of the gypsy moth on cedars from Japan, in California. Cocoons of the dagger moth have been detected on numerous occasions on miscellaneous nursery stock by inspectors of Ohio, North Carolina and Nebraska. This insect, the larvæ of which appear to be general feeders, is reported to have a wide distribution in Europe. Some 1,466 pear seedlings from France were found to be infested with the European pear scale by a North Carolina inspector.

The list of pests collected, accompanying the news-letter, shows little of importance. It may be remarked that, if the number of cases of infestation reported is at all proportionate to the size of the imports, there appears to have been no shrinkage in the importation of fruit stocks from France on account of the war. Holland, as is to be expected, is represented by the largest number of cases; France is not far behind, and Belgium and Japan closely follow. Cases of infestation in imports of other countries, with the ex-

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

The daily receipts have increased each day since Easter, until at the time of this writing the market is on the verge of a big glut. Business the early part of last week was pretty fair, but from the middle of the week the call for stock weakened perceptibly and caused a decided drop in prices. Those who run cheap specials were able to buy at prices that gave them a handsome percentage of profit.

Roses are plentiful. In addition to the normal increase from the regular shippers into the market, many extra shipments are coming in from those who ordinarily use their stock at home. American Beauties are in large supply. The carnation market has changed greatly in the last fortnight. Up to and through Easter carnations were rather short of the call, but since then they have become extremely plentiful. Sweet peas are excellent and can be had in quantity at low prices. Lilies are so plentiful the wholesalers are unable to maintain ordinary prices. Valley and orchids are fine and easily able to take care of every present need. Bulbous stock is selling slowly. Other offerings include snapdragon, forget-me-not, primrose and callas. Greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

At the meeting of the Cincinnati Florists' Society, April 5, R. Witterstaetter exhibited blooms of his new, dark pink sport of Tausendschon. The rose, from its general appearance and good color, is bound to be a winner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Critchell expect to move into their splendid new home in Rosehill during the present week.

E. G. Gillett reports that Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ohmer and son, Master James Ohmer, of West Palm Beach, Fla., intend to motor to this city next month.

Simon J. Hyder, of Hillsboro, O., was a visitor last week. C. H. H.

Binghamton, N. Y.—The Susquehanna Valley Greenhouse Co., capitalized at $20,000, has taken over from Fred A. Hutchins the greenhouses and property which he purchased from the bankrupt estate of James W. Shearer. Mr. Hutchins purchased the property for the sum of $3,000, assuming obligations against the property.

EASTER

Ossining, N. Y.—The F. R. Pierson Co., of Tarrytown, opened a branch store in the Cartwright building for Easter sales.

Bedford, Ind.—S. V. Williams, proprietor of the Williams Floral Co., says the Easter business was one-third greater than last year.

Salina, Kan.—Edward Tatro ran a full page ad in the Daily Union the Friday before Easter and did by far the largest business in his experience.

Suffern, N. Y.—Arthur F. Brownsell, proprietor of the Brownsell Greenhouses, at Haverstraw, N. Y., opened a branch store in the Christian building, on Lafayette avenue, for Easter.

Fort Smith, Ark.—George Rye, who is known locally as "Some Florist," added appreciably to his business reputation by using a half-page ad in the daily paper offering a dollar box for Easter. He took orders for fourteen boxes before noon of the day the ad appeared.

Waterbury, Conn.—Several of the florists here had extra stores for Easter. Alexander Dallas & Son occupied a store in the Buckingham building in addition to their regular establishment on Grand street. Saxe & Floto had the store at 72 East Main street besides the Bank street shop. Leary the Florist had, in addition to the store on South Main street, the former Ryan store on East Main street.

Roseburg, Ore.—According to Mrs. F. D. Owen, business is good and still improving, Easter trade having been the best ever. Cut flowers took first place. The trend seems to be toward small, low-priced plants; azaleas were too stiff in price for this market. Easter lilies led everything and were all sold early in the day. Afterwards callas and carnations were cleared. The latter went like the proverbial hot cakes.

New Haven, Conn.—Easter business was large, although the storm cut down cash sales. The snow made vehicular delivery service uncertain, and the retailers employed many boys to assist. S. H. Moore, 1054 Chapel street, put on four extra automobiles and twelve boys. Charles Munro, of 974 Chapel street, augmented his service with four wagons, three machines and twenty boys. Charles Myers, 936 Chapel street, had three cars, two wagons and sixteen boys. John M. Champion, 1026 Chapel street, put into service four machines, two teams and nearly fifty boys.

OPHELIA

A New Rose of True Worth

We have grown this magnificent rose the past season with most gratifying results. As a free and vigorous grower and great producer it has no equal. It sets bud freely in the short days of winter, and is now coming in with a heavy crop, doing equally well on grafts or own roots.

MRS. GEORGE SHAWYER is at present more favorably thought of than ever, and we intend to again plant it heavily this season. As a money getter, our experience has proven its superiority over all sorts, and having grown extensively on own roots and grafts, we have no hesitancy in stating that, like Sunburst, it does better on own roots.

We have a splendid lot of both varieties (grafts and own roots) ready for shipment, together with a choice lot of Sunburst, Ward, Prince d'Arenberg, White and Pink Killarney, cuttings taken from sand the latter part of December. For prices and further particulars write

We Offer for Immediate Delivery

Good, strong, well established plants in 2¼-inch pots of the exceedingly VALUABLE NEW ROSES

Ophelia, Francis Scott Key and Prince E. C. d'Arenberg

Growers will find all of these valuable additions to the list of standard varieties. They have been tested thoroughly and have been found to have exceptional value.

OPHELIA

No fancy rose ever introduced possesses so many excellent qualities. It is a splendid grower, a very free bloomer and has fine stems. It sells on sight. The demand undoubtedly will exceed the supply. Anticipating the large demand, we have propagated it extensively.

Strong plants on own roots. 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY

This variety, raised by Mr. John Cook, is very distinct, being entirely different from any of the indoor roses grown today. Flowers are rosy red and are unusually large and double, resembling very much a very full, double, hardy garden rose. Coupled with its large size and double form, it is an exceedingly free bloomer. It promises to be exceedingly valuable, especially for spring, summer and fall flowering, when other less double roses are difficult to handle. Its keeping qualities are remarkable.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

PRINCE E. C. D'ARENBERG

This variety might well have been termed a Red Killarney, as it possesses so many of the good qualities of the Killarneys. In color the flowers are similar to Richmond, but they are much more double, and it should prove a very much more profitable rose. Flowers have fine, straight stems on all the grades—from the shortest to the longest. It has fine foliage, comes away quickly and is even a freer bloomer than the Killarneys. We believe it is the best all-round red rose that we have today.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $12.00 per 100, $90.00 per 1000.

WE WILL BE GLAD TO QUOTE ON APPLICATION PRICES ON ALL THE NEWER AND STANDARD VARIETIES—STRONG, GRAFTED PLANTS READY NOW the spring season has opened at least two weeks earlier than usual.

PORTLAND NOTES.

Various Notes.

The April meeting of the Portland Floral Society will be held at Masonic Temple, Tuesday evening, April 20, at 8 o'clock. As this is the next to the last meeting of the society before the rose festival, the arrangements for the society's participation in the festival will be an important subject for consideration.

The Wilson & Crout Co. was short of lilies to fill Easter orders and sold out clean on other kinds of stock. A Studebaker delivery truck has been added to its equipment.

Jas. J. Karins, representing Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, called on the florists last week.

The Holden Floral Co. had no Easter stock left on its hands. Bedding and benched stock now occupies their attention.

The Swiss Floral Co. has purchased a motorcycle for light deliveries.

Some of the best sweet peas on the market come from the Martin & Forbes Co.

There is a shortage of pansy plants, as many were lost last winter.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

CONCRETE MAKES GOOD STACK.

Another instance of concrete's remarkable fire resistance was shown in connection with the recent fire at Sol Garland's greenhouses at Des Plaines, Ill. As it was impossible to get out the local fire fighting apparatus, the frame service building 20x200 and fourteen feet high was entirely destroyed, leaving standing only the reinforced concrete chimney shown in the accompanying illustrations. The small building shown in the photograph we have reproduced was built around this reinforced concrete chimney after the fire. One hundred tons of coal were stored immediately north of the chimney and this of course made a hot fire, which tested the chimney in an extraordinary manner.

This chimney was built in October, 1906, by Mr. Garland. It rests upon a concrete foundation eight feet square and two feet thick. The gravel was secured from the Des Plaines river. The chimney base is twenty feet high, seven feet square at the bottom, tapering to three feet square at the top. The walls are twelve inches thick. On top of this square base is the cylindrical portion of the chimney, which is forty feet high, with walls eight inches thick at the bottom, tapering to four inches at a point twenty feet from the top of the chimney. The last 20-foot portion has walls four inches thick.

A careful examination of the chimney made after the fire showed that no cracks whatever had been developed by the heat to which it had been subjected. This is but another evidence to the progressive florist of the value of concrete in connection with greenhouse construction. Not only is this material fireproof, but it requires no paint nor repairs and is practically everlasting.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

Joliffe wedding, working out an elaborate arrangement of Dorothy Perkins roses and orchids for the private car.

Geo. C. Roeding, the Fresno nurseryman, was in the city a few days ago.

The E. W. McLellan Co. is showing some unusually nice Beauty roses this week, with perfect flowers and foliage and stems six feet long. They are also showing some fine Frau Karl Druschki and Kaiserin roses.

The Hogan-Kooyman Co. has completed the mezzanine floor, which is now being used to accommodate the office and reserve supplies. The firm is now showing the first gladioli, Blushing Bride and Peach Blossom.

Mr. Olson, of the New Roserie, at California and Devisadero streets, made a great hit with his baskets, colored in pastel shades, for the Easter trade. He is keeping a good, large assortment of baskets, and believes it is good policy to have them lined to hold water, so the flowers will last a while. He says mixed boxes of spring flowers have been unusually popular this season.

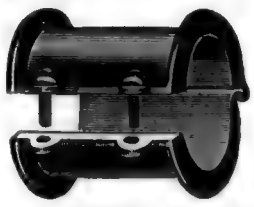
The Art Floral Co. is getting ready for a large decoration on Saturday for the celebration of the Indoor Yacht Club, in the Civic Center Auditorium. The large building will be treated in bower effect, with a lavish use of greens and blossoms.

Frank Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., brought in about 100 dozen fine lilies as the Easter crop from his nursery, and cleaned up practically all of them in his regular trade.

G. H. Evans, of the Jordan Park Floral Co., 323 Clement street, is getting weary of the close confinement and long indoor hours of the retail flower trade, and is preparing to spend most of the summer at his new country place near Occidental, where he expects to grow, not flowers, but rhubarb. The San Francisco store will, however, be maintained, for the present at least.



Alex. Mann, Jr., at 754 Clement street, is getting a nice little business from the residence district that has been built up north of the park since the fire. While his store is pretty well in the midst of this district, Mr. Mann considers his present location rather "out in the country," and says he takes less interest in general trade happenings than he used to.

His work is largely in the nature of gardening and planting contracts, and as that is a district of small homes, there are not many big jobs coming up, but he finds the business growing pretty steadily and is now selling a good deal of nursery stock.

He says the land is getting too valuable to be used as a wholesale growing establishment, and there seem to be opportunities in the retail line that would warrant the contemplated change. The Market.

After we have had time to review the situation it seems that Easter business was good, considering that about twelve inches of snow fell April 3. Innumerable orders for violets were canceled, as were orders for flowering plants for the cemeteries. Prices were about as usual, with the exception of lilies. On these there was a good deal of cutting. Some florists retailed them as low as 15 cents a bloom.

Various Notes.

Ernest Chamberlain says he can not indorse reports of slow sale for large azaleas, as he disposed of a great many fine plants.

Joseph V. Peirce did a good business at his stand in Lawton's drug store.

W. P. Peirce is one of the best artists in this city and his novelties in corsage bouquets are always attracting attention.

Post & Gray supplied a large number of corsages for the cotton ball, held in the state armory April 8.

The New Bedford Horticultural Society held its monthly meeting in the Library building April 5. In the absence of President Roy, the vice-president, Frank C. Barrows, presided. The schedule committee reported that everything was arranged for the coming season. The schedule is about the same as last year, with the exception of a few changes in favor of the amateurs. There are a few more prizes offered this year than last, a number of local merchants having offered cups. Edward Enos was elected to membership. The annual banquet of the society was held April 8 at the Parker House. There were seventy-seven present. The guest of honor was Congressman Walsh. After the dinner Mr. Walsh, President Roy and Vice-president Barrows addressed the gathering briefly. Then followed a pleasing musical program.

H. V. Sowle has recently purchased a new auto for delivery purposes.

RADIUM MAKES THINGS GROW

Every florist who sells Radium Brand Fertilizer (R. A. F.) can add to his profits. It is in handy package form, easily displayed, and has the greatest selling argument in the world back of it—the fact that it has Radium in it. One pound will fertilize 50 sq. ft., or a plot 5x10 ft.

In addition to its wonderful beneficial effects, it has been discovered that where Radium Brand Fertilizer (R. A. F.) was used, plants suffered less from soil parasites, e ly cutworms.

This Free Book tells how Radium makes things grow.

PAPER POTS AND DIRT BANDS

Our Square Paper Dirt Bands are the original of all that are on the market today. All others being sold are imitations of these we advertise, and some of the imitations being sold are made of cheap paper, costing only about half as much as our heavy stock. We sell no experiments. Ours have been tried out by long use in the greenhouse. They will stand up in any wet and heat as long as wanted. Samples of all sizes FREE.

"I had some of your paper pots last year. I want more this year."—W. R. Wissinger, Homer City, Pa.

"We used 10,000 of your paper Dirt Bands last Spring and we like them. They are just the thing. Please give us prices on 40,000 or 50,000."—S. K. Green Co., Paris. Ill.

"Ten thousand paper pots came duly to hand. We are enclosing check for 15,000 more. Kindly rush them out as before."—L. A. Budlong Company (700-acre gardens), Chicago, Ill.

"Please ship immediately 150,000 2-in. Dirt Bands and 20,000 3-in. Dirt Bands."—B. B. Dilks, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Could you ship me by freight at once 15,000 more 2-in. Dirt Bands and 5000 3-in. Dirt Bands? I like them very much."—H. B. Weaver, Bird-in-Hand, Pa. (Mr. Weaver grows Carnations, Mignonettes, Sweet Peas and Cut Flowers. He got 5000 2-in. Dirt Bands in December, 40,000 in January, 20,000 in March last year, and we have just shipped him 70,000 more.)

"I have now about 14,000 Carnation plants started in 2-in. bands which are making a RAPID GROWTH, scarcely losing a plant in transplanting from the sand.

I also have about 20,000 Aster plants transplanted in 2-in. bands, which can stay there till time to plant out-of-doors WITHOUT FEAR OF BECOMING ROOT BOUND, as would be the case if I used 2-in. pots.

Plants SELDOM BECOME ROOT BOUND enough to injure them IN THE DIRT BANDS, and DO NOT REQUIRE NEAR THE AMOUNT OF ATTENTION that a pot plant does, in watering, shifting, transplanting, etc.

I believe anyone using these bands ONCE WILL BECOME A REGULAR CUSTOMER."—H. B. Weaver, Bird-in-Hand, Pa.

"We note friend H. B. Weaver's testimonial. Coming from a man like H. B. Weaver, it is WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD."—James Brown, Jr., Florist, Coatesville, Pa.

"Tomato plants which without your Pots sell here at $1.00 per 100, raised in your Pots sell at $4.00 per 100."—The Dalles Floral Company, The Dalles, Oregon.

"From about 2700 Tomato plants I picked 1140 MARKETABLE CRATES of Tomatoes, which brought me $600."—D. B. Moses, Purchase, N. Y.

"Tomato plants raised in the 4-inch size sell readily at FIVE CENTS EACH."—W. J. Symonds & Son, Decorah, Ia.

"Your Paper Pots gave better plants than clay pots and sold at Double Price."—Mt. Gilead Floral Co., Mt. Gilead, Ohio.

"BANDS WILL GIVE BETTER PLANTS THAN POTS." (Clay Pots.)—F. B. Murdock & Co., Kingston, Pa.

"We got BETTER PLANTS, BIGGER PLANTS AND PLANTS WHICH WERE HEALTHIER AND MORE VIGOROUS THAN IN CLAY POTS."—Wm. Schruers, Gardener, Oil City, Pa.

"We find that WATERING ALONE SAVES TIME ENOUGH TO PAY OVER CLAY POTS, and with proper handling there is NO QUESTION BUT A BETTER PLANT CAN BE GROWN."—H. Russell & Son, Market Gardeners, Boonville, New York.

"I find them SUPERIOR TO EARTHEN POTS IN EVERY CASE, requiring about half the water—at least that is the case after the sun gets well back and very drying."—W. L. Leeka, Fairmount, Ill.

"We grew Tomato plants and Chrysanthemum plants in your Dirt Bands last year and they proved VERY SATISFACTORY AND CHEAP, A GREAT SAVING OVER CLAY POTS."—L. M. Smith & Co., Laurel Greenhouses, Laurel, Del.

"They do not dry out as fast as clay pots and MAKE BETTER PLANTS in the same length of time. They hold the plants longer in fine condition without getting yellow than clay pots. They are also better for shipping plants, as they are light and pack better than clay pots."—Evan R. Miller, Florist, Bridgeton, N. J.

"All worked very satisfactory and they DO NOT REQUIRE THE ATTENTION THAT SMALL POTS DO. We certainly like Dirt Bands."—Reimers Bros., Rapid City, S. D.

"Please ship us 200,000 2½-inch Dirt Bands."—Hudson River Orchards Co., Saugerties, New York.

"We were well pleased with the Dirt Bands we got. Our Asters are GROWING FINE in them."—Koopmann Bros., Davenport, Iowa.

"We used the Paper Pots last year for Coleus and found the plants GROW SO MUCH FASTER than those in clay pots."—E. P. Houston, Lowellville, Ohio. (The roots of plants are pumps. They had twice as much soil to pump substance from and could not help grow faster.)

"We have tried these pots and THINK THEY ARE THE FINEST THING OUT."—E. E. Keener, Florist and Rooted Cutting Specialist, Little River, Kansas.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The Market.

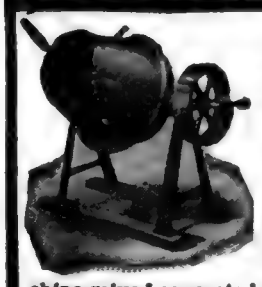
Bulbous stock is equal to the market. Roses are beginning to bloom quite freely, and other flowers are in keeping with the market. Easter business, though good, was not as large as expected, many florists having Easter lilies and azaleas left over.

Club Meeting.

The Minneapolis Florists' Club met April 6. The committee on the flower show decided upon having the exhibition in the main dining room of the West hotel, next November.

A special committee was appointed to visit the newspapers about the price of Easter lilies published Easter. They advertised that Easter lilies could be bought at 20 cents per bloom, when the standard price was 25 cents. This article was not an advertisement, but was inserted by the newspapers.

A vote was put before the club, and it was decided not to insert a Mothers' day advertisement in the newspapers but to paste stickers on every package going out of all the flower shops, reminding customers of flowers for Mothers' day, May 9. The committee on this subject is to report at the next meeting.



Various Notes.

An account of the meeting of the Minnesota State Florists' Association, April 8, will be found on another page of this issue. C. B. L.

UTICA, N. Y.

One of the strong contestants for the prize offered by the Chamber of Commerce for the best decorated window during fashion show week recently was the Utica Floral Co., 212 Genesee street. Baskets of cut flowers, corsage and shower bouquets and two large funeral pieces composed the decoration. This company reports that it practically doubled the Easter trade of a year ago. All flowers sold well, but the lead was taken by corsage bouquets of violets, sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

DENVER.

The Market.

After several weeks of rain and cold, we are now enjoying real spring weather. The weather at Easter was ideal and everybody did a good business. Nearly all the stores had sold out their stock by noon. It was a tired but happy crowd of florists that wended their way homeward in the early afternoon. One thing I noticed during Easter afternoon was that most of the ladies in the "Easter parade" wore corsages of real flowers, instead of artificial ones. A good habit; let us all hope that the ladies will keep it up.

Roses and carnations are plentiful and of good quality. Tulips, hyacinths and jonquils are about over. There will be plenty of Darwin tulips outdoors in a week or ten days. Valley, mignonette, forget-me-nots, sweet peas, pansies and iris are plentiful and good. Some of the Herrick violets are the finest I have ever seen. Easter lilies and callas are scarce. Orchids are plentiful, but there is no call for them.

Various Notes.

Anton C. Zvolanek, the well known sweet pea specialist, of Lompoc, Cal., on his way to the coast stopped over in Denver for a few days last week to renew old acquaintances.

Fred Burki, president of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., visited some of Denver's greenhouse establishments last week. He has been spending the winter in California and is now on his way to his home in the east. R. S.

Fremont, O.—Joseph Wetzel and E. H. Stout have purchased the greenhouses of the Clyde Floral Co., at Clyde, O., which have been conducted by Leo. P. Wagner, who also has a range at Sandusky. Mr. Stout will take charge of the greenhouses, while Mr. Wetzel will continue to attend to his store on Arch street.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Market.

The Easter trade in this city was away below the average. The local trolleymen went on a strike March 30. No cars except those carrying the mail were seen until April 1, when most of the lines resumed their work. This, of course, was a great setback for the florists. Friday, April 2, was a fair day, and things began to boom. However, this was too good to last long, and Saturday the snow storm covered the ground with a fall of from eight to twelve inches. Easter morning dawned bright and fair, but one would have thought it a winter's day instead of an April morning. The result of it all was that many plants and flowers were left over to be disposed of in any way possible.

Funeral work has been quite plentiful since Easter, and has helped to use up some of the left-over stock.

Easter lilies were fine and brought from 20 to 25 cents a bloom. Roses, pink and white, were $1.50 per dozen; red ones from $2 to $3. Violets were $1.50 per hundred; sweet peas, 35 to 50 cents a bunch of twenty-five; tulips, 50 to 75 cents per dozen; daffodils, 50 to 60 cents; carnations, 75 cents and $1 per dozen; azaleas, $1 to $5 apiece.

Business in the last week, like the weather, has brightened up. General business has been good, and funeral work plentiful. Stock of all kinds is plentiful and sells well. All the retailers report a fine business following Easter.

These drawings show you the inside and outside of the Silver Stream Nozzle, enlarged five times. The metal at the opening is less than 1-32d of an inch thick.

Our New Silver Stream Nozzle
Its Throw and Non-clogging Points

THE water, as it leaves this new outdoor nozzle, is absolutely clear. It looks like a stream of molten silver. That's why we called it the Silver Stream.

The stream is clear, because the wall of the nozzle opening is so short and highly burnished, that friction is reduced to a point so small that it scarcely exists.

The burnishing of each nozzle opening is done by a finely constructed machine of such high accuracy that each opening is exactly alike and entirely free from any rough points to which any clogging matter can cling.

This getting of our nozzle down to almost the fineness of watch making, just doubles our manufacturing cost. But this reduction of our immediate profit is of small importance in comparison to the results secured.

A COMPARISON

Have you ever been one of two or three who have tried to crowd your way up to a ticket office, through a passage that, at the start, was wide enough for all three, but suddenly narrowed down so it was only wide enough for one of you?

If you have, you know exactly what happens to any sediment that enters a nozzle having a funnel-shaped opening.

If you want a thing to wedge fast, you make it wedge shaped, just like the funnel-shaped nozzles.

ANOTHER COMPARISON

To return to the ticket office comparison again — if you compare in your mind a crowd that is not confined by any railing, but where each one can go right up to the window as his turn comes and then pass quickly and easily on out of the way of those behind, you will have an exact picture of what happens to any dirt that might have a tendency to clog up our Silver Stream Nozzle. Instead of wedging itself fast, the flow of the water simply carries it right on, past the opening.

This inside view of a piece of pipe shows just how far the curved end of the nozzle extends into the water, and makes it plain as day why any sediment would be carried past instead of into the opening.

SCALE CLOGGING

The strainer in the Turning Union prevents dirt from reaching the nozzles; but no matter how fine a screen is used, it cannot overcome the scale in the pipes from being carried to the nozzles. It's scale that causes nine-tenths of nozzle clogging troubles.

HOW TO CLEAN NOZZLE

Pressure of a finger on a Silver Stream Nozzle, opening the valve at end of line, or any other method changing the flow of the stream or reducing its pressure, will clear the nozzle of any scale.

The day of sticking pins in nozzles to clean them is past.

IN CONCLUSION

So, you see what a plain, commonsense nozzle this new Silver Stream Nozzle of ours is. It's so plain and so simple, you wonder why we hadn't thought of it years ago.

With nozzles, however, as with almost everything else, the simplest things are generally the best, but also the hardest to discover.

We want you to see this new nozzle, and try it out. Send us your name and address, and we will gladly send you a sample nozzle.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

STEPPING STONES TO SELLING SUCCESS

Success in selling is the backbone of business. The grower, wholesaler, commission man, etc., all are dependent on the salesmanship of the retailer. As this advances, so the trade as a whole, as well as the individual, advances. So the salesman helps more than himself by adding to his ability.

[A paper on "The Salesman," read by S. D. Dysinger, secretary of Holm & Olson, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., before the St. Paul Florists' Club.]

A GREAT many people are called salesmen who are only order clerks. They take orders that are given, without any effort on their part. The customer makes his own selection, and the order clerk writes it down. Sometimes the customer gives the order by telephone and sometimes in person, but in either event the clerk is merely a medium in transferring the order to the books of the concern, and creates no interest in the goods or the firm he represents. A great many so-called salesmen are of this class, and if they are with a popular concern, they pride themselves on being salesmen, when they have yet to learn the first principles of selling.

A Definition.

A salesman, as I define him, is a person who creates an interest in the goods he has to offer and in the concern which he represents; who sells goods because the person buying relies on his statements concerning them and goes away satisfied that he has been accorded courteous, honest and fair treatment; who makes a friend and permanent customer for the house and acts as a magnet in drawing trade; who, even if he does not make a sale, leaves a lasting impression on the mind of the person calling. With this crude definition of a salesman, what are the necessary attributes?

He must be of neat and pleasing appearance. He should be well dressed—not expensively dressed, but have clean, neat clothes. He should keep his person clean; water and soap are cheap and effective for this purpose. His hair should be in order. He should not smoke during business hours. His breath should never be tainted with tobacco or liquor fumes during the hours that he is engaged in waiting on trade.

He should approach his customer in a pleasing manner. First impressions are often lasting ones, and a salesman will always endeavor to have them good ones. If you enter a place of business and are met by a clerk in a hurried, say-it-quick-or-never manner, you will feel like its being never. On the other hand, if a clerk waits for you to approach him, without a nod of recognition, you feel that you are being snubbed. There is the quiet way, that suggests neither hurry nor inattention, but shows a gentlemanly, deferential attention to you and your wants, which is the one most people like.

No matter how busy a salesman is on the floor, he should always have time to talk to each and every customer he approaches, in a pleasant and intelligent manner, answering all questions and giving all possible attention until the sale is made.

As you approach a customer you must unconsciously form some opinion of that person, and intuitively learn what to say and when to say it. No two persons are just alike. The eye, the inclination of the head, the air as you approach, the speech, all must be studied, and, in your mind's eye, you must quickly form some opinion of your customer, his likes and dislikes, and govern yourself accordingly. After your customer has made his first purchase, the ice will be broken for further acquaintance, and you can study the individual likes and dislikes of your patron.

Cultivate Confidence.

You should ever be on the alert to please your customer and suggest his trying something else. Endeavor to establish a bond of intimacy between you, so that he will rely on your judgment and have confidence in you. When you once get a customer's complete confidence, you need not fear losing his trade. A large proportion of the people who enter a florist's establishment to buy, do not know exactly what they want. It is the salesman's business to make them feel that they want what he wishes to sell them. I do not mean by this that the salesman should sell them Easter lilies for a corsage bouquet, or violets for a large funeral spray. But the salesman should know his stock, what he has in surplus and what he most desires to sell, and should aim to dispose of the stock that is in surplus and will not keep. In other words, if you have a large supply of red roses, talk red roses; if you have white roses, talk white roses, or if roses are scarce and carnations plentiful, talk carnations, always keeping in mind that you must not force goods onto a customer if you know they will not please

It is the salesman's business to make them feel that they want what he wishes to sell them. I do not mean by this that the salesman should sell them Easter lilies for a corsage bouquet, or violets for a large funeral spray. But the salesman should know his stock, what he has in surplus and what he most desires to sell, and should aim to dispose of the stock that is in surplus and will not keep. In other words, if you have a large supply of red roses, talk red roses; if you have white roses, talk white roses, or if roses are scarce and carnations plentiful, talk carnations, always keeping in mind that you must not force goods onto a customer if you know they will not please him for the particular purpose for which he wants them.

Be truthful at all times. Never exaggerate; never promise things you know you cannot supply. Nothing undermines a customer's confidence in you and your house more quickly than an untruth or an unkept promise. If you are unable to give a customer desired information, ask others. If you cannot give it, tell the customer so frankly. Don't prevaricate. I know that some people pride themselves on making good sales by "stretching the truth." Don't do it, as it will only make you trouble in the end.

Courtesy to all, both rich and poor, high and low, should be exercised by every salesman. Some people are extremely fussy and hard to please. They try the patience of a Job, and then some. You will never be an ideal salesman until you can control your temper at all times, and when you once please a fussy person, you have not only made a customer for life, but have controlled your own self, which means much for future success. If a poorly dressed person comes in, treat him with as much deference, politeness and courtesy as you would a millionaire. He has money to spend and may have many friends with whom a word will go a long way. If children are sent to purchase, treat them with even more courtesy than you would others, and be sure you sell them right.

Probably more important than all other things is to know your goods. Use all your spare moments in studying your stock. Find out all you can; how flowers and plants are grown, their season, what is the cost of their production, where they are grown, and a thousand other points of information that may be picked up. Be observing, be studious; when you once know your goods thoroughly, you can talk intelligently and answer all questions truthfully.

After the goods are sold, see to it that they are put up right. A sale is never really completed until the goods are in the hands of the customer and that customer is pleased with the whole transaction. In this day of modern merchandising, the manner of packing and the effect produced when the goods are received and opened are secondary only to the goods themselves. This is especially true of flowers, which lend themselves to many pleasing arrangements and combinations.

Be Busy and Behave.

After you have followed me thus far, it seems unnecessary for me to say, "Be industrious." I have never yet been in a greenhouse or flower store where there was not some necessary thing to be done. The arrangement of the flowers in the windows and show cases is a never-ending study. It demonstrates some of your ability as a salesman. Sometimes on account of their display, the flowers sell themselves, and you become only the order clerk when the customer calls. When business is slack prepare for the rush, and when the rush comes you will be in better shape for it.

No matter what your conduct may be outside of business, aim to have it perfect during business hours. Don't talk loudly or use profane language. Don't drink, don't chew, don't smoke—be as good as you know how. You are dealing with all kinds of people, and mere trifles will often turn some people away who might otherwise become good customers. Be gentlemanly at all times to your employer and fellow employees, and remember that mere trifles make up the grand sum of human experience. Be "on your toes" and on your good behavior at all times, in order to win trade for yourself and your house.

In writing these thoughts, I have intended them to apply to everyone in the business connected in any way with selling goods, whether employer or employee, whether a greenhouseman selling all his stock himself or the proprietor of the largest store relying on his clerks. The greatest factor in building up any business, large or small, is salesmanship. If we do not sell the goods, we do not do the business. And every branch of the business should be controlled by this thought, that satisfied customers are the greatest asset any business ever had.

RETAIL STORE MANAGEMENT

WHAT THE LEADERS IN THE TRADE ARE DOING

GROUCHINESS A LIABILITY.

Everything in a florist's shop should be harmonious. That is a place where one naturally expects to find the beautiful. The better the shop, the more the store and its equipment should harmonize with the goods offered for sale. Courteous treatment of those who enter the store, by proprietor, salesmen and errand boys, is essential to the creating of an atmosphere of harmony, which can be felt by all who come into the place. A grouch breaks this harmony and tends to repel prospective customers.

Other things being equal, people will go where they are treated courteously. They will often go out of their way to deal with a merchant who takes a kindly interest in their needs and tries to satisfy those needs rather than sell something. Surly demeanor is out of place in any store and inimical to the best interest of the business, but in a florist's shop it is doubly harmful. As a single instrument out of tune will spoil the most beautiful symphony, or a single false stroke destroy what would otherwise be a masterpiece of art, so a grouch will dispel the atmosphere of harmony and beauty which should pervade all high-class florists' shops.

One who is grouchy by spells is as bad for the business as the perpetual grouch, for people do not relish being treated with the utmost respect on one visit to a store and on the next as if he were a worm in the dust. Just as truly as a wide-awake, attentive, courteous salesman is an asset to a store proprietor, so a grouch is a liability. To be continuously successful in business, one must eliminate liabilities as far as possible and add to one's assets.

MAKING A BRIDE'S BOUQUET.

Please inform me about the proper construction of the bride's bouquet, giving directions for the arrangement of the bouquet itself and also the shower effect. Is there a frame for such bouquets? Usually the valley and adiantum ferns are short-stemmed and difficulty is found in forming the high center and the rounding effect so desired. How much valley and adiantum will be needed for a bouquet with a top circumference of nine inches, and how much valley and fern for a shower in proportion? J. C. M.—Tex.

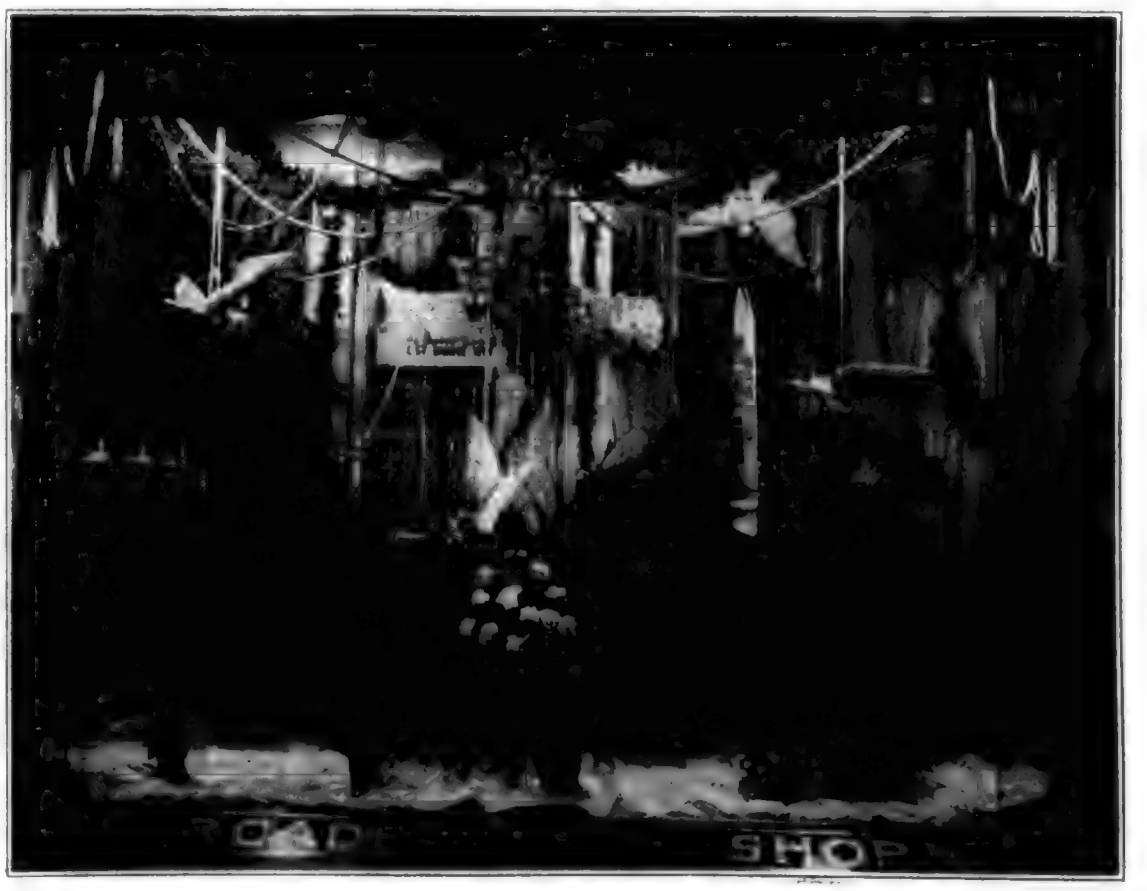
The number of valley required to make a shower bouquet, when no Bride roses are used in combination, varies from 150 to 200, according to the compactness desired. The loose arrangement, however, is more artistic. For the loose bunch, 150 valley and seventy-five adiantum would be required, and for the shower effect fifty additional valley and twenty-five adiantum. Four bolts of pure white No. 2 silk gauze, satin edge, or No. 2 satin ribbon, are used in the shower.

The first requisite for an artistic bride's bouquet is the selection of fresh, firm valley, and the proper wiring of the materials to be used. Use No. 20 wire, in 18-inch lengths, and wire the valley in clusters of three and four each, using a little valley foliage, but taking care to keep the foliage low, not more than an inch or two about the wire, while the full-length valley stem rises far above it, giving a delicate white effect to the bride's bunch and eliminating that green aspect which is so often seen in amateur arrangements. The long wires help to build the substantial but graceful center, so essential in creating a light, lacy effect. The adiantum should be wired in clusters of two or three sprays each, in the same way as the valley. Now begin with three of the clusters of the wired valley as a center, using green silkaline thread for binding, and keep adding cluster on cluster of the valley until the desired size is obtained. Care should be given to the spreading of the valley clusters as they are bound to the center. The shaping of the bouquet should also have careful attention in the process of building. Just a few sprays of adiantum are used here and there in the body of the bunch, the greater part being used as an edge, to give finish and a distinctive style to the bouquet proper.

Take off half bolts of No. 2 ribbon, form them into loops about thirty inches long and fasten together at the top with a knot of the same ribbon, leaving long enough ends with which to tie into the valley clusters of the bouquet proper. Now cut the loops in irregular lengths, varying from fourteen to thirty-six inches, and then tie sprays of valley with small sprays of adiantum into the irregular ribbons near the end of every other streamer until all of the fifty sprays of valley are tied in. This may be done either before or after the showers are tied into the bouquet. Another way of fastening the showers is by fastening one strand of ribbon, with irregular ends, to a wire and thrusting the wire into the firm part of the bunch, which holds it tightly. Then tie the valley sprays and the adiantum into the ribbons, after they have all been wired into the bouquet. The bunch may be set into a tall jar or vase while the shower is being adjusted.

In the stem, or handle, of the bunch no flower stems should be found, since it is intended for the wires only, which give a slender handle. This should be left about five inches long and should first be bound with tin foil and then wrapped with white satin ribbon. A full bow of white satin or gauze ribbon tied at the handle improves the bunch greatly. E. C. A.



KUMMER CAPTURES PRIZES.

Whenever the Retail Merchants' Association of Charleston, S. C., offers prizes for window decorations at the fall or spring openings, the organization has to give one to F. W. Kummer, proprietor of the Arcade Floral Shop, at 309 King street. There are three classes, the most artistic, the most unique, and the best lighted windows. At the time of the fall opening in 1913 and of the spring opening in 1914, Mr. Kummer was awarded second prize for the most unique window. This spring he took second prize for the most artistic window display. The displays at the two spring openings are shown in the accompanying illustrations. The competition for the half-dozen prizes is strong; about 100 merchants in all lines of business take part in the contest each year.

LARGEST BOTANICAL GARDEN.

Action was taken April 15 setting aside for the extension of the New York Botanical Garden the portion of Bronx park situated between the present boundary of the garden reservation and the northern side of Pelham avenue. This action of the city places the whole of Bronx park north of Pelham avenue within the management and control of the New York Botanical Garden, with the exception of three parcels of land east of the Bronx river, on which stand the greenhouses, barn, the old snuffmill used as a shop, and a bandstand, these areas being reserved for the use of the park department.

The original reservation, established in 1895, included 250 acres; the present grant adds more than 140, making the total area of the botanical garden nearly 400 acres. It is thus the largest botanical garden in the temperate zones.

Geraniums

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Stock for Bedding Out.

The time for selling geraniums will soon be here and every effort should be made to have the stock in as good a condition as possible. No matter how many geraniums are propagated each year, the demand always seems equal to or greater than the supply that is ready early in the season, something which cannot be said of any other bedding plants. There are growers today who are thousands short and who find it hard work to secure what they need. Geraniums are good property, as their popularity steadily increases.

The earliest propagated plants will be, or should be, in 4-inch pots. Keep them spaced apart from time to time and if they show any signs of starvation at the root, feed them judiciously. Do not use cow manure water. Such foods as Bon Arbor or fine bone will be found much better. Liquid from animal manures produces too soft a growth and the plants flower sparsely. We need a short-jointed, stocky growth if flowers are wanted.

Later propagated stock should be given its final potting now. Nice plants may be had in 3-inch pots. This size will not realize so much money as the fall propagated plants, but will pay fully as well.

Do not keep the geraniums too warm; 50 degrees at night is ample. Give an abundance of fresh air and remove faded trusses and bad foliage. Plan to have as many as possible of the plants in bloom by the time they are to be sold. Customers invariably prefer small plants with a truss open to larger plants without flowers.

The Leaf Disease.

There continues to be more or less trouble the country over with leaf disease on geraniums. Nearly everyone having this trouble reports that their own stock was clean, but that boughten stock developed disease. It looks as though some of our geranium specialists were not exercising all the care they might with their own stock. Cuttings are, no doubt, often left too long in the sand, or, if in small pots, are allowed to stand too crowded. Then these rooted cuttings are shipped long distances and, no matter how carefully packed, they will lose some of their foliage in transit. These weakened plants would naturally fall an easy prey to disease and, once it has appeared, it is not easy to check. Perfect cleanliness, plenty of fresh air and sun, care in watering, both at the root and overhead, frequent picking over and spacing apart, the discarding of badly affected plants and a temperature not exceeding 50 degrees at night will do more to alleviate the trouble than spraying, although Fungine and Bordeaux mixture are useful in combating the blight which causes spots on the leaves.

Since Easter it has been possible to give plants more room, but the Memorial day crops also demand much additional space. Where the grower has an ample supply of coldframes, geraniums from this time on will be found to thrive splendidly in them. In some sections it may still be found advisable to tramp a few inches of warm manure in the bottom and partly plunge the pots in this. This gives a gentle bottom heat and prevents drying out at the roots. Geraniums thus treated make a wonderful growth, and, being so close to the glass, the growth is stocky. It is also easy, by removing the sashes on hot days and mild nights, to gradually harden off the plants.

TOO WARM FOR GERANIUMS.

We are sending you some geranium leaves which look bad and we should like to have you tell us what is wrong. We have never had anything like it in our greenhouses until this spring. We have been buying geraniums from several concerns and think the trouble may have got into the greenhouses in this way. We are growing the geraniums in a fine, new, airy, greenhouse and they have had a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees at night in severe weather.

H. F. C.—Ohio.

Some of the leaves seemed to be diseased. Others, of a reddish color, I would hardly call diseased, but they seemed somewhat starved. Any geraniums grown in a warm, sunny house, such as you evidently have, and given as high a temperature as 55 to 60 degrees at night in severe weather, if much potbound, would soon develop foliage like the samples sent. Your night temperature has been far too high. A temperature of 45 to 50 degrees at night is ample for bedding geraniums at all times, except when being propagated, when a slightly higher temperature, with some bottom heat, is an advantage. I would advise you to keep the plants 10 degrees cooler at night. Air freely and do not maintain a humid atmosphere, as such a condition is bad for geraniums. Feed the plants; the reddish color of the foliage is evidently caused by lack of plant food. This food can be fine bone, weak nitrate of soda or some other chemical fertilizer, rather than liquid animal manure. I would throw away any hopeless-looking plants and pick over the balance.

Another season, if you would propagate your own stock, you would be more certain of having clean plants. It seems to be a fact that some bedding specialists are not sufficiently careful with either the growing or the sending out of young plants. C. W.

Chrysanthemums

HOLDING OVER OLD PLANTS.

When chrysanthemum plants are left in the house after they are through blooming, what is the best way to treat them with a view to next fall? If the growth is one foot tall, should they be cut back? Would the old plants bloom earlier than freshly planted stock? Is it advisable to depend on last year's planting, for one flower to each stem?

C. L.—Ohio.

If the growth is a foot tall, it might perhaps be well to cut it back about halfway; then the shoots that will break out from the sides will be all right. If cuttings were taken from the tips of the growth, with the plant as tall as stated, it is entirely possible that they would run to bud; in fact, they might be showing buds already. These buds will develop if left on the plants and it is not an unusual thing to see a considerable crop of chrysanthemum flowers in May, though such treatment of the plants is not wise or profitable. C. L. would better take fresh cuttings for his stock and throw out the old plants as soon as he has the cuttings secured. Then, by planting the cuttings in new soil in June or July, he will get much better results than by trying to get along with the old stock.

C. H. Totty.

PINCHING POMPONS.

Should pompons grown on a bench for cutting be pinched? If so, when and how often?

F. B.—Ill.

Whether pompons should be pinched or not is governed by the time the plants are set out and their height at that time. The object of pinching is to make the plants dwarf in habit and make them produce more shoots. If you set out low plants in June or July, they will hardly need any pinching. The plant will make what is known as a first break; that is, it will produce a bud with three or four growing shoots around it. These shoots grow away and will make separate branches which are ideal for cutting. If you have some plants that were propagated early, you can pinch them until the middle of June, and let them carry up anywhere from ten to twenty shoots, according to the size of the plants, if you wish to do this.

Our experience in growing pompons has been, however, that if we set out little stock that has been propagated early in May, and let them grow away naturally without any pinching at all, they give us ideal stock for cutting, with shoots from one to two feet long, according to the variety.

C. H. Totty.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Nephrolepis.

The present is a good time to increase the stock of any of the nephrolepis family. The best of all is still the old Boston, the sales of which probably equal those of all other members of the nephrolepis family combined. Not only is this a good fern for the house, corridor or piazza, but it can be advantageously used in vases and boxes, even where there is considerable sun. Plants for such uses must not, however, be grown in a heavily shaded house or they are sure to burn more or less. If you have a spare piece of bench you can plant out a lot of runners and have splendid stock to pot up in early fall. If you have neither the bench nor the young plants, why not buy in some young stock now from small pots and keep growing them on through the summer? They will net good money through the fall and winter, as there never seems to be any surplus of good Boston ferns. Do not give the plants, when you are potting them along, a light compost containing a lot of leafmold; they like some good, fibrous loam and some well decayed manure incorporated with it.

Amaryllis.

It is pleasing to see that amaryllises are gradually becoming of more commercial importance, not so much as pot plants, but for cutting. The flowering season is now practically over, but the plants must not be neglected. Give them a light bench and give an ample supply of water, also affording liquid manure when the pots are full of roots. It is a too common practice, as soon as the flowering season is over, to throw the pots under the benches and leave them there until it is time for the spikes to appear another season. It is impossible to get decent flower spikes with such treatment. If a plant is worth growing at all, it is worth growing well. Amaryllises, if properly treated, produce magnificent spikes and flowers. They will naturally keep green foliage until November, sometimes right through the winter, and such plants will produce spikes of a strength which will astonish anyone who has been previously adopting the below-the-bench drying-off method.

About the end of May put a bed of leaves, or leaves and manure, in a coldframe. In this plunge your amaryllises to the brims of the pots. Keep the sashes elevated top and bottom all the time, so as to allow a good circulation of air among them, and give the glass a little shade. Treated thus the plants will produce bulbs of surprising size, vastly better than can be had on plants carried along on a hot greenhouse bench.

Nerines.

The beautiful nerines, or Guernsey lilies, have completed their growth and some of the foliage will soon start to decay. Keep the plants in a cold greenhouse or coldframe. Give a gradually decreasing water supply as the foliage disappears; then keep them perfectly dry. In order to flower nerines well the plants must be well potbound and allowed to have a thorough baking through the summer. Keep the plants in a coldframe, not shading the glass at all, and allow the hot sun to bake them all summer. Leave them here until flower spikes begin to peep in early September, when the plants can be removed to a greenhouse bench to expand.

Canterbury Bells.

While Canterbury bells appear to a limited extent at Easter each year, they are vastly better later in the season. For Memorial day trade they are splendid, either for selling in pots or for cutting. Plants grown in pots are greatly superior to those grown outdoors. The plants should be staked out now and given an ordinary greenhouse temperature. No one who has not grown good sized clumps in pots can form any idea of what superb plants these Canterbury bells make. The single pink and white are the two best sorts to grow. The doubles are too heavy, also the hose in hose, or calycanthema varieties.

By the way, it is nearly time now to sow seeds to produce strong plants for another season.

Planting Out Sweet Peas.

Everyone should have been able to sow some sweet peas outdoors before now, and the weather has now become sufficiently settled so that plants started in pots can be planted out. Before planting out be sure they have been gradually hardened off. Get the supports in position. Birch, wild cherry or some other brush is the best support, but wire netting answers well, provided it is of coarse mesh and is well supported. It will not harm hardened peas if they should get one or two light freezings, but it will harm them if they are left in the pots until the roots become matted. Single plants can go out six to twelve inches apart in the rows. The plants will soon cover their supports at the wider distance and will produce much stronger flower spikes. For purely exhibition purposes the plan now adopted is to train the plants to single stems, rubbing off all side growths. In this way long-stemmed stalks can be had, provided, of course, that the ground has been well prepared in advance.

THE GLADIOLUS

GLADIOLI IN FLORIDA.

I am interested in the question of growing gladioli here, a little north of the center of Florida, for winter blooming. Can you give me full information regarding the growing of them in the south, stating when the bulbs should be planted and all about their care? I have a small plant house that I can heat. We have occasional frosts here, with the mercury as low as 25 degrees. Nearly all the demand for flowers here is in winter and early spring, our conditions being entirely different from those in the north. Can you give me any information about the growing of peonies here? E. H. H.—Fla.

Gladioli are planted to a considerable extent in Florida. They occur in almost every community of the state, ranging from Pensacola to Miami.

If the bulbs are set out in the fall, say about October 1, they will come to bloom in the early spring, March or April. This is advisable for the southern part of the state. For the northern part of the state it would be advisable to plant them a little later. The florists of the state handle them in the open. T. K. Godbey, of Waldo, in northern Florida, had 100,000 or more of the gladioli blooming in the open last year and sold the blooms in the north. They make fine specimens when properly handled. The temperature in the region that I have referred to goes down to 25 degrees from time to time. The small bulbs which are grown into the flowering bulbs are handled in the same way as in the north, except that it requires less time for them to grow into flowering bulbs.

I have never seen peonies grown south of the Appalachian mountains. They do pretty well along the foothills at an altitude of about 1,000 or 1,200 feet in northern Georgia and in South Carolina. In Florida they usually fail to produce good flowers.

DISEASED GLADIOLUS CORMS.

I am sending you under separate cover a few gladiolus bulbs. Can you tell me what is the matter with them and whether they need any sort of treatment before being planted? What kind of treatment, if any, is needed?

C. G. B.

The three corms sent are affected with what is commonly known as scab. This trouble should not be confused with the rots, which are so commonly met with. To my knowledge, but little work has been done upon this disease and there is practically no available information.

Observations made upon this trouble lead me to believe that it does not greatly decrease the value of the corms. That the lesions on the corms do not increase during storage seems to be the opinion of growers. My observations confirm this opinion. No corms so affected, to my knowledge, have ever failed to germinate and produce healthy plants, although of course it is conceivable that a corm could be so badly affected that such would be the case.

Studies made here, in the laboratory at Cornell University, have thrown little light upon the cause of this abnormal condition. Attempts to connect the disease with some fungous or bacterial parasite have so far failed. One grower of gladioli found an unusually large amount of this disease among corms grown in soil which was low and damp, and suggested the possibility of the poor condition of the soil being the cause of the trouble. Another suggestion is that the disease is due to the work of wireworms. At present this latter suggestion seems to me to be the one most plausible. It is my plan to start some experiments in the near future which will determine this point.

It is obvious from the foregoing statements that no treatment previous to planting the corms seems advisable. My advice is to plant the corms in light, well drained soil in which gladioli have never been grown. It might be considered advisable, in view of the limited knowledge of this disease, to segregate the corms so affected to preclude any possibility of the disease being transmitted to sound corms. If the plants are given the best of care during the summer and at harvesting time, it is not improbable that the trouble will be lessened. L. M. Massey.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOUTHERN FLORISTS

POINSETTIAS IN THE SOUTH.

Propagation by Cuttings.

When well grown, poinsettias are the quickest sellers at the Christmas holidays, in the south as elsewhere. Unfortunately, they are too often seen under bare poles, when they are anything but things of beauty. One of the main features of their culture is to keep them growing from start to finish without a check. If a young plant becomes potbound enough to turn the leaves to a pale yellowish cast, the leaves are sure to drop in the fall.

Poinsettias are propagated either by cuttings or layers. In the south the cuttings root readily during the month of May, but in the succeeding hot months they are difficult to root, unless in a cool, shady spot, free from drafts. A rather deep frame, constructed in a lath house and covered with well-shaded sashes, raised at back and front, makes a good propagating bed. The surest way to increase them, however, is by layers; a stand of 100 per cent is always obtained by this method.

The old plants may be shaken out any time now, repotted in smaller sized pots in any good, ordinary soil, and watered rather sparingly until new root action is well started. The plants need not be cut back much if cuttings are wanted, unless they are extremely tall, but severe pruning is necessary to make good shoots for layering. The hard wood thus cut off, if cut into lengths with three or four eyes, will root readily in a rose propagating bed and make good stock for propagating from later, or the wood may be put on a warm bench with three inches of light soil, covered thinly and treated like dracæna canes. In a short while these will throw up shoots, which can be used for cuttings or layers as desired.

In the northern sections of the so-called southern states the old poinsettia plants, after being established, do better if planted out on a bench than if kept in pots. In the extreme south it is better to shift them into larger pots and plunge them outside in a frame. Some growers plant them out in the open ground, but if so treated the growth is entirely too rank and soft to produce the best results.

Propagation by Layering.

When the young poinsettia shoots are from six to eight inches long is the time to commence layering. Select the third or fourth eye from the tip of the shoot, remove the leaf, and with a sharp knife make a slanting cut almost half through the stem, beginning about a quarter of an inch below the eye and finishing the same distance above it. Insert a tiny piece of wet sheet moss in the cut to keep it open, and bind a bigger piece of the same material tightly around it. This is a rather delicate operation, as the stems are so brittle that an extra cut with the knife or a wrong twist when binding on the moss may break them entirely off. A little practice makes perfect, however.

Each layer must be supported on a stake and the moss must be kept thoroughly wet. Under average southern conditions the roots generally show in from seventeen to twenty-one days, when the layers can be cut off and potted in 2½-inch or 3-inch pots. While rooting, the layers make considerable growth and the taller ones may need a small stake to straighten them up. All of them require careful watching, shading and protection from drafts for a few days, until established, when they can be placed in the full sun on a bench near the glass. Fresh soil, rather light, with a little old manure, will suit them well. Shift into 4-inch pots when ready, and, after making a little growth there, they can be layered again. What is left after this layering will do finely if placed, three together, in 8-inch azalea pots, with small ferns for a trimming, and will make nice specimens, or they can be planted out on benches for cut flowers.

The Final Potting.

The last lot of poinsettia layers may be made in the south as late as the middle of August, and from the middle to the end of September is the best time to give them their final shift. Combinations with asparagus or ferns, made up at that time, give more satisfaction than when made just a week before the holidays. Some, of course, may be kept in as small pots as possible, so that the storekeepers can make arrangements to suit the tastes of all their customers.

October and November are the critical months in the culture of poinsettias, and if you can steer them safely through these months without letting them drop their foliage, you can bank on having them right at the holidays. Water carefully at that time, keeping an average moisture at the roots, and avoiding extremes either of wetness or dryness. Give a little fire heat on cool nights, with enough ventilation to keep the temperature at 56 to 58 degrees. A mulch of old cow manure, renewed every two weeks, is one of the greatest aids to the plants in holding their foliage and is much preferable to applications of liquid manure. When the bracts are well formed, the night temperature can be reduced 4 or 5 degrees and the supply of water shortened. Mealy bug is rather fond of this plant, but careful spraying will keep them down.

Along the gulf coast the best layers are made in August and September and the final shift may be made any time in October. There the loss of foliage, with ordinary care, is not likely to be so troublesome. L.

TOO BADLY WILTED.

Will you tell me whether the enclosed carnation is a named variety or a sport? If it is a sport, what do you think of it? A. S.—Mont.

The specimen forwarded was too badly wilted to be identified. These flaked blooms are frequently found among the white varieties during the winter months, disappearing as the warm weather approaches. It may be one of these white sorts. White Lawson, Lady Bountiful, Alma Ward and Matchless all have a tendency to throw some of these flaked blooms. If you think your trade will take to it, work up a stock of it. A. F. J. B.

BUDS DESTROYED BY THRIPS.

Will you please tell me the name of an insect which is destroying many of my carnation buds? It does not cause any trouble until about April 1. The insect is gray in color and less than an eighth of an inch long. It does not seem to eat the petals, but the ends of the petals turn brown. What can I do to stop it? Could I spray the buds with nicotine and kill the pest without spoiling the flowers?

H. A. C.—Ala.

There is no question in my mind that your trouble is caused by thrips. The remedy for this pest is spraying with nicotine. If you had sprayed regularly during the winter, as recommended in these columns, you would not be having this trouble now. You are likely to have a hard fight. Spray every other day for a couple of weeks, then reduce to twice weekly, and, if you see that you are getting control, you can reduce to one application each week.

A. F. J. B.

COVERED WITH LEAF-SPOT.

I am mailing to you under separate cover a carnation taken from my beds. The plants appear to be diseased. Kindly examine the sample and see whether you can discover the trouble and advise me as to its treatment.

W. F.—Va.

The specimen submitted was simply covered with the common carnation leaf-spot. If the whole bed is as badly affected as this plant, I would advise throwing the plants out and burning them. It is probably too late to try to doctor them up, as the season would be over by the time you could get them into any kind of shape. If you think it worth while, however, you can use Bordeaux mixture, spraying the plants heavily after picking off the spotted leaves.

A. F. J. B.

FAIRY RING ON FIELD STOCK.

I am sending some carnation leaves and buds which seem to be diseased. At first the spots appeared on the buds. After two weeks I noticed that the trouble was spreading to the leaves, and by the time the flowers were fully opened the calyx was all dry. The plants are being grown in the field all the year around, here in southern California. This is the first year I have noticed anything of this kind. Kindly let me know what it is and how it can be cured.

G. F. M.—Cal.

The specimens submitted were covered with fairy ring. This disease, like all the carnation spot diseases, is caused by too much humidity. I would suggest, if the plants are not too badly affected, that you cut away all the growth bearing these spots. Then spray the plants heavily with Bordeaux mixture. Picking off the spotted leaves is a tedious task, but it is undoubtedly the most effective way to get rid of the disease. Repeat the Bordeaux spray every ten days until you have the disease under control.

VINES FOR SHADE.

Can you tell me what vines to grow for shade? One of my customers wants vines that will give heavy shade the first summer they are planted. He does not care for hardy vines, but would prefer something that would freeze out in winter. Should these be started in the greenhouse, or not?

E. V.—Ill.

Cobæa scandens and C. scandens alba will make as rapid growth and heavy shade as any annual climber you can start. Sow the seeds in pots this month. Keep the stalks tied up, as they grow quickly. The annual hop, or Humulus Japonicus, also makes quick growth and gives an excellent shade. Another useful climber for such a purpose is Echinocystis lobata, or California cucumber. Soak the seeds in warm water twenty-four hours before sowing and they will start more rapidly. Scarlet Runner beans are good, as are the Japanese morning glories and moonflowers. The ornamental gourds are sometimes used in this way. They are excellent for covering arbors or pergolas.

Two 300-foot Beds of Yellow Marguerites at James Wheeler's, Natick, Mass.

MASSACHUSETTS MARGUERITES.

One of the largest and most successful growers of yellow marguerites in the vicinity of Boston is James Wheeler, of Natick, Mass. Although carnations are Mr. Wheeler's specialty, he also grows marguerites successfully, as the accompanying photograph of two beds, taken in February, indicates. These beds are each 300 feet in length, and contain several thousand plants. It has been asserted that yellow marguerites, to flower successfully in the winter months, must be in pots or boxes, or at least have their roots much restricted, but Mr. Wheeler cultivates young plants in solid beds and flowers them beautifully. As to the quality of the flowers, it is only necessary to say that they bring as much money as carnations in a critical market and that only a short time ago they were awarded a cultural certificate by the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston.

W. N. C.

TRIMMING PALM ROOTS.

Will you please inform me whether it would be advisable to cut the roots of fan palms and kentias, which are in too large pots to be handled easily and which I wish to place in smaller pots? If so, when would be the best time and what care should be given the palms afterward?

A. U. M.—Ill.

The roots of palms may be pruned to some extent in order to reduce the size of the ball when repotting, but they require a little extra care after this operation, in order to start away again. The best time to do this work is during the month of April, when the plants are usually getting into more active growth. Be sure to ram the new soil firmly in the pots; then water thoroughly, so that the soil will be moistened through. Place the plants in a shaded greenhouse in which a night temperature of 65 degrees is kept, and maintain a moist atmosphere by syringing every bright day, being careful not to ventilate too freely in windy weather until the plants have a chance to make some new roots.

OUTDOOR SPECIOSUM LILIES.

Kindly tell me how to grow Lilium speciosum album, Melpomene and rubrum outdoors, and how to care for the bulbs from year to year. Do they have to be lifted in winter?

T. S.—Conn.

The best time to plant these lilies outdoors is in late fall, as soon as the bulbs arrive from Japan. This is usually late in November. The ground in which they are to be planted can be covered with straw or leaves to exclude the frost until they arrive. If the planting was not done in the fall, the next best time is in the spring. Cover the bulbs to a depth of nine inches; if you have deep soil, twelve inches will be even better. Place some sharp sand above and below them. Do not use any fresh manure in the soil where lilies of any kind are to be planted. You can, however, spread some on the surface after planting, if you wish. These lilies are perfectly hardy in your state and do not require to be lifted in the fall, but they can be given a mulch of leaves or old strawy manure when the ground has become frozen.

C. W.

WISTARIAS FROM SEED.

At what age will wistarias bloom from seed?

E. C. C.—Okla.

Usually when from 3 to 4 years old. However, a better and more speedy way of securing plants is by layering. Some wistarias never flower, and I believe it is a fact that a non-flowering variety is on the market.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

J. S. Hennon & Son, Wampum, Pa., opened a store at Beaver Falls for Easter and may make it a permanent enterprise. Situated between Wampum and New Castle, where they have for four years maintained an up-to-date store, they will supply both by means of a fine, new automobile truck.

J. J. Bolton, Beaver Falls, Pa., traces his lineage to the time of Oliver Cromwell, the motto or the coat of arms of his ancestors being "Ve et virtute," or, "By force and valor." He attributes his success largely to following under their standard.

B. F. Engle, Rochester, Pa., says he will relinquish the business as soon as he finds a suitable successor. Failing health and close application is the reason. He has made good.

John Walker, Youngstown, O., enjoys the unenviable experience of having six namesakes here, but he is the only florist Walker. He has just returned from the Isle of Pines, where, he says, the climate is ideal, but the food far from it.

Toronto, Canada, favored with bright weather, reports a good Easter business. John H. Dunlop, H. G. Dillemuth, S. Tidy & Son and Simmons & Son had grand stock, while Thos. Manton and F. Duffert led in displays at the St. Lawrence market. Both pot plants and cut blooms were choice, and, although big prices were not realized, the net returns were generally satisfactory.

W. M. Deyoe & Co., Oil City, Pa., are well pleased with Easter returns. An abundance of home-grown stock enabled them to handle their trade satisfactorily.

The Oakwood Rose Gardens, Oil City, had fine crops of roses and carnations for Easter.

L. J. Rowe, Titusville, Pa., prepared an unusually big stock and had but little left after the Easter rush.

W. M.

UTZINGER'S UTTERANCES.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cromack, of Irwin, Pa., celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary April 12. Mr. Cromack thinks he will go into the real estate business instead of growing flowers, as he says there is more money in it.

W. Grant Kintigh, of Irwin, is growing nice snapdragon. He recently installed a light delivery motor, with which he claims the work is a "cinch."

Mrs. Koerbel, of Jeannette, Pa., is able to be about again after four weeks in bed with a bad case of the grip. She reports good trade.

John G. Bohler, of Latrobe, Pa., is busy getting Idlewild park into shape for the coming picnic season. He says he will have the finest park in this section of the country.

Mrs. Edward Leitzman, of Latrobe, reports business as exceptionaliy brisk, with plenty of funeral work. She had an extra fine showing of hyacinths and tulips this season.

Mr. Schaffer, managing the retail store of the Indiana Floral Co., of Indiana, Pa., keeps his place looking like the big city stores, with its beautiful windows and a large variety of stock. He reports an exceptionally fine trade of late.

Mrs. W. S. Smathers, of Indiana, has had a fine stock of tulips and hyacinths. Business has been brisk, with a good cut flower trade.

George Crissman, of the Crissman Greenhouse Co., Punxsutawney, Pa., says that never again will he be afraid of hard times, which means that his Easter business was the best ever.

THE MEXICAN PINK AGAIN.

The Review of April 1 contained this query from a subscriber: "A customer asks me what is Mexican Pink, recommended as 'fine for window or porch boxes, and smiling under the fiercest sun.' Information as to the identity of the plant and its botanical name I should appreciate most heartily." Three wide-awake and obliging readers at once gave their views on the matter and their replies were published on page 15 of the issue for April 8. The three replies did not agree; each one designated a different plant as the so-called Mexican Pink. Yet each of the three dissimilar answers may have been correct in its own way, for in this land of free and untrammeled speech it would not be surprising if at least three different plants were known as the Mexican Pink.

Two more readers, Thos. M. Fitzgerald and J. C. Armstrong, have now offered their opinions on the subject. Mr. Fitzgerald says: "I am sending you under separate cover a sample of a plant which I think is the one referred to recently in your paper as the Mexican Pink. Here, in western Pennsylvania, we call it the Chinese Pink. Can you tell me the botanical name of it?" The sample plant forwarded by Mr. Fitzgerald is a mesembryanthemum, but the variety cannot be determined without seeing a flower.

Mr. Armstrong says: "With reference to the inquiry, 'What is the Mexican Pink?' I would say that Antigonon leptopus is listed in southern catalogues as the Mexican Rose. Here, in western Georgia, we grow it as a climber. It is a pretty climber and stands the hot sun finely, although I have never seen it grown in window boxes."

As the case stands now, two readers have agreed in the opinion that the Mexican Pink is a mesembryanthemum; two have stated their belief that it is Antigonon leptopus, and one avers that it is Platycodon grandiflorum. That disposition of the case probably is not decisive enough to satisfy the subscriber who asked the question. Does anyone else wish to have voice or vote in the matter?

London, England.—One of the results of the war has been a marked increase in the employment of women in greenhouse work.

Toulon, France.—The value of the flowers grown in the departments of Var and Alpes Maritimes, which include the French Riviera, is estimated at 50,000,000 francs, or nearly $10,000,000. Through cutting off foreign markets, withdrawing the fast trains for the use of troops and greatly reducing the expenditure of the people for everything save necessities, the war has severely injured this industry, and the blooms lie rotting in the fields. The Chamber of Commerce of Toulon has called the attention of the Minister of Agriculture, Fernand David, to the necessity of aid for those who have hitherto depended upon this industry for their livelihood.

Brussels, Belgium.—As the days pass, troubles increase for the growers here: The price of coal is advancing; the Germans exact a tax of 1 franc per car per kilometer for the transportation of coal; transportation rates have tripled and are now prohibitive; seeds and bulbs are difficult to obtain, and those available are of poor quality, yielding only about half of the normal crop. As a result, the quantity of plants now being forced is about one-twentieth of that under normal conditions. The scarcity of locally grown flowers and the complete absence of those from the south have led to betterment in prices. In the vicinity of Duffel and Wavre St. Catherine, 500 of the 1,000 greenhouses have been destroyed, and many others are damaged.

London, England.—Quite the opposite of what was expected, the war, by shutting off the supply of French flowers, has had the effect of causing an unusual demand for British-grown flowers, especially white, and better prices than usual prevailed during the winter months.

London, England.—The horticultural papers print many stories from France and Belgium showing that all the armies seem to find the big greenhouses that abound in the war zone peculiarly attractive for the shelter of man and beast. When a regiment bivouacs in a nursery, if the men do not occupy the greenhouses, they stable their horses there and the grower's stock is pretty sure to be dispossessed.

Paris, France.—The following is a translation of a part of a letter received from a French gardener at the front: "Since November 5 we have been quartered at Oostdunkerke, Belgium, in a greenhouse establishment. The 175th Cavalry are in two large Holland greenhouses, which are devoted to the growing of American violets. Upon our arrival, they were empty and had been partly dismantled by the explosion of shells falling in the vicinity. Our men are in the greenhouses and lie under the violets. I have done everything possible to prevent damage, and up to the present seven large houses of violets, the fern houses and palm houses have not been touched. The only person left in the establishment is a workman, who does not understand French; the proprietor, Em. Draps-Boudry, took refuge in London at the beginning of the invasion."

FIRES

Rochester, N. Y.—Fire in the boiler room of the greenhouses of Spencer Heffer, on Ridge road, April 6, did $500 damage.

Harbor Springs, Mich.—The greenhouse of John P. Southard and its contents were destroyed by fire April 11. This was the only property on which he carried no insurance. The loss is estimated at $2,000.

Easton, Pa.—Fire destroyed the boiler house at the greenhouses of Henry H. Weiskopf, April 8. The loss was $500, partly covered by insurance. Fortunately, Mr. Weiskopf's delivery automobile was rescued from the building.

NOTES FROM UTAH.

The Market.

Utah is fast developing into a large flower-producing district and never before have the growers experienced such good conditions as during the last few weeks of clear weather.

The crops of roses and carnations are exceptionally large. The market is flooded with carnations, but the price is held at $3 per hundred. A large quantity of this stock is disposed of by making special rates to retailers who take 1,000 lots or more and also by selling large quantities to dry goods stores, who give one carnation free to each lady patron. This is found to be a profitable method of disposing of the glut without injuring the retail trade, and promotes a tendency to increase the demand for flowers. There has been a large demand for roses, especially the better grade. Killarney, White Killarney, Queen Beatrice, Richmond and Hillingdon are selling for $4 to $10 per hundred. Shawyer, a rose which has obtained much popularity in Salt Lake City, sells at $5 to $12 per hundred. There has been a large demand for long-stemmed American Beauties, while the supply has been small. Sweet peas seem to be popular in corsage bouquets and also for funeral work and the demand for them this season is fine.

Most of the bulbous plants were disposed of at a good price. Geraniums and other bedding plants are now on the market and being sold readily.

Salt Lake City.

E. A. Lambourne had the decorations of the Rotary Club of Salt Lake, which gave a dinner in honor of the biggest booster, Samuel Newhouse, in the Newhouse hotel, April 13. Mr. Lambourne reports an increase of twenty per cent in his business over last year and says his best sellers are the Shawyer and Richmond roses.

The Evans Floral Co. reports that funeral work has been heavy.

The Huddart Floral Co. says there has been a good demand for sweet peas and valley in corsage work, and fancy snaps are selling well.

C. Cramer has a well decorated store, with a line of mirrors along the wall of the entire store, and handles a large stock of pot plants.

W. W. King had the decorations of the Newhouse hotel on the opening day, furnishing 4,000 bunches of violets, ten dozen long-stemmed American Beauties, 700 Killarneys, 300 strings of smilax and other greens.

The Porter-Walton Co. has opened a store front on Broadway in addition to the one on State street and is handling a large quantity of cut flowers and plants, also ornamental shrubs.

George May, of Keith O'Brien department store, finds spring business rushing.

Charles Soter handles an immense stock of roses, carnations and other cut flowers and pot plants. His refrigerator is always filled with flowers and the sidewalk is lined with plants, etc. On account of the large stock and the small space allotted him, our tiny 300-pound Soter is obliged to go out of the store to make room when a customer enters. Soter contributed a beautiful heart of 500 short-stemmed Beauties, standing seven feet high, to the Newhouse hotel on the opening day.

Ogden.

B. Van der Schuit, who operated a flower store in Ogden, has moved to Pocatello to take up business as an undertaker and also to conduct a flower business in a small way. Mrs. Van der Schuit and G. Van Holst conduct the former business of Mr. Van der Schuit.

H. F. Hendershot has opened a store in the front of the McBride drug store.

William L. Porter and C. Close are opening a store between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets.

Logan.

The Murdock Candy Co. has turned its floral department over to Ola Larson, who conducts that line of business conjointly with them.

O. G. Cardon has opened a flower store under the name of The Blue Bird and reports business as being good.

Robert Miller, manager of the Miller Floral Co., Farmington, has been confined to the house for two weeks with tonsillitis.

Ant. C. Zvolanek, the sweet pea expert from California and New Jersey, paid us a visit the other day on his way to California from the east.

O. F.

Rock Island, Ill.—The contract for the planting of the court-house square this spring has been let to Henry Gaethje.

St. Paul, Minn.—The G. A. Colberg Co., 106 St. Paul arcade, has received the contract to furnish several thousand evergreen wreaths and bouquets for grave decoration Memorial day by the Memorial Day Association.

Muskogee, Okla.—The Muskogee Garden Plant Co. has been started by John A. Timberlake, at 307 North Callahan street. Garden plants and shrubs will be sold, and expert gardeners will be sent out to work all over the city.

Independence, Ia.—John P. Murphy has disposed of his greenhouse property to C. A. Ibling, of Parkersburg, and received in exchange 120 acres five miles from Waterloo. Mr. Murphy has also purchased forty acres adjoining the farm.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Minnehaha Floral Co., to engage in the operation of a greenhouse, with a capital of $25,000. The incorporators are Edward Heisel, Francis J. Connor and John Liebe.

Fulton, Ill.—It is reported that J. E. Kirman, who makes a specialty of greenhouse cucumbers, has sold his buildings, fixtures and growing crops, but the name of the purchaser is not made public. Mr. Kirman remains in charge of the business.

Emporia, Kan.—J. Ralph Souder has sold his half interest in the Emporia Floral Co. to his partner, E. M. Robinson, who will continue the business. Mr. Souder has purchased real estate in Hutchinson, Kan., on which he will erect a greenhouse range of Moninger construction. He plans to open a downtown store in Hutchinson when his growing department is completed.

Kansas City, Mo.—An announcement in the Star that 4,000 packets of seed, furnished by the S. Bryson Ayres Co., of Independence, Mo., would be given away at the flower store of P. Larkin, 1130 Grand avenue, brought a crowd before the doors at the opening hour March 24. Only a few hundred packets remained at closing time.

Des Moines, Ia.—The new U. L. Crawford flower shop is open for business. Expense has not been spared to make it one of the finest in the west, and a rich green carpet adds a touch of distinction and refinement. The refrigerator and fixtures were built by Buchbinder Bros., Chicago, Sidney Buchbinder personally superintending their installation.

Carbondale, Ill.—Everette W. Plater says the cold weather has delayed the outdoor stock in this vicinity. The season for Narcissus poeticus and jonquils will be from two to three weeks late this year. Peonies are ten days late; cultivation is being done, but some varieties are not yet out of the ground. Lilacs are fine and promise a large cut. Easter trade was better than ever this year.

Tiffin, O.—April 1 the Ullrich Floral Co., composed of Frank M. Schramm and Edmund J. Ullrich, took over the Ullrich greenhouses, flower store and stock. The two former were purchased by Frank M. Schramm, of Schramm Bros., Toledo, at an administrator's sale March 20. The latter was the property of Edmund J. Ullrich. After the death of his father, Lewis Ullrich, October 29, 1906, Edmund Ullrich conducted the business for his mother. January 1, 1910, he bought the stock and fixtures from her and leased the greenhouses and store. He will continue in charge of the business as president of the company and as manager. It is planned to extend the business.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

As to the New York cut flower market, as the boy said of the giraffe, "there ain't no such animal!" This was literally true last week, and the quantity of unsold flowers carted away up to Saturday evening would have supplied every retailer with enough stock to run his business until May 1. The street was yellow all the week with southern daffodils, and the street vendors have, with valley, violets and roses, enjoyed a harvest. The shipments of everything continue far above the market's needs.

American Beauties, selected, sold at $10 to $15 per hundred Saturday, April 17. The average price on all roses is low. There can be no reliable quotations. "Get the best price you can, but sell," seems to be the watchword. Vast quantities of almost everything were not sold at all.

The supply of carnations is enormous. From $1.50 down is the record, and "going down" is the continued outlook. Except for Ward, Matchless and a few of this year's novelties, there is no call.

Fifty cents is top for orchids, and that is for the best. The supply is large and growing. Lilies at $2 per hundred cover the counters and fill the iceboxes. Thousands have been sold at $1 per hundred, good flowers, too. Valley is of poor quality generally. Gardenias continue at last week's level. Violets have said their au revoir. Sweet peas are largely unsalable, except the Spencers. Of spring flowers, the finest are lilac, pansies, stocks and daisies, with a dozen of the commoner kinds to complete the aggregation.

Various Notes.

The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club, May 10, will have as its principal attraction an illustrated lecture on "Gardens and Flora of Japan" by E. H. Wilson.

Henry R. Crawbuck, of Brooklyn, has opened a retail store at 265 South Orange avenue, Newark, N. J. His Brooklyn wholesale green goods business has been purchased by Wm. E. White and Geo. A. Crawbuck, son of Geo. W. Crawbuck, manager of the Greater New York Florists' Association. Mr. White has been seven years with this firm and eight years with Hicks & Crawbuck.

Nicholas Lecakes, of 102 West Twenty-eighth street, has returned from a business trip to Baltimore and Washington.

R. J. Irwin begins his regular spring trip this week.

J. J. Coan, manager of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., and Mr. Van Riper, his salesman, were severely bitten by a prize bulldog last week, Mr. Coan's injury making a visit to the Pasteur Institute necessary.

J. K. Allen is now at home in his new quarters, and is delighted with the change.

Traendly & Schenck opened their Sixth avenue headquarters Friday, April 16.

Mrs. Samuel Woodrow has returned from the mountains much improved in health. Mr. Woodrow is busy with landscape work.

J. H. Troy, of New Rochelle, formerly with the Rosary Flower Co., on East Thirty-fourth street, is now devoting his entire time to his nursery business.

William Kessler sold over 40,000 longiflorum lilies Easter week.

Herman Warendorff's store on Broadway near Twenty-eighth street felt a miniature earthquake last week when the underpinning in the new subway collapsed and the whole section of that part of Broadway sank several inches.

C. H. Totty and wife leave for the west April 26, for a month's stay at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Harry Riedel, one of New York's 200 bowlers, sprained his ankle at the match with Tuxedo last week. The return match will take place next week at the New York club's alleys.

A. F. E. Hugo, formerly in the employ of G. E. M. Stumpp and later with J. S. Nicholas, on Forty-second street, died last week at St. Joseph's hospital.

P. J. Smith will move next week into the big store at 131 West Twenty-eighth street, formerly occupied by Traendly & Schenck.

H. E. Froment is fast completing his big store at 148 West Twenty-eighth street.

The New York Florists' Bowling Club came home from Tuxedo last week with a blot on its escutcheon. In other words, the champions of the trade lost by nearly fifty pins.

The MacNiff Horticultural Co., last week, had auction sales going on upstairs and downstairs at the same time.

May 8 and 9 will be held the big spring show of the New York Horticultural Society, at Bronx park.

Walter Mott was in the city Monday, April 19, on his way to Long Island, representing B. F. Hammond, of Beacon, N. Y. J. Austin Shaw.

DETROIT.

The Market.

Weather forecast for the week beginning Wednesday, April 21, issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., for the Great Lakes region: Fair and moderately cool the first half of the week; warm with some probability of unsettled weather and showers the latter half.

Business has been keeping up well since Easter, and although there have been large quantities of stock on the market, it has been well cleaned up. Right after Easter roses were almost a drug, but the situation has eased up. Some of the stores in the heart of the shopping district were able to greatly relieve the oversupply of sweet peas, carnations and roses by holding special sales.

Bulbous stock is about cleaned up, and the only things in this line available among the local wholesalers are some single daffodils and a few single red and double pink tulips.

Irises and gladioli are next in line and have already been seen at some of the stores which have their own glass. Just at present the stores are showing little in plants, as not much is available. Many of the stores show fine collections of boxwood.

Various Notes.

The Michigan Cut Flower Exchange has a fine lot of boxwood on hand.

Carey, the Flowerman, recently added a second delivery car to his equipment, and apparently both cars are kept busy.

John Breitmeyer's Sons' Park store, just opposite the new Hotel Statler, makes that corner one of the most attractive in the city.

B. Schroeter, although his Easter sales were large, looked into the future, and is now showing some fine pots of daffodils, hyacinths, hydrangeas and genistas.

The Schroeter-Stahelin Co. has been kept extremely busy with funeral work and a large wedding decoration.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Western Pennsylvania is having fine weather but needs rain. It is likely outdoor bulbous stock will be small if it does not soon begin raining.

General business conditions are improving, especially along the line of outdoor planting. The reports are that there is more than twice the usual amount of planting being done this spring. Nurserymen and landscape people say they were looking for a dull season, but instead are being pushed to the limit.

There was a flood of flowers of all kinds last week. They all cleaned up by Saturday night, but it would not sound well to tell the prices at which much of the oversupply was sold. But there are men in the business, although perhaps none of them are growers, who think it is good for the trade to occasionally sell flowers cheap enough to let everybody have some, believing they will want more when they are not so cheap. The indications are all good; while the season is nearly over, it will be some satisfaction to feel that the fall trade will be better than last year.

The retail stores are all busy and those that handle seeds and do planting are more than busy. There are a number of weddings right along, which are helping decidedly. There never was a year when there were so many fine blooming plants and the stores are full of them.

The wholesale houses handled more roses and sweet peas last week than ever before in their experience. Beauties also have been fine and plentiful. The wholesalers are so busy and happy they do not even kick about the low prices they are selling the goods for.

Various Notes.

James Higgins has the sympathy of his friends in the loss of his mother, who died April 18 at her home in Philadelphia. The funeral was held Tuesday, April 20. Clarke.

Dayton, O.—The Dayton Florists' and Gardeners' Club met April 13, and endorsed the move of Toledo florists to have the state law modified regarding the employment of licensed engineers for steam plants of more than 30-horsepower. They desire the limitation of 30-horsepower raised. A committee consisting of Horace M. Frank, Flory Mitman, E. E. Schaeffer, M. Anderson, John H. Griscel, W. W. Horlacher, Mrs. L. D. Johnson, W. G. Matthews and G. L. Rogers was appointed to meet with the G. D. A. committee on landscape gardening for a conference. A market committee was appointed, consisting of E. W. Jenkins, George Frisch, Al Kuntz, J. T. Derringer and Harry Jergens. Ten new members were admitted.

BUFFALO.

The Market.

The weather last week was excellent and business was fairly good. There has been some funeral work, but nothing of large proportions. There are few weddings of any note. Transient trade is only fair. The fine weather has made a big demand for seeds and shrubs, and outdoor work is being pushed rapidly. Carnations, which have been somewhat off crop, are coming into the market in large quantities and the prices have dropped slightly. Tulips are a drug on the market, but daffodils are scarce, with prices firm. There are all kinds of good roses. Beauties are plentiful. Sweet peas continue to improve and the demand for these is increasing. Valley is beginning to get smaller. Orchids are nearing the end of their season and are pale in color. There is no strong demand for them. Harrisii and calla lilies are always in demand.

Various Notes.

Mark Palmer, son of William Palmer, was home from Cornell University at Easter, assisting his father in the greenhouses at Lancaster. He found a dwarf lily, which is being watched for developments, for he thinks he has discovered something new in the line of Harrisii lily sports. He is planning to enter his father's business in the fall and will learn both the greenhouse and store ends of the trade.

John G. Pickelman will move into his new store, at 205 Genesee street, in the near future. He is showing some excellent deutzias.

Business at the store of the Wm. Scott Co. has been good. Bird houses made of birch bark, with roofs of cedar bark, are being sold here as a specialty. They are decidedly attractive. This firm has received a big importation of pyramid and standard boxwood trees, which are being potted in large earthen jars. These are heavier than the wooden tubs and the public likes them better. Four good-sized houses are filled with S. A. Nutt geraniums. Some are already in bloom and make excellent stock for cemetery urns and bedding plants. One house is given entirely to seedlings, such as salvias, verbenas, snapdragons and German stocks; another to cannas, coleus, dracænas and Boston ferns for spring planting. All are in fine condition.

David Scott, of Corfu, N. Y., is producing some excellent orchid peas and pink and yellow snapdragons.

Harry B. Filer, city forester, has completed the pruning of trees and shrubs in the streets and parks of the city, and his men are now busy looking after the lawns and the beds of bulbous stock.

Charles Sandiford finds business good. He is busy with landscape gardening and the planting of shrubs and evergreens, of which he makes a specialty. His importation of boxwood trees and evergreens is fine. The trees find a ready sale. In his greenhouses the stock is in good condition. The German stocks in lavender are used for cutting and are excellent in quality. Pink, white and yellow snapdragons are also being cut. He has all kinds of seedlings ready for spring planting.

D. Newlands & Co. are growing some fine deutzias and some have been disposed of at wholesale. The firm has a good cemetery trade.

The Lenox Flower Shop had a timely display last week for the opening of the baseball season here. It was a miniature baseball diamond done in moss, with realistic looking players.

OBITUARY.

Miss Isadore E. Larabee.

Miss Isadore E. Larabee, 52 years old, died April 15, at her home in North Adams, Mass., after a long illness of a complication of diseases. About fourteen years ago she engaged in the florists' business at 88 East Quincy street, and conducted the establishment until obliged by ill health to give it up a few years ago.

Miss Larabee was born in North Adams, and taught school there for a time before entering the florists' business. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Larabee, a brother and two sisters. The funeral was held April 17.

Charles W. Yost.

Charles W. Yost, one of the oldest and best known gardeners in Rhode Island, died recently at the home of his daughter at Wakefield, aged 77 years. Mr. Yost was a native of Germany, but came to this country when a young man and for many years he was employed as gardener on the Coates estate at Narragansett Pier. In 1884 he became gardener for George V. Cresson and had charge of his Stone Lea grounds. About three years ago he took up his home with his daughter and had not been very active since.

W. H. M.

Winfield S. Sisson.

Winfield Scott Sisson, of Newport, R. I., died suddenly April 9. Mr. Sisson was born in 1862 in Portsmouth, R. I., and for several years, as a young man, he was engaged in agricultural pursuits, but later became connected with the George A. Weaver Co. and on the organization by the employees of that establishment as the Broadway Hardware Co., was made treasurer. He devoted considerable time to the cultivation of dahlias and as a member of the firm of Sisson & Thurston was a successful and frequent exhibitor at the flower shows throughout New England. His wife and one brother survive him.

Cromwell, Conn.—William Colton has left A. N. Pierson, Inc., to take charge of greenhouses at Grimsby, Ont.

Portland, Me.—The Portland Florists' Club held a banquet at Stroudwater grange hall Monday, April 19, at 7 p. m., followed by a social evening. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Lizzie Dennett, Miss Marion E. McGunigle, C. L. Conant and Alexander Skillin.

Lowell, Mass.—Trade exhibitors in the horticultural show of the board of trade April 13 were Harvey B. Greene, Morse & Beals, Whittet & Co., J. L. Kenney, Frank P. Putnam, John T. Gale, R. P. Christofferson, the Shepard's Garden Carnation Co. and James J. McManmon, all of Lowell, and George B. Wright, of Chelmsford.

Milldale, Conn.—Work has been started on greenhouses at Canal and Burrit streets by Nicholas Grillo, formerly of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell. Two greenhouses, each 36x100 feet, will be built, and also a 2-story brick building, 30x50, to contain living rooms, office and work rooms. Two brothers will be associated in the business with Nicholas Grillo.

Ansonia, Conn.—Joseph W. Willis, proprietor of the Cottage Avenue Greenhouses, has just secured a patent on a device for picking fruit, known as the Automatic Fruit-picker and Conveyor. It makes it unnecessary to lower the picker after each operation in order to secure the fruit. On being severed from the branch the fruit falls into a cup on an endless chain and is carried to the bottom of the standard by gravitation.

Cromwell, Conn.—W. R. Pierson says the spring business is coming fully up to the best previous records, the entire A. N. Pierson staff having as much to do as can be done, and then some. It is the regular experience at this time of year.

South Framingham, Mass.—The Boston Globe for April 4 carried several pictures and a sketch of John T. Butterworth and his orchids. Mr. Butterworth came from England, and has been in the business for twenty-five years. He is a member of the town park commission, director in two of the local banks and member of the board of trade.

Hartford, Conn.—To enable contestants to make plans in plenty of time, the prize list for the dahlia show of the Connecticut Horticultural Society, to be held during the third week in September, has been published by James M. Adams, chairman of the publicity committee. About half the classes are for professionals.

Braintree, Mass.—Carl Waldecker, of Waldecker Bros., 37 Sampson street, who had not been heard from since last July, is with the Fourteenth German Army Corps, now at Arras, France. His brother Herman has received a letter from him, telling of his enlistment. After visiting his mother at Baden, Germany, he went to Switzerland. Before starting for this country, he again visited his mother, and as the war was then under way, he was conscripted. For the last five months he has been fighting in trenches nine feet deep. He is not an American citizen, but expects to return to Braintree when the war is over.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

THE members of the S. A. F. this week received their 1915 buttons, which are of standard design but unusually attractive in coloring this year.

JOHN WANAMAKER said that advertising "pulls"—that it does not "jerk." It is a big thought, expressed simply, and a splendid guide for the man who is just beginning to advertise.

EVERYONE recognizes that nowadays success in the flower business can be secured in a few years, where formerly a whole lifetime often was required. But how many have stopped to consider the part newspaper advertising plays in these quick successes?

THE evidences are that moderate prices will secure the distribution of far greater quantities of flowers than ever have been produced in this country, but that it may necessitate some changes in the methods or machinery of distribution to prevent congestion.

THERE is a well known saying that "It is an ill wind that blows nobody good." That will apply to the reported destruction by frost of a large part of the Texas cape jasmine crop. If the supply of cape jasmine is less the Memorial day demand for peonies will be greater.

THIS is the time of year when collections demand a larger share of one's attention than they usually receive. The summer will soon be here and the florist's patrons will be vacationing. Experience teaches that bills not collected in the spring are apt to hang over until autumn.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

THREE YEARS.

Hooper, James D., Richmond, Va.

TWO YEARS.

Brown, B., Utica, N. Y.
Phillips, John, Amanda, O.
Wisterman & Co., Galion, O.
James, E., Oakland, Cal.
Bagley's Floral Place, Anamosa, Ia.
Plowman, G. F., Iron Mountain, Mich.
Luthringer, L., Woodland, Cal.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

THE EASTER SURPLUS.

A consideration of the reports of Easter business, including those from all sections of the country, brings out a surprising similarity of experiences; the difference seems to be in degree only. Think it over.

Almost everywhere business was good; a storm did much harm over a wide section of the country, but it did not obscure the evidences that the people want flowers more than ever they did. But the retail demand came almost all in the last couple of days. And there was more or less stock left almost everywhere—more stock unsold than ever before even in the cities and towns where business conditions were best.

It leads to the conclusion that the production of plants and cut flowers has outstripped the development of the retailing end of the business. The people want the stock and, at prevailing prices, will take in the aggregate far greater quantities than ever before, but the selling end can not display, sell and deliver all that is produced and get away with it in the few short hours during which the work heretofore has been done.

The trouble, for trouble evidently there is, lies not with the demand, which is stronger than ever, but with the trade's methods of meeting the demand.

What the trade seems most to need is a means of suddenly expanding and, again, suddenly contracting its contact with the public. Regretfully, the growers find the department stores the easiest if not the only way of getting the great expansion of outlet that occasionally is required.

TAG MEN SHARE PROFITS.

So many florists get their delivery tags made to order by the Dennison Mfg. Co. that the trade will be interested in the following news item from Boston, where the company has its general offices:

"The most radical profit-sharing plan ever undertaken by a big corporation has been put into effect by the Dennison Mfg. Co. This $6,000,000 corporation, with factories at South Framingham, has been turned over to its 2,400 employees, who will have full control. Only the eight per cent preferred stock is retained by the owners, who will have no voice in the affairs of the company."

AGAIN THE RECORD.

No issue of The Review ever had carried so much classified plant advertising as appeared in last week's paper —18⅔ pages of the "little wonder ads," as one user called them.

The increase in the number of classified ads this season has been due principally to the florists in the east who are finding the middle west their best market this year—those who are turning to The Review as a means of cleaning up a surplus or as the vehicle for carrying their offers to the buyers in the most prosperous section of the United States.

EVERYBODY PLEASED.

The successful business man, in any line, will tell you that one of his principal compensations is in the knowledge that he is giving service, satisfaction and profit to his customers. The sense of giving value received comes from such expressions as these:

I must say The Review is the best and safest selling agent under the sun. Whenever stock goes slow I use The Review to push it. Enclosed see what a good customer of mine says of The Review.—W. Bezdek, Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 19, 1915.

And this is what the good customer said:

I saw your ad in the good old Review.—A. A. Lohman, Hastings, Neb., April 15, 1915.

And then there's the report from the other end of the country:

The classified ad in The Review has sold well for me.—George H. Glaentzel, proprietor Lily Pond Nurseries, Camden, Me., April 19, 1915.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Weather forecast for the week beginning Wednesday, April 21, issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., for the upper Mississippi and plains states: Generally fair weather with temperatures considerably above the normal is indicated for these districts during practically the entire week.

The market continues weak, although the glut is not so pronounced as that of last week. Since April 15 stock has been moving slightly better. Prices, however, remain not far from the low mark for all but fancy and select grades. The worst sufferers are those who depend to a great extent on the city trade. Those with a wide shipping business are in a position to move their high grade stock with less difficulty and clean up fairly well. The quality of the stock offered ranges from excellent to poor. Practically all bulbous stock is in the latter class and finds little demand.

Carnations are plentiful, although nothing but the best stock, of which there is an abundance, finds any real sale. Roses of all kinds, with the possible exception of fancy Beauties, continue in good supply; but the market for them has been far from lively. Quality was affected to a certain degree by two days of midsummer weather at the opening of this week. Southern jonquils are here in abundance and there still is considerable home-grown stock on the market, but the demand for these, as for Paper Whites and daffodils, seems dormant. Easter lilies and callas are still on the market in large numbers and selling cheaply in quantity, but the flood of lilies that missed Easter now is receding. A pleasing feature of the market is the unusually high quality of the sweet peas. As corsages, these seem to have supplanted almost everything else, and the demand for them is good. Snapdragons and gladioli of superior grade are in fair supply.

Although many of the violet growers stopped shipping with the passing of Easter, last week's receipts piled up in most unwelcome fashion. The public preferred sweet peas, according to the retailers, who therefore refused even to make an offer for more than small quantities of violets. Wholesalers had dozens of unopened boxes on hand at closing time April 17, Saturday.

Unfortunately, there has been a succession of extremely warm days for this time of the year, and this, as a matter of course, forced more stock onto an already crowded market. On the other hand, the supply of potted plants in the hands of the retailers, that did as much as any one thing to kill the demand for cut flowers last week, is practically exhausted. In addition to this, the great numbers of blooming plants sold to the flower buying public have mostly lived their allotted life and been thrown out, so that the people are beginning to turn their attention to spring flowers. The effect of this is becoming perceptible to the retailers, who report a gradually increasing demand for corsages and dinner decorations. Thus, demand is slowly feeling its way towards the normal.

Wholesalers Expanding.

Papers were signed April 20 whereby Kyle & Foerster take the lease of the street floor store in the Atlas block, 160 North Wabash avenue, occupied in part by H. C. Rowe, and at the same time acquire the basement space below formerly occupied by the J. B. Deamud Co. The move is principally to secure additional space, as it gives about double the floor area now in use, but it also affords possibly the best location in the wholesale cut flower district as it is today. Kyle & Foerster expect to get into their new quarters about May 15. A number of changes will be necessary in the stairways, entrances, etc., before installation of fixtures can begin. An entirely new equipment is planned, including an ice machine to operate coolers on both floors.

Kyle & Foerster hold a lease on their present quarters, which it is understood will be transferred to John Kruchten, affording him also an opportunity to largely increase his facilities, although details in this deal have not yet been arranged. The present Kruchten space, one of the best located in the building, will give an opportunity for another wholesaler to get onto a popular floor.

Mr. Rowe states that he has no plans for the immediate future; he may take the smaller vacant store at 158 North Wabash, next door to the one he is giving up, or he may lay off until autumn.

Randall to Open Foreign Office.

It is announced that George Husmann will sail for Rotterdam about May 1 for the purpose of opening a European buying office for the A. L. Randall Co. For the last two years Mr. Husmann has been F. M. Johnson's chief assistant on the buying side of the Randall business, handling all the important orders. He is a Chicago boy of German parentage and is well equipped, temperamentally and by experience, to deal with the sources of supply in this trade in central Europe. The location of his permanent office has not yet been determined, but will depend largely on the course of the war.

The house 60x 500 now in process of erection is the new type of construction on which the company has been working for over a year and which it has now perfected. This is the first building of the new type to be erected and those who had a hand in designing it wanted to go over it in detail. The new superintendent of the field work at Lincoln is B. F. Various Notes.

It is worth while at this juncture, according to E. C. Amling, to pause to consider that seldom if ever has the public bought more flowers in any equal length of time than has been the case in the last three weeks. Prices are low, but, in Mr. Amling's view, business must be good, as there is little actual waste.

Fred Liebermann expects to join the forces of Kennicott Bros. Co., probably this week. He is taking a few days' vacation. His place with Zech & Mann was filled by M. Freres, formerly with Pyfer & Co.

The excellent pink carnation Peter Reinberg has been growing and selling under the name of Josie Merle will hereafter be known as Zoe Symonds. As is well known, the variety originated with W. T. Symonds, of Decorah, Ia., and has by him been registered as Zoe Symonds. This announcement is made in the hope that all who have stock of the variety will use the name registered by the originator.

No trace, as yet, has been found of F. C. Bargholtz, who disappeared April 12 while on his way to the bank to make a deposit. The Chicago police have communicated with the police of other cities and outlying towns in the belief that he may have wandered away while suffering a mental aberration.

of a suit of rough, old clothes and long, leg-wearying rambles in forgotten woodlands and among desolate sand dunes, looking for flints and other paleolithic specimens.

As evidence of the success of the plant department of Poehlmann Bros. Co., C. G. Anderson offers the information that this department is to be enlarged to the extent of four more houses.

Well satisfied with his business at 356 East Forty-third street, Abraham Iralson is negotiating the purchase of a store on West Sixty-third street, near Ashland avenue.

Business in his stand at the Forty-third street station of the south side elevated railroad has been so good that Harry Friend, who recently sold his store at 108 East Fifty-first street to Eugene Bowen, is negotiating with the officials of the elevated road for two more stands, one at the Fifty-fifth street station, the other at the Fifty-eighth street station. In addition to these, he has secured the exclusive right to the sale of flowers and the conduct of the flower ball game in the White City for the coming season, which will open May 15. He will have associated with him in this latter venture, Stanley Herold.

Numerous complaints have been heard from the south side florists of the increasing number of boys doing a basket trade on the streets and on the corners of street car intersections. It is alleged that the boys are sent out by certain florists who, without incurring the burden of high rent, cut into the legitimate store business to an alarming extent.

Realizing that old friends are usually best, commercially as well as socially, F. C. Mendonza has removed from 6341 South Halsted street, where he has been only a few weeks, to 436 East Forty-third street, only a block from the stand he occupied for several years.

The Market.

The market conditions are about the same as last reported. There is plenty of stock to be had at low prices, except in good Beauties, which sell at fair prices, especially medium-stemmed stock. There are home-grown sweet peas to burn; they cannot be sold at any price, on account of the hot weather. These conditions ought to be favorable to the retail florists, as most of the retailers are selling carnations at 75 cents a dozen and buying them at a cent apiece. Every retail store ought to take advantage of this, so as to help pay for the summer expenses, which are at hand.

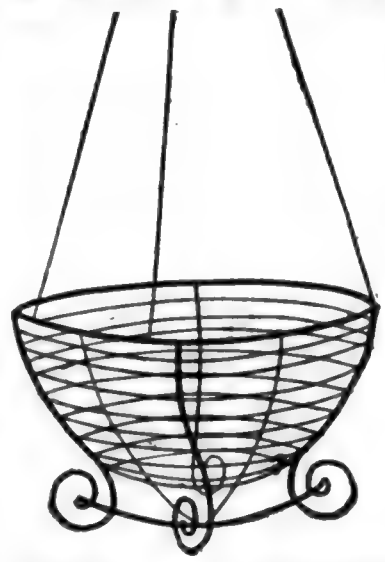
week. There was a particularly large quantity of work for the funeral of W. R. Nelson, the editor of the Kansas City Star. For this there were flowers from all over the United States, including designs from President Wilson and other prominent people. Only setpieces went to the cemetery; all the sprays and baskets were taken to the hospitals.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club held a banquet at the Coates House April 19. It was well attended, as good speakers had been obtained. The club is progressing well, as is shown by the good attendance. Subjects of interest are discussed at each meeting. It will be only a short time until the florists outside the club will realize the work that is being done.



The Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. has commenced to tear down five old greenhouses and will cover the same space with three houses of greater width. Business is all that could be expected.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. received a large number of out-of-town orders for W. R. Nelson's funeral. A great many baskets and other arrangements of flowers were also sent by this firm.

Samuel Murray had a large share of the work for the funeral of W. R. Nelson, supplying more flowers than for any previous funeral. Miss Haden, who had charge of all the flowers at this funeral, had a big job on her hands, sending all the setpieces to the cemetery and all the sprays and baskets to the hospitals. There were enough cut flowers for every hospital in Greater Kansas City.

Arthur Newell reports good business. He has had plenty of decorating, with many orders booked ahead.

The loss from the fire that occurred at the home of T. A. Moseley was satisfactorily adjusted by the insurance company, which allowed $600 damages.

T. J. Noll & Co. report business as good. They have a hard time getting good medium-stemmed Beauties. Mr. Noll has just made two more big flower pot sales, one to the park board and the other to the Longview Greenhouses.

For some unknown reason, business was much depressed in the first half of last week. Heavy consignments arrived daily, but there were few customers. There was so much stock on hand that it was procurable at the buyers' figures. This state of affairs changed toward the end of the week and good, brisk business followed. pecially in roses. Beauties are rich in color, with a variety of grades to suit all. The general public is taking hold of the new roses, Ophelia and Mrs. Russell, with great satisfaction. Rostand, Ward and Sunburst, with several pink varieties, sell well. There are lots of carnations in the market and they carry a low figure. There is an abundance of Easter lilies and the supply of callas is also meeting the demand. Violets continue to sell, but at low prices. The demand for sweet peas is good and they clear well. Pink, red and white German stocks are useful flowers for funeral work and are being used extensively. Gardenias and orchids are not meeting with a large demand, though their quality is exceptionally good. White and yellow daisies, myosotis and pansies all sell well. Valley is plentiful. Daffodils and jonquils are decreasing in quantity. There are plenty of tulips. The supply of greens meets all demands.

The Market.

The feature of the week ending April 21 was the cleanup of Saturday, April 17. Perhaps the growers will not think it much of a cleanup when the returns reach them, but it really was an achievement to dispose of most, not all, of the flowers at some price. To be sure, the price was extremely low on much of the stock, but such a quantity of flowers has never been seen in this market before in April. There was business—quite a little of it—but it bore no proportion to the size of the receipts. So it really was something to be proud of that those flowers were sold—pardon the word—at some price. The good flowers, suitable for shipping or for buyers who want selected stock, brought fair though rather low figures. The balance, taken in quantity, carried away unselected, just as it came, for cash, brought prices that were heartrendingly low. The only encouragement lies in the fact that they brought something, which, under the circumstances, leads to the hope for better things when normal conditions return. They have not returned yet; in the face of warm weather that can hardly be expected. The height of the crop seems to be passing; when it is gone better conditions may prevail.

Southern daffodils have suffered the worst season in their history; some of the wholesale houses have been obliged to urge their shippers to discontinue, the demand being so poor under existing market conditions as to make the flowers undesirable. Indoor-grown Emperor is fine; there also are good outdoor local daffodils and indoor tulips, poeticus and Paper Whites for which there is but slight demand. Violets are nearly over. The singles are over with some growers, but not with others; there are a few Campbell and Louise coming in, of rather inferior quality. Snapdragon is fine and plentiful. Daisies are excellent, particularly the yellow. Spanish iris, chiefly yellow with a few of other colors, is quite a factor. Valley has been selling poorly. Gardenias are cheap and plentiful. Just a little demand is springing up for lilies at prices that are in sympathy with the general market. The bulk of the business is done in carnations, roses and sweet peas. Greens continue active.

The National Flower Show.

A meeting of the chairmen of the several national flower show committees was held in Horticultural hall April 14, for the purpose of organization. Vice-Chairman Farenwald presided. The chairmen of the several committees are as follows:

Advertising—Charles Henry Fox. Mr. Fox will be assisted by a number of the ablest local newspaper men, one from each of the dailies.

Mrs. Charles Russell

as they are now coming in to us, are of the finest quality ever offered by anyone—magnificent, large, heavy flowers, on long, stiff stems—exhibition blooms they are. Mrs. Russell is the best value of any Rose today.

Mr. Bayersdorfer Talks.

Harry Bayersdorfer chatted pleasantly with the newspaper men on current topics one afternoon this week. Mr. Bayersdorfer intimated that there would be something doing soon; his firm had, he said, a remarkably strong line of supplies, considering conditions; the shipments detained at Rotterdam and other ports by the British blockade were giving lots of trouble; they were his firm's property and must be paid for though away over the bright blue sea. Our government had been appealed to so far in vain. Senator Penrose wrote Mr. Bayersdorfer that something might be done provided the official chiefs would stay home and attend to business instead of chautauquas, which was funny but not satisfying. Mr. Bayersdorfer said that novelties continue to take up all his spare time, pointing out an original pedestal, a pleasing design intended to match an exclusive pot cover. Turning from this novelty to a lace paper bouquet holder, Mr. Bayersdorfer grew reminiscent. This revival of the old, he said, recalled his first day in the supply business, when as a boy his uncle, then head of the leading supply firm of the day, sent him with a wooden box full of these bouquet holders under each arm out the Ridge road to sell. Carfare, then 7 cents, was rarely allowed in those days, lest it would eat up the profit, and good long walks out the Ridge nearly to the Falls and then over to Swampoodle, by which name Twenty-second and Clearfield was then designated, were the result. Mr. Bayersdorfer traced the principal events in supplies since then, so entertainingly that his auditors were sorry when he had finished.

Various Notes.

Gormley Montgomery, nephew of J. H. Dunlop, the noted rosarian of Toronto, Canada, spent a little time in this city last week. Mr. Montgomery says that two more houses 60x400 feet each will be added to the three now in operation on his uncle's place. The newer roses, Mrs. Charles Russell, Lady Alice Stanley and Mrs. George Shawyer, are favored. Richmond and the Providence strain of White Killarney are preferred in their colors.

William J. Baker is serving on the jury in the Municipal court this week and the fortnight following.

The Market.

We have been favored with a week of clear, warm weather. Though the nights have been cool, it is ideal weather for the production of blooms, and as the retailers are not doing more than an ordinary business and the growers are sending in large cuts to the commission houses, it is necessary to find an outlet for a large quantity of surplus stock. The street fakers are able to buy almost unlimited supplies at ridiculously low prices, and while this is distressing to the growers, it is the only outlet available, as the retailers only carry enough stock for immediate sales. It is doubtful whether any immediate improvement of the market is in sight. There is enough stock of all varieties and no special demand for any special line. The commission houses cleaned up pretty well on Saturday, April 17, but at low prices, as already intimated.

Various Notes.

D. T. Conner, of the Lord & Burnham Co., was in town last week.

The store at 1409 West Baltimore street is under the management of De Forrest Terry instead of William Terry, as was formerly reported.

The Woman's Civic League will hold its annual flower market at the base of Washington's monument, in Mount Vernon place, May 12. This organization is sincere in its efforts to promote the beautifying of the homes of the city, and deserves the hearty support and coöperation of all those identified with the trade.

The next meeting of the Florists' Club will be held April 26 and Edward Kress will talk on "Rose Growing for Outdoor Bedding Purposes." The committee on Mothers' day publicity will present its report. This subject is of interest to growers and retailers alike and a large attendance is hoped for, as final arrangements will be made at this time. W. F. E.

Princeton, N. J.—A recent gift of $6,000 will be used by the board of trustees of Princeton University for the erection of a greenhouse for the department of botany.

LANCASTER, PA.

Club Meeting.

The Lancaster County Florists' Club held its annual ladies' night Thursday, April 15, at the Stevens House, where dinner was served at 7:30. Over fifty florists and their wives and friends were in attendance. The tables in the ballroom were set four-square, with a palm garden in the center. Beds of blooming plants added to the beauty. The tables were adorned with magnificent vases of Mrs. Ward and Philadelphia carnations. Garlands of smilax and cut roses were used to excellent advantage. The ladies' corsage bouquets were of the newer varieties of sweet peas and were arranged by Lemon S. Landis. Eckenrode's orchestra played.

Miss Katharine Seibert, of B. F. Barr & Co., and Mr. Savage furnished delightful vocal music. The German yodel song by Alphonse Peters, gardener to Grove Locher, was much appreciated. The selections by Miss Amanda Landis, of the elocution department of Millersville State Normal school, were much enjoyed. Her Lancaster county Dutch dialect version of "Stonewall Jackson and Barbara Frietchie," especially, will be long remembered by all who had the pleasure to hear it.

President B. F. Barr, in a few appropriate remarks, voiced the sentiment of all present, that the evening was one of the notable social events in the history of the Lancaster County Florists' Club. Ira H. Landis, of Paradise, J. Rutter Hess, of Gap, and Chas. B. Herr, of Strasburg, deserve much credit for arranging the event. H. K. R.

ELIZABETH, N. J.

Leahy, the Florist, 1169 East Jersey street, reports a large amount of funeral work at the present time, and last week had several weddings to decorate for. A heavy sale of seeds is reported at the greenhouse, at 1220 East Broad street.

A greatly increased business is reported at Blakely's since moving into the new quarters, at 80 Broad street. The new store is much larger and more convenient than the old one, and underneath is a large storage cellar.

C. M. Hutchinson, who has a greenhouse at 1216 North Broad street, directly opposite the Evergreen cemetery, has more than 20,000 geraniums, most of which will be used in the cemetery. The biggest part of the output of this greenhouse is used in the cemetery.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:-

A few weeks ago I started a small card in the Retailers' Telegraph Delivery department of The Review.

I have paid you only $2.50 so far. And this is what happened:

I received orders for Wyoming delivery at Christmas amounting to $142.50.

I think that is doing fairly well.

Respectfully yours,

The Market.

The wholesale market conditions last week were even worse than those of the previous week. While the demand was better for the higher grade of stock, the increased shipments more than offset this advantage. The prices obtained for some of the stock hardly paid the cost of cutting. Overproduction has glutted the market the last two weeks and not dull business in retail circles, as reports from them show that business has not been bad since Easter. Funeral work has been quite plentiful, as well as social work. The stock coming daily to this market is not up to the standard quality. The medium grade is generally bought by the downtown florists and department stores for bargain sales. Where transient trade is heavy during the week, florists in other parts of the city buy the better grade of stock for their regular patrons.

Sweet peas and narcissi are in heaviest supply of any of the cut stock. Roses in all varieties are abundant, grading among them some excellent stock. Carnations are in heavy supply, with the Enchantress varieties much in evidence. Bulbous stock is plentiful. The southern stock stagnates the market. Tulips, daffodils, Easter lilies, callas, valley and narcissi are hard to dispose of at any price. Snapdragon has little demand. All kinds of greens have been in excellent demand, with prices as usual.

Various Notes.

The County Growers' Association will hold no meeting next month, owing to the busy planting season. The meet-

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The last week has been one of uninterrupted good weather. The frost that was predicted by the weather bureau did not materialize, and toward the latter part of the week the demand for bedding plants became strong, and that for tomato plants was heavy. As some of our growers produce the latter, they have had a good trade. Vegetable plants as a side line is a good investment for most florists.

The overproduction of cut flowers amounts almost to a glut at present; the sales are about as good as they usually are at this season. There is considerable difference in the ways in which the different firms are handling the situation; some work the out-of-town trade hard, others maintain the usual prices and consign the surplus to the dump, and some make special prices and try in this way to dispose of the surplus.

Outdoors, the sudden arrival of warm weather coupled with dry weather has brought everything out at once, and bulbous flowers are remaining in bloom but half of the usual time. In another week narcissi of all kinds will be but a memory, and already iris is plentiful. Peonies promise to be here within another week or ten days if there is no change in the weather. Bulbous stock of all kinds has done unusually well this season, possibly as a result of the cold winter.

The prediction that there would be an unusually heavy demand for cannas here this season is proving true. The severe winter killed most of those that were left outdoors, and as most people regard these plants as hardy here, it means that the trade has about all of the available plants. People are just awakening to the fact that they must buy or go without. The next two weeks will bring a demand that will clean up everyone's supply, I predict.

Various Notes.

Hillcrest School Farm continues to have many visitors to see their bulbs blooming in the field. They have hyacinths that have grown four years here, and they have matured as well as could be desired from the small bulblets. They are hoping that they can grow these bulbs profitably.

The Joy Floral Co. is planting a large acreage of tomatoes this season. This is a new departure for them. They have had a good business the last week, a special feature being a sale of dormant roses. They have sold several hundred.

The Market.

The bottom seems to have dropped completely out of the market. These conditions arise from time to time and must be accepted as inevitable under the present methods of distribution. It does seem, however, that prices are at present lower and conditions less satisfactory than ever before at this season. We have not had any warm weather until the present week, but the demand has been feeble for the increasing output. There is renewed talk of adopting other means of clearance, but we have heard so much of this in the past that little credence is placed in it.

Roses are selling at the lowest prices of the year; in fact, no reasonable offer is refused. It seems to be a case of taking what is offered for them. A few varieties sell moderately well. Of these Taft is coming to the front and rivals Ophelia in favor. Hadley, Russell and Killarney Queen sell well. Yellows are a little scarce. About all other sorts are in heavy oversupply. The best Beauties occasionally make $3 per dozen, but the larger number go at $12 per hundred, and trade is slow at that price. Carnations have dropped still lower. A few select flowers make $2 to $3 per hundred, but more sell at $1, and quantities much lower than this. Single violets still appeared last week from one or two growers. Doubles will continue for another fortnight. Sweet peas are in heavy supply and are hard to clean up.

There is a glut of snapdragons, the call for these being poor. Bulbous flowers are more druggy. With some growers the season is nearly over. It has, on the whole, been a good bulb winter. Spanish iris cannot be moved, although the quality is splendid. The call for callas and Easter lilies is decidedly weak. Pansies and cornflowers sell moderately well, but yellow marguerites have taken a decided slump. White marguerites meet with a poor sale. Cattleyas as yet are not abundant, but the demand is light; the same holds true of gardenias. For green goods the call is light. Pot plant trade is rather quiet, but growers were so well cleaned out of flowering plants at Easter that they have no great quantity for disposal yet.

Club Meeting.

There was an attendance of 110 at the meeting of the Florists' Club April 20. H. Howard Pepper, proprietor of Melrose Gardens, Providence, R. I., who is trust officer of the Industrial Trust Co., of that city, delivered a splendid address entitled "Tales of a Teller, or Some Things that Every Florist Should Know about Banking." The talk was illustrated with forms in daily use in the bank and covered in an informal way some advantages of making a will; the descent of property; the difference between a trust company and a national bank; why leave your property in trust; how to make a will, showing a simple form of will; different kinds of bonds, with samples; witnessing a will; joint accounts; the importance of "setting your house in order" and caring for valuable papers; the collection of notes and drafts; exchanging checks at the clearing house; the individual and general bookkeepers; why protest a note or check; overdrafts; proper and improper ways of endorsing checks, also the women's way; caution about endorsing for others; participation or savings accounts; errors in deposits or pay rolls; the check teller and his work; shorts and overs; foreign exchange; travelers' checks; letters of credit; transferring money by wire; loans and discounts; how to borrow money at a bank; the receiving teller; opening an account, signatures and identifications; how to detect counterfeits; getting credit at a bank; the paying teller and his telautograph; checks dated ahead; certified checks; stopping payment on lost checks; perforating machines; who is responsible for raised checks? The talk was full of practical advice gained from a long experience in banking and some of the incidents he related were quite amusing.

Mr. Pepper's hobby is outdoor roses and he has built up a fine trade in these plants.

The exhibits included Richmond, Shawyer and White Killarney from Thomas Roland; Richmond and some of John Cook's seedlings from Eber Holmes; Mrs. Taft and Christie-Miller from W. H. Elliott; herbaceous calceolarias from A. M. Davenport; rhododendrons from the Cameron collection; tulips, narcissi, a new hybrid lælio-cattleya and new French hydrangeas from W. N. Craig, the two latter receiving reports of merit; fine yellow marguerites from Edward Winkler.

A message of sympathy was sent Charles Sander because of the death of his wife.

The annual picnic was set for East Milton, July 22.

Various Notes.

Fire in the Arnold Arboretum April 18 burned over ten acres of ground and seriously damaged many choice trees and shrubs. In the propagating houses are flats and pans containing hundreds of thousands of seedling rhododendrons from China or Japan, also great numbers of seedling conifers. Jackson Dawson says evergreens have suffered more severely than for many years, owing to the intensely dry late winter and spring.

George W. Foster, of Wamesit, is sending in a fine lot of carnations to the wholesale flower market. His leaders are Rosette, Champion, White Wonder, Beacon and Pink Delight. He has some Gloriosa, but finds it unprofitable and will drop it. He has a splendid lot of pansy plants.

J. T. Butterworth, in addition to cattleyas, is cutting a fine lot of Miltonia Bleuana, Dendrobium Jamesianum and fancy cypripediums.

W. H. Ward, of Montvale, has had great success with carnations this season. Particularly good are Pink Delight, White Enchantress, White Wonder and Beacon. He will try some Matchless next season. He also has a fine lot of marguerites, callas and myosotis.

William R. Morris, of Wellesley Hills, sells as fine a grade of roses as anyone in the local market. He still finds Killarney, White Killarney and Richmond the most profitable, but will plant one or two other kinds next season.

At Penn's more funeral work has been turned out during the last fortnight than ever before in a similar period. Mothers' day, as usual, will be made a big feature here.

The course of field days instituted by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society at the Arnold Arboretum, to commence April 22, starting at 3 p. m. from the Forest Hills entrance in charge of J. G. Jack, is a step in the right direction and is sure to prove popular. I hope to see the veteran Jackson Dawson accompany the parties each week, as he can give more valuable practical information regarding the Arboretum treasures than anyone else.

The Budlong Rose Co. is strong on Hadley, of which the firm receives about 1,200 daily. J. L. Mock, Prince d'Arenberg, Ophelia, Killarney Queen and American Beauty are fine at present.

Wax Bros. always have attractive windows. The various spring flowers as they come in season are well featured. Pansies in large bunches have a heavy sale here; so have yellow primroses, ranunculi, irises and anemones. General business has been good here of late.

The Boston Rose Co. is receiving heavy shipments of Hadley, Russell, Killarney Queen, Killarney Brilliant and White Killarney from the Montgomery Co., Hadley, Mass.

The staff of the W. W. Edgar Co. is working overtime getting the immense stock of bedding plants in condition for the coming season. Advance orders are heavier than in any previous year.

The sympathy of a host of friends goes out to Charles Sander, the respected superintendent of Prof. C. S. Sargent's estate, Brookline, in the death of his wife April 12. Mrs. Sander was a most estimable woman, esteemed by all who knew her.

C. B. Turner, of Roxbury, has bought the Kidder estate, at Morton street, Stoughton, with ten acres of splendid land, house, barn, etc., and will grow both farm and garden crops.

W. C. Ward, of East Milton, one of our leading pansy specialists, is sending in many thousands of fine flowers daily, which meet with a ready sale. Pansies seem to increase in favor here as cut flowers. Some of the retailers find a ready sale for them in large bunches containing several hundred flowers each, those of one color being most in demand.

F. J. Dolansky at his stand in the wholesale market has a lot of finely flowered gardenias in pans, which are eagerly bought by the high-class stores.

W. S. Phelps, of Lexington, is strong on anemones, ranunculi, Spanish iris and snapdragons.

McAlpine Bros., Exeter, N. H., are cutting a good crop of Ophelia, Taft, Killarney Queen, Sunburst, Crimson Queen, Hadley and Cecile Brunner roses.

W. A. Riggs, of Auburndale, had few Easter plants left. He is now doing a good trade in boxwoods. His chief cut flowers are carnations and lilies.

Signs of spring are indicated by the flowering of forsythias, Cornus Mas, magnolias and a few other early shrubs. Early tulips and narcissi are also coming into flower. W. N. C.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June 22 to 24, 1915.

THE indications are that the heavy run of seed trade will continue throughout the entire month of April, as everything has been held back by the unseasonable weather in March.

ONE of the surprises of the war for the British seed trade is the awakening it has brought as to how generally Germany supplied the world's seed requirements, even of those seeds not grown in the empire.

Two small trees in tubs standing in front of the store of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, are attracting quite a bit of attention. One is placarded "The right way to prune," the other, "The wrong way to prune."

THE newspapers of the allied nations have made much of the auction by the German army of seeds from the Denaiffe establishment at Carignan, France, an official advertisement of which fell into British hands.

WORD comes from London that about March 15 the German government forbade trade papers in the seed interests to be sent to neutral countries and also put the ban on the publication in Germany of advertisements of foreign dealers.

INCORPORATION papers have been issued to the Broadview Seed Co., of Broadview, Mont. The capital stock is $30,000, of which $16,000 has been subscribed. The incorporators are Thomas S. Hunt, M. I. Warden and M. J. Kastenholz, all of Broadview.

BURGLARS blew open a safe in the offices of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, April 12, and escaped with $246 and $3 in stamps. They placed bags of seed around the safe to prevent the sound of the explosion being heard in the street. This is the third time a safe of this firm has been robbed.

THE Barteldes Seed Co., Lawrence, Kan., has brought suit against the Montana Hardware Co., of Lewiston, Mont., to recover $750, representing the profit it alleges it would have made if the defendant had fulfilled a contract to ship a carload of timothy seed to the plaintiff, last year, the agreed price being 5 cents per pound.

ARNOLD RINGIER had quite a scare a few nights ago when he was routed from his bed by a telephone call informing him that there was a fire in the store of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago. At the end of the night ride he found there had been a small blaze in one of the display windows, caused by the upsetting of an incubator lamp by a small pup. The prompt action of the firemen prevented any serious damage.

MOTT-LY MEDITATIONS.

The Darch & Hunter Seed Co., London, Ont., says the embargo placed upon Dwarf Essex rape seed hits the Canadian seedsmen rather hard, as it has become popular, being recognized as a splendid sheep food. It is imported from England and Holland, chiefly from the first named country, and it is presumed the seed is being held for the oil it is found to yield.

Robert Thistle, Stratford, Ont., says he is the true Canadian variety. He is building up a good seed business.

The Harvey Seed Co., Buffalo, N. Y., believes its export trade will exceed all previous records.

O. W. Clark & Son, Buffalo, report an unusual demand for vegetable seeds, owing to an increased acreage under cultivation by many of their patrons in the Bison City. W. M.

BREACH OF CONTRACT TO BUY.

As a general rule of law, the sum which one is entitled to recover as damages for breach by another of a contract to buy seed or other commodity is measured by the excess of the contract price above the price at which the former is able to resell the subject of sale. But, as pointed out by the Wisconsin Supreme court in the case of Gehl vs. Milwaukee Produce Co., 81 Northwestern Reporter 666, the seller must use due diligence to make the resale at as advantageous a price as possible; the measure of damage is not the "difference between what they sold the seed for and what they were to have under the contract." It was further decided in the same case that when a contract buyer of seeds wrongfully refuses to receive them, and the seller is compelled to make a resale at a loss, he is not entitled to recover from the purchaser, as an element of damage, a commission for making the resale. S.

CANADIAN DUTY ON CATALOGS.

U. S. postal officials call attention that advertising circulars are liable in Canada to a specific customs duty at the rate of 15 cents per pound, which duty Canadian customs officials are required to collect when such pamphlets arrive by mail, even though each pamphlet bears a different address. But Canadian customs officials are authorized to remit such duty in respect to bona fide trade catalogues and price lists not designed to advertise the sale of goods by any person in Canada, when sent into Canada in single copies addressed to merchants therein, and not exceeding one copy to any merchant for his own use, but not for distribution.

Customs duties on catalogues, etc., sent into Canada may be prepaid by means of Canadian customs duty stamps is a school day memory, but this advice is still good. These are hustling, busy days of springtime, and the florist who begins the day with the call of the early bird will get somewhere—providing, of course, that he keeps on the right track. Silver Pink is one good line to follow. It leads over the high places to success. Seedling plants of this tried and true variety will do more business than any Snapdragon in existence. Its pleasing color will sell it anywhere, and its great productiveness will make profit. Note, we refer to seedlings, not to cuttings.

"Up with the Lark"

Not too early to begin sowing seed for fall blooms. Price of new crop seed of our original Silver Pink Snapdragon, $1.00 per packet; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00.

Plants for early flowering at the following low prices:

SILVER PINK SEEDLINGS..$3.00 per 100; 200 for $ 5.00
Yellow, Garnet and Nelrose.... 4.00 per 100; 300 for 10.00

Remember, we grow Snapdragons. Make up your order today. Free cultural directions. All orders cash.

The above mentioned customs duty stamps can be obtained in denominations of one, two and five cents each, on application to the Commissioner of Customs, Ottawa, Canada.

ANOTHER SEED SALE DECISION.

In a suit brought to recover damages against a seller of seed oats for delivering a variety different from that ordered, resulting in an inferior crop, the Texas Court of Civil Appeals held that, if the purchaser had no opportunity to discover that the seed was inferior to that ordered before it was sown, he was not precluded from recovering the excess of the value of the crop which would have been produced above that actually grown. (Handy vs. Roberts, 165 Southwestern Reporter 37.) In addition, these points are decided:

Failure to deliver seed of the variety ordered does not constitute a mere breach of warranty, but involves a total breach of the contract.

Under a sale of seed by description, the seller impliedly warrants that the seed delivered will be of that kind.

Attention to Business

If florists in America would pay as much attention to their business at all times of the year as they do at Easter, there would be less complaint about profits. The only difference between Easter and any other time of the year is that Easter time has been advertised in connection with flowers. The fact that the demand is not as great at other times is due to lack of advertising. To gouge the public at Easter time, the only time they are acquainted with flowers, is a sure taboo to the business at other times of the year. There are 100,000,000 people in the United States, 75% living in cities and towns, and there are less than 1000 real live florists to cater to them. The time is coming very soon when there will be a change—when the large turnover will count far more than the high prices which only a few can afford to pay. Even now florists are beginning to notice that there is not the demand for high-priced stuff. More plants are being sold for less money than ever before. The florists of Cleveland are on the right track—they are getting the public acquainted with them. The live wires there are helping the business. Of course, incidentally, they are charitable to the scrubs who are not Charter Members. If the Society of American Florists, etc., could afford to advertise flowers broadcast in such result-getting publications as the Saturday Evening Post for a year, as it should be done, American florists could not produce enough flowers to satisfy one-half the demand. The reason the writer harps on advertising so much is selfish to the extent that when the florists are successful they will buy more bulbs, and as lily bulbs are very profitable to growers, and Horseshoe Brand the best grade, our business will increase with that of American florists.

CREATES INSECTICIDE BOARD.

The new horticultural law of the state of Washington creates a state insecticide and fungicide board, "to analyze and report upon any insecticides and fungicides offered for sale to be used" for horticultural purposes. Horticultural inspectors must submit to the board samples of insecticides and fungicides offered for sale.

The law forbids the sale of insecticides or fungicides which are misbranded or adulterated, and contains specific requirements as to the constituent elements of various chemical preparations. S.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Oswego, Ore.—A recent addition to the gardening craft here is J. Watson, formerly of Elmendorf Farm, Lexington, Ky.

Pasadena, Cal.—John S. Cravens has secured a permit to erect a greenhouse, to cost $500, at 1101 South Orange Grove boulevard.

Porterville, Cal.—H. A. Scott, formerly in the nursery business near Visalia, has bought a 5-acre tract just east of the city limits, on which he will go in for truck gardening. Mr. Scott paid $1,000 for the land.

Tacoma, Wash.—At the last meeting of the Tacoma Rose Society, the members decided to invite E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., and Benjamin Hammond, of Beacon, N. Y., to visit Tacoma when they, as is expected, visit the west this summer, and to arrange an entertainment for them if they accept the invitation. At the same meeting of the society it was decided that a resolution be sent to the governor of the state, suggesting that he appoint an Arbor day in the fall for the Puget sound region, as trees cannot be properly planted here in the spring, as is done on the present Arbor day in the eastern part of the state.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

A dull week followed Easter; the trade fell off rapidly after the festival. Funeral work was about the only outlet for flowers in the city, and many out-of-town customers of the wholesalers have either cut out their orders or cut them in half; this is more marked in the Arizona and Nevada towns, where the hot weather is now in full blast. Daffodils are scarcer now, but Darwin tulips are plentiful and good. Indoor carnations are selling in some of the department stores as low as 10 cents per dozen; what the grower gets after deducting his expenses of gathering and shipping is problematical. Roses are keeping up somewhat better in price, as the outdoor crop is not yet in full swing, though by the time these notes appear it probably will be. The light blue Delphinium Belladonna makes pretty window displays and lasts well. Ferns and all kinds of greens are plentiful and good.

Various Notes.

What is known locally as a Santa Ana wind sprang up here suddenly in the afternoon of April 13 and did considerable damage. The Pasadena Horticultural Society's show was to be opened the next day and a considerable number of the plant exhibits had been staged, when, with hardly any warning, the large tent was blown down, wrecking a good deal of stock and doing other damage. Several people were in and around the tent at the time, but no one was injured as far as could be seen. President Shields at once got busy and arranged for the show to be taken to a large vacant building recently occupied by the Pasadena Furniture Co., and here it was opened in the morning of April 14. As large an attendance could hardly be expected here as in the fine position close to the Hotel Maryland, where these shows are usually held, but, judging by appearances at the opening, the general public was patronizing the show liberally.

Two men were killed at Eighth street and Broadway, April 12, by the breaking of some tackle by which the large boxes of flowers were being hoisted to the roof of the Homburger department store. Considering the crowds that daily throng this part of town, it is remarkable that more were not killed or injured. Howard & Smith are supplying the boxes and plants, but I believe had nothing to do with the faulty tackle.

A well known landmark has been destroyed in the shape of the large old Eucalyptus citriodora tree that for many years has reared its head 100 feet or more at the city nursery of Howard & Smith. The high wind of April 13 snapped the fine old tree, but, fortunately, no one was injured when it fell.

Fred Sperry, of the L. A. Floral Co., left here April 16 for a trip to the San Francisco exposition, expecting to be in the Bay City and neighborhood about a week.

H. R. Richards.

VENTURA, CAL.

Calling the other day for a few minutes at the nursery of the Theodosia B. Shepherd Co., I noted a most interesting lot of plants. The ferrarias are not often seen, but here there are many large clumps, blooming in the greatest profusion, and the somewhat somber-tinted flowers are exceedingly attractive. Fuchsia syringæfolia, a species bearing large spikes of crimson flowers somewhat resembling those of a Persian lilac, is represented by an immense specimen. Euphorbia jacquiniæflora, in full bloom outdoors then, is worthy of mention, as also is a fine bed of Gerbera Jamesoni, the true red-flowering type, with none of the washed-out looking tints of the hybrid forms so much in evidence of late. I was a little too early to see the petunias at their best, though some of the ruffled forms were beautiful. Some immense clumps of the Madagascar traveler's trees were also in bloom.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

1915 Convention Garden.

At the last meeting of the convention committee of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, Daniel MacRorie, for the committee on convention garden, reported that the commissioners of Golden Gate park had kindly consented to allow the Society of American Florists a portion of the park for a convention garden. The site chosen is admirably adapted for the purpose. The commissioners did not limit the Society of American Florists to space, making it possible for exhibitors to make their displays as liberal as they may desire. Florists, seedsmen, nurserymen and gardeners from all parts are invited to exhibit.

The convention garden will be in charge of John McLaren, superintendent of Golden Gate park, San Francisco, thereby assuring exhibits the best of care and attention.

We would advise intending exhibitors to eliminate subtropical plants, such as cannas, etc., as they do not thrive well in San Francisco, on account of the cool climate. Dahlias, gladioli, etc., make a grand showing when planted there the first week in

The Market.

Many florists report business somewhat better since Easter than during the previous month, though there is no unusual activity. Last week brought a fair amount of funeral work, and decorations for exposition events, conventions, etc., used considerable quantities of cut stock and plants. Cut flowers in general are in excessive supply, with low prices for many items, though several lines of spring flowers are cleaning up. Lilacs, which were in great abundance a few days ago, are nearly gone. While there are still plenty of tulips, the cut will be off soon. Violets of even passable quality are scarce, and few are being shipped. A few late daffodils, some nice Narcissus poeticus and freesias are appearing, but this week will about finish them. The market for lilies is flat, with a large cut and no demand except for funeral work. Roses receive more attention, with a large cut of good stock. Beauties are fine and cheap; some say it hardly pays to grow them at the prices lately prevailing. A good supply of Spanish and German iris cleans up readily, and ixias are doing well. There seems to be plenty of sweet peas, with prices not above normal, but the cut is said to be light for this time of year, some growers having lost heavily from disease. The supply of gladioli shows some increase. The cut of cattleyas has been all the market could absorb; some retailers are featuring them at low prices, though as a rule values are well maintained. Marigolds, mignonette, daisies, etc., find considerable use in basket work.

Horticultural Society Meeting.

The April meeting of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society was held April 10. A letter was read from George A. Denison, in charge of the department of horticulture at the exposition, expressing high appreciation of the work done by those who had charge of the spring flower show. President Plath announced that efforts were being made to get up a large fall flower show, and that the exposition authorities had intimated that some help might be expected from them, but no definite details were given. W. A. Hofinghoff reported on plans for the entertainment of the ladies of the S. A. F. at the convention. In regard to the convention gardens, H. Plath said that Park Superintendent John McLaren had prepared the ground well, and the space, which is the best that could be had in San Francisco, is ready to receive exhibits from the east. A good many, he said, have already applied for space. To give the gardens a proper setting, new shrubbery has been planted around them, and additional space will be made available by the removal of some trees.

ings were added to the exhibit committee of the society, and a new member, W. A. Leslie, was received into the organization. A pleasant feature of the evening was an interesting lecture, with lantern slides, on "Plant Breeding," by Prof. Babcock, of the University of California, which was followed by a general discussion.

The evening's exhibits included a large Rhododendron Pink Pearl from the MacRorie-McLaren Co., rated at 95 points. This is one of a number recently imported by the company, which took prizes at an exhibition in Petrograd a year ago, and stands about four feet high, an almost solid mass of bloom. A display of cut tulips shown by Frank Pelicano, including Clara Butt, Gesneriana lutea, Mme. Krelage and Pride of Haarlem, took 80 points; a Nephrolepis Smithii, by H. Plath, 80 points; a potted Gesneriana erantica, by F. A. Shillig, 75 points, and Rose Irish Fireflame, by E. Gill, 75 points.

The ways and means committee in charge of arrangements on the part of the San Francisco florists for the convention will hold an important meeting this week, and it is expected that the plans can soon be announced in some detail.

Various Notes.

James J. Karins, representative of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., of Philadelphia, stopped here after a trip through the northwest, arriving just in time to act as one of the judges of exhibits at the Horticultural Society meeting.

According to reports from some of the San Jose florists, the Easter business there was about the best on record, and the spring business in seed and nursery stock there is coming out well.

J. A. Carbone, of Berkeley, has a magnificent crop of orchids, and some fine displays of his stock are appearing at San Francisco stores. Podesta & Baldocchi have an especially remarkable display, including one plant of Cattleya Mossiæ filling a pot about two feet in diameter and a small specimen of a rare white variety, which is for exhibition only, in addition to a large display of fine cut orchids, of various types.

Park Superintendent John McLaren and Donald McLaren, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., have just returned from a visit to southern California.

The San Leandro flower show, under the auspices of the California Botanical Society, was held April 9 and 10, with more than 400 varieties of native wild flowers and a good collection of cultivated plants on exhibition.

As might be expected during such a year as this in San Francisco, florists have been somewhat troubled by "deadbeats," or people who try to get goods on "jawbone," with no intention of paying. The florists are on their guard, however, and coöperate to some extent, with the result that a number of buyers of this class have lately been "spotted" before there was any great loss.

Street vendors are not only unusually numerous in San Francisco this year, but take up much sidewalk space, and are persistent and enterprising to the extent of being obnoxious. They are cutting in to an appreciable degree on the trade of the regular florists, who pay high rent and taxes. It appears that no steps can be taken to limit their operations, as their cause has been taken up by influential people, with the

To Pacific Coast Florists:

What stock have you for sale to the trade? Is it moving as it should? No?

Then tell the trade about it by using the Pacific Coast Pages of The Review.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

Say! That ad's a humdinger for getting the business.—Everett Floral Co., Everett, Wash.

I sold all the Mum cuttings advertised, and you will not hear from me again until I can get some more stock ready. Shall root 100,000 Carnation cuttings for next season, as I know The Review will sell them for me.—Frank Wilhelm, Los Angeles, Cal.

Please cut out of our advertisement in The Review the cyclamen seedlings. We sold all our surplus cyclamen seedlings as a direct result of our advertisement in your paper.—Spokane Greenhouses (Inc.), Spokane, Wash.

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results. —Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

The demand for flowers for social affairs has been as good as usual this week. Counter trade has fallen off somewhat, because of the abundance of wild and home-grown blooms. The amount of funeral work has been above the average.

There is an oversupply of carnations, and some of the stores are offering them as specials at reduced prices. Roses are in full supply and of excellent quality. Many outdoor flowers are shown at the stores and they prove popular. Sweet peas are coming in freely, but are not so good as the earlier ones. Cattleya Mossiæ and Schrœderæ are plentiful. The latter is not so popular, on account of its pale color, but is used effectively in designs. Cut tulips of the Darwin varieties are still coming in from the greenhouses. Those grown outdoors are nearly due. Farncombe Sanders and Clara Butt are two of the best. There are still some violets offered. The late Easter lilies have been cleaned up in floral work. Some splendid callas are seen; these are in great demand for designs, and are seldom in oversupply.

But few varieties of potted blooming plants are shown, French hydrangeas leading and spiræas, azaleas and potted rambler roses following. The demand for them is light. Bedding stock is moving well.

The rush of the nurseries and landscape gardeners is nearing its end, as the season opened considerably earlier than usual.

Various Notes.

L. W. Scott, of the Pacific Stoneware Co., has returned from a business trip to the sound and vicinity.

Leo Wiedemann is bringing in some good Cecile Brunner roses.

The Routledge Seed & Floral Co. reports a good business in perennials.

The Martin & Forbes Co. has a fine display of Darwin tulips, Ophelia roses, snapdragons and Anemone St. Brigid.

Donald Wadsworth, who is with the Kelso Floral Co., was in the city last week. He says business is good at Kelso.

The Mountain View Floral Co. is supplying some excellent wallflower plants, which meet with ready sale.

Sunnyside Camp, W. O. W., held an amateur flower show April 13. Local florists acted as judges.

J. Butzer has received a part of a shipment of seeds from Copenhagen, which left on the steamship Florina. This vessel arrived three months late at the Atlantic terminus of the Panama canal and there transferred her cargo. Mr. Butzer does not know what became of the rest of the shipment.

Clarke Bros. have some good potted rambler roses, for which there is a fair demand.

W. J. Williams, of Clarke Bros.' store, is off duty again, on account of illness.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

President, H. B. Chase, Chase, Ala.; Vice-president, E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia.; Secretary, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treasurer, Peter Youngers, Geneva, Neb.

Fortieth annual meeting, Detroit, Mich., June 23 to 25, 1915.

PLANS for underwriting the expenses of Billy Sunday's campaign when he comes to Chicago were made under the direction of W. A. Peterson, head of the Peterson Nursery, Chicago. Mr. Peterson has shown himself a good leader in affairs both religious and financial.

TUESDAY morning, April 13, the Brookdale Nursery & Greenhouses, at West Newbury, Mass., were threatened with destruction by fire. The blaze started in a barn leased to Charles A. Davis; this and its contents, a 3-ton truck, a 1,500-pound truck, a Pope-Hartford touring car, farm machinery, wagons and sleds, were burned. Charles F. Newell, proprietor of the nursery, lost about $2,000 in buildings. Both his and Mr. Davis' loss were covered by insurance. Delay on the part of the fire department, the headquarters of which are near by, is given as responsible for so large a loss. Only the energy of the nursery force prevented the destruction of the main buildings and stock of the concern on the west side of Church street.

NEW LAW IN WASHINGTON.

Summary of Provisions.

Nurserymen and florists in the state of Washington are affected in many important particulars by the new horticultural law, which took effect March 19. It constitutes a revision of the state's statutory requirements on this head. The law defines the term "nursery stock" to include florists' stock as well as that handled by nurserymen.

The state commissioner of agriculture, his assistant and inspectors, are empowered to inspect nurseries, orchards, warehouses, etc., to determine whether any stock is infected and, if so, to require disinfection. If an owner of infected stock refuses to disinfect it, or destroy it if it cannot be successfully disinfected, after notice, the stock may be disinfected or destroyed, according to necessity, by the officials. Partially infected shipments may be required to be sorted and repacked. If the owner or person in charge of the stock neglects to do this, the stock may be destroyed.

Horticultural officers are authorized to enter premises and disinfect or destroy stock, according to the necessity therefor, on the owner failing to comply with the notice given him. A lien may be enforced against the stock or premises to cover the cost.

state, for sale or distribution, any nursery stock, or acting as agent, salesman or solicitor for any nurseryman or dealer in nursery stock, must obtain a license from the commissioner of agriculture. The license fee is $5 for nurserymen and dealers and $2 for agents, salesmen and solicitors. No license will be issued to any agent, salesman or solicitor unless the nurseryman or dealer represented is licensed.

Every nurseryman or dealer applying for a license is required to execute and file with the commissioner of agriculture a bond of $1,000, with surety or sureties to be approved by the commissioner, conditioned for the faithful compliance by the applicant with all of the provisions of this and other horticultural statutes, and conditioned further that all nursery stock sold or delivered by him shall be true to name, age and variety as represented, and free from the diseases and pests required to be guarded against by the act.

The act provides for hearings with approximately court procedure, upon written complaints to the commissioner that the holder of a license has violated the laws of the state relating to horticulture.

Section 23 reads: "It shall be unlawful for any person to deceive or defraud any person on the sale of any nursery stock by substituting inferior or different varieties from those ordered, or to willfully or intentionally bring into this state or to offer for sale or distribution within this state or to ship, sell or deliver upon any sale any nursery stock that is infected, and in case of any such deceit, fraud or substitution, the person, firm or corporation damaged or injured thereby shall have recourse against the bond filed by the licensed nurseryman or dealer from whom such stock has been purchased, for all damages sustained, which damages may be recovered at the suit of the party injured against the nurseryman or dealer causing the damage and the sureties on such bond in any court of competent jurisdiction."

man or dealer in nursery stock within the state may demand the services of an inspector at his place of business or point of shipment during the shipping season by paying $4 per day for his services.

Section 28 prohibits inspection of stock until all transportation charges have been paid, subject to waiver of payment by the person in charge of the shipment.

Section 30 prescribes a fine of "not less than $25" for violation of any provision of the act. It would seem that some question might be raised as to the validity of this section in view of its failure to prescribe a maximum penalty.

OPHELIA — A New Rose of True Worth

We have grown this magnificent rose the past season with most gratifying results. As a free and vigorous grower and great producer it has no equal. It sets bud freely in the short days of winter, and is now coming in with a heavy crop, doing equally well on grafts or own roots.

MRS. GEORGE SHAWYER is at present more favorably thought of than ever, and we intend to again plant it heavily this season. As a money getter, our experience has proven its superiority over all sorts, and having grown extensively on own roots and grafts, we have no hesitancy in stating that, like Sunburst, it does better on own roots.

We have a splendid lot of both varieties (grafts and own roots) ready for shipment, together with a choice lot of Sunburst, Ward, Prince d'Arenberg, White and Pink Killarney, cuttings taken from sand the latter part of December. For prices and further particulars write

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

The regular monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held at Pembroke hall, April 14, with President Westlake in the chair. The euchre and dance held under the auspices of this society April 8 was reported to have been a success in every way and great credit is due the committee in charge for the able manner in which the affair was conducted.

It was agreed to hold three shows during the coming season—a summer show in the week commencing June 6, a dahlia show October 7 and a fall show October 28 and 29.

Offers of special prizes for the fall show were received from the following firms: Hitchings & Co., W. E. Marshall & Co., Stumpp & Walter Co., Vaughan's Seed Store, Pino-Lyptol Chemical Co., John Wilk, Weeber & Don, Burnett Bros., Bon Arbor Chemical Co., Harry A. Bunyard Co., J. M. Thorburn & Co., Peter Henderson & Co., C. H. Totty, Julius Roehrs Co., Lord & Burnham Co., Pierson U-Bar Co., Cottage Gardens Co. and Carters Tested Seeds, Inc.; also from the following local benefactors: F. Edmonds, W. R. Kinnear, Rev. J. W. Gammack, E. M. Underhill and Kohler Bros.

Frank Honeyman was awarded first prize for the best vase of twelve roses, mixed. The exhibits at the next meeting will be three heads of lettuce, three heads of cauliflower and one vase of outdoor flowers.

James Gladstone, Cor. Sec'y.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.

H. H. Cade, successor to John Walker, has been busy with funeral work of late. Easter business, he says, showed an increase over last year's.

Stuart McClain, formerly on North Phelps street, has incorporated and opened a store on Wick avenue. The store will be one of the best in town when all the fixtures are in. His Easter business went far above his expectations.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walker returned shortly before Easter from a business and pleasure trip to the Isle of Pines, where Mr. Walker owns a grapefruit farm. He brought back, among other things, a large lemon, some good cigars for his friends, and a bad case of indigestion, which he lays to the fine taste of the grapefruit and oranges and the poor beef which they have there. He has been under a physician's care for some time, and is getting along as well as could be expected. H. M.

We Offer for Immediate Delivery

Good, strong, well established plants in 2¼-inch pots of the exceedingly VALUABLE NEW ROSES

Ophelia, Francis Scott Key and Prince E. C. d'Arenberg

Growers will find all of these valuable additions to the list of standard varieties. They have been tested thoroughly and have been found to have exceptional value.

OPHELIA

No fancy rose ever introduced possesses so many excellent qualities. It is a splendid grower, a very free bloomer and has fine stems. It sells on sight. The demand undoubtedly will exceed the supply. Anticipating the large demand, we have propagated it extensively.

Strong plants on own roots. 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY

This variety, raised by Mr. John Cook, is very distinct, being entirely different from any of the indoor roses grown today. Flowers are rosy red and are unusually large and double, resembling very much a very full, double, hardy garden rose. Coupled with its large size and double form, it is an exceedingly free bloomer. It promises to be exceedingly valuable, especially for spring, summer and fall flowering, when other less double roses are difficult to handle. Its keeping qualities are remarkable.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

PRINCE E. C. D'ARENBERG

This variety might well have been termed a Red Killarney, as it possesses so many of the good qualities of the Killarneys. In color the flowers are similar to Richmond, but they are much more double, and it should prove a very much more profitable rose. Flowers have fine, straight stems on all the grades—from the shortest to the longest. It has fine foliage, comes away quickly and is even a freer bloomer than the Killarneys. We believe it is the best all-round red rose that we have today.

Strong plants on own roots, 2¼-inch pots, now ready, $12.00 per 100, $90.00 per 1000.

WE WILL BE GLAD TO QUOTE ON APPLICATION PRICES ON ALL THE NEWER AND STANDARD VARIETIES—STRONG, GRAFTED PLANTS READY NOW

The Market.

The glut that began a fortnight ago continues. It is caused primarily by the extra stock that is dumped on the market by those whom we never hear from at a time when their stock would be welcome. Stock that is sold has brought only the lowest prices, while a considerable part of the receipts find their way to the ash barrel. Shipping business, particularly in greens, is good, if the general condition of the market is taken into consideration.

Every seasonable flower continues plentiful. Of the various offerings, the call for valley and orchids picked up noticeably the first of this week, while sweet peas showed a slight improvement over the sales of last week, but that is not saying much. Roses, carnations and lilies, of course, are having the greater part of whatever demand there is, but they sell strictly at buyers' prices when they do sell.

Various Notes.

John Rutenschroer was held up by two masked highwaymen as he was returning home from market late Saturday night, April 17, and was relieved of about $75 by them.

C. E. Critchell has been having a heavy call for cut ferns.

Joseph Hill and Louis Knopf were in town for the opening baseball game on Wednesday, April 14.

Other recent visitors were Mrs. B. F. Hensley, Knightstown, Ind.; O. F. Honacher, Lexington, Ky., and Victor Morgan, representing the Lord & Burnham Co., New York city. C. H. H.
